FIVE OTHERS INJURED

Three Americans Die In Viet Nam 'Copter Disaster

DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. Marine helicopter assigned to a raid on a suspected Viet Cong hideout crashed Saturday in the jungle-covered mountains of central Viet Nam and three American servicemen were killed. Five others were injured seriously.

About 300 Vietnamese government troops had landed for the raid.

The crash brought to 17 the number of American servicemen killed in action in Viet Nam since the United States launched its current program of support for President Ngo Dinh Diem's embattled armed forces last December.

PROBE DOWNING

It remained to be determined whether engine failure or Communist guerrilla gunfire brought down the helicopter, one of 20 sent into the operation by the Marine Corps 163rd Squadron from this city on the South China Sea 350 miles northeast of Saigon.

Heavy rain and rugged terrain impeded rescue operations. But a ground party from Quang Ngai, a coastal town 30 miles south of Na Dang, was reported to have reached the site in late afternoon to shift the casualties to a point where flying ambulances could land.

The helicopter carried a three-man crew, a maintenance team and a medical team.

Names of those killed and injured were not disclosed.

This was the third U. S. helicopter downed in Viet Nam within 24 hours. The other two were hit Friday in an operation in the Mekong River delta, south of Saigon, and an Army helicopter gunner, Sp. 5 Richard L. K. Ellis of Honolulu, was killed.

Another helicopter gunner was shot through a hand.

In the same delta operation a U.S. Army pilot of a light spotting plane suffered a bullet wound in one leg, but managed to land his plane.

Rusk, Soviet Confer About Berlin Again

Reports No Gain In Attempts To Break Stalemate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko conferred for 3½ hours on Berlin on Saturday but made no progress. Neither advanced any new ideas toward breaking the East-West stalemate.

"There is no new or startling development," said Rusk on leaving the new headquarters of the Soviet U.N. delegation on New York's Upper East Side. "It was a general review of the Berlin situation. There is not very much to say."

MAY MEET AGAIN

Rusk said he probably would meet with Gromyko again but that no meeting had been set. Gromyko would not comment for newsmen and Soviet aides said he would not issue a statement.

Rusk was Gromyko's guest for lunch. Afterward, they began their talks which a U.S. spokesman said concerned only Berlin.

"Both sides spent the time reviewing the discussions to date on Berlin, each side summing up where they stood in the discussion," said the spokesman, James H. Greenfield, deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs.

"Neither side brought up anything new. This discussion brought no change in the situation."

Greenfield he was unable to say whether Gromyko brought up the Soviet threat to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany. Greenfield said there was no discussion of the possibility of Premier Khrushchev coming to the United Nations.

The conference was the first U.S.-Soviet contact on Berlin in this country since Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin concluded a series of Washington talks last August in which they failed to arrive at a basis for broader negotiations.

With Rusk was U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson; Richard H. Davis, deputy assistant secretary of state for European affairs; Martin J. Hillenbrand, an expert on Germany in the Bureau of European Affairs, and Alexander Akalovsky, State Department Russian-language interpreter.

SNOW, HAIL IN WEST

East Flooded By Rain; 7 Die

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Torrential rains in the East caused at least seven deaths Saturday as a rash of bad weather spotted the country.

Slushy snow and hail fell on southeastern Wyoming and northwestern Colorado and early morning fog in the Midwest was blamed for at least three Illinois traffic deaths.

A stalled rain mass kept rain drumming into already soggy New York and New England, flooding streets and snarling transportation.

NOMINEE KILLED

One of the dead was a Rutland, Vt., lawyer nominated for lieutenant governor of the state, Frederic J. Delany, 41. He was a passenger in a car which collided with another during a storm.

A wide swath of rain extended from the mountain snow area across the Great Plains and Midwest into Illinois and Kentucky.

The central Rockies storm closed U. S. 34 between Estes Park and Granby, Colo., with four inches of snow, and caused Wyoming troopers to halt traffic on U. S. 30 at 8,816-foot Summit Pass between Cheyenne and Laramie, where slush accumulated 6 to 9 inches deep.

Some of the Boulder, Colo., telephone and traffic light system was knocked out by heavy hail, some as large as golf balls, which formed a pebbly three-inch coating. A passenger was injured when a Greyhound bus skidded and overturned during the hailstorm near the Colorado-Wyoming border.

In the Northeast, 24-hour rainfall measured up to more than six inches, with Providence, R. I., measuring 6.23 inches. Flooded streets disrupted traffic.

Reds Shoot Man, Block Medical Aid

Bar West Berlin Ambulances At Wall Checkpoint

BERLIN (AP) — East German police shot down a West Berlin tunnel digger Saturday and then prevented a British officer and two ambulances from giving him medical aid on the East side of the wall.

By barring a British army ambulance which attempted to go to the man's assistance from Checkpoint Charlie and by preventing the British officer from getting closer than 100 yards to the spot, East German authorities challenged the right of the Western powers to move freely in this divided city.

U. S. ALSO BARRED

U.S. Army sedans were kept at the same distance.

A West Berlin Red Cross ambulance also was prevented from going to the scene from another crossing point in Berlin's wall.

Hours after the incident it was not known in West Berlin whether the man was alive or had died of his wounds. One West Berlin police source said he was hit by a burst of tommygun fire and probably was dead.

American, British and French authorities immediately got in touch with their capitals to see what should be done to meet the challenge. The Western allies claim the right under four-power agreement to move freely in all Berlin. They do not recognize the East German regime's existence, much less its right to stop Western military movements.

The incident began just before 7 a.m. when East German police shot a West Berliner helping East German refugees escape through a tunnel.

His name was being kept secret. A fellow tunnel digger said he was 21 years old, married and known as "Brille" (Spectacles).

Brille and a friend were in the apartment of a tailor, at the East Berlin end of the tunnel, waiting for a group of refugees. The doorbell rang with the expected signal —one short ring one long, one short. At the door were East German police. Brille was shot. His companion escaped through the tunnel.

The tailor, 52-year-old Siegfried Castellios, and his wife had crawled through some time earlier. In their nightclothes, they got safely to the celler of a closed-down West Berlin bar—the starting point of a 27-inch, 185-foot long tunnel which nine men began to dig three weeks ago.

About an hour after the shooting, orders reached the British ambulance stationed at Checkpoint Charlie. October is Britain's month as chairman of the American-British-French command in West Berlin and the month when the British furnish an ambulance at the crossing point to give assistance to victims of the wall.

The ambulance moved across the white line that marks the sector border. It was in East Berlin, but the red-and-white striped barrier was down and the East German guards refused to raise it.

Under international law, they told the British, they were responsible for giving medical aid.

American sedans were allowed to go through, but they were halted after driving over three miles to the East Berlin borough of Treptow near the scene.

Steers Floor Battle From Wheelchair

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress took a big stride toward adjournment Saturday with House passage of a $3.9-billion foreign aid money bill.

The measure was steered to a favorable 171-103 roll-call vote in this unusual Saturday session by Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., who operated from a wheelchair.

PASSMAN HAILED

Passman fractured his upper left arm and shoulder in a fall in his office Friday and he appeared with the arm strapped tightly across his chest. His performance, hailed by Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., as "one of the greatest exhibitions of dedicated service I have ever seen," overshadowed the final debate on the bill.

Despite the importance of the measure under consideration, 157 House members stayed away. The Senate will act on the bill next week.

Passman, 62, long a critic of heavy foreign aid spending, assisted in chopping $1.1 billion from the measure when it was before his House Appropriations subcommittee earlier this session. A House-Senate conference committee restored $300 million of the sum small enough to suit Passman behind the scenes Saturday.

Still, Passman feels there is waste and extravagance in the program and he was moved to

AT BREAKFAST MEET

UGF Campaign Begins Tuesday

The United Givers Fund campaign for Ouachita Parish will officially get underway Tuesday morning with two breakfast meetings scheduled for 900 volunteer workers.

A breakfast for West Monroe workers will be held at the Highland Park Country Club at 6:30 a.m. and in Monroe the meeting will be at the Penn Hotel at 7:30 a.m.

All campaign workers are invited to attend the meetings. Hugh B. Balfour, West Monroe chairman, and Robert H. Evans, Monroe chairman, will preside at their respective meetings. Bernard W. Biedenharn, 1963 general campaign chairman, will outline the challenge for this year's drive, which is seeking $251,408 for 13 agencies.

Although some of the workers in Group Solicitation I division, are already contacting the large businesses Tuesday's meetings signal the official kick off of the 1963 campaign. Because of the size of firms in the large business division, workers in Group I require additional time to contact all employees of these firms. This explains their earlier beginning date. Large business division workers are calling on firms employing more than 10 persons.

BUSINESS DIVISIONS

The Twin Cities individuals and professional division, under Walter W. Kellogg and James W. Moore, will kick off Tuesday. Also getting under way will be the small business divisions, headed by A. T. "Buddy" Harrelson, West Monroe, and Fletcher W. Ashcraft, Monroe; and the large business division of West Monroe, Eugene Smith, chairman. Both divisions of Sterlington will begin their solicitations Tuesday. J. Eck Wheeler is chairman of the Sterlington drive, with Bill Jordan and Bob Woodhead as his two division chairmen.

In training sessions held during the past two weeks, workers were given their kits of materials, instructions and assignments. At Tuesday's meeting, they will be urged to complete their calls within one week so that the campaign may be closed out as soon as possible.

Managers of firms that have not been called on to date are being asked to welcome the United Givers Fund workers Tuesday morning, as the volunteers will make every effort to contact their firms assigned and complete their calls on that day.

DAISY CHURNS NORTH

Hurricane Alert Posted In Maine

NEW YORK (AP) — A hurricane watch was posted Saturday night on the coast of Maine for Hurricane Daisy, churning the Atlantic far to the south with 100-mile-an-hour winds.

Daisy barely brushed storm-wise Bermuda, passing 200 miles northwest of the island on a course the Weather Bureau expects will take the hurricane close to eastern Maine and southwestern Nova Scotia by late Sunday afternoon.

At last report, reconnaissance aircraft located Daisy's eye about 260 miles northwest of Bermuda at latitude 35.4 north and longitude 67.1 west, or about 500 miles southeast of New York, moving north-northeast at 20 m.p.h.

WARNINGS HOISTED

The hurricane would have to make a drastic turn toward the northwest to endanger the mid-Atlantic coast, said forecaster Leo Quintman of the Weather Bureau office in New York.

In addition to the hurricane watch along the Maine coast, whole gale warnings were hoisted for coastal New England from Eastport, Maine, to Block Island for winds expected to reach 50-60 m.p.h. by late Saturday night and Sunday.

Prisoners Still Held By Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Members of the U.S.-based Union Families Committee disclosure for release of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners looked confident and optimistic Saturday. But Miami reports that 1,113 have been freed were authoritatively denied.

Mrs. Berta Barreto de Los Heros, Havana liaison officer for the committee, issued the denial.

She said negotiations which resumed Friday between Prime Minister Fidel Castro and the committee's legal agent, James B. Donovan of New York, have not been concluded.

"Another meeting is scheduled Monday," she said.

Donovan is staying here at the Barreto home. He is the New York lawyer credited with winning freedom for U.S. U2 Pilot Francis Gary Powers last Feb. 10 in a swap for Soviet spy Rudolph Abel.

The current negotiations are the second round. Donovan met with Castro for four hours Aug. 31 and for two hours the following day, then returned to the United States for consultation on certain points. He said then the discussions were progressing favorably.

Castro has asked for $62 million in ransom for the prisoners, seized by Cuban armed forces in the abortive counter-revolutionary attack staged in mid-April 1961. Donovan was reported offering medicine, food and other supplies.

The Miami News broke the story that drew Mrs. Barreto's denial.

Sterlington Man Dies In Crash

A 27-year-old Sterlington man was killed early Saturday morning on the Old Fairbanks Road when his pickup truck failed to make a curve and crashed into an embankment.

Troop F, state police identified the man as Robert Frannon Bayles, of Route One, Box 66, Sterlington. Bayles, the father of four small children, was thrown from the truck about 11.9 miles northeast of Monroe on La. Highway 134.

The accident was reported to have happened around 4 a.m., as Bayles was going squirrel hunting. Officers were uncertain as to exactly what happened, since there were no witnesses. However, the pickup truck skidded approximately 78 feet off the highway, knocking down a warning sign in its wake and crashing into two embankments before coming to a rest.

Mr. Bayles, who was employed at the Hudson Gas Station on Louisville Avenue, was found approximately three feet from the truck.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Assembly of God Church at Sterlington with the Rev. J. E. Barton officiating. Burial will be in Ouachita City Cemetery under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home of Monroe.

Mr. Bayles is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucille Bayles, of Sterlington; three sons, Sammy, Frannon and Gerald, all of Sterlington, and one daughter, Virginia Bayles, also of Sterlington; his mother, Sidney Bayles, Monroe; his mother, Mrs. Della Jeffries, Monroe; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jones, Sterlington.

The wire was hurled by the blade of a power mower he was operating at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Broussard of Scott.

STATE GOVERNOR RACE

Possible Coalition Candidate Talked

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The latest word on the Louisiana political scene today hints at a possible coalition choice for governor in the 1963 race.

So far only the politicians — not the people — are doing the talking.

This state is approaching a new political era in the way its forces will line up for the first primary Dec. 7, 1963.

The brothers Huey P. and Earl K. Long gave a pendulum characteristic to the election for governor every four years. First the state would swing toward the Longs, then back toward the anti-Longs.

This old pattern appears to be fading, even though vote-powerful Sen. Russell B. Long is capable of calling the play.

But Sen. Long, despite his overwhelming Senate primary victory in July doesn't give any signs he wants to try for the mansion this soon.

Years ago, when Sen. Long backed Rep. Hale Boggs for governor in a break with his uncle Earl K. Long, he argued it was time for a break in the old Long and anti-Long traditions. Boggs lost.

The Louisiana fight over the governorship could pull in the national Kennedy administration. The next governor, new legislature and new Democratic state central committee will strongly reflect public sentiment in the spring of 1964. The presidential election follows in November 1964.

Coalition talk at this stage probably is being stirred by those who favor a new face, instead of the political heavyweights — former Gov. Robert Kennon and deLesseps Morrison, onetime whiz kid

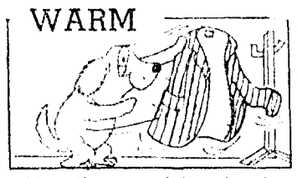
WARM



After the second hot day in a row, Sunday promises little or no relief. Scattered showers are possible but without them, hot is the order of the day.

The high predicted today is 90 again with the low tonight expected about 60. Saturday the mercury climbed into the 90's again with a top reading of 91. The low was 58.

Scattered afternoon or evening showers are possible around the area, the weatherman says, and may cool things off some.

3 Young Girls Get Their Own Private School

HAVANA, Ill. (AP) — Marcia, Martha and Margaret McHarry have their own one-room school.

Their father, Eugene McHarry, bought it for them. He also hired a qualified teacher, Mabel Corey, and set up a program which won approval of Illinois state school authorities.

Marcia, 11, who is in sixth grade, says "It's the most. We don't have any homework. Mother doesn't believe in it."

Wilhelmina McHarry, undisputed leader of the school's P-TA, explains: "There isn't much distraction in a small school and the children get much from a close relationship with the teacher."

She said she thinks recreation is most important to young children.

Martha and Margaret, twins, are 6 and in second grade.

SCHIRRA FLIES HOME

Astronaut Returns To Houston Today

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Astronaut Wally Schirra, who left the United States at five miles a second Wednesday, headed home at 10 miles a minute Saturday to answer a lot of questions and to ask some of his own about his record voyage through space.

The traditional spaceman's welcome, complete with parade and a passel of dignitaries, awaited the 39-year-old Navy commander in Houston. A jet tanker carrying U. S. Spaceman No. 5 was scheduled to arrive here soon after midnight.

After spending a few hours with his wife and two children, Schirra will go before some 350 newsmen and a bank of television cameras to tell about the flight that carried him higher, faster and farther through space than any other American.

Federal space agency scientists were at work Saturday trying to get the answer to a question they know is on Schirra's mind—what caused his 20-pound spacesuit to overheat and threaten to end his voyage after a single orbit.

Schirra controlled the suit temperature by hand and got it back down to a normal level. But technicians ran dummy tests at Houston's manned spacecraft center to try to get at the cause of the problem, which has bugged all three U. S. manned orbital flights to date.

Schirra's return to Houston was delayed by a "goodwill stop" in Hawaii.

Following the Houston festivities, Schirra will head "back East," first to visit with President Kennedy at the White House Tuesday and then to his hometown, Oradell, N. J., for ceremonies Oct. 15.

Although some of the workers in Group Solicitation I division, are already contacting the large businesses Tuesday's meetings signal the official kick off of the 1963 campaign. Because of the size of firms in the large business division, workers in Group I require additional time to contact all employees of these firms. This explains their earlier beginning date. Large business division workers are calling on firms employing more than 10 persons.

BUSINESS DIVISIONS

The Twin Cities individuals and professional division, under Walter W. Kellogg and James W. Moore, will kick off Tuesday. Also getting under way will be the small business divisions, headed by A. T. "Buddy" Harrelson, West Monroe, and Fletcher W. Ashcraft, Monroe; and the large business division of West Monroe, Eugene Smith, chairman. Both divisions of Sterlington will begin their solicitations Tuesday. J. Eck Wheeler is chairman of the Sterlington drive, with Bill Jordan and Bob Woodhead as his two division chairmen.

In training sessions held during the past two weeks, workers were given their kits of materials, instructions and assignments. At Tuesday's meeting, they will be urged to complete their calls within one week so that the campaign may be closed out as soon as possible.

Managers of firms that have not been called on to date are being asked to welcome the United Givers Fund workers Tuesday morning, as the volunteers will make every effort to contact their firms assigned and complete their calls on that day.

DAISY CHURNS NORTH

Hurricane Alert Posted In Maine

NEW YORK (AP) — A hurricane watch was posted Saturday night on the coast of Maine for Hurricane Daisy, churning the Atlantic far to the south with 100-mile-an-hour winds.

Daisy barely brushed storm-wise Bermuda, passing 200 miles northwest of the island on a course the Weather Bureau expects will take the hurricane close to eastern Maine and southwestern Nova Scotia by late Sunday afternoon.

At last report, reconnaissance aircraft located Daisy's eye about 260 miles northwest of Bermuda at latitude 35.4 north and longitude 67.1 west, or about 500 miles southeast of New York, moving north-northeast at 20 m.p.h.

WARNINGS HOISTED

The hurricane would have to make a drastic turn toward the northwest to endanger the mid-Atlantic coast, said forecaster Leo Quintman of the Weather Bureau office in New York.

In addition to the hurricane watch along the Maine coast, whole gale warnings were hoisted for coastal New England from Eastport, Maine, to Block Island for winds expected to reach 50-60 m.p.h. by late Saturday night and Sunday.

Prisoners Still Held By Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Members of the U.S.-based Cuban Families Committee dickering for release of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners looked confident and optimistic Saturday. But Miami reports that 1,113 have been freed were authoritatively denied.

Mrs. Berta Barreto de Los Heros, Havana liaison officer for the committee, issued the denial.

She said negotiations which resumed Friday between Prime Minister Fidel Castro and the committee's legal agent, James B. Donovan of New York, have not been concluded.

"Another meeting is scheduled Monday," she said.

Donovan is staying here at the Barreto home. He is the New York lawyer credited with winning freedom for U.S. U2 Pilot Francis Gary Powers last Feb. 10 in a swap for Soviet spy Rudolph Abel.

The current negotiations are the second round. Donovan met with Castro for four hours Aug. 31 and for two hours the following day, then returned to the United States for consultation on certain points. He said then the discussions were progressing favorably.

Castro has asked for $62 million in ransom for the prisoners, seized by Cuban armed forces in the abortive counter-revolutionary attack staged in mid-April 1961. Donovan was reported offering medicine, food and other supplies.

The Miami News broke the story that drew Mrs. Barreto's denial.

Sterlington Man Dies In Crash

A 27-year-old Sterlington man was killed early Saturday morning on the Old Fairbanks Road when his pickup truck failed to make a curve and crashed into an embankment.

Troop F, state police identified the man as Robert Frannon Bayles, of Route One, Box 66, Sterlington. Bayles, the father of four small children, was thrown from the truck about 11.9 miles northeast of Monroe on La. Highway 134.

The accident was reported to have happened around 4 a.m., as Bayles was going squirrel hunting. Officers were uncertain as to exactly what happened, since there were no witnesses. However, the pickup truck skidded approximately 78 feet off the highway, knocking down a warning sign in its wake and crashing into two embankments before coming to a rest.

Mr. Bayles, who was employed at the Hudson Gas Station on Louisville Avenue, was found approximately three feet from the truck.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Assembly of God Church at Sterlington with the Rev. J. E. Barton officiating. Burial will be in Ouachita City Cemetery under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home of Monroe.

Mr. Bayles is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucille Bayles, of Sterlington; three sons, Sammy, Frannon and Gerald, all of Sterlington, and one daughter, Virginia Bayles, also of Sterlington; his father, Sidney Bayles, Monroe; his mother, Mrs. Della Jeffries, Monroe; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jones, Sterlington.

Wire Taken Out Of Boy's Heart

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Eleven-year-old Joseph (Jo Dewey Broussard was doing satisfactorily Saturday after the removal of a 1¼-inch piece of bailing wire from the left ventricle (lower part) of his heart.

The wire was hurled by the blade of a power mower he was operating at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Broussard of Scott.

STATE GOVERNOR RACE

Possible Coalition Candidate Talked

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The latest word on the Louisiana political scene today hints at a possible coalition choice for governor in the 1963 race.

So far only the politicians — not the people — are doing the talking.

This state is approaching a new political era in the way its forces will line up for the first primary Dec. 7, 1963.

The brothers Huey P. and Earl K. Long gave a pendulum characteristic to the election for governor every four years. First the state would swing toward the Longs, then back toward the anti-Longs.

This old pattern appears to be fading, even though vote-powerful Sen. Russell B. Long is capable of calling the play.

But Sen. Long, despite his overwhelming Senate primary victory in July doesn't give any signs he wants to try for the mansion this soon.

Years ago, when Sen. Long backed Rep. Hale Boggs for governor in a break with his uncle Earl K. Long, he argued it was time for a break in the old Long and anti-long traditions. Boggs lost.

The Louisiana fight over the governorship could pull in the national Kennedy administration. The next governor, new legislature and new Democratic state central committee will strongly reflect public sentiment in the spring of 1964. The presidential election follows in November 1964.

Coalition talk at this stage probably is being stirred by those who favor a new face, instead of the political heavyweights — former Gov. Robert Kennon and deLesseps Morrison, onetime whiz kid

WARM

After the second hot day in a row, Sunday promises little or no relief. Scattered showers are possible but without them, hot is the order of the day.

The high predicted today is 90 again with the low tonight expected about 60. Saturday the mercury climbed into the 90's again with a top reading of 91. The low was 58.

Scattered afternoon or evening showers are possible around the area, the weatherman says, and may cool things off some.

3 Young Girls Get Their Own Private School

HAVANA, Ill. (AP) — Marcia, Martha and Margaret McHarry have their own one-room school.

Their father, Eugene McHarry, bought it for them. He also hired a qualified teacher, Mabel Corey, and set up a program which won approval of Illinois state school authorities.

Marcia, 11, who is in sixth grade, says "It's the most. We don't have any homework. Mother doesn't believe in it."

Wilhelmina McHarry, undisputed leader of the school's P-TA, explains: "There isn't much distraction in a small school and the children get much from a close relationship with the teacher."

She said she thinks recreation is most important to young children.

Martha and Margaret, twins, are 6 and in second grade.

SCHIRRA FLIES HOME

Astronaut Returns To Houston Today

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Astronaut Wally Schirra, who left the United States at five miles a second Wednesday, headed home at 10 miles a minute Saturday to answer a lot of questions and to ask some of his own about his record voyage through space.

The traditional spaceman's welcome, complete with parade and a passel of dignitaries, awaited the 39-year-old Navy commander in Houston. A jet tanker carrying U. S. Spaceman No. 5 was scheduled to arrive here soon after midnight.

After spending a few hours with his wife and two children, Schirra will go before some 350 newsmen and a bank of television cameras to tell about the flight that carried him higher, faster and farther through space than any other American.

Federal space agency scientists were at work Saturday trying to get the answer to a question they know is on Schirra's mind—what caused his 20-pound spacesuit to overheat and threaten to end his voyage after a single orbit.

Schirra controlled the suit temperature by hand and got it back down to a normal level. But technicians ran dummy tests at Houston's manned spacecraft center to try to get at the cause of the problem, which has bugged all three U. S. manned orbital flights to date.

Schirra's return to Houston was delayed by a "goodwill stop" in Hawaii.

Following the Houston festivities, Schirra will head "back East," first to visit with President Kennedy at the White House Tuesday and then to his hometown, Oradell, N. J., for ceremonies Oct. 15.

DYNAMITE SET OFF

Prelate Escapes Injury In Blast

NEW YORK (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman escaped injury Saturday from a mysterious dynamite blast set off in the basement of his residence adjacent to St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Members of his staff also were unhurt and damage was slight.

The Roman Catholic prelate, who was sleeping on the second floor, was awakened by the explosion. He dressed hurriedly and went outside to view three smashed basement windows.

A few hours after the incident, Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy directed police to set up fixed posts at the more prominent religious edifices around the city, and to keep a close eye on all others.

Police laboratory experts said the bomb definitely was a homemade affair, apparently consisting of two or three sticks of dynamite wrapped in plastic and newspaper and set off by a detonator.

The motive for the bombing was unknown, but it recalled two similar incidents against the church in Rome in recent months.

An explosion chipped a statue and damaged an organ in St. Peter's Basilica in Rome on July 14. Two incendiary bombs were discovered in St. Peter's on Sept. 22.

The cardinal said he knew of no threats against himself or the cathedral.

Whether the bomb was thrown into the basement through a window or was planted beforehand was not known. Police had a report that a man was seen running from the area shortly before the device exploded at 1:37 a.m.

Police speculated at first that the explosive might have been a firecracker device known as a "cherry bomb" but said later that investigation showed that it was dynamite.

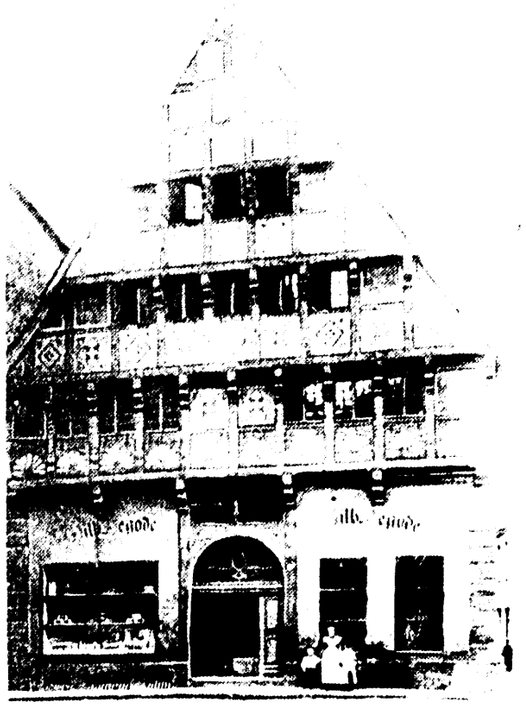
"It was no accident," a detective commented.

The blast erupted in a maids' section that was unoccupied.

Church sources in Vatican City expressed concern at the bombing but generally viewed it as the work of a crank.

In Chicago, police sent a one-man detail to the residence of Albert Cardinal Meyer and increased the patrol in the area. The cardinal presently is in Rome.

No extra precautions were taken at the residences of other American cardinals in Boston and Los Angeles.



TYPICAL HOUSE for downtown business back in northern Germany is this beam and plaster structure in Oldenburg. Herman Biedenharn left this section of Europe and settled in Monroe and Vicksburg.

CENTRAL FIGURE of book is Joseph Augustus Biedenharn, father of the author.

Biedenharn Family History Published

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

Family histories, whether a few remarks and a genealogy chart in the family Bible or an elaborate collection of biographies, are most interesting to the immediate kinsmen.

For the reason, Miss Emy Lou Biedenharn limited the printing of her effort in the literary field, "Biedenharn Heritage," to about 300 copies. Many of these were presented to members and close associates of the Biedenharn family at a luncheon held Sept. 30, close to the exact date of the centennial of Herman Biedenharn's marriage to Louisa Lundberg. Other copies of the book are available for libraries and museums.

HISTORY

The wedding, which took place in Monroe on Sept. 27, 1862, suffices to cause the reader to look beyond family sentiments and start probing northeast Louisiana history. How did a Danish girl named Lousa Lundberg and a German named Biedenharn find one another in a community which had been settled through French and Spanish land grants and later by homesteaders from the Carolinas?

Also, the date 1862 rings a bell to those interested in any phase of the Civil War as it affected the lives of persons living in the Monroe - Vicksburg area.

The author has spent a number of years sifting notes, word-of - mouth accounts, family albums and pictures. The result, therefore, is a work of some 300 pages of clear - cut chronology, southern history, family lineage and business enterprises — all elaborately illustrated.

CENTRAL FIGURE

The central figure of "Biedenharn Heritage" is Joseph A. Biedenharn who enters the scene in 1866.

His mother, Louisa Lundberg Biedenharn was on her way to Copenhagen, La., when she met and married Herman Biedenharn in Monroe. Copenhagen was the name of a Scandinavian village in Caldwell Parish. Her father had heard of the settlement, and had decided to travel there from Jackson, Miss. When father and daughter arrived in Monroe, they decided to settle here.

Herman Biedenharn, Joseph's father, had worked his way from the state of Oldenburg, North Germany, to New Orleans. Thibodaux, Farmerville, and, finally Trenton and Monroe.

He served with the Confederate forces defending Vicksburg, and his wife left Monroe to join him there in 1863, shortly after the city fell to Grant's starvation strategy. Though several tragic deaths struck the children in the family during and shortly after the war years, Joseph Biedenharn (father of the author), his six younger brothers and a sister knew no death among them for 70 years. It was during this period that the family adjusted itself to a new economic era in the South.

BUSINESS

Out of necessity, Herman Biedenharn repaired shoes for the Confederate soldiers following the fall of Vicksburg. He had learned to make boots and shoes in Germany and this knowledge proved of value. In 1865, he purchased a confectionery firm and his brother, Henry, left Germany to help him operate it. This was the beginning of the type business the family still holds.

At this point, the family account picks up several threads which give the work a good measure of continuity. There is a business motto, "the nickel business." The founders of the candy enterprise said people will spend a nickel, but they are apt to save a dime. Joseph's father made a little red wagon for him and explained the finer points of European craftsmanship. Here was a germ which has reached a measure of maturity in the author's formal gardens and statuary.

Then Joseph met a Vicksburg girl, Anne Schlottman, who could perform well on the piano. This girl, who was later to become Joseph's wife and mother of the author, added an interest in music which helped the family's activities to span two continents.

EXPANSION

Naturally, with a family of seven sons and a daughter, the middle portion of "Biedenharn Heritage" becomes an account of the many children of the author's own generation. This is worked together with the story, of the family's business expansion.

Significantly, Joseph moved his family to Monroe in 1913. The book carries the family history to the present day with accounts of the children and grandchildren of the central figure.

The operatic career of the author, is touched upon in the closing pages of the work in order to round out the journey of the family from Europe to America and back again.

That drink her father put in the bottle in Vicksburg back in 1894 has made the journey also.

Judge Clears Way On Bail For Walker

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — A U.S. court order cleared the way late Saturday for former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker to be released on bond from the federal prison and medical center at Springfield, Mo.

However, Walker still must undergo psychiatric examination to determine whether he is insane, and also whether he is competent to assist in his defense on charges of seditious conspiracy and insurrection.

The order signed by U.S. Dist. Judge Claude Clayton requires Walker, within five days of his release, to report to Dr. Robert Stubblefield, chief psychiatrist of the Southwest Medical Center, Dallas, Tex.

It specifies that Walker is to be examined by Dr. Stubblefield and another psychiatrist to be selected by the U.S. and that the results are to be reported to the court.

Judge Clayton reduced the bond set for Walker from $100,000 to $50,000 and said the bond could be filed with any U.S. Commissioner.

Clyde J. Watts, attorney for Walker, said the former general's mother was prepared to deposit more than $50,000 in securities with the commissioner in San Antonio. He indicated also that representatives of the general could qualify in Springfield, Mo., also.

The terms of the order were agreed on during lengthy conferences Saturday between Walker's attorneys and U.S. Attorney H.M. Ray. There was no contest in court over any of the terms.

Walker, accused of urging on rioting groups at the University of Mississippi last Sunday, was arrested Monday and ordered committed to the Springfield institution for examination before he made bond. He was taken Tuesday.

Law's Provision On Workers Of State Explained

State employees who had military service during World War II and immediately thereafter are entitled to a benefit under a new state act which was enacted this summer, H. B. McClendon, Ouachita Parish veterans' service officer, has reminded.

McClendon explained that the act allows any state employee who was a member of the Louisiana State Employees' Retirement System on Aug. 1, 1962, and who was inducted into the armed forces between May 1, 1940, and Sept. 1, 1950, to claim state service credit in the retirement system for his military service.

He pointed out that the maximum credit allowed under the act is four years unless a veteran can prove that his discharge was not possible within four years, in which case he may claim credit for his military service up to a maximum of five years.

McClendon said application for this credit must be made to the retirement system on or prior to Jan. 1, 1964.

Dr. Clifton Tennison will officiate at the funeral to be conducted from the chapel of Mulhearn Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Mt. Zion Cemetery at Calhoun under the direction of Mulhearn.

Mrs. Herron is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Brooks, West Monroe, and Mrs. Emma Kilnneman, Shreveport, and several nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers will be R. L. Butler, J. G. Butler, C. B. Musch, Ford Hines, J. A. Sandifer and Johnny Bayles.

U.S. Explodes Nuclear Device In Pacific Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States exploded another nuclear device over the Pacific on Saturday.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the low-yield device—equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT or less—was dropped from an airplane in the vicinity of Johnston Island at 6 a.m. Hawaiian time.

It was the 29th test conducted in the current Pacific series, known as Operation Dominic. The last previous test was an intermediate-range device air-dropped near Johnston Island on Oct. 2. Intermediate range is the equivalent of 20,000 to one million tons of TNT.

Stennis Requests Troops Pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis called on the Army Saturday to end "an unnecessary display of military power" in Mississippi by immediately releasing national guardsmen and withdrawing regular troops.

The Mississippi Democrat sent telegrams to Army Secretary Cyrus R. Vance and to Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, army chief of staff. He said that 20,779 regular and guard troops are now on duty in the state in connection with the admission of Negro James Meredith to the heretofore all-white University of Mississippi.

The troops were ordered in by President Kennedy when anti-Meredith rioting broke out.

"I am insisting that these troops be removed immediately, and that all Mississippi guardsmen be fully released and returned to their homes, schools and jobs, and be permitted to resume their normal daily activity," the Senator said. "There is certainly no time to use the University of Mississippi campus or the Oxford area for regular army maneuvers, exercises or operations."

He said the guard units federalized by Kennedy include many teachers in junior colleges and high schools, many college students and many key personnel in small businesses as well as farmers, doctors, lawyers and other professional men.

Stennis also complained that the number of soldiers in his state is "far beyond the number which could possibly be needed." He urged that all be removed as soon as possible and said a high percentage would certainly be removed immediately.

Stennis said the army "admits" that 13,536 regular troops are on duty in his state in connection with the Meredith case. In addition, he said, there are 2,693 guard men on active duty in the Oxford area and 4,500 federalized in their home town.

Soviet Give Versions Of Spy Claims

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow papers gave detailed Soviet versions Saturday of the detention of Cmdr. Raymond D. Smith, the assistant U.S. naval attache, who was ordered to leave the country Friday after being charged with spying.

The U.S. State Department in Washington accused the Soviets of "roughing up" Smith, 41, from Brooklyn, N.Y., after seizing him. The United States filed a strong protest but acceded to demands that Smith get out of Moscow, although denying the charges against him.

The Communist party organ, Pravda, and the official government newspaper, Izvestia, published similar accounts relating how Smith was "caught redhanded" spying on naval installations in Leningrad.

They said Smith had been spotted as he walked alone on the shore of the Neva River observing military ships and installations.

Through binoculars, the accounts said, Smith was seen to be "talking to himself" as he strolled. Later, it was explained, he was found to have been dictating notes on what he observed to a miniature tape recorder he had concealed under his coat.

The newspaper accounts said Smith was halted by suspicious Soviet citizens who turned him over to Soviet secret police. The officials relieved him of the tape recorder, a miniature camera, notes and maps, the stories said.

Defense Chief In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — American military and civilian officials from Southeast Asia arrived Saturday in preparation for a conference Monday at Pearl Harbor with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

McNamara arrives in Honolulu Sunday on his sixth trip to Pacific Command headquarters for talks on the situation in South Viet Nam and Thailand.

The Southeast Asia officials arrived a few minutes before astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.'s plane touched down at Hickam Air Force Base.

They did not stay to see Schirra.

Arriving were Gen. Paul D. Harkins, chief of the American Military Assistance Command in South Viet Nam; Frederick E. Nolting, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam; Kenneth T. Young, U.S. ambassador to Thailand; Maj. Gen. C.J. Timmes, chief of the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group in Viet Nam; and Maj. Gen. F.J. Conway, chief of the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Thailand.

Educational Needs Aired By Governors

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Oxford, Miss.—the concern of the moment; outer space the hope for the future.

That, in brief, was the story at the Southern Governors Conference where the dark cloud of Mississippi's integration struggle obscured the real work of the conference.

Southern governors attending found themselves caught up in emotions of the Mississippi events and at the same time seized the opportunities offered by space age industrial developments.

Firing their imagination was the space shot by astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., which the governors witnessed at Cape Canaveral, and an inspection tour of the technical facilities at that giant missile test center.

To bridge the gap between the present and the future, the Southern governors stressed the need for a highly-accelerated educational program in which the universities would play a major role.

Speaker after speaker urged that the South step up its university graduate training program and its research facilities essential to the new industrial age.

While the price tag in providing high quality faculties and facilities would be high, they said the stakes were big and new science-based industrial growth would be the reward.

Dr. George L. Simpson of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration put it this way:

"Difficult though it is, this is a task that the South does well to accept. For it is clear that a new day has come in the American economy; a day of science, advanced technology, high skills and automation. Its reflection appears in the consensus of opinion that in the future there will be no increase at all in jobs at the unskilled and semi-skilled levels—this is a fundamental fact to be faced by a region with a great surplus of untrained people."

Speaking as chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board, Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, remarked that "the hopes of the South, the hopes of the United States and the hopes of our world will rise higher from the desks of the classrooms than from the launching pads at Cape Canaveral."

To meet the challenge of the space age, Sanford said, all south states were going to have to provide greater outlays of cash to raise university salaries to attract more top flight faculty members and build more outstanding graduate schools.

Another NASA official, deputy associate administrator Thomas F. Dixon, said large industries tend to concentrate in regions where research facilities are best and no part of the country could afford to neglect investments in advance scientific and engineering education and first-class research facilities.

NASA has located many of its facilities in the South, he said, because of a number of technical considerations, including availability of water transportation and weather conditions favorable to almost year-round outdoor work.

In addition to Cape Canaveral there is Langley Research Center near Norfolk, Va., Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., Michoud Operations at New Orleans, the manned spacecraft center near Houston, Wallops Station, Va., for launching of smaller rockets and the Mississippi test facility now under construction about 50 miles east of New Orleans.

Blonde Held For Slaying Sees Lawyer

BOSTON (AP)—Blonde Suzanne Clift, 21, post-debutante held without bail in the Beacon Hill slaying of her sweetheart, talked with her lawyer Saturday in Suffolk County jail.

There was no statement about their conversation after attorney Frank Juggins left the grim Greystone Jail.

Police said Miss Clift admitted shooting Piero Brentani, 27, last Monday in her luxurious apartment. It was not until Wednesday that his nude body was discovered by Miss Clift's socialite grandmother.

The motive for the shooting, police said, is still a mystery and Miss Clift remained silent when questioned about the reason.

Miss Clift and Brentani had been seeing each other frequently over the last 18 months. He planned to leave Boston and Miss Clift soon for a vacation before going to California to work.

Police said the murder weapon had been stolen last summer from a home in Philadelphia where Miss Clift stayed while attending a friend's wedding. She was denied a permit to carry a gun several months ago.

Miss Clift, arraigned Friday on the murder charge and ordered held for next month's grand jury, also saw her mother, Mrs. Peter Thomson, and her stepfather Saturday at city prison.

Miss Clift's mother was divorced from William Brooks Clift Jr., a New York motion picture and television director. She later married Peter Thomson, a Boston engineer. Miss Clift and her brother, William, 18, stayed with their mother.

IN MISSISSIPPI

Solons Adjourn Special Session

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Mississippi legislature, with its first adopted reapportionment since 1890 under its belt, adjourned "sine die" at 6 p.m. Saturday to end a three-week special session.

The adjournment resolution was adopted at 12:45 a.m. Saturday by the House and the Senate followed at 1:50 a.m. after Gov. Ross Barnett squelched an upper chamber move to recess until 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Some senators wanted to hold the legislature in session by recessing until Oct. 13 for two main reasons:

In order to continue the power of a joint committee which is investigating Sunday night's rioting at the University of Mississippi.

To be in session Oct. 12 when Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson could be imprisoned for their defiance of a federal court order to admit Negro James Meredith to the university.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has set Oct. 12 as the date it will reconsider citing Barnett and Johnson for contempt of court.

Sen. E. K. Collins, one of the lawmakers who wanted the legislature to remain in session, told his colleagues that quick action would be needed if Barnett and Johnson "should be incarcerated in some foreign prison."

There was a dispute over the committee investigation, largely because several legislators felt it might be aimed at identifying professors who have challenged Barnett's claim that "trigger happy" U.S. marshals touched off the riot.

To meet the challenge of the space age, Sanford said, all south states were going to have to provide greater outlays of cash to raise university salaries to attract more top flight faculty members and build more outstanding graduate schools.

Another NASA official, deputy associate administrator Thomas F. Dixon, said large industries tend to concentrate in regions where research facilities are best and no part of the country could afford to neglect investments in advance scientific and engineering education and first-class research facilities.

NASA has located many of its facilities in the South, he said, because of a number of technical considerations, including availability of water transportation and weather conditions favorable to almost year-round outdoor work.

In addition to Cape Canaveral there is Langley Research Center near Norfolk, Va., Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., Michoud Operations at New Orleans, the manned spacecraft center near Houston, Wallops Station, Va., for launching of smaller rockets and the Mississippi test facility now under construction about 50 miles east of New Orleans.

Blonde Held For Slaying Sees Lawyer

BOSTON (AP)—Blonde Suzanne Clift, 21, post-debutante held without bail in the Beacon Hill slaying of her sweetheart, talked with her lawyer Saturday in Suffolk County jail.

There was no statement about their conversation after attorney Frank Juggins left the grim Greystone Jail.

Police said Miss Clift admitted shooting Piero Brentani, 27, last Monday in her luxurious apartment. It was not until Wednesday that his nude body was discovered by Miss Clift's socialite grandmother.

The motive for the shooting, police said, is still a mystery and Miss Clift remained silent when questioned about the reason.

Miss Clift and Brentani had been seeing each other frequently over the last 18 months. He planned to leave Boston and Miss Clift soon for a vacation before going to California to work.

Police said the murder weapon had been stolen last summer from a home in Philadelphia where Miss Clift stayed while attending a friend's wedding. She was denied a permit to carry a gun several months ago.

Miss Clift, arraigned Friday on the murder charge and ordered held for next month's grand jury, also saw her mother, Mrs. Peter Thomson, and her stepfather Saturday at city prison.

Miss Clift's mother was divorced from William Brooks Clift Jr., a New York motion picture and television director. She later married Peter Thomson, a Boston engineer. Miss Clift and her brother, William, 18, stayed with their mother.

IN MISSISSIPPI

Solons Adjourn Special Session

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Mississippi legislature, with its first adopted reapportionment since 1890 under its belt, adjourned "sine die" at 6 p.m. Saturday to end a three-week special session.

The adjournment resolution was adopted at 12:45 a.m. Saturday by the House and the Senate followed at 1:50 a.m. after Gov. Ross Barnett squelched an upper chamber move to recess until 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Some senators wanted to hold the legislature in session by recessing until Oct. 13 for two main reasons:

In order to continue the power of a joint committee which is investigating Sunday night's rioting at the University of Mississippi:

To be in session Oct. 12 when Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson could be imprisoned for their defiance of a federal court order to admit Negro James Meredith to the university.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has set Oct. 12 as the date it will reconsider citing Barnett and Johnson for contempt of court.

Sen. E. K. Collins, one of the lawmakers who wanted the legislature to remain in session, told his colleagues that quick action would be needed if Barnett and Johnson "should be incarcerated in some foreign prison."

There was a dispute over the committee investigation, largely because several legislators felt it might be aimed at identifying professors who have challenged Barnett's claim that "trigger happy" U.S. marshals touched off the riot.

Queen Is Crowned At Gala Halftime

Excitement and splendor keynoted Saturday night's pre-game and half-time activities at Northeast State's homecoming game when the Indians played Northwestern in Brown Stadium.

Claude Fuller, speech instructor, was master of ceremonies during the program.

Spontaneous applause welcomed the arrival of Homecoming Queen Joelle Smith and members of her court as they circled the field in gaily decorated convertibles while the college band, conducted by Joe Barry Mullins, played "Cherokee."

Reaching the east side of the field, the queen presented the American flag to the Pershing Rifles, commanded by Cadet John C. Taylor of Waco, Texas, then she and other royalty were seated at a special place there during the first half of the game.

Then came a surprise feature, the announcement of the morning parade entries and buildings which won awards. Saul mintz, president of the Boosters Club, presented two trophies to the prize winning float, one which is circulating and another permanent.

Student body president Bill Bobo awarded the alumni trophy for the best decorated building and made cash awards to floats, a car and buildings.

Prize winning floats were headed by the School of Pharmacy, capturing second and third places, respectively, were Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority and Baptist Student Union. The winning car was entered by Circle "K". Prizes for attractively decorated buildings were won in the following order: Kappa Alpha, Breard Hall and Harris Hall.

Shifting the scene to the center of the field, Miss Cherie Martin of Pineville gave a special twirling exhibition while the band played the "President's March." Then the field was darkened while Miss Sharon Peters of Monroe was featured in a fire baton twirling number as "Rolling Thunder" was played.

Scabbard and Blade, captained by Cadet J. L. Miller of Monroe, presented the colors, and as the flag was raised, the band played the national anthem. The Rev. Loyd E. Williams, pastor, Memorial Methodist Church, gave the invocation.

Half-time ceremonies were opened by President George T. Walker, who welcomed the guests. Responding to the greeting was Alumni President James Beaver of Monroe, who announced the alumni officers elected at the pregame business session.

Then came the presentation of the homecoming court. Entrance of royalty was colorfully staged by musicians and marching units. While the field was covered with maroon and gold smoke, the precision dance team moved from the east to the west and both Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade units got into position. The latter group formed an arch of sabres under which members of the court and their escorts walked to the decorated pavilion near the stadium.

A salute from the Pershing Rifles heralded the approach of Queen Joelle Smith, dressed in a smart black and white tweed suit with red suede vest, small black hat and matching accessories. She was crowned Homecoming Queen of 1962 by President Walker, who gave her a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums tied with maroon satin ribbon. The regal symbols were presented by Miss Robbie Lee Coxe of the home economics faculty.

The maid of honor, Miss Judy Reagan of Monroe, was escorted by her father, B. J. Reagan. She wore a gray wool tailleur, American beauty velveteen hat and gray accessories. She and the maids were wearing gold mum Corsages with maroon satin ribbons.

Other members of the court chose tailored suits with small hats. The group and their escorts comprised Miss Sharon Ary of Opelousas and W. T. King of Monroe; Miss Charlotte Goodrum and her father, F. C. Goodrum of West Monroe; Miss Martha McCabe and her father, John Parker McCabe of Rosedale, Miss.; Miss Betsy McBride and her father, W. R. McBride of Davant; Miss Glenda McCann and her father, N. D. McCann of Pineville; Miss Shirley Nelson and her father, Noble William Nelson of Bastrop.

Half-time activities ended with dancers, twirlers, and marching units leaving the field as the band, headed by drum major Kenneth McKenzie of Monroe played.

Navy Launches Guided Missile

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The Navy's newest nuclear-powered vessel, the guided missile frigate USS Bainbridge, was commissioned Saturday in ceremonies dampened by one of the heaviest rainstorms in years.

Paul B. Fay Jr., undersecretary of the Navy, said the ship's power plant can take her around the world 20 times without refueling, and that the ship's firepower makes her one of the deadliest warships afloat.

The 8,000-ton ship traveled 570 miles during her first sea trials last month, using less than five ounces of fuel to do it.

The vessel, joining the Navy's cruiser-destroyer forces of the Atlantic fleet, goes to Charleston, S.C., next week.

J. W. Beaver Is Re-elected Alumni Prexy

James W. Beaver of Monroe was re-elected president of the Northeast Louisiana State College Alumni Association in the annual meeting Saturday afternoon at the college.

Bob Oden, also of Monroe, was elected vice president.

Lynn Garrett, Northeast State employee, remained executive secretary, and James O. Lancaster remained as supervisor of alumni affairs.

In the business session, the group decided to make a special effort to help obtain funds for scholarships for worthy students to attend Northeast. President Beaver promised an all-out drive during the coming year.

Members of the board of directors elected are:

Ouachita Parish: Roland Carter, Fran Guthrie, Mrs. Dell Lassiter, Marshall McDonald, Sam Rubin Jr., and Jerry Webster.

From other parishes: Clarice Kenny, Cladwell Parish; Jo Buswell Edwards, Catahoula Parish; Doris Kirby Schuchs, Concordia Parish; Mildred G. Muirhead, East Carrolll Parish.

William B. McLemore, Franklin Parish; Billy A. Busbice, Jackson Parish; Lloyd Ray Duke Jr., LaSalle Parish; C. LaPrade Porter, Madison Parish; F. Woodrow Wilson, Morehouse Parish.

George B. Franklin, Richland Parish; William D. Hoover, Tensas Paish; Dale C. Meachum, Union Parish; Woody Boyles, West Carroll Parish, and Charles D. Weaver, Winn Parish.

Sen. Ellender Blames Troops For Disorders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Saturday blamed the dispatch of troops to Mississippi for the rioting and bloodshed on the University of Mississippi campus.

"Was it worth the price?" Ellender asked in a statement taped for broadcast over radio stations in Louisiana.

"I do not think so, for the wounds that have been opened will be a long time healing. Total integration cannot and will not be achieved by force, particularly where there seems to be collusion between the courts and the executive department of our government."

Ellender called the events in Mississippi "deplorable." He said he asked President Kennedy not to send federal troops into Mississippi.

"My advice was not followed, and of course you know the results," Ellender said.

Bo Crowned Champ Hog Dog Of World

WINNFIELD (Special) — Bo, a genuine Catahoula cur owned by Travis Taylor of Winnfield, was crowned the champion hog dog of the world here Saturday night in the finals of the wild hog marking and penning contests.

Competition came on the final night of the Louisiana Forest Festival with a crowd of approximately 1,000 attending.

Thirteen entrees competed in the finals of the wild hog marking and penning contests.

Winners in the wild boar marking event were Huey P. (Red) Norris, Georgetown, and his dog, "Red," first, with a time of two minutes and 15 seconds; Travis Taylor, Winnfield, and "Bo", second, in a time of three minutes and eight seconds; and Earl Varnell, Columbia, and his dog, "Nubbin," third. First place prize money was $150, while second was $100 and third was $50.

Taylor and "Bo" captured first place in the wild hog penning contest with a time of two minutes and 10 seconds. Other winners in this event were D. L. Carter Jr., Calvin, and his dogs, "Lady" and "Queen," two minutes and 20 seconds, second; and D. L. Carter Sr., Calvin, and his dogs, "Lap" and "Trouble," two minutes and 55 seconds, third.

There were no entries for a special prize of $50 offered by Contest chairman W. C. Cummings to anyone marking a wild boar named "Dynamite."

Judges for the events were J. E. Wilson of Winnfield, and Poston White and August White, both of Kolin. J. D. Rudd of Tannehill served as master of ceremonies.

Parents Leave For Houston To Greet Schirra

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The parents of astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. left by air Saturday for Houston, Tex., and a Sunday dinner with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schirra said they're looking forward to broiled steaks and lots of talk with their only son.

The astronaut is due to arrive at his Houston home sometime tomorrow.

"We all plan to go on to Oradell, N.J., before returning to San Diego," Mrs. Schirra said. "That is Wally's home town."

The elder Schirras will be met at Houston by Wally's wife, Jo, and their grandchildren, Suzanne and Walter.

Demo Nominee Dies In Crash

NORTH CLARENDON, Vt. (AP) —Frederic J. Delany, 41, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor of Vermont, died Saturday of injuries he suffered in an auto collision in the early morning.

Delany, a Rutland lawyer, was fatally injured when the car in which he was a passenger and another collided on a bridge on Route 7.

Delany was riding with Democratic State Chairman John M. Spencer, who escaped with minor injuries.

Delany is survived by his wife and a stepson.

Republican Lt. Gov. Ralph A. Foote is seeking a second term.

CAN AMERICA KEEP

THE CUP?

Our country has leadership in many fields . . . in science and invention, in business and trade, in cultural and living standards. But can we hold this lead?

Not unless we pay attention to the dilemma of higher education. The cost of leadership has gone up and colleges are in a squeeze. Many face shortages. To give us the leaders our country needs, they need modern classrooms, up-to-date science facilities and, over and above all, a steady supply of competent teachers and professors.

Missing Girl Is Found Safe With Puppies

APPOMATTOX, Va. (AP) — Curled up beneath the warm bodies of two beagle puppies, a tiny, 2-year-old girl was found asleep and safe Saturday a mile from her Appomattox County home.

Sgt. John Spencer, a Lynchburg National Guardsman, found the child at 7:45 a.m., ending some 15 hours of searching by rescue squads, sheriffs officers, state troopers and National Guardsmen, and a state police plane.

The child, Verna Marie (Coky) Kress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kress of the Hixburg community, wandered into a wooded area near her home around 2 p.m. Friday. Hixburg is in an isolated section five miles southeast of Appomattox. The two beagle puppies followed the child.

The blue-eyed, sandy-haired little girl, youngest of nine children, was last seen by her 10-year-old brother, Jimmy, at a road several yards from the family home. They had gone to the end of the road to wait for their mother, who had gone shopping for groceries in nearby Evergreen.

Mrs. Kress said Jimmy told her his sister started off through the woods and paid no attention when he told her to come back.

Vidalians Get Gas Masks Before Raising Of Barge

VIDALIA (Special) — Approximately 1,000 gas masks had been issued here by 5 p.m. Saturday as a precuationary move in the event something goes wrong when the U. S. Army Engineers attempt the raising of four chlorine tanks.

The tanks are on a barge sunk in the Mississippi River 7.5 miles below here.

Dawson Kilcrease, consultant from the Dallas, Tex., office of the U. S. Public Health Service, said issuing of the gas masks in Vidalia began Saturday morning. He added that 2,006 masks were available and about one-half of them had been issued during the day.

Kilcrease has been assigned to Vidalia by the Public Health Service during the operation of raising the tanks.

"We don't believe raising of the tanks will increase the danger to an appreciable extent more than it is right now," he explained. "However, we do consider the tanks at the bottom of the river a hazard."

"The people have requested the gas masks and we have made them available," he continued. "We feel that the people will have more time to evacuate the area if something happens."

Gas masks are being issued at the Vidalia fire station.

Some 20,000 of the gas masks were made available in Natchez.

The Public Health Service is coordinating the health safety factors in both Louisiana and Mississippi, with Dr. Hugh B. Cottrell, regional health director from the Atlanta, Ga., office, in charge.

Actual lifting date for the chlorine tanks has not been set, and officials have indicated that it will be at least two weeks before the operation begins. They also pointed out that a 48-hour notice will be given the public before the lifting gets underway.

Lifting the tanks, after the actual work gets underway, is expected to take about 25 days.

Paul B. Fay Jr., undersecretary of the Navy, said the ship's power plant can take her around the world 20 times without refueling, and that the ship's firepower makes her one of the deadliest warships afloat.

The 8,000-ton ship traveled 570 miles during her first sea trials last month, using less than five ounces of fuel to do it.

The vessel, joining the Navy's cruiser-destroyer forces of the Atlantic fleet, goes to Charleston, S.C., next week.

Demo Nominee Dies In Crash

NORTH CLARENDON, Vt. (AP) —Frederic J. Delany, 41, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor of Vermont, died Saturday of injuries he suffered in an auto collision in the early morning.

Delany, a Rutland lawyer, was fatally injured when the car in which he was a passenger and another collided on a bridge on Route 7.

Delany was riding with Democratic State Chairman John M. Spencer, who escaped with minor injuries.

Delany is survived by his wife and a stepson.

Republican Lt. Gov. Ralph A. Foote is seeking a second term.

Sen. Ellender Blames Troops For Disorders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Saturday blamed the dispatch of troops to Mississippi for the rioting and bloodshed on the University of Mississippi campus.

"Was it worth the price?" Ellender asked in a statement taped for broadcast over radio stations in Louisiana.

"I do not think so, for the wounds that have been opened will be a long time healing. Total integration cannot and will not be achieved by force, particularly where there seems to be collusion between the courts and the executive department of our government."

Ellender called the events in Mississippi "deplorable." He said he asked President Kennedy not to send federal troops into Mississippi.

"My advice was not followed, and of course you know the results," Ellender said.

CAN AMERICA KEEP

THE CUP?

Our country has leadership in many fields . . . in science and invention, in business and trade, in cultural and living standards. But can we hold this lead?

Not unless we pay attention to the dilemma of higher education. The cost of leadership has gone up and colleges are in a squeeze. Many face shortages. To give us the leaders our country needs, they need modern classrooms, up-to-date science facilities and, over and above all, a steady supply of competent teachers and professors.

observe bitingly. "Even though I am in pain, I question whether I'm in as much pain as the 187 million Americans who have to foot the bill for this program."

The allocation of $2,923,900,000 for economic development loans and grants and military assistance abroad drew the support of 177 Democrats and 54 Republicans. Voting against it were 50 Democrats and 58 Republicans.

The aid money is included in a catchall $6,278,962,000 appropriation which includes funds also for Cuban refugees, the Peace Corps and Philippine war damage claims.

President Kennedy originally asked $4,961,300,000 for foreign aid. Then, Congress passed a bill setting a $4,754,300,000 ceiling on aid spending.

In working out a compromise figure, the conferees toned down restrictions voted by the House on nations trading with Cuba and other Iron Curtain countries and on assistance to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia.

The bill passed would allow Kennedy to waive the restriction on aid to allies whose ships supply Cuba provided the vessels carry only economic supplies. To do so, the President also would have to find that U.S. assistance is in the best interest of national security.

Again, if he finds it in the national interest, he can provide economic aid to Poland and Yugoslavia, but military assistance to the two countries is flatly banned.

Passman's injury forced him to abandon the usual acrobatic movements that punctuate his oratory. A specially rigged microphone was beside his wheelchair, a doctor hovered nearby and there was a committee aide at his side.

A colleague, Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., said the Louisianan put off treatment and did without pain-killing medication in order to present the bill to the House.

"His shoulder is in four pieces," Alford said. "He is in real pain."

As Passman was wheeled out to return to Bethesda Naval Hospital the House gave him a standing ovation.

The House interrupted debate to pay tribute also to Rep. John W. Taber, R-N.Y., who is retiring after 40 years in the House. Applause thundered in the ears of the 82-year-old ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee as he shuffled slowly up the aisle, back to his seat, after making his final speech.

Winnsboro Man Shot In Head

A 42-year-old Winnsboro man was in serious condition at St. Francis hospital last night after suffering a gunshot wound in the head.

Sheriff A. J. Stephens, Winnsboro sheriff's department, identified the man as Odis Shivers, of route one, Winnsboro. The incident was under investigation late Saturday night, and no details were available.

However, Shivers was rushed from his home to Rogers Clinic between 7:30 and 8 p.m. A First National Funeral home ambulance brought him on to Monroe where he was undergoing emergency treatment late last night. The blast from a gun had ripped through one side of his face, and he was suffering from loss of blood.

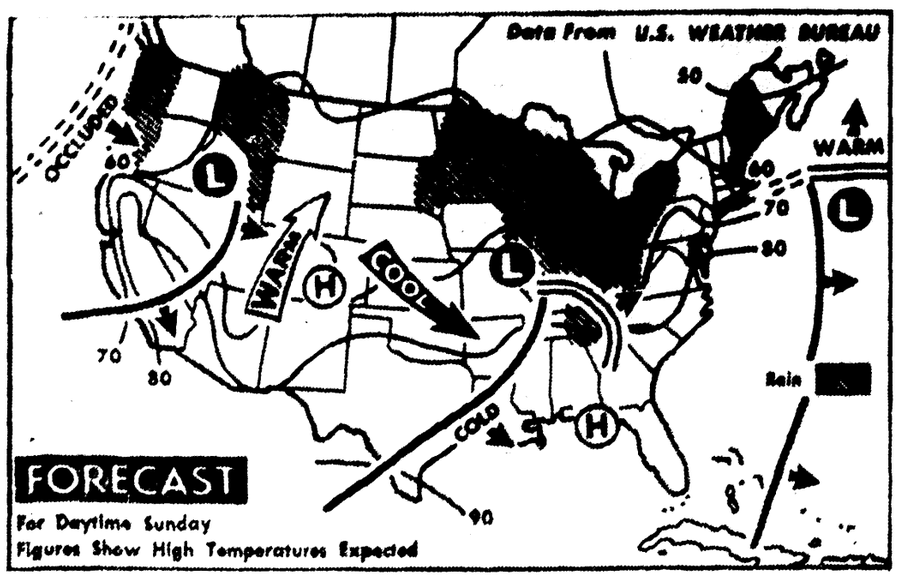
Police Enjoy Quiet Saturday

Local police officers had a very quiet Saturday with only a few minor accidents reported and a small number of arrests.

Monroe officers booked two persons on counts of vagrancy and theft by check. Louis Darrell Holt, 26, Monroe, and Brenda Sue Wilson, 18, Route Two, Tyler, Tex., were both booked on a count of vagrancy and four counts each of theft by check. Each check, given to a local business, was valued at $10.

Monroe police also booked 34-year-old Travis E. Breedlove, 113 Ridgeway Dr., West Monroe, for reckless driving and driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Breedlove, taken into custody at 1:45 a.m. Saturday in the 200 block of North Sixth Street, was held under a $435 bond.



RAIN IS EXPECTED Sunday over sections of the north Atlantic states, much of the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes, and the Pacific Northwest. Showers are predicted for portions of the Tennessee Valley, the mid - and upper Mississippi Valley and the northern Rockies. It will be warmer over much of the Plains area and parts of the central Mississippi Valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Possible Coalition Candidate Talked

of New Orleans politics.

State Supt. of Education Shelby M. Jackson is getting real chummy with the arch segregationists while insisting he will run for governor.

And Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, despite criticism of his administration, still is the most powerful politicians in Louisiana and could have a heavy say if he wanted.

But Davis came into office insisting he had no intentions of setting up a political machine. He might sit on the fence.

Against these big voices are arranged Public Service Commissioner John McKeithen of Columbia, who hopes for Russell Long's backing as the Long banner carrier; Public Works Director Claude Kirkpatrick, anxious to become the first south Louisiana governor since the days of Sam Jones; and former Highway Director R. B. Richardson, favored by many parish police juries as a capable administrator and by some of the vocal Long crowd.

Secretary of State Wade O. Martin might step into the fray.

Also, political feelers have been put out on behalf of Chairman Frank Voelker Jr. of the State Sovereignty Commission, the architect of the grants in aid system and uniform voter registration laws, and Conservation Commissioner James Gill, a top Davis campaigner who in earlier years was friendly with Sen. Long.

Kennon is quietly building a basic organization.

Jackson has an organization.

Morrison knows how to build both organization and campaign funds, but he has knocked at the governor's door twice without success.

With all this, the people could be picking daisies for all the general public interest right now in who wants to be governor.

The candidates realize this, and aren't yelling for attention. After the first of the year, the situation is expected to change and public interest quicken.

Town Marshall Shot Trying To Serve Warrant

PROVENCAL, La. (AP)—Town marshal H. M. (Max) Voight was wounded critically Saturday night when he tried to serve a warrant on Leon Cargle, Mayor H. M. Parker said.

Parker, who signed the warrant seeking Cargle's arrest on peace disturbance charges at the request of Cargle's wife, said the man wounded Voight in the arm and side.

Parker also said that Cargle shot at State Police Sgt. Herman Reed, who accompanied Voight to the man's house. Reed took the marshal to a hospital and other officers later arrested Cargle.

Cargle offered no resistance and denied he shot Voight, police said.

Voight was later transferred to a Shreveport hospital where physician said his condition was very critical.

Child Fatally Injured; Rites Slated Today

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) —Tammy Denise Robinson, 16-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Robinson of route two, Lake Providence, was killed in an accident near her home around 3 p.m. Friday.

The accident occurred when she stepped behind a truck being backed out of the driveway at the home by her father. According to members of the family the child followed her father into the yard, but then was taken back into the house. The child then walked out of the house again without being noticed and into the path of the vehicle.

The father was unaware of the tragedy and drove away. The child was discovered lying in the driveway later by the mother. She was taken to the hospital in Lake Providence and pronounced dead on arrival.

Hospital attendants gave cause of death as a crushed skull.

Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. today at Kilbourne Pentecostal Church with the Rev. Lloyd Lowery officiating. Burial will be in Kilbourne Cemetery under direction of Gay's Funeral Home.

Survivors besides the parents are three brothers, Pearl D. Robinson, Tallulah; Edward Robinson and John Robinson of the home address; six sisters, Mrs. Jean Chapman, and Mrs. Earl Nolan, West Monroe; Mrs. Willie Fautheree, Eudora, Ark.; Mrs. Thomas Fender, Greenville, O.; Mrs. Johnny McBrown, Kilbourne, Miss Anna Maria Robinson, of home address; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Garner, Kilbourne.

Pallbearers will be Willie Fautheree, Earl Nolan and Johnny McBrown.

Realtors End Convention As Slate Installed

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Durwood Gully, of Baton Rouge, Saturday was named "Realtor of the Year" during the 44th annual convention here of the Louisiana Realtors Association.

Saturday marked the close of the three-day convention which was held at the Captain Shreve Hotel and attended by delegates from throughout Louisiana.

S. P. Landry, of Lafayette, chairman of the association's Realtor of the Year Committee presented the award to Gulley.

Earlier in the day, Louis V. Hufft of New Orleans was installed as new president of the LRA. Hufft succeeds Darrel V. Willet of Pineville. Other officers installed yesterday are Charles H. Farrier, Baton Rouge, vice president; E. A. Porter Jr., Monroe, secretary; and Frank W. Griggsby, Shreveport, treasurer.

Athur P. Wilcox, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in an address yesterday told the realtors to "forget about security."

Wilcox, a Boston banker, and vice president of that city's Chamber of Commerce said Americans should show more initiative in their everyday life.

He lashed out at the "contest stride being made toward a complete welfare state."

"We're building one bureaucracy on another," Willcox declared.

Porter was named secretary of the state organization Friday while two other Monroe men were named to the board of directors. Named to the board were George Guerriero, and W. D. Carter.

Louis V. Hufft of New Orleans was named president, while Charles H. Farrier of Baton Rouge was elected vice president. Frank W. Grigsby was named treasurer.

Three Are Held As Suspects In Robbery Spree

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Two teenagers and a 37-year-old man, allegedly implicated in a multi-state robbery spree, were ordered held without bond Saturday pending preliminary hearing Thursday.

Detectives said Paul Nelson Fisher, 19, John B. Rigby, 19, and Everett Carl Richard 37, were arrested in a motel room Friday after a $375 robbery at another motel.

The three, identified as federal prisoners who escaped from Tampa, Fla., confinement Sept. 27 also were implicated in a $1100 robbery at New Orleans and the kidnaping of a police officer at Rolling Fork, Miss.

The FBI said the three also were charged with stealing at least six cars since their escape. Agent J. Everett Ingram said Richard is supposed to have escaped from custody five times and Fisher at least two times.

Griffith Infant's Services Held

Graveside funeral services were held at the Old City Cemetery at 3 p.m. Saturday for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Griffith, 3811 Blanks St., who died at birth Friday night.

The Rev. George W. Harbuck officiated and burial was under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Besides the parents, the baby is survived by a grandmother, Mrs. Howard Cann, Monroe, and grandfather, R. C. Griffith, Monroe.

observe bitingly: "Even though I am in pain, I question whether I'm in as much pain as the 187 million Americans who have to foot the bill for this program."

The allocation of $3,928,900,000 for economic development loans and grants and military assistance abroad drew the support of 117 Democrats and 54 Republicans. Voting against it were 50 Democrats and 58 Republicans.

The aid money is included in a catchall $6,278,962,000 appropriation which includes funds also for Cuban refugees, the Peace Corps and Philippine war damage claims.

President Kennedy originally asked $4,961,300,000 for foreign aid. Then, Congress passed a bill setting a $4,754,800,000 ceiling on aid spending.

In working out a compromise figure, the conferees toned down restrictions voted by the House on nations trading with Cuba and other Iron Curtain countries and on assistance to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia.

The bill passed would allow Kennedy to waive the restriction on aid to allies whose ships supply Cuba provided the vessels carry only economic supplies. To do so, the President also would have to find that U.S. assistance is in the best interest of national security.

Again, if he finds it in the national interest, he can provide economic aid to Poland and Yugoslavia, but military assistance to the two countries is flatly banned.

Passman's injury forced him to abandon the usual acrobatic movements that punctuate his oratory. A specially rigged microphone was beside his wheelchair, a doctor hovered nearby and there was a committee aide at his side.

A colleague, Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., said the Louisianan put off treatment and did without pain-killing medication in order to present the bill to the House.

"His shoulder is in four pieces," Alford said. "He is in real pain."

As Passman was wheeled out to return to Bethesda Naval Hospital the House gave him a standing ovation.

The House interrupted debate to pay tribute also to Rep. John W. Taber, R-N.Y., who is retiring after 40 years in the House. Applause thundered in the ears of the 82-year-old ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee as he shuffled slowly up the aisle, back to his seat, after making his final speech.

Winnsboro Man Shot In Head

A 42-year-old Winnsboro man was in serious condition at St. Francis hospital last night after suffering a gunshot wound in the head.

Sheriff A. J. Stephens, Winnsboro sheriff's department, identified the man as Odis Shivers, of route one, Winnsboro. The incident was under investigation late Saturday night, and no details were available.

However, Shivers was rushed from his home to Rogers Clinic between 7:30 and 8 p.m. A First National Funeral home ambulance brought him on to Monroe where he was undergoing emergency treatment late last night. The blast from a gun had ripped through one side of his face, and he was suffering from loss of blood.

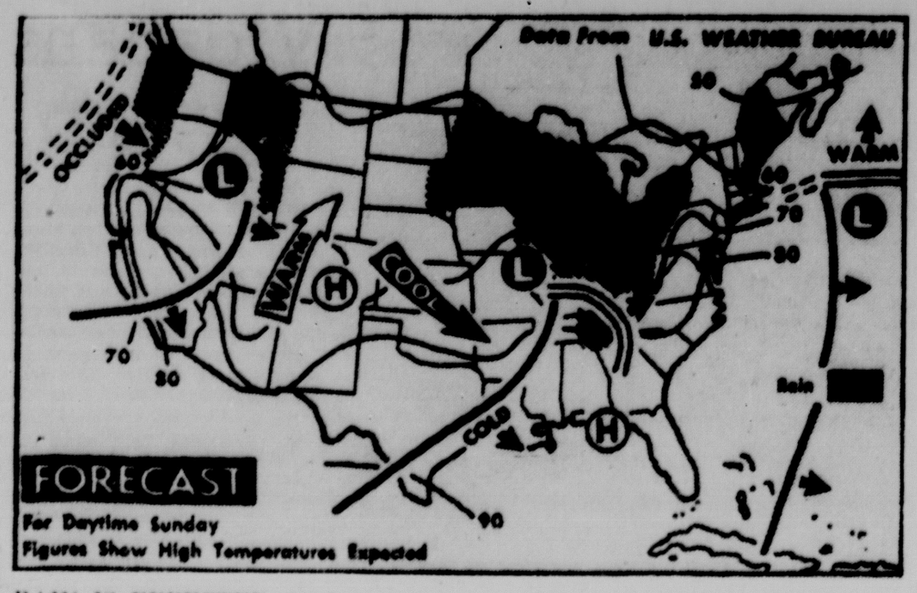
Police Enjoy Quiet Saturday

Local police officers had a very quiet Saturday with only a few minor accidents reported and a small number of arrests.

Monroe officers booked two persons on counts of vagrancy and theft by check. Louis Darrell Holt, 26, Monroe, and Brenda Sue Wilson, 18, Route Two, Tyler, Tex., were both booked on a count of vagrancy and four counts each of theft by check. Each check, given to a local business, was valued at $10.

Monroe police also booked 34-year-old Travis E. Breedlove, 113 Ridgeway Dr., West Monroe, for reckless driving and driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Breedlove, taken into custody at 1:45 a.m. Saturday in the 200 block of North Sixth Street, was held under a $435 bond.



RAIN IS EXPECTED Sunday over sections of the north Atlantic states, much of the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes, and the Pacific Northwest. Showers are predicted for portions of the Tennessee Valley, the mid - and upper Mississippi Valley and the northern Rockies. It will be warmer over much of the Plains area and parts of the central Mississippi Valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Possible Coalition Candidate Talked

of New Orleans politics.

State Supt. of Education Shelby M. Jackson is getting real chummy with the arch segregationists while insisting he will run for governor.

And Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, despite criticism of his administration, still is the most powerful politicians in Louisiana and could have a heavy say if he wanted.

But Davis came into office insisting he had no intentions of setting up a poilfical machine. He might sit on the fence.

Against these big voices are arranged Public Service Commissioner John McKeithen of Columbia, who hopes for Russell Long's backing as the Long banner carrier; Public Works Director Claude Kirkpatrick, anxious to become the first south Louisiana governor since the days of Sam Jones; and former Highway Director R. B. Richardson, favored by many parish police juries as a capable administrator and by some of the vocal Long crowd.

Secretary of State Wade O. Martin might step into the fray.

Also, political feelers have been put out on behalf of Chairman Frank Voelker Jr. of the State Sovereignty Commission, the architect of the grants in aid system and uniform voter registration laws, and Conservation Commissioner James Gill, a top Davis campaigner who in earlier years was friendly with Sen. Long.

Kennon is quietly building a basic organization.

Jackson has an organization.

Morrison knows how to build both organization and campaign funds, but he has knocked at the governor's door twice without success.

With all this, the people could be picking daisies for all the general public interest right now in who wants to be governor.

The candidates realize this, and aren't yelling for attention. After the first of the year, the situation is expected to change and public interest quicken.

Town Marshal Shot Trying To Serve Warrant

PROVENCAL, La. (AP)—Town marshal H. M. (Max) Voight was wounded critically Saturday night when he tried to serve a warrant on Leon Cargle, Mayor H. M. Parker said.

Parker, who signed the warrant seeking Cargle's arrest on peace disturbance charges at the request of Cargle's wife, said the man wounded Voight in the arm and side.

Parker also said that Cargle shot at State Police Sgt. Herman Reed, who accompanied Voight to the man's house. Reed took the marshal to a hospital and other officers later arrested Cargle.

Cargle offered no resistance and denied he shot Voight, police said.

Voight was later transferred to a Shreveport hospital where physicians said his condition was very critical.

Child Fatally Injured; Rites Slated Today

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) —Tammy Denise Robinson, 16-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Robinson of route two, Lake Provdence, was killed in an accident near her home around 3 p.m. Friday.

The accident occurred when she stepped behind a truck being backed out of the driveway at the home by her father. According to members of the family the child followed her father into the yard, but then was taken back into the house. The child then walked out of the house again without being noticed and into the path of the vehicle.

The father was unaware of the tragedy and drove away. The child was discovered lying in the driveway later by the mother. She was taken to the hospital in Lake Providence and pronounced dead on arrival.

Hospital attendants gave cause of death as a crushed skull.

Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. today at Kilbourne Pentecostal Church with the Rev. Lloyd Lowery officiating. Burial will be in Kilbourne Cemetery under direction of Gay's Funeral Home.

Survivors besides the parents are three brothers, Pearl D. Robinson, Tallulah; Edward Robinson and John Robinson of the home address; six sisters, Mrs. Jean Chapman, and Mrs. Earl Nolan, West Monroe; Mrs. Willie Fautheree, Eudora, Ark.; Mrs. Thomas Fender, Greenville, O.; Mrs. Johnny McBrown, Kilbourne, Miss Anna Maria Robinson, of home address; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Garner, Kilbourne.

Pallbearers will be Willie Fautheree, Earl Nolan and Johnny McBrown.

Realtors End Convention As Slate Installed

SHREVEPORT (Special)—Durwood Gully, of Baton Rouge, Saturday was named "Realtor of the Year" during the 44th annual convention here of the Louisiana Realtors Association.

Saturday marked the close of the three-day convention which was held at the Captain Shreve Hotel and attended by delegates from throughout Louisiana.

S. P. Landry, of Lafayette, chairman of the association's Realtor of the Year Committee presented the award to Gulley.

Earlier in the day, Louis V. Hufft of New Orleans was installed as new president of the LRA. Hufft succeeds Darrel V. Willet of Pineville. Other officers installed yesterday are Charles H. Farrier, Baton Rouge, vice president; E. A. Porter Jr., Monroe, secretary; and Frank W. Griggsby, Shreveport, treasurer.

Athur P. Wilcox, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in an address yesterday told the realtors to "forget about security."

Wilcox, a Boston banker, and vice president of that city's Chamber of Commerce said Americans should show more initiative in their everyday life.

He lashed out at the "contest stride being made toward a complete welfare state."

"We're building one bureaucracy on another," Willcox declared.

Porter was named secretary of the state organization Friday while two other Monroe men were named to the board of directors. Named to the board were George Guerriero, and W. D. Carter.

Louis V. Hufft of New Orleans was named president, while Charles H. Farrier of Baton Rouge was elected vice president. Frank W. Grigsby was named treasurer.

Three Are Held As Suspects In Robbery Spree

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Two teenagers and a 37-year-old man, allegedly implicated in a multi-state robbery spree, were ordered held without bond Saturday pending preliminary hearing Thursday.

Detectives said Paul Nelson Fisher, 19, John B. Rigby, 19, and Everett Carl Richard 37, were arrested in a motel room Friday after a $375 robbery at another motel.

The three, identified as federal prisoners who escaped from Tampa, Fla., confinement Sept. 27 also were implicated in a $1100 robbery at New Orleans and the kidnaping of a police officer at Rolling Fork, Miss.

The FBI said the three also were charged with stealing at least six cars since their escape. Agent J. Everett Ingram said Richard is supposed to have escaped from custody five times and Fisher at least two times.

Griffith Infant's Services Held

Graveside funeral services were held at the Old City Cemetery at 3 p.m. Saturday for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Griffith, 3811 Blanks St., who died at birth Friday night.

The Rev. George W. Harbuck officiated and burial was under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Besides the parents, the baby is survived by a grandmother, Mrs. Howard Cann, Monroe, and grandfather, R. C. Griffith, Monroe.

U.S. Completes Pullout In Loas

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The United States completed Saturday its part of the Geneva bargain, with drawing the last of 666 military advisers who served with royal forces in the Laos civil war.

So far only 40 of the estimated 10,000 technicians and soldiers from Communist North Viet Nam, who served with neutralist and pro - Communist forces, have checked out under supervision of the International Control Commission.

But informed military sources said a large scale withdrawl of North Vietnamese troops and technicians has taken place without any check being made by the commission.

Such a check was stipulated in the Geneva accords designed to make Laos a neutral and independent nation under a coalition government.

The sources said the large scale withdrawal did not mean that all North Vietnamese had left Laos.

Neutralist and pro-Communist Pathet Lao elements in the coalition government now ruling Laos never admitted any major aid from North Viet Nam and only agreed after heavy pressure to designate checkpoints at which foreign military personnel on their side would be evacuated and counted.

Only 35 North Vietnamese were withdrawn through the neutralist checkpoint, and five through the Pathet Lao evacuation center.

Maj. Gen. R. H. Tucker, chief of the American Military Advisory Assistance Group was the last of the U.S. advisory personnel to leave.

He flew to Bangkok, Thailand, with 79 other members of his group just a day before the deadline set for withdrawal of foreign military personnel by the 14-nation accord signed at Geneva July 23.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the last two of the 407 civilian Filipino technicians also were leaving Saturday.

Pathet Lao and neutralist officials claimed, however, that not all foreign military personnel who served with the right wing side have left. They claimed several Thai and Nationalist Chinese soldiers and technicians are still in right wing army ranks.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, deputy premier and right wing leader; Avtar, Singh, Indian chairman of the Indian-Polish-Canadian control commission; and U.S. Ambassador Leonard Unger bid Gen. Tucker farewell at the military air field.

Commenting that "we leave with a sense of accomplishment and hope peace will come to stay," Tucker said, "The American soldier is the best missionary of Americanism to be exported anywhere in the world."

Tucker's departure brought to an end a mission of advising and training the royal forces that began on a civilian basis in 1955. The mission was not put on an official military basis until last year.

Gen. Phoumi announced, however, that the United States and Soviet Union will continue at the request of the coalition government to parachute supplies to isolated troops and refugees of the neutralist, pro-Communist and right wing factions. The airdropping, he said, will be under the control of the government to assure that no guns and ammunition are included. The U.S. planes are manned by Americans and Nationalist Chinese.

Communist China gave full backing to demands of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in neighboring South Viet Nam that the "Laos Formula" be applied to restore peace to that country. The formula includes withdrawal of American assistance forces and establishment of a coalition government including Communists and neutralists.

Brazil Vote Today Vital For Future

By EDGAR MILLER

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazilians vote Sunday in the first of two elections that could decide the future of this ailing, underdeveloped giant of Latin America.

The immediate issue is choice of a new chamber of 409 federal deputies, 44 of the nation's 66 senators, 10 of the 22 state governors and a host of lesser officials.

Jan. 6 a national plebiscite will determine whether Brazil will continue under the parliamentary system of government or restore the executive power of the presidency, as demanded by President Joao Goulart.

Brazil's Communists have campaigned openly for the first time since their party, ranking a poor fourth out of 10 parties in congress, was ruled illegal and forced underground 15 years ago. They avoided use of the Communist party tag, however, to stay within the law and ran under the labels of moderate leftist parties.

Socialists and ultranationalists formed a unified leftist front.

The right, supported by a large segement of the Roman Catholic Church, mobilized all its forces for a no-holds-barred fight against the Communists and fellow travelers.

The center dominated by the Social Democratic party—caught in the crossfire and fearful of losing its control—hammered away at both sides.

Despite the din, competent foreign sources feel there will be little change from the present congressial alignment.

As for the Communists, they won only one seat in the Senate and 14 in the Chamber of Deputies in 1945, the last national election before the party was banned.

Voting is obligatory for all citizens over 18 who can read and write. Due largely to the high illiteracy rate, only about 18 million of Brazil's 75 million people are eligible.

The Communist stand their best chance in the drought-plagued, poverty-stricken northeast of Brazil. But it is in that area that the Catholic church has launched its hardest campaign against them.

In Pernambuco, the hub-state of the northeast, the strongest candidate for governor is an avowed leftist, Miguel Arrais, who has the full support of the Communists.

The most interesting state campaign is in Sao Paulo, where ex-President Janio Quadros is given a 50-50 chance of making a political comeback.

Quadros's abrupt resignation from the presidency in August 1961 plunged Brazil into a political crisis from which it is only now beginning to emerge. Quadros quit rather than buck a stubborn congress—the same congress which Goulart, his successor, forced into submission on the issue of the plebiscite to restore executive powers to the president. Concerned over his labor leanings, Congress stripped the presidency of most of its powers before Goulart took office.

The new Congress will be asked to get the ball rolling on a program of basic reform.

Goulart says that, with a cooperative congress, changes can be made to avert bankruptcy and head Brazil toward a place among the world's highly developed nations.

Rival Political Parties Sing Different Tunes

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those who believe Democratic and Republican campaign talk must be convinced by now there are two United States.

The spokesmen of opposing parties couldn't be talking about the same country. Or could they?

President Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson are blazing along the campaign trail assuring the voters that America is moving again at home and tightening the screws on communism abroad.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana contend just as vigorously that the Kennedy administration is letting things go to pot in the world and countenancing economic stagnation at home.

Citizens who cared to listen heard all of this before in the 1960 campaign. The only difference is that the parties have switched their roles. The 1960 sauce for the goose is now the gander's.

What is involved is a test of the ability of Kennedy and Johnson to operate successfully on the political defensive.

They proved their knack two years ago of conducting a successful attack on the record of the administration of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. But they are learning that defending a record of their own is quite a different dish.

Republicans are not making it easy for them. Practically every statement Kennedy made in the 1960 campaign has been documented for the opportunity to toss it back at the President.

Dirksen and Halleck employed this strategy in their "Ev and Charlie" show this week.

Dirksen quoted Kennedy statements of two years ago citing Cuba as an example that, "our security and our leadership are both slipping away." Dirksen blamed Kennedy for the fiasco of the Cuban invasion and for "antagonizing" North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.

"In no quarter of the globe can the United States point to a substantial gain in the American position in 1961 or 1962, while on the contrary we have weakened old and trusted alliances without gaining new ones," he said.

Hear Johnson on this score:

"For 20 months we have had . . . a 'win' " policy for America. We have had a win policy in Berlin, in Viet Nam, in Geneva, in all the battlegrounds of the cold war.

"The Soviet boot does not tread the streets of West Berlin. The Russian troika does not ride roughchod over the United Nations . . .

"The elimination of the Castro regime and its Soviet support in Cuba is our aim . . . Every threat has been met by strength. Every bastion has been guarded with vigilance."

The Republican-Democratic differences over the internal state of the union are even sharper.

Halleck said that two years after Kennedy promised to get the country moving again, unemployment averages higher than when he took office, the cost of living is at a peak, business failures are 7 per cent above what they were under Eisenhower and the ratio of farm income to prices is the lowest since 1939.

Halleck added the economy has "slipped backward" under Kennedy.

Johnson disagreed. His rundown went like this:

"America is moving again. Unemployment has been cut by nearly one million. Personal income has gained $1 billion. Retail prices—except for services—are holding steady. More Americans are working than ever before — 69.5 million paying jobs."

Maybe it is the same country viewed from different sets of figures, that is.

Khrushchev Is Expected To Visit U.N.

MOSCOW (UPI)— Senior Western diplomatic sources indicated strongly Saturday that they expected Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to go to the United States next month for the U. N. General Assembly and perhaps a meeting with President Kennedy.

There were similar indications by private Soviet sources.

Official Soviet sources refused to comment on speculation that Khrushchev planned to make another visit to New York.

Numerous diplomats said they understood that Khrushchev had expressed the desire to go to the assembly meeting, presumably to seek neutral nation support for the Soviet stand on Berlin and Cuba.

Indications also came from private remarks by several Soviet sources and officials who have said in the past few days that such a trip was "under consideration" and might be "likely."

One Soviet source said that Khrushchev would not attend a Nov. 19 meeting of the Hungarian Communist party as unconfirmed reports said he would. The source said "November will be a crowded month." He did not elaborate.

Khrushchev himself has given no public hint as to his intentions.

For the past three weeks he has been touring remote farm areas of Soviet central Asia, and it was understood the Soviet harvest and economy was uppermost in his mind at present.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said Friday that he and Kennedy took it "for granted" that Khrushchev will go to the United Nations late next month.

Jan. 6 a national plebiscite will determine whether Brazil will continue under the parliamentary system of government or restore the executive power of the presidency, as demanded by President Joao Goulart.

Brazil's Communists have campaigned openly for the first time since their party, ranking a poor fourth out of 10 parties in congress, was ruled illegal and forced underground 15 years ago. They avoided use of the Communist party tag, however, to stay within the law and ran under the labels of moderate leftist parties.

Socialists and ultranationalists formed a unified leftist front.

The right, supported by a large segement of the Roman Catholic Church, mobilized all its forces for a no-holds-barred fight against the Communists and fellow travelers.

The center dominated by the Social Democratic party—caught in the crossfire and fearful of losing its control—hammered away at both sides.

Despite the din, competent foreign sources feel there will be little change from the present congressial alignment.

As for the Communists, they won only one seat in the Senate and 14 in the Chamber of Deputies in 1945, the last national election before the party was banned.

Voting is obligatory for all citizens over 18 who can read and write. Due largely to the high illiteracy rate, only about 18 million of Brazil's 75 million people are eligible.

The Communist stand their best chance in the drought-plagued, poverty-stricken northeast of Brazil. But it is in that area that the Catholic church has launched its hardest campaign against them.

In Pernambuco, the hub-state of the northeast, the strongest candidate for governor is an avowed leftist, Miguel Arrais, who has the full support of the Communists.

The most interesting state campaign is in Sao Paulo, where ex-President Janio Quadros is given a 50-50 chance of making a political comeback.

Quadros's abrupt resignation from the presidency in August 1961 plunged Brazil into a political crisis from which it is only now beginning to emerge. Quadros quit rather than buck a stubborn congress—the same congress which Goulart, his successor, forced into submission on the issue of the plebiscite to restore executive powers to the president. Concerned over his labor leanings, Congress stripped the presidency of most of its powers before Goulart took office.

The new Congress will be asked to get the ball rolling on a program of basic reform.

Goulart says that, with a cooperative congress, changes can be made to avert bankruptcy and head Brazil toward a place among the world's highly developed nations.

Rival Political Parties Sing Different Tunes

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those who believe Democratic and Republican campaign talk must be convinced by now there are two United States.

The spokesmen of opposing parties couldn't be talking about the same country. Or could they?

President Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson are blazing along the campaign trail assuring the voters that America is moving again at home and tightening the screws on communism abroad.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana contend just as vigorously that the Kennedy administration is letting things go to pot in the world and countenancing economic stagnation at home.

Citizens who cared to listen heard all of this before in the 1960 campaign. The only difference is that the parties have switched their roles. The 1960 sauce for the goose is now the gander's.

What is involved is a test of the ability of Kennedy and Johnson to operate successfully on the political defensive.

They proved their knack two years ago of conducting a successful attack on the record of the administration of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. But they are learning that defending a record of their own is quite a different dish.

Republicans are not making it easy for them. Practically every statement Kennedy made in the 1960 campaign has been documented for the opportunity to toss it back at the President.

Dirksen and Halleck employed this strategy in their "Ev and Charlie" show this week.

Dirksen quoted Kennedy statements of two years ago citing Cuba as an example that, "our security and our leadership are both slipping away." Dirksen blamed Kennedy for the fiasco of the Cuban invasion and for "antagonizing" North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.

"In no quarter of the globe can the United States point to a substantial gain in the American position in 1961 or 1962, while on the contrary we have weakened old and trusted alliances without gaining new ones," he said.

Hear Johnson on this score:

"For 20 months we have had ... a 'win' " policy for America. We have had a win policy in Berlin, in Viet Nam, in Geneva, in all the battlegrounds of the cold war.

"The Soviet boot does not tread the streets of West Berlin. The Russian troika does not ride roughchod over the United Nations ...

"The elimination of the Castro regime and its Soviet support in Cuba is our aim ... Every threat has been met by strength. Every bastion has been guarded with vigilance."

The Republican-Democratic differences over the internal state of the union are even sharper.

Halleck said that two years after Kennedy promised to get the country moving again, unemployment averages higher than when he took office, the cost of living is at a peak, business failures are 7 per cent above what they were under Eisenhower and the ratio of farm income to prices is the lowest since 1939.

Halleck added the economy has "slipped backward" under Kennedy.

Johnson disagreed. His rundown went like this:

"America is moving again. Unemployment has been cut by nearly one million. Personal income has gained $1 billion. Retail prices—except for services—are holding steady. More Americans are working than ever before — 69.5 million paying jobs."

Maybe it is the same country viewed from different sets of figures, that is.

Khrushchev Is Expected To Visit U.N.

MOSCOW (UPI)— Senior Western diplomatic sources indicated strongly Saturday that they expected Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to go to the United States next month for the U. N. General Assembly and perhaps a meeting with President Kennedy.

There were similar indications by private Soviet sources.

Official Soviet sources refused to comment on speculation that Khrushchev planned to make another visit to New York.

Numerous diplomats said they understood that Khrushchev had expressed the desire to go to the assembly meeting, presumably to seek neutral nation support for the Soviet stand on Berlin and Cuba.

Indications also came from private remarks by several Soviet sources and officials who have said in the past few days that such a trip was "under consideration" and might be "likely."

One Soviet source said that Khrushchev would not attend a Nov. 19 meeting of the Hungarian Communist party as unconfirmed reports said he would. The source said "November will be a crowded month." He did not elaborate.

Khrushchev himself has given no public hint as to his intentions.

For the past three weeks he has been touring remote farm areas of Soviet central Asia, and it was understood the Soviet harvest and economy was uppermost in his mind at present.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said Friday that he and Kennedy took it "for granted" that Khrushchev will go to the United Nations late next month.

GOP Seeks Upset In Texas

By ROBERT E. FORD

DALLAS (AP)—Always the underdog in Texas politics, the Republican party is stepping up its campaign for what it considers a glittering chance to take over the governor's chair in January.

The man it hopes to put there is personable Jack Cox, 41, a one-time Democratic officeholder now an oil drilling executive and lecturer on Americanism.

Standing in the path of GOP hopes in the November election is equally personable John Connally, 45, a Democrat, who quit as Secretary of the Navy to run. He is a close friend of administration leaders.

Cox was born, as he says, "on the wrong side of the tracks" in the Breckenridge oil fields. He went to work in the oil fields when he was 10, became a roughneck — skilled worker — when he reached 15.

He served six years in the legislature as a Democrat and then ran for governor, losing in the primary.

Cox is articulate and intense, particularly when talking about conservatism and the opportunity Texas has to be a bridge between the United States and nations to the south, where he has toured extensively.

Conally is tall and trim, always neatly dressed. An aide says he never saw Connally's tie crooked. He became one of the state's top lawyers as counsel for the late Sid W. Richardson and Perry R. Bass, wealthy oil operators.

Connally got into politics early, campaigning in college for Lyndon B. Johnson, now Vice President. He went on to manage some of Johnson's campaigns, and was a leader in attempts to make Johnson the Democratic nominee for President.

Cox expresses confidence that he will win.

"Check with our friends. . . I think you'll find the same story: Cox is leading," he says.

But Democrats say that in November Cox will learn how wrong he was.

Cox contends Johnson sent Connally back to Texas to preserve Johnson's state political strength and to permit Johnson to direct Texas affairs from Washington. Connally denies Johnson caused him to quit as Navy secretary.

Texans generally dislike the idea of Washington influencing Texas government, Cox argues.

Talk among politicians is that Connally is a shoo-in, and at least one poll supports that view.

Texas has elected only one Republican governor, and that was when Union soldiers controlled the polls in reconstruction days.

Republicans have candidates in 18 of the 22 House districts, for congressman-at-large and for a scattering of statewide offices.

A turnout of about 1.2 million is predicted.

PRELUDE TO ELECTIONS

French Assembly Ordered Dissolved

PARIS (AP)— President Charles de Gaulle Saturday ordered the National Assembly dissolved as a prelude to parliamentary elections, thus carrying his fight for constitutional reform to the people in two separate ballotings.

He formally received the resignation of Premier Georges Pompidou and took note that Pompidou's cabinet had been overthrown by the Assembly on the reform issue — De Gaulle's demand for popular election of French presidents. Then he decided to dissolve the Assembly and call elections.

A referendum on De Gaulle's presidential issue already has been set for Oct. 28.

The decree dissolving the Assembly is expected to appear in the official journal early in the coming week. By law, the elections must take place within 40 days of publication of the decree, no sooner than 20 days. First balloting thus might take place Nov. 4, with runoff elections later.

Pompidou was toppled early Friday when the National Assembly adopted a motion of censure condemning De Gaulle's plan to amend the constitution by referendum so that future presidents would be elected by direct popular vote. The present system is for election by a college of about 30,000 persons, including members of Parliament, departmental (county) and municipal officials.

Specifically, the Assembly condemned De Gaulle's plan to put through such an amendment by national referendum rather than by parliamentary action. The opposition, which mustered 280 votes, well above an absolute majority of 241, contended that the constitution itself requires parliamentary approval for any amendments.

Most French jurists agree with the opposition viewpoint. So, according to reliable reports, does a majority of the Constitutional Council, a sort of supreme court which can rule on the constitutionality of all laws. The council's approval, in case of a legal challenge, is required before a law can be proclaimed.

Thus, De Gaulle's plan might win in the referendum but be rejected by the Constitutional Council. This could raise some knotty legal questions.

Pompidou, relaxed and smiling, remained with the president about 40 minutes this morning. Pompidou was asked to remain as premier until the new Assembly is chosen and seated.

How I Started a New Life With $7

By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

I work in a large city. Over a period of time I noticed that men who read The Wall Street Journal are better dressed, drive better cars and have better homes.

I said to myself, "Which came first, the hen or the egg? Do they read The Journal because they have more money, or do they have more money because they read The Journal?"

I started asking discreet questions. I found that it works both ways. Men who are well off have to have the information in The Journal. And average fellows like me can actually win advancement and build up increased incomes by reading The Wall Street Journal. How do I know? Because not long ago I sent $7 for a Trial Subscription to The Wall Street Journal. It has put me ahead already.

This story is typical. The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,500 to $50,000 a year. It is valuable to owners of small business concerns. It can be of priceless benefit to ambitious young men.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big press associations. NHS Latin Club New Officers Are Installed

Neville High School Latin Club held its first meeting of the current year at the Westminister Recreation Center last week. About 70 members were present.

Beverly Blackman and Cynthia Leigh, two of Neville's representatives at the National Junior Classical League Convention in Bozeman, Montana, discussed highlights of the convention.

Phil Guthrie and Richard Kiper, also NHS delegates to the convention, showed slides and films of the 4,000 mile trip. Points of interest included the U. S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, the museum of Natural History in Denver, an Indian reservation, Yellowstone National Park, Mount Rushmore and the Bad Lands of South Dakota.

Bruna Clerico, Neville foreign exchange student from Italy, gave a short talk about her homeland and was made an honorary member of the club.

The newly elected officers clothed in Roman costume were installed for the 1962-63 season. The officers, in addition to President, Huffman are: Vice - President, Micky Varnado; Secretary, Susie McBride; Treasurer, Deas Parrish; Program Chairman, Marcia Frost; Seargent - at - Arms, Carolyn Murray; Historian, Elaine Butler; Parliamentarian, Dovie Roberts; Chaplain, Julie Hoodemaker; Public Relations, Bill Trice and reporter, Jerry Album.

Club sponsor, Miss Ruth Simmons, presented Huffman with a Fasces, a symbol of power, and appointed six lictors, with duties similar to sergeants - at - arms. They are Phil Guthrie, Richard Kiper, Kurt Guelzow, Tommy Sarks, David McCaskill, and Terry Hessick.

Louisiana FFA Ready For Meet

Approximately 250 members of the Louisiana Association of Future Farmers of America will attend the national convention to be held in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 9-12, according to John D. Vallot, executive secretary and C. P. McVea, state advisor of the Louisiana Association of FFA, State Department of Education.

The FFA members will travel by train. The Louisiana group, traditionally the largest group to attend the convention, will be accompanied by the State FFA Sweetheart, Miss Sue Cooper of Loranger High School.

Eight Louisiana Future Farmers will receive the American Farmer degree, the highest FFA degree. Three Louisiana FFA chapters are competing for national honors. They are Vinton, Shdell and Hessmer.

Lincoln Parish Fair Beginning Monday In Area

RUSTON (Special) — With a touch of fall in the air, thoughts turn to football, world series and fairs. And the thoughts of many Lincoln Parish citizens are filled with the opening of the Lincoln Parish Fair.

The fair will open Monday at the fair grounds here, according to J. A. Shealy, president of the fair association.

In conjunction with the fair, there will be a unique feature this year — a domino tournament. The tourney will be held Monday.

Couples from over the parish will be competing for the domino championship. In addition to the tourney, there will be a number of commercial exhibits, junior livestock exhibits, a model civil defense shelter, cattle auctions, a library bookmobile, and the traditional carnival midway.

The Lincoln Garden Council will have an exhibit of flowers at the fair.

Louisiana Tech Pre-Law Club Speakers Cited

RUSTON (Special) — Two speakers who will appear before the Pre-Law Club of Louisiana Tech were named at the club's first business meeting which was held in the Student Center.

They are L. E. Storey, professor of political science at Louisiana Tech, who will speak on Oct. 25, and Ragan Madden, district attorney of Lincoln Parish, who will speak on Dec. 20.

Officers for the 1962-63 school year are Steve Everett, Gibsland, president; Fred Bryant, Benton, vice president; Dennis Towns, Marion, secretary - treasurer; and Tommy Brown, Shreveport, reporter and parliamentarian.

The Pre-Law Club is open for membership to all persons with legal interests. Meetings will be held on the last Thursday of each month in the cafeteria of the Student Center.

ON HONOLULU STOP

Schirra Greeted By Small Crowd

HONOLULU (AP)—Walter M. Schirra Jr., who orbited the earth six times on Wednesday, received a friendly but scantily attended public welcome Saturday on a three-hour visit to Honolulu.

America's newest and most spectacularly successful astronaut flew to Hickam Air Force Base from the carrier USS Kearsarge offshore. The Kearsarge had picked him up 285 miles northeast of Midway Island on Wednesday and steamed in leisurely fashion toward Hawaii the past three days.

Schirra set foot on United States soil again at 10:02 a.m. Hawaii time.

A crowd of about 2,000 half military personnel and half civilians in colorful Hawaiian shirts and muumuus, cheered and applauded as the spaceman stepped onto a flatbed truck for welcoming ceremonies.

An 8-year-old Hawaiian girl in a blue dress presented Schirra with a double lei of red carnations. Attached to it was a tag reading: "From the thousands of little people whose dimes and nickles built Sigma 7, and who very proudly bask in your reflected glory."

Schirra responded: "At last, since 1957 I have a chance to say aloha. I have observed tradition in the past and have thrown away my lei at Diamond Head. This time I'm going to take it with me. It means I'm going to bring my wife back. Hawaii is a very important place to me. I'm home."

While Schirra was speaking, the Kearsarge glided past into Pearl Harbor, about two miles distant.

The Hickam Field band played "Blue Hawaii" and marching music while the unexpectedly small crowd applauded.

Official greetings were extended by Gen. Emmett (Rosy) O'Donnell, commander of the Pacific Air Forces.

On the impromptu platform with Schirra were five of his fellow spacemen, John H. Glenn Jr., Virgil I. Grisson, Leroy Gordon Cooper, Malcolm Scott Carpenter and Donald K. Slayton.

All were in civilian business suits.

Schirra was natty in a dark gray suit with a blue and gold necktie.

Gov. William F. Quinn extended Hawaii's greetings, saying, "We welcome you and express our admiration for your gallant feat. We are glad to hail our group of astronauts who made our space effort possible. We are very proud that you have come here first."

The ceremonies lasted less than 15 minutes.

Then the astronauts and the official party transferred by military limousines to Gen. O'Donnell's quarters on the base for informal talks and a private luncheon.

The commander in chief of the Pacific, Adm. Harry D. Felt, had to skip both the greetings and the luncheon at the last minute because of arrangements for a weekend Pearl Harbor conference with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Southeast Asian officials.

After luncheon the program called for a takeoff by jet for a nonstop trip to the Manned Space Center at Houston, Tex.

There, on Sunday, Schirra will have his first press conference and appear on national television to tell of his experiences in circling the globe six times in a little over nine hours.

Schirra's Honolulu reception had been expected to draw a throng of thousands. Officials were surprised at the scanty turnout.

For days before and after his flight, the public had been told that he would be in Hawaii only 10 minutes, just long enough to board a plane for Houston.

ASTRONAUT Walter Schirra gets a traditional hawaiian greeting—a lei—from eight-year-old Kailani Flood on arrival at Hickam Air Force base Saturday. America's latest astronaut arrived Saturday from the aircraft carrier Kersarge which picked him up in the Pacific ocean after his six orbits of the earth. (AP Wirephoto)

Six Spectators At Rodeo Hurt

BONIFAY, Fla. (AP) —A rampaging Brahman bull climbed into the bleachers after throwing a rider and caused a panic among scores of spectators at a rodeo.

Six spectators at the northwest Florida championship rodeo were taken to a hospital with apparent minor injuries after the bull leaped from the arena and climbed to the top tier of seats Friday night.

he quick action of rodeo clowns, who immediately followed the 1,400-pound animal into the stands, was credited with preventing more serious trouble.

Dr. T. W. Brown, rodeo chairman, said the clowns climbed after the bull to rows of seats about 35 feet above the ground and tackled him with their bare hands.

The clowns managed to slow the bull down until several professional cowboys with the show could help them.

DEFENDS JFK POLICY

Johnson Opposes Blockade Of Cuba

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)— Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said Friday night those who want to blockade Cuba are courting war.

Speaking at a $50-a-plate Democratic dinner, the vice president said a blockade could bring on World War III.

"Stopping a Russian ship is an act of war," he said. He added that those who advocate a tight blockade of Cuba apparently do not realize this.

"Everybody knows we could invade Cuba and whip Cuba," Johnson said. He called the idea foolish, however.

"Some people have more guts than brains and some don't have either," he said of blockade advocates.

The dinner was a testimonial for New Mexico's Democratic Sens. Dennis Chavez and Clinton P. Anderson. More than $35,000 was raised for the party treasury.

Johnson defended President Kennedy's policy of restraint toward Cuba, saying this policy takes into account our treaty obligations not to interfere in the internal affairs of Latin-American nations.

He said the Cuban people's "bright visions" of betterment promised by Prime Minister Fidel Castro "have fallen in the empty dust."

"Russia is going to find that Cuba will cost them more than they ever dreamed, and for nothing. And the Cuban people are finding that Castro's promises are costing them more than they ever dreamed," Johnson said.

Yom Kippur Begins Today At Sundown

The holiest day of religious observance for Jews all over the world, Yom Kippur, begins at sundown today.

Services at Temple B'Nai Israel in Monroe will commence at 8 p.m. today, and resume at 10:30 a.m. Monday and continue until sundown.

Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, is the culmination of a 10-day period of prayer and penitence, which marks the opening of the Jewish year.

The service for this solemn day of fasting begins with the singing of the well-known Kol Nidre, Hebrew for "all vows," a musical plea for remission of hasty and impetuous decisions.

Prayers and sermons on Yom Kippur call upon man to use his capacities to overcome personal error and dereliction, remold the coming year through self-improvement and better understanding of family and neighbor. The prayers include supplications for elimination of poverty, hunger, prejudice, and attainment of world peace.

Many synagogues hold special services for children to impress them with the importance of the Holy Day in Jewish life, and to give them an understanding of the meaning of the Day of Atonement.

Mrs. Roosevelt In Goods Spirits

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's temperature has returned to normal and "she has been in good spirits today," her doctors reported Saturday.

The medical bulletin from Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said she continues to recover from a lung infection, previously reported to be not critical.

Mrs. Roosevelt entered the hospital here 10 days ago and doctors said she will remain there until the condition is cleared up. She ran a slight temperature Friday.

YEMEN STRUGGLE

Prince Reported Gaining Ground

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Yemen's legation here, still loyal to the ousted monarchy, said Saturday Prince Saif al Islam al Hassan is gaining ground militarily in his efforts to restore the throne.

Quoting reports from what it called "Prince Hassan's headquarters inside Yemen," the legation said more than a half dozen tribes have flocked to his banner, along with police and security forces in the area of Sada.

Sada is a town of 4,000 that was Yemen's capital until the 17th Century. It is 110 miles north of Sana, the present capital, which is held by the rebel regime of Col. Abdullah Sallal.

The legation said Hassan's forces have seized two Yemeni planes, one of which carried army officers and funds, and occupied a fortress in the Sada area and disarmed its garrison.

Sheik Abdullah Ben Manaa, whom the rebels appointed governor of the Sham District, was reported to have spurned the job and cast his lot with Grand Sheik Hamed Awjari of the Sahar and Hamadan tribes in support of Hassan.

The legation said Daham and Ashraft tribesmen occupied a government building and flew many of the rebel regime's troops while Abeidah tribesmen attacked the town of Mared, occupied its airfield seized a helicopter and killed its crew.

Hassan, who has represented Yemen at the United Nations in New York, claims the throne as an uncle of Imam Mohammad Al-Badr, the 35-year-old monarch the rebels say they slew last week.

Yemeni sources at the U.N. said Friday that Hassan had entered Yemen from Saudi Arabia to fight the rebels. Another report, however, said he had established headquarters in the Saudi Arabian town of Najra, 10 miles from the frontier.

PLANS EAST SWING

JFK To Step Up His Campaigning

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will step up his campaign for election of more Democrats in a two-day swing next weekend, hitting the important Eastern states of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, as well as Indiana and Kentucky.

It will be his second appearance in Kentucky in eight days. He made a brief appearance at the airport at Covington, Ky., late Friday en route to Cincinnati. He covered Michigan and Minnesota on Saturday.

During the current four-state sortie Kennedy said he wants more Democrats to help him put through his programs. He said also the Republicans have made "no" a political program while he believes in the word "yes."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower plans to set out Sunday campaigning for the GOP cause in the Far West and Midwest.

A brief announcement Saturday by the Democratic National Committee said Kennedy will participate next Friday in Columbus Day ceremonies in northern New Jersey and in New York City.

This presumably will be in the morning for the announcement said he will fly the same afternoon to Pittsburgh, Pa., for an evening rally.

On Saturday, Oct. 13, Kennedy will tour the Monongahela Valley of western Pennsylvania and return to Pittsburgh. He will fly to Indianapolis, Ind., for a day appearance the same day and then go on to Louisville, Ky., for a night speech.

The announcement gave no details as to the times, and what places he would touch in northern New Jersey and during his tour of the Pittsburgh environs. The committee said details of the itinerary will be announced locally.

It was learned, however, that the four of the Monongahela Valley will not include West Virginia this time. Kennedy has made one appearance in that state already. He also has appeared in Harrisburg, Pa.

Reports that the President would visit Buffalo, N.Y., on Oct. 14, which is Pulaski Day, before returning from the Oct. 12-13 tour, drew no official comment from the national committee. But it was learned such a visit is under consideration.

The President is expected to get in some plugs for all Democratic candidates in New York, where Democratic candidates for governor and senator, Robert A. Morgenthau and James B. Donovan, are now rated as underdogs against Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

In New Jersey, there are only congressional races, but Democrats say they expect to gain there.

Pennsylvania is a question mark, say the experts from both parties. Here the Republicans are most hopeful of upsetting Richardson Dilworth with Rep. William W. Scranton for governor. They say their Senate candidate, Rep. James E. Van Zandt, has a good chance of defeating Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark. Democrats have their fingers crossed on this one, especially the governor's race.

In Indiana, Kennedy is expected to make a pitch for Birch E. Bayh Jr. (pronounced Bye), Democratic candidate trying to unseat Republican Sen. Homer E. Capehart. Democrats say this could be an upset in their favor. They also seek revenge for four House seat losses here in 1960.

The President's second visit to Kentucky lends support to the Democratic claim that the Senate race there is a horse race, with Wilson W. Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville, seeking to unseat Republican Sen. Thruston B. Morton, former GOP national chairman. This time, Kennedy will make it a major appearance.

Rep. Shelley Nixon Attack Is Denounced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several House Republicans denounced on Saturday as a desperate political maneuver a charge by Rep. John Shelley, D-Calif., that Richard M. Nixon helped a Romanian who was a leading Nazi enter the United States.

Shelley's House speech Friday night was a "frenzied personal attack" on the former vice president, said Rep. Steven B. Derounian, R-N.Y.

"This is obviously a desperate attempt by the Brown forces of California to bail out the reelection candidacy of Gov. Brown," said Derounian.

Nixon is the Republican candidate in a race with Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who is seeking re-election.

In his speech, Shelley said Nixon used his "position and prestige" as vice president to help Nicolae Malaxa, a Romanian who was a leading Nazi, later a Communist collaborator, enter the country in 1952.

Shelley said he brought up the Malaxa case because Nixon has been "trying to use insinuation to imply that Gov. Brown and his administration are soft on communism."

In rallying to Nixon's defense, Derounian said the Malaxa story was "an 11-year-old smear that has been repudiated over and over again in the past."

"The attack on Mr. Nixon by our colleague was shocking in that it dealt with innuendo, rumor and plain perversion of the truth," said Derounian.

He said he was joined in his remarks by Republicans Reps. Glenard P. Lipscomb and James B. Utt of California, Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, Ralph F. Beerman of Nebraska and John M. Ashbrook of Ohio.

Congressional Boxscore:

FOREIGN POLICY

Congress approved without substantial change President Kennedy's bold new tariff-cutting foreign trade program. It was his biggest legislation victory. He said he wanted the authority so he can negotiate bigger markets for American products in Europe's revolutionary Common Market.

Congress also gave Kennedy authority to lend up to $100 million to the United Nations to help save the world peace organization from bankruptcy. But U.S. lending cannot exceed the total loaned by other countries.

Three Kennedy innovations in foreign policy were approved. The government was authorized to plan a large part of its foreign aid program on a long-range (five year) basis. The Peace Corps was endorsed and expanded by Congress. A new agency to work on disarmament was created.

DEFENSE

Last year and again this year Congress backed up the President in international crisises by passing resolutions specifically authorizing him to augment military forces by calling up ready reserves. And Congress overwhelmingly affirmed the announced intention of the United States to resist Communist aggression from Cuba.

The first Kennedy congress set a peacetime record in appropriating defense money. The total over the two-year span was about the same as Kennedy requested. But it included money he didn't want, and may not spend, for faster development of the 2,000-mile per hour RS-70 bomber.

TAXES

Although no general relief was granted, every pocketbook was affected by new laws.

Business got more than a billion dollars a year of the kind of tax relief Kennedy said was necessary to modernize industry, spur the economy, and create jobs. Instead of repealing tax deductions for business entertainment, as the President proposed, Congress tightened the rules slightly.

The lawmakers turned down Kennedy's plea for tax withholding on dividends and interest, but approved a plan under which corporations, savings institutions and other payers of interest and dividends will have to send to both the Treasury and the individual investor a report on all investments earning $10 or more in 1963 and in future years.

To finance new Social Security benefits, modest increases in payroll taxes (ranging up to $6 a year) were levied on every employe covered by the program. Employers were required to match the tax increase. The increases took effect last Jan. 1.

The 10 per cent federal tax on railroad, bus and water travel will be removed Nov. 15. Congress also scheduled for the same date a reduction to five per cent in the 10 per cent tax on airline tickets.

WELFARE AND HEALTH

Kennedy got nowhere on his controversial proposal to finance hospitalization and nursing home care for persons 65 or older through higher Social Security taxes.

Congress accepted most of the administration's proposals for reforming the multi-billion dollar public assistance program to put more stress on rehabilitation measures aimed at helping get needy persons off the relief rolls.

Administration-backed bills to tighten government controls over the marketing of drugs were shelved, then revived and passed.

Social Security cash benefits were raised last fall for 3.7 million widows and other persons.

Veterans drawing compensation for injuries or ailments resulting from military service, got cost-of-living benefit increases this year averaging 9.4 per cent. The Labor Department was empowered to police welfare-pension funds managed by companies and unions.

WAGES AND UNEMPLOYMENT

Congress intervened on behalf of low-paid workers and set up three new programs to aid the unemployed.

Wage minimums of $1.00 an hour were extended to more than 2 million workers in retail and service trades. They will be guaranteed $1.15 in September, 1964, and $1.25 in 1965.

A new federal program of grants and loans was launched last year to help communities where there is chronic unemployment. This year Congress also approved Kennedy's plea for a new program of retraining the unemployed for new jobs.

But Congress cold-shouldered Kennedy's plea for federal standards to force states to jack up benefits of their unemployment compensation programs. The President's special program to help youths find jobs also fell by the wayside.

Congress didn't seriously consider the President's request for standby power to cut taxes and launch public works programs in time of recession. But it approved a $900 million immediate expansion of public works instead of the $600 million program Kennedy proposed.

PLANS EAST SWING

JFK To Step Up His Campaigning

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will step up his campaign for election of more Democrats in a two-day swing next weekend, hitting the important Eastern states of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, as well as Indiana and Kentucky.

It will be his second appearance in Kentucky in eight days. He made a brief appearance at the airport at Covington, Ky., late Friday en route to Cincinnati. He covered Michigan and Minnesota on Saturday.

During the current four-state sortie Kennedy said he wants more Democrats to help him put through his programs. He said also the Republicans have made "no" a political program while he believes in the word "yes."

Happiness and health cannot be measured in dollars and cents, but the United Givers Fund campaign goes a long way toward helping people gain these blessings.

The continued services of the 13 United Givers Fund agencies depend upon Ouachita Parish citizens responding generously to this year's drive, which gets under way Tuesday. The goal of $251,408 represents an increase of 11 per cent over the amount raised last year, but is approximately the same amount of last year's goal.

The question of who receives help often arises during the campaign. Every donor has a right to know.

SERVICES

Last year, family agencies gave advisory or counseling services to 590 adults and children with mental problems, child behavior problems, etc. Nearly 4,600 people received first aid, water safety or home nursing training, financial aid or help with armed forces-home problems. Youth agencies gave citizenship, character development, recreation and health training to 8,600 boys and girls.

Nearly 500 handicapped children and adults were given year around care and treatment, including speech, occupational and physical therapy. Over 7,000 families were helped out of serious emergency difficulties and were provided food, clothing, shelter and assistance.

MANY BENEFIT

These services are not just for the needy and underprivileged. All citizens benefit in one way or another. If you are not receiving direct services today, you benefit from having them available in time of need. Actual agency records reveal that the equivalent of one person in every family is benefitting directly from the United Givers Fund agency services.

The 13 agencies of United Givers Fund receiving support through the 1963 campaign are American Red Cross, Boy Scouts of America, Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, Colored Community Welfare, Girl Scouts of the USA, Mental Health Association, Monroe Area Guidance Center, Ouachita Association for Retarded Children, The Salvation Army, USO, YMCA, YWCA and the West Monroe Boys' Club.

Omnibus Farm Bill

Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who takes credit for piloting the recently-enacted crop control bill through the senate, in winding up a statement on the measure said: "And last, I might add, in my opinion, approval of this program may well save all farm programs from going by the wayside." If he meant farm control programs, it may be that we have saved something we don't need.

For a good many years, the American Farm Bureau Federation has been trying to get the federal government to relinquish controls and to restore farming to a free enterprise. The Farm Bureau and most of its members would like for the government to continue to provide loans to tide them over during the low-price period each year, when each of the crops first comes on the market, but they would like freedom in planting, harvesting and marketing their crops.

There is one phase of the United States department of agriculture work that deserves praise and support. That is the part in which the department of agriculture has assisted, in cooperation with state programs, in the scientific development and improvement of farm production. For that it can take a good deal of the credit for making American farming superior to that in other countries, so that we always have a super-abundance, instead of never producing enough, as occurs in China, India and Russia.

After advocating a program of scarcity immediately after the New Deal went into effect, the administration did one about-face that was commendable. It came up with the idea of ever-full granaries. That is what we have had ever since that time and it was of the reasons the United States became known as the "bread basket" of the world.

Full granaries, always with a supply somewhat greater than the expected need, are good because they give us an extra margin when we suddenly find a surplus is needed.

Senator Ellender says the new bill introduces no new controls but that wheat controls are tightened and made more realistic. It is a little difficult to determine whether tighter and wider controls are any more palatable than new ones.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman was credited with putting one over on congress by getting into the conference-approved measure certain provisions that were not approved by either the senate or house in their separate votes. This was not only contrary to legislative procedure but made into law some features which had not been studied by congressional committees. Freeman succeeded in injecting two things he wanted - - additional direct payments to some farmers and the establishment of so-called recreation areas to take farm land out of production.

The fewer strings the government pulls in the planting, harvesing and marketing of crops the better. The time has come when congressmen should get more credit for repealing laws than for passing them.

Whole-Year Schools

With increasing frequency, there are demands from official and other sources that all public educational institutions be operated on a full 12-month basis. Coinciding with these demands, however, is the fact that the increased time use of these buildings has been tremendous since the end of World War II. Further, this increase seems at least partly to meet the demands of the 12-month advocates and those who still think the nine-month term is better.

Industrial News Review says: "The state of New York has approved experimental plans which could save the state's taxpayers $200 million in capital construction costs. This would be realized through the more efficient use of existing and new college facilities. The institutions would be used throughout the year, instead of being closed down for 30 per cent of the time.

"This is in conconance with an observation New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller made a few months ago: 'From the taxpayer's point of view, the cost of higher educational facilities is so great that it hardly seems justifiable to have them idle for three or four months during the summer.' And the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey says: 'No private business could operate for long on the part-time plant utilization basis now employed in our school systems.' "

It is unlikely that Governor Rockefeller or the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey could be so far behind that they are talking about a situation which existed some 15 or 20 years ago.

Yet, we know that no university or college in Louisiana stands idle 30 or 25 per cent of the time or even nearly that. Summer school attendance has become so large that even during most of the supposedly idle three months in summer the classrooms and campuses show the buildings are being put to good use.

Regular nine-month sessions, broken by the well-attended summer classes, make for greater elasticity and cut down the tension and strain that would result from 12-month terms. This system provides opportunity for those who have fallen behind to catch up and gives those who are more ambitious than average a chance to get ahead. At the same time it gives those who want it or need it time out for rest, recreation and diversive activities, including the possible earning of money to help pay the cost of college attendance.

Excellent use is already being made of many of the facilities throughout most of the year.

It would be strange indeed if summer school systems similar to that in Louisiana did not prevail on other states.

There would seem to be ways of lowering the per capita cost of education and some of it may come through still further increase in the time the facilities are used but any proposal for 12-month or 11-month regular school sessions is of debatable merit for the reasons cited here.

Railroads Determined

Following recommendations of a presidential committee which studied the unfortunate railroad situation for more than a year, railroads are determined to eliminate jobs which, because of technological advances, are no longer needed.

Regarding a setup in which the railroads reportedly have been forced to spend a needless $500 million a year at a time in which the industry as a whole is in dire financial straits, one publication commented editorially: "We support President Kennedy's broad plan to make our national transportation system both solvent and efficient. In the case of the railroads, the featherbedding issue is the place to start. If we cannot get over that hurdle, we might as well give up common-sense mergers.

"Some people even talk about nationalizing the railroads and letting the taxpayers absorb the losses. This would be terribly wrong because the railroads, if permitted to do so, can operate efficiently."

That is laying the hard facts clearly on the line.

Congressmen Coming Alive

Kennedy, Loudly Calling For Election Of Democrats, Will Find Opposition Greater In Both Houses

President Kennedy is stentoriously appealing to voters to elect more Democrats to Congress to strengthen his hand in enacting legislation, but that isn't the way the backstage situation is shaping up there, particularly in the House.

While this interminable session is finally churning to a close, the stage already is being set for an equally turbulent resumption when the new 88th Congress convenes in January, only three months hence.

Influential Democratic and Republican leaders are serving notice on Administration chiefs that vigorous fights will be made for far - reaching procedural changes, foremost among them the following:

In both the Senate and House, GOP leaders plan to press determinedly for the appointment of their own staffs, including counsel, on all important committees, particularly investigative.

House Republican Leader Charles Halleck, Ind., has notified Speaker John McCormack, Mass., and Democratic Floor Leader Carl Albert, Okla, that if the GOP gain six seats, they will demand a sharp readjustment of the present top - heavy Democratic control of the strategic Rules Committee, which the latter now dominate 10 to 5.

Representatives Chet Holifield and James Roosevelt, Calif., liberal Democratic leaders, already are organizing a militant battle to curb the power of the Rules Committee. They favor a restriction under which legislation could be brought directly from committees to the floor of the House withing a month after the Rules Committee refused to give such clearance.

The liberal bloc advocated such a change at the opening of this Congress in January 1961. They lined up considerable support for it, including some Republicans. But the late Speaker Sam Rayburn out - maneuvered the group by proposing that two Democrats be added to the Rules Committee.

The Texan contended this would give the Administration a stronger hold on the Committee, and thus ensure favorable consideration of its legislation. But it didn't work out that way on major controversial measures, notably federal aid to education and the establishment of an Urban Affairs Department. Both were passed by the Senate, but wound up in pigeonholes in the Rules Committee.

STRAWS IN THE WIND — Regardless of what the party line-up in the next House will be, both the Rules Committee and equally - potent Ways and Means Committee will undergo important changes. The latter originates all tax and social security legislation.

Writes To President

To the Editor:

Will you please print the following letter in your Views of Our Readers column?

The President:
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Mr. President:

As I watched and listened to your television address on the crisis in Mississippi, an overwhelming realization shocked me and I was compelled to write to you in this regard. I saw before me a man on whose actions the fate of the most powerful nation of our world rests; but more importantly, here before me was a man, who might really believe with all his heart, that he was right in following his interpretation of the letter of the law by militarily forcing the legal acceptance of James Meredith to the University of Mississippi.

I have considered and accepted that you are the objective, political leader of my country, who must care for his people, his nation, his world, and most importantly, his God. I can understand that you do not realize the heartfelt convictions of the majority of the responsible people in the southern region of your country, that is "The Deep South." Having never lived among these people nor visited for an appreciable length of time, it is perhaps, understandable that you not be cognizant of our deep roots to a strong heritage that binds us to a way of life that is in some respects different from that to which you are accustomed.

As so many times happens in the exhilaration of a crusade, the cause is twisted, muddled, and drawn out of all proportions. The problem is not that James Meredith is being denied an education, for there are universities and colleges throughout the United States that would readily accept his application. If he were truly interested in an education for its own sake, he would have gone to a school where he could study with as little outside pressures as possible. The problem is a conflict of pride. The pride of the Mississippians in a peaceful way of life and southern tradition - versus- your pride in your commitment to have Meredith enrolled and thus change that way of life and abolish that respect for heritage.

Change by force does by no means insure progress toward a better way of life. Moreover, change by force, as history does substantiate, merely manifests chaos, bloodshed and feeds the horrors of hate and destruction. Real change takes time, understanding and respect.

Let not the forceful division of our great nation be on your conscience. For the consequences that follow the alienation of one man from another are agonizing even to the mind. Here let me qualify that by no means am I referring to the physical alienation of a divided governments becoming separate governments, but I mean a divided spirit within a nation, that like the most horrible of cancers, slowly eats away those vital organs necessary to sustain life and in destroying the life on which it exists does also completely destroy itself.

I emplore you not to continue using brute military force against the people of your own country, particularly against people in whose hearts and minds remain the deep, jagged scars of the Reconstruction Era. By using force you are delivering your powers into the hands of those bent on the destruction of these United States. Where the human element is concerned, the end is never justified by the means if the means damages any of the humans involved.

I realize that having committed yourself, you may feel that there is no alternative but to pursue your present course of action. I also realize that there are groups and individuals by whom you are pressured and heavily influenced for political, economic and various other reasons. However being a man-a child of God - you can rise above deceit and coercion by restoring peace to that strife torn area of our nation. You can prevent possible further destruction of human lives. You can restore relative peace and begin anew to heal the scars left in the wake of this disaster, and thereby align all peace loving peoples with you.

There is a way. There must be a way to settle this situation peacefully if it is truly to succeed. For without peace there no success. This problem of whether it is really better for races to be together or separate in the South will take time to reconcile itself, and it could be that we will not be living in this world when it is solved. If the pain of even one man is spared, it will be well worth the time of trial. When that joyous day is come and we know the true solution, how much more precious and revered it will be to know that because it was given through peace and understanding, it is shared by a true . . . How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Have we anything to fear from the growing power of the military in the United States?

This question has been raised repeatedly in recent months by pacifists and other far - leftist groups who seem to believe that downgrading the military is one of the high roads to peace in our times. It is a ridiculous premise at the best of times. But at a time when we are engaged in a world - wide conflict with the Communist forces of slavery, hypothetical attacks on the American military become dangerous.

Since the founding of our Republic, the relationship between the military man and the civilian leader has always been clearly defined. Through the years it has been understood and respected by each. It was understood thoroughly that the military would never be superior to the civilian except in times of war, and even then the relationship would be protected through the dual capacity of the President serving as Commander - in - Chief.

Today, the civilian echelon at the top of each division of our Department of Defense is nothing but an extension of the same protection against military dominance that we observed when our forces were smaller in numbers and in assignments of roles and missions.

Thus is that all decisions made by our military commanders in times of peace are approved by civilian echelons of government. Many of them also are submitted for the approval of committees of Congress as well as the membership of the House and the Senate. For example, no forces can be enlarged, no new weapons acquired, no bases built without the permission of Congress, which must appropriate the required money. And the acts of Congress, made up of civilian members, are influenced by large constituencies of civilians.

There can be no doubt that we have an effective, in - depth defense built into our system of government to keep the military leader from occupying a role of dominance. And when you add this to the American soldier's deep respect and reverence for our free society and its system of checks and balances, it becomes strange and disturbing to hear talk to the effect that the development of a military industrial complex in this country could lead eventually to some kind of abortive "take - over" action such as a coup d'etat by the leaders of our armed forces.

I suggest that these sly, ill-founded whisperings do a grave disservice to the patriotism and dedication of our military leaders at a particularly critical time in the history of our nation. They promote suspicion where there is no cause for suspicion and direct it against a group which is entrusted with our security and defense. They would have us believe that the increasing tempo of military coups, particularly in Latin America, are dictated by some innate desire of military men, as a class, to usurp power and control from civilian leaders. They would have us believe that a hunger for political power is as much a part of the military leader as his uniform.

Completely ignoring the tenets of freedom welded into the training of every American military commander, the detractors of our military men are fond of pointing to military coups in other parts of the world and suggesting that "it could happen here."

They conjure up a picture of American military men, particularly generals, meeting clandestinely in the bowels of the Pentagon to plot the overthrow of the system they are sworn to defend. And they hint darkly that today's weapons have become so complex that only military men know how to use them —as though a military commander's proficiency in his assigned field is, of itself, a reason for civilians to fear him.

Of course, the purveyors of this kind of slander neglect to mention that in many of the recent military coups throughout the world the military has been on the side of freedom; that it was forced to act in countries where stable government failed, and the military was left as the only group capable of standing against Communist chaos.

How do you stand, sir?

Price Stability

Towering Problems Inherent In Steady To Lower Figures

The remarkable stability of prices of raw materials across the board and of most goods in recent years is turning out to be too "remarkable" for the financial health of many basic U. S. industries and also of underdeveloped countries around the globe which are leading producers of raw materials.

Now, new signs that price stability is giving way to weakness in key areas is dramatizing the towering problems inherent in the ideal of steady to lower prices—an ideal to which we paid ardent lip service during the early post-World War II inflation years.

The stable - to - weak price structure is keeping U. S. industry in a tight profit squeeze. With competition for the consumer's dollar so intense, with supplies of just about everything more than ample, with the buying public hardly hungry, most companies simply cannot raise prices to cover their climbing production and overhead costs. A Wall Street Journal poll of 100 manufacturers disclosed only 22 price increases which have stuck since Aug. 1 on things the manufacturers buy and sell. These have been offset by 23 price cuts and by "concessions" which don't show up as outright cuts but which still dig into profits.

But most of this year's increase and of the increases in immediately preceding years have been due to the continuing climb in the cost of services. Prices of many goods actually are down. What's more, the consumer price index is the only one which has been rising even this much.

The government's index of raw industrial commodities, which figures 1957-59 as the base period of 100, is down to 94. The government's index of wholesale prices for non - farm goods, which also figures 1957-59 as 100 is around 100.8, which is practically no change. The index of consumer finished durable goods, excluding food, is around 100.2 and of consumer finished non - durable goods, a bit over 101. This is stability with a vengeance and it has held for years now.

On top of this comes the sudden rash of price cuts of the last several days. Aluminum Co. of America, for instance, has cut prices of aluminum sheet products — used in the auto, appliance, utensil and construction industries — by as much as 14 per cent. Du Pont has cut the prices of Orlon acrylic fiber by more than 10 per cent. While some price hikes have been posted — as illustration, in silver and newspaper ink — price softness is the big news.

The factors behind these trends are clear; worldwide competition, the disappearance of shortages, the fulfillment of World War II's pent - up demands, the existence of excess plant capacity, businessmen's determination to maintain strict control over inventories at this time.

This profit squeeze has undoubtedly contributed to the slowdown in the growth of the U. S. economy. Businessmen are not going to risk investing in large - scale plant expansion and modernization ventures unless they see a demand for the goods they can turn out and a chance to make a reasonable profit on the sale of the goods.

The price pattern drawn since the late 1950s, therefore, well may be a reason our unemployment rate has remained so stickily high. It well may be more than a coincidence that ever since we entered this era of price stability our economy has crawled from recession to sluggish recovery, fallen back into recession, crawled again to sluggish recovery.

To put it in a blunt, simple sentence: our most informed economists are coming to the uncomfortable conclusion that we have not yet learned how to couple our ideal of steady prices with our goal of prosperity and full employment.

You, who think of prices only in terms of what you pay for the goods and services you buy for yourself and your family, may consider the above comments madness, myth or both. They are not.

Yes, the consumer price index —the only measure we have of our cost of living changes — is sitting at an all - time high, up slightly more than 1 per cent from a year ago and the marketbasket of goods and services you could have bought for $1 in 1957-59 now costs you $1.05.

But explaining the trends doesn't blow away the fact that they're tough on many of our greatest industries to which we must look to put zip into our economy and create new jobs.

After searching for price stability for so long we've found it, and found too that it has brought with it a whole new set of problems about which we must ask new questions in order to find new answers.

Omnibus Farm Bill

Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who takes credit for piloting the recently-enacted crop control bill through the senate, in winding up a statement on the measure said: "And last, I might add, in my opinion, approval of this program may well save all farm programs from going by the wayside." If he meant farm control programs, it may be that we have saved something we don't need.

For a good many years, the American Farm Bureau Federation has been trying to get the federal government to relinquish controls and to restore farming to a free enterprise. The Farm Bureau and most of its members would like for the government to continue to provide loans to tide them over during the low-price period each year, when each of the crops first comes on the market, but they would like freedom in planting, harvesting and marketing their crops.

There is one phase of the United States department of agriculture work that deserves praise and support. That is the part in which the department of agriculture has assisted, in cooperation with state programs, in the scientific development and improvement of farm production. For that it can take a good deal of the credit for making American farming superior to that in other countries, so that we always have a super-abundance, instead of never producing enough, as occurs in China, India and Russia.

After advocating a program of scarcity immediately after the New Deal went into effect, the administration did one about-face that was commendable. It came up with the idea of ever-full granaries. That is what we have had ever since that time and it was of the reasons the United States became known as the "bread basket" of the world.

Full granaries, always with a supply somewhat greater than the expected need, are good because they give us an extra margin when we suddenly find a surplus is needed.

Senator Ellender says the new bill introduces no new controls but that wheat controls are tightened and made more realistic. It is a little difficult to determine whether tighter and wider controls are any more palatable than new ones.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman was credited with putting one over on congress by getting into the conference-approved measure certain provisions that were not approved by either the senate or house in their separate votes. This was not only contrary to legislative procedure but made into law some features which had not been studied by congressional committees. Freeman succeeded in injecting two things he wanted - - additional direct payments to some farmers and the establishment of so-called recreation areas to take farm land out of production.

The fewer strings the government pulls in the planting, harvesting and marketing of crops the better. The time has come when congressmen should get more credit for repealing laws than for passing them.

Whole-Year Schools

With increasing frequency, there are demands from official and other sources that all public educational institutions be operated on a full 12-month basis. Coinciding with these demands, however, is the fact that the increased time use of these buildings has been tremendous since the end of World War II. Further, this increase seems at least partly to meet the demands of the 12-month advocates and those who still think the nine-month term is better.

Industrial News Review says: "The state of New York has approved experimental plans which could save the state's taxpayers $200 million in capital construction costs. This would be realized through the more efficient use of existing and new college facilities. The institutions would be used throughout the year, instead of being closed down for 30 per cent of the time.

"This is in conconance with an observation New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller made a few months ago: 'From the taxpayer's point of view, the cost of higher educational facilities is so great that it hardly seems justifiable to have them idle for three or four months during the summer.' And the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey says: 'No private business could operate for long on the part-time plant utilization basis now employed in our school systems.' "

It is unlikely that Governor Rockefeller or the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey could be so far behind that they are talking about a situation which existed some 15 or 20 years ago.

Yet, we know that no university or college in Louisiana stands idle 30 or 25 per cent of the time or even nearly that. Summer school attendance has become so large that even during most of the supposedly idle three months in summer the classrooms and campuses show the buildings are being put to good use.

Regular nine-month sessions, broken by the well-attended summer classes, make for greater elasticity and cut down the tension and strain that would result from 12-month terms. This system provides opportunity for those who have fallen behind to catch up and gives those who are more ambitious than average a chance to get ahead. At the same time it gives those who want it or need it time out for rest, recreation and diversive activities, including the possible earning of money to help pay the cost of college attendance.

Excellent use is already being made of many of the facilities throughout most of the year.

It would be strange indeed if summer school systems similar to that in Louisiana did not prevail on other states.

There would seem to be ways of lowering the per capita cost of education and some of it may come through still further increase in the time the facilities are used but any proposal for 12-month or 11-month regular school sessions is of debatable merit for the reasons cited here.

Railroads Determined

Following recommendations of a presidential committee which studied the unfortunate railroad situation for more than a year, railroads are determined to eliminate jobs which, because of technological advances, are no longer needed.

Regarding a setup in which the railroads reportedly have been forced to spend a needless $500 million a year at a time in which the industry as a whole is in dire financial straits, one publication commented editorially: "We support President Kennedy's broad plan to make our national transportation system both solvent and efficient. In the case of the railroads, the featherbedding issue is the place to start. If we cannot get over that hurdle, we might as well give up common-sense mergers.

"Some people even talk about nationalizing the railroads and letting the taxpayers absorb the losses. This would be terribly wrong because the railroads, if permitted to do so, can operate efficiently."

That is laying the hard facts clearly on the line.

Congressmen Coming Alive

Kennedy, Loudly Calling For Election Of Democrats, Will Find Opposition Greater In Both Houses

President Kennedy is stentoriously appealing to voters to elect more Democrats to Congress to strengthen his hand in enacting legislation, but that isn't the way the backstage situation is shaping up there, particularly in the House.

While this interminable session is finally churning to a close, the stage already is being set for an equally turbulent resumption when the new (88th) Congress convenes in January, only three months hence.

Influential Democratic and Republican leaders are serving notice on Administration chiefs that vigorous fights will be made for far - reaching procedural changes, foremost among them the following:

In both the Senate and House, GOP leaders plan to press determinedly for the appointment of their own staffs, including counsel, on all important committees, particularly investigative.

House Republican Leader Charles Halleck, Ind., has notified Speaker John McCormack, Mass., and Democratic Floor Leader Carl Albert, Okla, that if the GOP gain six seats, they will demand a sharp readjustment of the present top - heavy Democratic control of the strategic Rules Committee, which the latter now dominate 10 to 5.

Representatives Chet Holifield and James Roosevelt, Calif., liberal Democratic leaders, already are organizing a militant battle to curb the power of the Rules Committee. They favor a restriction under which legislation could be brought directly from committees to the floor of the House withing a month after the Rules Committee refused to give such clearance.

The liberal bloc advocated such a change at the opening of this Congress in January 1961. They lined up considerable support for it, including some Republicans. But the late Speaker Sam Rayburn out - maneuvered the group by proposing that two Democrats be added to the Rules Committee.

Price Stability

Towering Problems Inherent In Steady To Lower Figures

The remarkable stability of prices of raw materials across the board and of most goods in recent years is turning out to be too "remarkable" for the financial health of many basic U. S. industries and also of underdeveloped countries around the globe which are leading producers of raw materials.

Now, new signs that price stability is giving way to weakness in key areas is dramatizing the towering problems inherent in the ideal of steady to lower prices—an ideal to which we paid ardent lip service during the early post-World War II inflation years.

The stable - to - weak price structure is keeping U. S. industry in a tight profit squeeze. With competition for the consumer's dollar so intense, with supplies of just about everything more than ample, with the buying public hardly hungry, most companies simply cannot raise prices to cover their climbing production and overhead costs. A Wall Street Journal poll of 100 manufacturers disclosed only 22 price increases which have stuck since Aug. 1 on things the manufacturers buy and sell. These have been offset by 23 price cuts and by "concessions" which don't show up as outright cuts but which still dig into profits.

But most of this year's increase and of the increases in immediately preceding years have been due to the continuing climb in the cost of services. Prices of many goods actually are down. What's more, the consumer price index is the only one which has been rising even this much.

The government's index of raw industrial commodities, which figures 1957-59 as the base period of 100, is down to 94. The government's index of wholesale prices for non - farm goods, which also figures 1957-59 as 100 is around 100.8, which is practically no change. The index of consumer finished durable goods, excluding food, is around 100.2 and of consumer finished non - durable goods, a bit over 101. This is stability with a vengeance and it has held for years now.

On top of this comes the sudden rash of price cuts of the last several days. Aluminum Co. of America, for instance, has cut prices of aluminum sheet products — used in the auto, appliance, utensil and construction industries — by as much as 14 per cent. Du Pont has cut the prices of Orlon acrylic fiber by more than 10 per cent. While some price hikes have been posted — as illustration, in silver and newspaper ink — price softness is the big news.

The factors behind these trends are clear: worldwide competition, the disappearance of shortages, the fulfillment of World War II's pent - up demands, the existence of excess plant capacity, businessmen's determination to maintain strict control over inventories at this time.

This profit squeeze has undoubtedly contributed to the slowdown in the growth of the U. S. economy. Businessmen are not going to risk investing in large - scale plant expansion and modernization ventures unless they see a demand for the goods they can turn out and a chance to make a reasonable profit on the sale of the goods.

The price pattern drawn since the late 1950s, therefore, well may be a reason our unemployment rate has remained so stickily high. It well may be more than a coincidence that ever since we entered this era of price stability our economy has crawled from recession to sluggish recovery, fallen back into recession, crawled again to sluggish recovery.

To put it in a blunt, simple sentence: our most informed economists are coming to the uncomfortable conclusion that we have not yet learned how to couple our ideal of steady prices with our goal of prosperity and full employment.

You, who think of prices only in terms of what you pay for the goods and services you buy for yourself and your family, may consider the above comments madness, myth or both. They are not.

Yes, the consumer price index —the only measure we have of our cost of living changes — is sitting at an all - time high, up slightly more than 1 per cent from a year ago and the marketbasket of goods and services you could have bought for $1 in 1957-59 now costs you $1.05.

But explaining the trends doesn't blow away the fact that they're tough on many of our greatest industries to which we must look to put zip into our economy and create new jobs.

After searching for price stability for so long we've found it, and found too that it has brought with it a whole new set of problems about which we must ask new questions in order to find new answers.

A Look Behind the Headlines

Many New Nations In Africa

By LYNN HEINZERLING

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—Uganda, a British protectorate for more than 60 years, will become the 33rd independent nation in Africa Tuesday, but the continent's troubles are far from ended.

More than 75 per cent of the continent's surface will be free of the colonial presence when the new flag of Uganda goes up. On a population basis, more than 85 per cent of Africa's 240 million inhabitants will be living under governments free of any colonial restraint.

At the end of World War II there were only four independent nations in Africa—Egypt, Ethiopia, Liberia and the Union (now Republic) of South Africa. Their combined area is about 11 per cent of Africa's 11.6 million square miles.

In 17 years newly independent countries have exchanged colonial grievances for a sobering collection of new complaints—tribal enmities, one-party dictatorships, slumping trade figures, social unrest and administrative incompetence. But the drive for freedom persists.

The Congo (Leopoldville), now two years old, is still divided, propped up by the United Nations and on the edge of bankruptcy.

Ghana, 5½ years old, is plagued with political dissension, tribal jealousies and governmental feuds that resulted in attempts to assassinate President Kwame Nkrumah.

37 YEARS OLD

The Sudan, nearly seven years old, is ruled by military dictatorship. Many of the new governments are one party, near-dictatorial establishments. Most of the former French colonies survive economically only through French subsidies.

Uganda is moving into the free world with 28 different tribes as a loose federation of four kingdoms and the district of Busoga. Serious internal quarrels over boundaries, finances and the relative importance of the various kingdoms are to be resolved.

Even with Uganda free, a score of protectorates, territories, colonies or enclaves in Africa are still controlled by Britain, Spain, Portugal and France.

Here are some of the trouble spots:

NORTHERN RHODESIA — A British protectorate lying south of the Congo with rich copper deposits. The 2.4 million Africans have been dominated and ruled by 70,000 whites. In elections Oct. 30 Kenneth Kaunda, African leader of the United National Independence party, is certain to gain strength. He demands the breakup of the Central African Federation of which Northern Rhodesia is a part. The federation prime minister, Sir Roy Welensky, says a Kaunda victory would mean chaos and a breakdown of law and order.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA — A self-governing British colony of 2.8 million Africans and 150,333 whites. Sir Edgar Whitehead's white government has been at odds with the Zimbarwe African Peoples Union (ZAPU) headed by Joshua Nkomo. Whitehead outlawed ZAPU Sept. 20 and called up territorial forces to guarantee order. Nkomo demands votes for every African and calls the banning of ZAPU the "beginning of the end of the white man in Southern Rhodesia."

NYASALAND — The third part of the federation, with 2.7 million Africans and only 8,000 whites. Nationist Hastings Banda plans to take Nyasaland out of the federation. Nyasaland has almost no industry and has survived on subsideration.

ANGOLA

ANGOLA — This Portuguese colony has been subject to attacks by forces operating from the Congo. The Portuguese voice determination to hold the territory with its population of 4.4 million Africans and 110,000 whites. Free Africa focuses its angry attention on Angola and is determined to free it.

MOZAMBIQUE — Another Portuguese colony across the continent on the Indian Ocean with 6.7 million Africans and 80,000 whites. As in Angola, most Africans lack political and civil rights. There have been signs of discontent. But no serious lashes.

SOUTH AFRICA — A free, wealthy and highly developed republic in which 3.12 million whites withhold from some 12 million nonwhites all political and civil rights. The South African government, taking unusual and defense measures, vows to keep the nation white. A number of reserves are being established where Africans will have a measure of self-government. There have been no serious clashes since riots in 1960.

SOUTH WEST AFRICA—A former German colony mandated to South Africa by the League of Nations with 539,000 Africans and 66,000 whites. South Africa has rejected United Nations demands that this become a U.N. trust territory. Reports of discontent have been made to the United Nations, but there have been no serious troubles.

BASUTOLAND — This British protectorate of 11,716 square miles forms an enclave surrounded by South African territory. Britain promises the 300,000 Basutos eventual self-government. This would place a black nation within the borders of segregationist South Africa. Basutoland, with no economic future, could be at the mercy of South Africa.

SWAZILAND — Another British protectorate between South Africa and Mozambique with 275,000 africans not far advanced from tribal life but with a more promising economic future than Basutoland.

RICH

KENYA — A rich agricultural colony on the Indian Ocean, already stained with blood from the Mau Mau uprising of the early 1950s, is expected to become independent of Britain in 1963 or 1964. Many of 48 African tribes are feuding. A "Land Freedom Army" appears to be preparing for violent action when independence arrives. Many of the 66,000 whites are leaving or preparing to leave. One source of friction is the rich farmland of the White Highlands, which is owned by whites and coveted by tribesmen. There are 7 million africans.

GAMBIA—A British colony in West Africa of only 4,000 square miles with a population of 275,000 Africans. With an economy based almost entirely on peanuts, its future economically is very dim. The Gambians are not pressing for immediate independence.

Latin-America Now Has A Chance To Help Itself

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Latin America now has a big chance to help itself.

The device Latin America once viewed as a dismaying threat—the European Common Market—may prove to be a golden opportunity.

Europeans—notably West Germans—talk to Latin Americans like so many Dutch uncles. The talk is blunt, tough, to the point: Put your houses in order and help in the rescue operation will be there.

Until recently, many Latin Americans were deeply suspicious that the Common Market would give Africa's agriculture a heavy competitive advantage. Today there appears to be growing conviction that Latin America can supply booming Europe better than the African states associated with the Common Market. It can offer more profitable markets for Europe's production, and provide an attractive outlet for European export capital.

There is general agreement that first of all Latin America needs political stability. It needs a vastly stepped-up program of technical education to produce specialized workers and technicians. It needs to abandon measures which discourage investment and trade. It needs to create its own economic community to coordinate dealings with the Common Market and the rest of the world.

Europeans — and many Latin American leaders — agree that only Latin America itself can prepare the way for rescue operations.

A survey of opinion in European Common Market nations produces these opinions:

WEST GERMANY:

"The Latin-American market is highly important for West Germany," says Bonn's Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard."

"We members of the Common Market must pursue a liberal trade policy so that Latin America will have a ready and easy access to the market. This is to the best interests not only of Latin America but of Germany, since two-thirds of our trade is carried on outside the Common Market.

"It is necessary now for the Latin-American nations to realize that loans and financial aid will not alone better the economic situations. What is needed is improvement in the social structure to create a broader level of consumers, to assure political stability."

Walter Scheel, West German minister for economic cooperation says private West German investment in Latin America between 1950 and 1960 totaled more than $250 million, more than four times the investment in Africa. Scheel recently toured Latin America, where he called attention to the importance of a good investment climate. This means rational business relations, minus threats of government harassment or confiscation."

ITALY:

Common Market nations have a great opportunity and can help the U.S. Alliance for Progress program, says Dr. Nello Carducci, secretary-general of the Center for Latin Action, a Rome group.

Italy has close ties with South America from the emigration of five million Italians over the past 85 years.

There is no doubt, says Vittorio Valletta, president of Turin's giant Fiat automobile works, that the Common Market can be useful in development of Latin America, since those countries "have great natural resources and great possibility for production and trade."

French informants connected with the Common Market say its relations with Latin America now have become an urgent question.

Trade with Latin America by Common Market members has held steady, with slight expansion, since 1958.

Latin America's exports to the Common Market are in three categories: temperate zone products like grains, meat, wool and cotton; tropical, such as cocoa and coffee, and raw materials such as copper, iron ore and petroleum. So far as raw materials go, Latin America gets an equal break with the rest of the world in the Common Market. Africa competes in tropical products, but produces only eight per cent of the world's coffee, often of lower quality than Latin America's.

BRITAIN:

Britain is not yet in the Common Market, and London is cautious about linking Latin-American prospects with the European Economic Community.

A recent report by Sir George Bolton, chairman of the Bank of London and South America, says Europe looks forward to a great increase in world trade which would follow economic improvement in Latin America.

It adds: "It is easy to be dismayed by the economic history of the major Latin-American countries over the past 20 years. Despite vast potentials in physical wealth and resources, the struggles of Latin Americans to place themselves on a viable competitive footing with the world's most advanced economies have been constantly hindered by domestic monetary troubles and recurrent inflation."

Generally, Europeans agree Latin America needs all the help it can get, but consider the main obstacles come from Latin America itself. In brief, that means: "Put your houses in order—it's up to you."

IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Two Policies On Abortions Listed

By REINHOLD G. ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has two policies regarding abortions. It is for them, and it is against them.

Abortions are legal and can be had by any woman who insists on one. To make things easier, the government has ordered mass production of a new vacuum machine which simplifies termination of a pregnancy.

At the same time, the Ministry of Health campaigns against abortions.

The campaign was explained in an interview with Olga Nikonchik, the ministry's chief specialist on obstetrics: "Even though abortions are permitted, we were—and are—against them. The new apparatus makes things easier for women, but we still fight abortions."

She said abortion-seeking women are advised of the dangers, including the possibility an abortion may leave them sterile. The ministry is circulating a documentary film called "Why Have I Done This?" It tells of a woman who had an abortion and is now unable to have children.

ANOTHER FACET

Another facet of the antiabortion campaign is the policy of issuing bronze, silver and golden medals to women who produce large numbers of children. The government is in favor of big families since it needs manpower for industry and the armed forces.

Yet it is also in favor of abortions because of the acute housing shortage. Most Soviet families are still forced to live in one room.

Another reason for permitting abortions is the fact that Soviet contraceptives are not famed for reliability. The health ministry has been experimenting with oral contraceptives, but has fed them only to animals, and—according to Mrs. Nikonchick—takes a dim view of pills which upset a female's hormonal balance.

"It is easy to upset the hormonal balance but to restore it is difficult," she said. "What we would like to do is create a pill which would liquidate pregnancy in the early stages, without an operation."

Mrs. Nikonchick said the new abortion machine was invented three years ago in Riga, capital of Soviet Latvia, by L. Rose, an engineer, and E. Melks, a doctor.

"With this machine an abortion takes only two minutes, as against five to seven minutes for a surgical operation," she said. "The machine excludes the possibility that the walls of the uterus will be perforated and there is one-third less bleeding.

"Most important, it is really painless. Our big worry is that women who have had operations with the new machine will no longer be afraid of pregnancy."

She declined to give any statistics on abortions.

British Guiana Is Hot Country Of Mixed Blood

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—It is a hot little country where the 570,000 people are black, brown, yellow and white.

Most of them live and work in a 500-mile coastal strip. On one side is the blue Atlantic, on the other tropical jungles and rain forest rarely penetrated by civilized man except to search for gold and diamonds.

This is a country which, some think, promises to become a Cuba-like republic, providing a wedge for communism to enter South America.

The key figure is Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan, 44, a dentist turned politician. Debate about the future revolves around this self-styled Marxist. The politics of the situation is further embittered by racial differences.

This was an early Dutch colony which the British took over in 1796. Last year British Guiana received internal self-government, with defense and foreign affairs remaining in British hands. Full independence was to follow, but now it appears several years away.

THE TYPE

The sugar cane workers and rice growers are largely people whose grandfathers came from India as indentured laborers. These East Indians make up half the population, and they follow Jagan. They vote for him not because they understand Marxism, nor because they are poorer than the rest—the annual per capita income of Guianese was $250 in 1960 against an average of $210 in Latin America.

They vote for Jagan because his grandfather, too, was an illiterate laborer from India.

The East Indians live in little wooden houses, work hard in the canefields, grow a plot of rice, own a cow, and save their money.

They also produce children faster than the Negroes.

A third or more of the Guianese are descendants of African slaves. When the slaves were freed in 1834, many bought land and formed villages. Today, East Indians run most of the former Negro villages.

The Negroes prefer white collar jobs. They prefer to live in Georgetown, with its neat, white-painted wooden houses built on concrete pillars seven feet above the moist earth. They predominate among the Portuguese, other Europeans and Chinese, as well as Indian merchants, in the capital's 160,000 inhabitants.

In all but politics these people live together peaceably, a Negro and an East Indian of Georgetown's middle class agreed. In politics they line up behind Jagan and Forbes Burnham.

A LAWYER

Burnham, 38, a lawyer with a London education, helped Jagan form his People's Progressive party but later took his Negro followers into the rival People's National Congress. Racial tension grew from this bitter split over leadership. Gaping spaces in the business hearts of Georgetown, where whole blocks of stores were burned to the ground, remain as scars of wild rioting last February.

Six persons were killed before Jagan called British troops to restore order, and save his government from overthrow.

The toops are still there. So is the racial tension. So is a business slump.

The government runs mainly on excise taxes on exports of sugar and bauxite, on imports of goods. Protests over a budget that increased taxes on consumer goods and imposed a compulsory "savings levy" on salaries sparked the rioting.

Now financial trouble looms for the Jagan government. Lack of confidence has halted business investments. Imports have fallen sharply, with a loss of customs receipts. Economists say millions of dollars have been smuggled out of the country. The budget deficit is estimated at several million dollars.

Jagan's enemies consider the premier and his party so enmeshed with communism that his government would spin into the Soviet orbit once it achieved independence.

Jagan denies this, promising a "democratic, representative government, neutralist in foreign relations."

His American wife, who was Janet Rosenberg when they met in Chicago in student days, visited Cuba last year, Peiping and Moscow this year. Both Cheddi and Janet profess admiration for Fidel Castro.

Jagan's government has agreed to send 1,000 sugar workers to Cuba in mid-November to help harvest a short crop. His party has sent more than 100 members of its youth organization to Cuba, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, land on scholarships, land on scholar ships.

The opposition is insisting on a new election before independence. Jagan, whose party was kept in power by last year's election, ostensibly for four years, opposes a preindependence polling to decide if it should stay.

Both sides meanwhile are trying to get what they consider more favorable rules written for elections.

The opposition wants seats in the Legislature in proportion to the votes it receives. Opposition leaders Burnham and Peter d'Aguiar, wealthy anti-Communist brewer of Portuguese descent, think that would give their forces enough seats to outnumber Jagan's party.

BOOKS

Twain's Bitter Sketches Out

LETTERS FROM THE EARTH. By Mark Twain. Harper & Row. $5.95.

Part of this book is bitterly and bitingly anti - religious. For that reason it has been withheld from publication for 23 years.

When Twain died in 1910 he left a good many manuscripts, some unfinished. The present collection of sketches and fragments was edited for publication in 1939 by the late Bernard De Voto. But the title piece, and several others, drew the objections of Twain's surviving daughter Clara. Only recently, at the age of 88, did she give permission for its publications.

In "Letters From The Earth," Twain creates a situation in which the archangel Satan, having incurred the Deity's wrath, was banished from heaven for a celestial day and decided to visit the Earth. He writes back to the other archangels to tell them about human beings.

Writing from Satan's viewpoint, Twain makes many venomous statements attributing vanity and cruelty to the Creator. He declares that God created the laws of nature and then in the Biblical laws gave out their exact opposites. For example, nature demands sexual outlets, but the Bible prohibits adultery and fornication — applying the injunction, and others, indiscriminately against babes and septuagenarians as well as others.

In this and other essays, Twain is bitter about he human race, contending it invented for itself a heaven containing everything it does not want. He argues that Jesus invented hell. He insists that such things as disease are ways in which God punishes the innocent as well as the guilty. He scorns the human race for worshipping a Deity for his opposites — praising Him for mercy when He is cruel. And in one essay he sets out to prove that human beings are the lowest animals, to the highest.

One short sketch, purporting to be a business letter from the Recording Angel to a miserly coal dealer in Buffalo about his hypocritical document.

In many parts of this book, it is the Twain of "The Mysterious Stranger" who is addressing the reader, not the Twain who depicted Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer. It might be kept in mind that these pieces were written near the end of his life, when he was burdened by misfortunes and the deaths of his wife and a daughter.

The volume is something of a literary curiosity. It contains flashes of Twain's much of it represents the anguished protests of a highly articulate mortal against the absurdities and treacheries of human fate.

New Mystery Has Romance And Witches

THE PALE HORSE. By Agatha Christie. Dodd, Mead. $3.75.

This time Miss Christie's hero is Mark Easterbrook, a young historian who finds a romantic reason for trying to solve the mystery of what seems to be the brew of three witches.

The story begins with a priest, Father Gorman. After hearing the confession of a dying woman, he jots down a list of names, starts home, and has his head bashed in.

The individuals on the list have something in common. They have died of causes diagnosed as natural, but in each case the death has been of distinct advantage to someone else.

The trail leads to a country house — once an inn, "The Pale Horse" — and its three strange occupants. Sybil Stamfordis is a medium Thyrza Grey collects books on sorcery and their cook Bella is known as the local witch.

Like an artist of old, who sometimes painted his own image as a spear - carrier in one corner of a large scene, the author once again makes a woman who writes detective stories, Ariadne Oliver, one of her minor figures. It is Mrs. Oliver who, unknowingly, tosses off a remark that flashes a major clue into Easterbrook's mind.

But of course, to keep this within the realm of true detective stories, the author sees to it that although Easterbrook gets almost to the final solution, it is Inspector Lejeune who caps it off.

It's an interesting story, off the beaten path.

FBI Traces Rise Of Red Program

A STUDY OF COMMUNISM. By J. Edgar Hoover. Holt, Rinehart and Winston. $3.95.

In this volume the director of the FBI casts a cold eye on the machinations of world communism and strives to put them in historical, psychological and political perspective.

He traces the origins and rise of the movement from Karl Marx through the Russian revolution and its conquests beyond, analyzes the psychological causes of communism's appeal, and finds that its threat to the United States has increased substantially over the past few decades.

Without minimizing the external pressures from Moscow and its satellites, Hoover also restates his conviction that the Communist Party in the United States, though shrunk to some 10,000 "hard core" members, still presents a distinct threat to internal sercurity.

He calls for vigilance without vigilantism. "Reckless charges against individuals and false statements about the nature of communism, and the extent of its penetration into various areas of our life," he writes, "serve the cause of communism by creating disunity among Americans.

"Too often, the label 'Communist' is used indiscriminately against those whose views are unpopular or merely different from those of the majority."

But the main purpose of Hoover's primer is to show how, by deceptive exploitation of legitimate needs and aspirations, political chicanery and violence, communism has achieved its serious inroads. He retells the familiar but still instructive story of the Bolshevik seizure of power in Russia in the name of a majority which never had a chance freely to render its verdict. And he devotes considerable space to demonstrating the development of the worldwide Red apparatus.

To students of communism and political scientists, Hoover's concise dossier will present little new, but as an introductory course it has merit. Perhaps, among other things, this volume is intended for use in school courses on communism. Some of Hoover's historical parallels and examples may be oversimplified, but the main outlines of the story are clear and firm.

The South African government, taking unusual and defense measures, vows to keep the nation white. A number of reserves are being established where Africans will have a measure of self-government. There have been no serious clashes since riots in 1960.

SOUTH WEST AFRICA—A former German colony mandated to South Africa by the League of Nations with 539,000 Africans and 66,000 whites. South Africa has rejected United Nations demands that this become a U.N. trust territory. Reports of discontent have been made to the United Nations, but there have been no serious troubles.

BASUTOLAND — This British protectorate of 11,716 square miles forms an enclave surrounded by South African territory. Britain promises the 300,000 Basutos eventual self-government. This would place a black nation within the borders of segregationist South Africa. Basutoland, with no economic future, could be at the mercy of South Africa.

SWAZILAND — Another British protectorate between South Africa and Mozambique with 275,000 africans not far advanced from tribal life but with a more promising economic future than Basutoland.

RICH

KENYA — A rich agricultural colony on the Indian Ocean, already stained with blood from the Mau Mau uprising of the early 1950s, is expected to become independent of Britain in 1963 or 1964. Many of 48 African tribes are feuding. A "Land Freedom Army" appears to be preparing for violent action when independence arrives. Many of the 66,000 whites are leaving or preparing to leave. One source of friction is the rich farmland of the White Highlands, which is owned by whites and coveted by tribesmen. There are 7 million africans.

GAMBIA—A British colony in West Africa of only 4,000 square miles with a population of 275,000 Africans. With an economy based almost entirely on peanuts, its future economically is very dim. The Gambians are not pressing for immediate independence.

Latin-America Now Has A Chance To Help Itself

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Latin America now has a big chance to help itself.

The device Latin America once viewed as a dismaying threat—the European Common Market—may prove to be a golden opportunity.

Europeans—notably West Germans—talk to Latin Americans like so many Dutch uncles. The talk is blunt, tough, to the point: Put your houses in order and help in the rescue operation will be there.

Until recently, many Latin Americans were deeply suspicious that the Common Market would give Africa's agriculture a heavy competitive advantage. Today there appears to be growing conviction that Latin America can supply booming Europe better than the African states associated with the Common Market. It can offer more profitable markets for Europe's production, and provide an attractive outlet for European export capital.

There is general agreement that first of all Latin America needs political stability. It needs a vastly stepped-up program of technical education to produce specialized workers and technicians. It needs to abandon measures which discourage investment and trade. It needs to create its own economic community to coordinate dealings with the Common Market and the rest of the world.

Europeans — and many Latin American leaders — agree that only Latin America itself can prepare the way for rescue operations.

A survey of opinion in European Common Market nations produces these opinions:

WEST GERMANY:

"The Latin-American market is highly important for West Germany," says Bonn's Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard."

"We members of the Common Market must pursue a liberal trade policy so that Latin America will have a ready and easy access to the market. This is to the best interests not only of Latin America but of Germany, since two-thirds of our trade is carried on outside the Common Market.

"It is necessary now for the Latin-American nations to realize that loans and financial aid will not alone better the economic situations. What is needed is improvement in the social structure to create a broader level of consumers, to assure political stability."

Walter Scheel, West German minister for economic cooperation says private West German investment in Latin America between 1950 and 1960 totaled more than $250 million, more than four times the investment in Africa. Scheel recently toured Latin America, where he called attention to the importance of a good investment climate. This means rational business relations, minus threats of government harassment or confiscation."

ITALY:

Common Market nations have a great opportunity and can help the U.S. Alliance for Progress program, says Dr. Nello Carducci, secretary-general of the Center for Latin Action, a Rome group.

Italy has close ties with South America from the emigration of five million Italians over the past 85 years.

There is no doubt, says Vittorio Valletta, president of Turin's giant Fiat automobile works, that the Common Market can be useful in development of Latin America, since those countries "have great natural resources and great possibility for production and trade."

French informants connected with the Common Market say its relations with Latin America now have become an urgent question.

Trade with Latin America by Common Market members has held steady, with slight expansion, since 1958.

Latin America's exports to the Common Market are in three categories: temperate zone products like grains, meat, wool and cotton; tropical, such as cocoa and coffee, and raw materials such as copper, iron ore and petroleum. So far as raw materials go, Latin America gets an equal break with the rest of the world in the Common Market. Africa competes in tropical products, but produces only eight per cent of the world's coffee, often of lower quality than Latin America's.

BRITAIN:

Britain is not yet in the Common Market, and London is cautious about linking Latin-American prospects with the European Economic Community.

A recent report by Sir George Bolton, chairman of the Bank of London and South America, says Europe looks forward to a great increase in world trade which would follow economic improvement in Latin America.

It adds: "It is easy to be dismayed by the economic history of the major Latin-American countries over the past 20 years. Despite vast potentials in physical wealth and resources, the struggles of Latin Americans to place themselves on a viable competitive footing with the world's most advanced economies have been constantly hindered by domestic monetary troubles and recurrent inflation."

Generally, Europeans agree Latin America needs all the help it can get, but consider the main obstacles come from Latin America itself. In brief, that means: "Put your houses in order—it's up to you."

IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Two Policies On Abortions Listed

By REINHOLD G. ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has two policies regarding abortions. It is for them, and it is against them.

Abortions are legal and can be had by any woman who insists on one. To make things easier, the government has ordered mass production of a new vacuum machine which simplifies termination of a pregnancy.

At the same time, the Ministry of Health campaigns against abortions.

The campaign was explained in an interview with Olga Nikonchik, the ministry's chief specialist on obstetrics: "Even though abortions are permitted, we were—and are—against them. The new apparatus makes things easier for women, but we still fight abortions."

She said abortion-seeking women are advised of the dangers, including the possibility an abortion may leave them sterile. The ministry is circulating a documentary film called "Why Have I Done This?" It tells of a woman who had an abortion and is now unable to have children.

ANOTHER FACET

Another facet of the antiabortion campaign is the policy of issuing bronze, silver and golden medals to women who produce large numbers of children. The government is in favor of big families since it needs manpower for industry and the armed forces.

Yet it is also in favor of abortions because of the acute housing shortage. Most Soviet families are still forced to live in one room.

Another reason for permitting abortions is the fact that Soviet contraceptives are not famed for reliability. The health ministry has been experimenting with oral contraceptives, but has fed them only to animals, and—according to Mrs. Nikonchick—takes a dim view of pills which upset a female's hormonal balance.

"It is easy to upset the hormonal balance but to restore it is difficult," she said. "What we would like to do is create a pill which would liquidate pregnancy in the early stages, without an operation."

Mrs. Nikonchick said the new abortion machine was invented three years ago in Riga, capital of Soviet Latvia, by L. Rose, an engineer, and E. Melks, a doctor.

"With this machine an abortion takes only two minutes, as against five to seven minutes for a surgical operation," she said. "The machine excludes the possibility that the walls of the uterus will be perforated and there is one-third less bleeding.

"Most important, it is really painless. Our big worry is that women who have had operations with the new machine will no longer be afraid of pregnancy."

She declined to give any statistics on abortions.

British Guiana Is Hot Country Of Mixed Blood

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—It is a hot little country where the 570,000 people are black, brown, yellow and white.

Most of them live and work in a 500-mile coastal strip. On one side is the blue Atlantic, on the other tropical jungles and rain forest rarely penetrated by civilized man except to search for gold and diamonds.

This is a country which, some think, promises to become a Cuba-like republic, providing a wedge for communism to enter South America.

The key figure is Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan, 44, a dentist turned politician. Debate about the future revolves around this self-styled Marxist. The politics of the situation is further embittered by racial differences.

This was an early Dutch colony which the British took over in 1796. Last year British Guiana received internal self-government, with defense and foreign affairs remaining in British hands. Full independence was to follow, but now it appears several years away.

THE TYPE

The sugar cane workers and rice growers are largely people whose grandfathers came from India as indentured laborers. These East Indians make up half the population, and they follow Jagan. They vote for him not because they understand Marxism, nor because they are poorer than the rest—the annual per capita income of Guianese was $250 in 1960 against an average of $210 in Latin America.

They vote for Jagan because his grandfather, too, was an illiterate laborer from India.

The East Indians live in little wooden houses, work hard in the canefields, grow a plot of rice, own a cow, and save their money.

They also produce children faster than the Negroes.

A third or more of the Guianese are descendants of African slaves. When the slaves were freed in 1834, many bought land and formed villages. Today, East Indians run most of the former Negro villages.

The Negroes prefer white collar jobs. They prefer to live in Georgetown, with its neat, white-painted wooden houses built on concrete pillars seven feet above the moist earth. They predominate among the Portuguese, other Europeans and Chinese, as well as Indian merchants, in the capital's 160,000 inhabitants.

In all but politics these people live together peaceably, a Negro and an East Indian of Georgetown's middle class agreed. In politics they line up behind Jagan and Forbes Burnham.

A LAWYER

Burnham, 38, a lawyer with a London education, helped Jagan form his People's Progressive party but later took his Negro followers into the rival People's National Congress. Racial tension grew from this bitter split over leadership. Gaping spaces in the business hearts of Georgetown, where whole blocks of stores were burned to the ground, remain as scars of wild rioting last February.

Six persons were killed before Jagan called British troops to restore order, and save his government from overthrow.

The toops are still there. So is the racial tension. So is a business slump.

The government runs mainly on excise taxes on exports of sugar and bauxite, on imports of goods. Protests over a budget that increased taxes on consumer goods and imposed a compulsory "savings levy" on salaries sparked the rioting.

Now financial trouble looms for the Jagan government. Lack of confidence has halted business investments. Imports have fallen sharply, with a loss of customs receipts. Economists say millions of dollars have been smuggled out of the country. The budget deficit is estimated at several million dollars.

Jagan's enemies consider the premier and his party so enmeshed with communism that his government would spin into the Soviet orbit once it achieved independence.

Jagan denies this, promising a "democratic, representative government, neutralist in foreign relations."

His American wife, who was Janet Rosenberg when they met in Chicago in student days, visited Cuba last year, Peiping and Moscow this year. Both Cheddi and Janet profess admiration for Fidel Castro.

Jagan's government has agreed to send 1,000 sugar workers to Cuba in mid-November to help harvest a short crop. His party has sent more than 100 members of its youth organization to Cuba, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, land on scholarships.
land on scholar ships.

The opposition is insisting on a new election before independence. Jagan, whose party was kept in power by last year's election, ostensibly for four years, opposes a preindependence polling to decide if it should stay.

Both sides meanwhile are trying to get what they consider more favorable rules written for elections.

The opposition wants seats in the Legislature in proportion to the votes it receives. Opposition leaders Burnham and Peter d'Aguiar, wealthy anti-Communist brewer of Portuguese descent, think that would give their forces enough seats to outnumber Jagan's party.

BOOKS

Twain's Bitter Sketches Out

LETTERS FROM THE EARTH. By Mark Twain. Harper & Row. $5.95.

Part of this book is bitterly and bitingly anti - religious. For that reason it has been withheld from publication for 23 years.

When Twain died in 1910 he left a good many manuscripts, some unfinished. The present collection of sketches and fragments was edited for publication in 1939 by the late Bernard De Voto. But the title piece, and several others, drew the objections of Twain's surviving daughter Clara. Only recently, at the age of 88, did she give permission for its publications.

In "Letters From The Earth," Twain creates a situation in which the archangel Satan, having incurred the Deity's wrath, was banished from heaven for a celestial day and decided to visit the Earth. He writes back to the other archangels to tell them about human beings.

Writing from Satan's viewpoint, Twain makes many venomous statements attributing vanity and cruelty to the Creator. He declares that God created the laws of nature and then in the Biblical laws gave out their exact opposites. For example, nature demands sexual outlets, but the Bible prohibits adultery and fornication — applying the injunction, and others, indiscriminately against babes and septuagenarians as well as others.

In this and other essays, Twain is bitter about he human race, contending it invented for itself a heaven containing everything it does not want. He argues that Jesus invented hell. He insists that such things as disease are ways in which God punishes the innocent as well as the guilty. He scorns the human race for worshipping a Deity for his opposites — praising Him for mercy when He is cruel. And in one essay he sets out to prove that human beings are the lowest animals, to the highest.

One short sketch, purporting to be a business letter from the Recording Angel to a miserly coal dealer in Buffalo about his hypocritical document.

In many parts of this book, it is the Twain of "The Mysterious Stranger" who is addressing the reader, not the Twain who depicted Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer. It might be kept in mind that these pieces were written near the end of his life, when he was burdened by misfortunes and the deaths of his wife and a daughter.

The volume is something of a literary curiosity. It contains flashes of Twain's much of it represents the anguished protests of a highly articulate mortal against the absurdities and treacheries of human fate.

New Mystery Has Romance And Witches

THE PALE HORSE. By Agatha Christie. Dodd, Mead. $3.75.

This time Miss. Christie's hero is Mark Easterbrook, a young historian who finds a romantic reason for trying to solve the mystery of what seems to be the brew of three witches.

The story begins with a priest, Father Gorman. After hearing the confession of a dying woman, he jots down a list of names, starts home, and has his head bashed in.

The individuals on the list have something in common. They have died of causes diagnosed as natural, but in each case the death has been of distinct advantage to someone else.

The trail leads to a country house — once an inn, "The Pale Horse" — and its three strange occupants. Sybil Stamfordis is a medium Thyrza Grey collects books on sorcery and their cook Bella is known as the local witch.

Like an artist of old, who sometimes painted his own image as a spear - carrier in one corner of a large scene, the author once again makes a woman who writes detective stories, Ariadne Oliver, one of her minor figures. It is Mrs. Oliver who, unknowingly, tosses off a remark that flashes a major clue into Easterbrook's mind.

But of course, to keep this within the realm of true detective stories, the author sees to it that although Easterbrook gets almost to the final solution, it is Inspector Lejeune who caps it off.

It's an interesting story, off the beaten path.

FBI Traces Rise Of Red Program

A STUDY OF COMMUNISM. By J. Edgar Hoover. Holt, Rinehart and Winston. $3.95.

In this volume the director of the FBI casts a cold eye on the machinations of world communism and strives to put them in historical, psychological and political perspective.

He traces the origins and rise of the movement from Karl Marx through the Russian revolution and its conquests beyond; analyzes the psychological causes of communism's appeal, and finds that its threat to the United States has increased substantially over the past few decades.

Without minimizing the external pressures from Moscow and its satellites, Hoover also restates his conviction that the Communist Party in the United States, though shrunk to some 10,000 "hard core" members, still presents a distinct threat to internal sercurity.

He calls for vigilance without vigilantism. "Reckless charges against individuals and false statements about the nature of communism, and the extent of its penetration into various areas of our life," he writes, "serve the cause of communism by creating disunity among Americans.

"Too often, the label 'Communist' is used indiscriminately against those whose views are unpopular or merely different from those of the majority."

But the main purpose of Hoover's primer is to show how, by deceptive exploitation of legitimate needs and aspirations, political chicanery and violence, communism has achieved its serious inroads. He retells the familiar but still instructive story of the Bolshevik seizure of power in Russia in the name of a majority which never had a chance freely to render its verdict. And he devotes considerable space to demonstrating the development of the worldwide Red apparatus.

To students of communism and political scientists, Hoover's concise dossier will present little new, but as an introductory course it has merit. Perhaps, among other things, this volume is intended for use in school courses on communism. Some of Hoover's historical parallels and examples may be oversimplified, but the main outlines of the story are clear and firm.

OIL, GAS ACTIVITY

19 Completions Reported In Area

Lingering summer weather apparently cooperated last week to keep drilling in the Monroe Oil and Gas District at high levels. District Manager Duncan S. Cook reported 19 completions over the 14 parish area, complemented by the spotting of 25 new locations.

APPOINTMENT of Alden Opie as general marketing manager for Southern Bell Telephone Co. in Louisiana has been announced. He will succeed Wallace R. Bunn and will be stationed in New Orleans.

Ouachita Parish contributed in each category but failed to account for any of a reported 36 wells active in drilling or testing in the area.

Four Ouachita Parish finals during the week, all relatively shallow gas producers in the Monroe Field, around 2200 feet in depth, compared with eight similar wells in the Union Parish Monroe Field. Cook listed completions as well in Avoyelles, Catahoula, Concordia and Tensas Parishes.

Of new locations, the Twin Cities area accounted for four, again all in the Monroe Field, while Catahoula Parish recorded stakings in a total of nine instances. Other new locations were in Caldwell, Concordia, Franklin, LaSalle, Tensas and Union Parishes.

Most active wells were in Tensas Parish with 11 rigs shown drilling; eight were in LaSalle and four in Catahoula, and accounted for the bulk of three dozen reported.

Here's the weekly breakdown with other details on new district activity:

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Production tests continued Saturday at Larco Drilling Company, Best Oil Co. and E. B. Launius — No. 1 Whittington, sec. 4-2n-5e, Amite County wildcat, in an effort to complete the well as a new discovery.

Operators perforated at 11,295-303 feet with the well reported swabbing at the rate of approximately 90 barrels of oil per day.

The potential new field find is located approximately two miles southwest of the East Fork field.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, a new wildcat test is scheduled for Chickasaw County. Blanco Oil company and Fairfield Oil Co., Inc., are rigging up at their unit No. 33-1, sec. 33-13s-4e, located seven miles east of Houston. The nearest producing area is the Trebloc field located approximately five miles southwest of the new start.

Sun Oil Co. is drilling below 9,600 feet in its important Jeff Davis County wildcat, the Dyess No. 1, sec. 29-6n-17w, located three miles south of Bassfield. The test is scheduled for 14,500 feet.

Placid Oil Co. has abandoned its Hinds County wildcat, the Cook No. 1, sec. 35-6n-1w, near the western city limits of Jackson. The well was drilled to total depth of 6,218 feet with no shows logged.

In the Bentonia field of Yazoo County, Humble Oil & Regining Co. is drilling below 7,300 feet in its Bentonia Unit No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w, a 10,700 foot test.

In the sand hill area of Greene County, Cities Service Petroleum Co. is below 7,300 feet in its wildcat, the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w. The well scheduled for 13,000 feet.

In Rankin County, American Petrofina Company of Texas is preparing to spud its wildcat, the Rhodes-Sowell No. 1, sec. 18-5n-5e, scheduled for 11,500 feet.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. is continuing to test its Maxie Gas Unit SE-61, sec. 13-1n-12w, located in the Maxie field of Forrest County. The venture is the first deep test to be drilled on the south side of the major fault at Maxie, and it is reported operators are testing a zone below 10,000 feet. It also is reported operators will test one more zone in an effort to complete as a producer.

Field drilling during the past week saw five new oilers completed.

In the Knox field of Marion County, Charles F. Hayes & J. B. Farrh Jr., completed their Rinkle No. 1, sec. 14-2n-12e, pumping 120 barrels of oil per day from 9,644-57 feet.

At Chapparral in Wayne County, Humble Oil & Regining Co. completed a pair of producers. The Chaparral unit No. 18-7, sec. 18-10n-6w, flowed 101 barrels of oil per day from 8,866-81 feet.

In the Junction field of Clarke County, Humble finaled its Harrow No. 1, sec. 24-2n-16e, pumping 92 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 3,714-3,737 feet.

Wildcat Field — The Superior Oil Co.'s John Haywood no. 1, located in sec. 36-11-6E, drilling shale 7200 ft.

Tew Lake Field — H. A. Harper's Mrs. E. H. Taliaferro no. 1, located in sec. 26-9-6E, testing 4354 ft.

Willow Lake Field — Barnwell Greyhound Evans's Catahoula Unit no. 2, located in sec. 12-6-6E, testing 6000 ft.

CONCORDIA PARISH, Wildcat Field—R. A. Campbell Co.'s Blount et al Ut. no. 1, located in sec. 56-8-9E, drilling out plug.

Esperance Point Field — A and N Prod. Serv. Inc.'s Barker Ut. 5 no. 1, located Acc. to sec. 10-5-9E drilling 5733 ft.

GRANT PARISH, Wildcat Field — W. L. Rambo's Liberty Chapel Church no. 1, located in sec. 16-8-2W, drilling 1475 ft.

Tullos Urania Field — Imperio, Inc.'s J. C. Maxwell no. 4, located in sec. 9-9-1E, testing at 1544 ft.

Tullos Urania Field — Imperio Inc.'s J. C. Maxwell no. 5, located in sec. 9-9-1E, drilling plugged.

LA SALLE PARISH, Wildcat Field — Justiss Mears Oil Co.'s J. M. Whatley Est. no. 1, located in sec. 27-8-3E, testing at 4255 ft.

Little Creek Field — Behrings Bearing Service Inc.'s R. H. Watts no. 2, located in sec. 36-9-1E, drilling plugged.

Olla Field — Placid Oil Co.'s La. Cent O and G no. 161, located in sec. 1-9-2E, testing at 3421 ft.

Searcy Field — J. Mears Oil Co. et al's J. R. Greer no. 1-A, Located in sec. 10-8-2E, testing at 2696 ft.

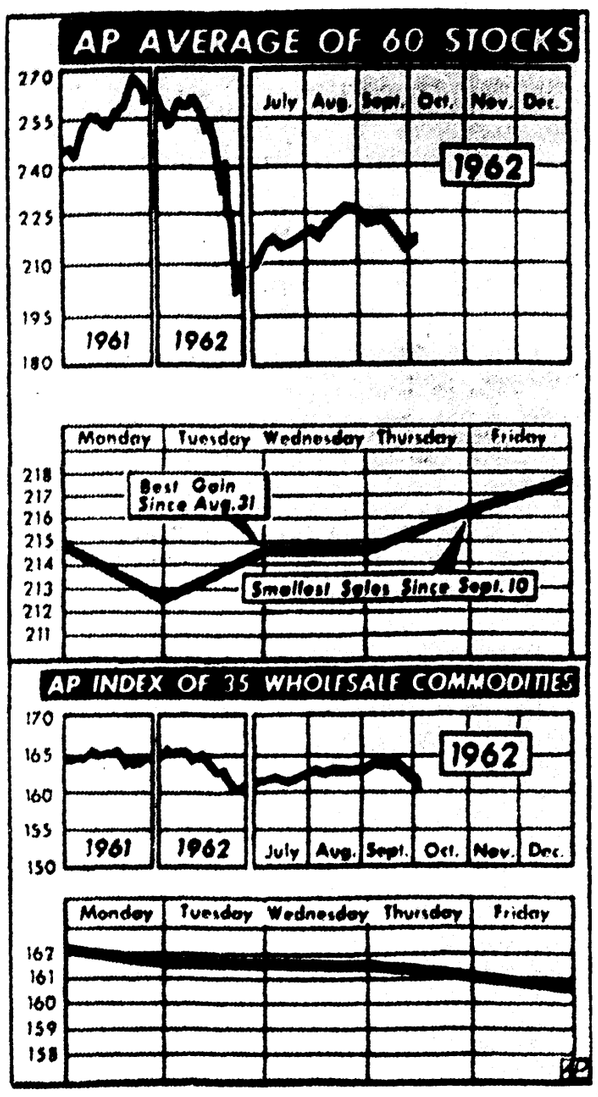
Larco Tests Continue In Production



FOR THE FIRST time in three weeks The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced, closing Friday at 217.7 from 214.9 a week ago. Paced by livestock, the commodity index declined for the second straight week, finishing today at 160.8 from 162.1 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

IMPROVE PLANTS

Businessmen Given New Tax Incentive

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress gave businessmen a tax incentive to enlarge and modernize their plants during the week, and a business leader and two economists called for tax cuts to stimulate the economy.

As a result, taxes—always a sure-fire subject—dominated the business news.

And it was a week in which a big West Coast steel producer cut prices, and a longshoremen's strike paralyzed ports from Maine to the Gulf of Mexico before being halted by a restraining order.

Final congressional action sent President Kennedy's drastically revised tax bill to the White House for signature.

The legislation's main provision allows a seven per cent income tax credit on money spent for plant and equipment. It was estimated this would mean a $1.3 billion jog for the economy.

However, Congress withdrew one of Kennedy's key requests, a withholding tax on interest and dividends.

To defray some of the loss of revenue because of the tax incentive, Congress tightened rules on business entertainment and travel deductions; increased taxes on mutual savings banks, savings and loan associations, mutual fire and casualty companies, and cooperatives.

Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel Corp., speaking to the New York State Chamber of Commerce, urged an overhaul of the tax system. He said the present personal income and corporate tax structure has seriously limited the future growth potential of the U.S. economy.

He contended that the federal government could increase its tax revenues by revising existing tax laws and relying less heavily on the present corporate and personal income levies.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, also said a reduction of personal and corporate income was needed to keep the economy advancing.

He told the Mortgage Bankers Association of America in Chicago that the administration's tax program—to be submitted to Congress at its next session—would be aimed at increasing consumer's spending money, stimulating investment in inventories, plants and equipment, and increasing profit margins.

Heller's predecessor in the Eisenhower administration, Raymond J. Saulnier, joined in the call for a tax cut in a speech to the Savings Bank Association of New York.

He said that, "Unless something comes along to give the economy a thrust, the near-term outlook is not a promising one."

As for the state of the economy, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York said it seems to be marking time, and the First National City Bank of New York said activity apparently has leveled off on a high plateau.

Kaiser Steel Co. of Oakland, Calif., the country's ninth-ranking producer, slashed prices an average of $12 a ton as a means of meeting domestic and Japanese competition. Steel traditionally has brought a higher price in the West than in the East.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Jones & Laughlin and National said they would adjust their prices to remain competitive but they face high freight costs to reach the Western market.

The longshoremen's strike in a wage dispute tied up shipping along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts from Monday to Thursday but President Kennedy, acting under the Taft-Hartley law, went to court and obtained an order requiring an 80-day, cooling-off period.

The nation's unemployment total fell by 420,000 in September to 3,512,000, but the idle rate remained at 5.8 per cent of the labor force.

An increase among job-seeking women and a rise in the number of unemployed teen-agers held the rate at the high level of August, the Labor Department said. Total employment dropped by 1.1 million to 68,668,000 but the decline from August was greater than expected.

The Commerce Department estimated new construction in September at $5.9 billion, up seven per cent from a year earlier.

Business inventories declined by $260 million in August to $96.9 billion in the first drop since the recession period of 1960-61.

Department store sales last week posted a 3 per cent gain over the like week of 1961, and September sales were six per cent higher than a year earlier, the federal reserve board reported.

Automakers boosted their production to an estimated 153,000 passenger cars during the week from 147,254 the preceding week. With early sales of 1963 models reported good, they scheduled output of 700,000 cars this month, which would be a record for October.

Steel production during the week climbed for the third straight week to 1,766,000 tons, up three per cent from the previous week. Even so, mills still were operating at less than 60 per cent of capacity.

Briefly around the business scene: Owens-Corning Fiberglas Co. says clothing made of fiberglas soon may be a reality. . . . Bell System companies added 600,000 telephones in the three months ended Aug. 31. . . . Corporations declared 58 extra dividends in September 1961. . . . Savings bond redemptions in September increased to $360 million, exceeding sales by $59 million.

2 Wheat Rallies Checked; Bread, Cereal In Gains

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat staged two rallies on the Board of Trade last week and both were checked by profit-taking, but the bread cereal ended the final session with gains over the preceding week.

Wheat futures, which took losses of nearly nine cents a bushel at the extreme in the heaviest selling of the year the previous week, started last week with a sharp gain ranging up to 2 cents.

But the rally was halted when a wave of selling by traders hit the pit in the final minutes of Tuesday's session.

The bread cereal held part of the gains, however, and moved somewhat higher Wednesday and again Thursday. The advance faltered Friday when traders rushed in to take profits.

At its worst, the December contract was down to $2.00¼ a bushel, still fractional above the previous week's close. It reached a high mark during the week of $2.04 and closed at $2.03¾—more than 20 cents a bushel below its high for the year.

Trade was generally light throughout the week, however, and the open interest was reduced only slightly.

Market Finds Support For Slight Gains

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—After a couple of weeks of sharp losses, a groping stock market found some support for prices last week and advanced moderately in light trading.

General market sentiment, however, was so pessimistic that some analysts began to predict an upturn purely on the "theory of contrary opinion" — meaning that the majority is usually wrong, and since most people expect a further collapse, the market is likely to advance.

Amid the glum atmosphere were reports that the amount of short selling is increasing. This is the sale of borrowed stock with the intent of making a profit by repaying the loan with shares bought at lower prices.

The short interest in the market is a two-edged sword. While it reflects bearish opinion, it also means that, if prices should turn upward, many "shorts" would run to "cover" their contracts — buy stock—thus adding force to a rise. So there is a bullish side to short selling, and brokers attributed some of last week's advance to it.

Amid the usual mixed bag of economic news, the outstanding fact about the week's stock market was that prices rebounded from the same level which began a 45-point advance in the Dow Jones industrial average last summer. The rally last week was on very low volume, and therefore unconvincing — but it was closing figure last July 18. Starting from there, the Dow industrials climbed to 616.00 by Aug. 23, then backtracked.

Stocks began the week with a sharp loss Mon., which brought the Dow industrials close to the July 18 low. Buying support materialized there and the list scored Wednesday, however, there seemed no incentive to carry the rally any further and stocks did virtually nothing.

Thursday and Friday the averages moved higher on feeble volume and with short covering credited for much of the improvement.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week rose 7.61 to 586.59.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.8 to 217.7.

Volume shrank to 13,956,680 shares from 18,564,370 the week before and was the lightest since the week ended July 28, when 13,914,661 shares changed hands.

The light volume reflected the fact that the general public was still staying away from the market in droves and that dealings were largely in the hands of professionals.

U.S. Government issues paced the bond markets to another rise during the week. The improvement carried many Treasury bonds close to their highest level of the year.

Corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange carved out a seventh advance in the last eight weeks in the slowest trading of the year. Volume for the week totaled $18,796,000 par value, compared with the previous week's total of $23,112,000.

Weekly Cotton Futures Prices Ease Last Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices eased somewhat in relatively limited turnover on the New York Cotton Exchange this week, closing off 45 cents to $1.80.

The previous week, the range was up 45 to 85 cents.

Weakness came from continued slow exports, talk that next year price supports may be lower and private estimates that the crop may improve. Strength came from short covering in the nearer positions and commission house buying of distant months.

Traders were speculating on the third official forecast on the current crop, due from the Department of Agriculture Monday. Some sources guessed it will be about 100,000 bales higher than the Sept. 1 estimate of 14,687,000 bales.

Trade talk also included reports that domestic consumption will run about 8.6 million bales, against earlier estimates of 8.8 million, and that exports will total only 5 million, instead of the 5.2 million projected previously.

Last week, exports ran about 47,000 bales, the Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimates. That compares with 33,000 a week earlier and 61,000 a year ago.

Minimum Milk Prices Released Under State Law

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Minimum prices that processors will pay dairy farmers, who are regulated under state order No. 2, for Class I and Class II milk have been released by Dave L. Pearce, state commissioner of agriculture.

"Dairy farmers will be paid a minimum price for October of $6.34 for 4.0 per cent milk and the Class I butterfat differential for the month is .070," Pearce explained. "The Class II minimum price to be paid dairy farmers for September is $3.25 and the Class II butterfat differential is .064."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Travel, History Books Are Added

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library in the past week, show a preponderance of travel and history titles. However, there are interesting new books in other fields as well.

Those who like to read mystery stories will be happy to know that there is a new title by Agatha Christie, called "The Pale Horse." This is different from many of her other works, but it is just as ingenious and exciting as the best of them. This story deals with a priest who was murdered on the way home from the death bed of one of his Parishoners, who had revealed to him a startling secret. The only clue to his death was a list of names, which detective Mark Easterbrook used as a starting point. How he unravelled this mystery makes exciting reading. For readers of western stories there is a new title "The Walking Hills" by Cliff Farrell.

A valuable reference book is the "Catholic Bookman's Guide" compiled by Sister Mary Regis. This should be valuable to all of that faith. At last a book has been published giving all the facts of the "U-2 Affair." The authors are Davis Wise and Thomas Ross and they have given a good presentation of the facts. T. A. Wise is the author of a book which should interest all who have a stake in the world of high finance. The title is "The Insiders;" a stockholder's guide to Wall Street. A beautiful new book, which came to the library as a memorial gift is "Public gardens and Arboretums of the United States" by Martha Roberts. The illustrations are beautiful and it is a book which should be widely used.

Bradley Smith is one of our foremost modern writers on the subject of history. He has done a historical recreation of the voyages of Columbus, which he calls "Columbus in the New World." It is well done and should be of interest to all students of American history. "High in the Thin Cold Air" is the title of Sir Edmund Hillary's new book which tells about his latest Himalayan expedition. In June I was fortunate enough to hear Sir Edmund speak at the meeting of the American Library Association in Miami. I considered his talk the high spot of the conference. He showed slides and told about this expedition. The book contains the same information. He is an intrepid explorer and an excellent speaker. The book should make exciting reading. This expedition was sponsored by the World Book Encyclopedia and he had every resource for good photography and reporting.

Another perfectly beautiful book is "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy" written by Perry Wolff. The pictures are beautiful and it is a joy to see all of the lovely things in the White House. Another lovely book is "The Alaska Book" which is a complete story of our most northern state. It is profusely illustrated and will be invaluable. An exciting story of suspense and intrigue, which is also true is "I Was an NKVD Agent" written by Anatoli Granovsky. This is the story of a man, trained in all of the descipicable practices of the Russian Security Police, who finally took stock of himself and saw what he had become. He fled from Russia and has been living in hiding ever since. This is his story and has food for thought for all of us. An interesting addition to the literature of the Revolutionary War is "The Battle of Bunker Hill" by Richard M. Ketchum. This is an exciting narrative which skillfully recreats the mood of the times. It is well worth your attention. The latest title in the History of the South, which is being published by the L.S.U. press is "The Development of Southern Sectionalism, 1819-1848" by Charles S. Sydnor. It is a fine piece of scholarly research and we are happy to have it in our collection.

The latest title in the series being published by Life Magazine and called "Life Nature Library" is "The Poles." It is a beautiful book of information about the North and South Poles and is profusely illustrated. "Letters to a Friend; 1950-1952" the autobiography of Rose Macaulay, a novelist who was very popular in the early years of this century. Adela Roger St. John has written the biography of her father, Earl Rogers and calls it "The Final Verdict." It is the exciting story of life and career of one of the more famous criminal lawyers and is exceedingly interesting.

On October 1, the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library had reached the figure of 77,539 books. There is a steady gain and each month we are drawing close to the standard of one book per person. In the first nine months of 1962 a total of 342,536 books have been borrowed from the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This is exactly 31,379 more books than were circulated last year in the same period and is more than we circulated in any entire year, prior to 1961. The use of the Library is growing constantly and the Board of Control, Librarian and staff are doing everything possible to make it more valuable for you, the patrons.

NO PARKING PROBLEM

Pedaling To Work Has Advantages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pedal to work. Save gas. Beat the parking problem. Keep in good physical condition.

In a nutshell, that's the case for switching from four wheels to two—from auto to bicycle.

Why not? From Italy to Denmark they do it. At the start and end of the work day, there are as many bicycles as autos on the roads.

On university campuses students find a bike is the way to cover a half-mile between two classes in the alloted 10 minutes.

A suburbanite with 15 miles to negotiate to work every morning may object that biking would get him to the office in time for lunch and ready for a long nap. But how about cycling only as far as the train station or bus stop?

Whip right by the cars creeping bumper-to-bumper in low gear, roll up to the terminal, lock your bike in the wooden rack the city fathers are only too happy to provide, and consider how to spend the money you didn't pay the parking lot.

Although bicycling may seem impractical to most commuters, it could be a simple solution to the "first leg" problem that confronts mass transit planners. The problem is how to get suburbanites from their homes to a train or express bus without starting them out in their cars and thereby tempting them to drive all the way into the city.

One suggestion is a local pick-up bus. A more ambitious variation is combing local pick-up vehicles at a central point and towing them into the city, a sort of bus-train. A third idea which federal mass transit planners are considering is locating the rail or bus terminal between two suburbs. Presumably land would then be available at reasonable cost for all-day parking. In town it would be too costly.

Fringe Benefits Bulletin Is Put Out At College

RUSTON (Special) — "Fringe Benefits in the Plastics Industry" is the title of a bulletin just published by the department of research of the School of Business Administration at Louisiana Tech.

The study was prepared by Dr. Jack N. Thornhill while he was an assistant professor of economics at Tech. Dr. Thornhill resigned his position here to accept a teaching post at Lamar Tech this semester.

The monograph is based upon a dissertation submitted by the author in partial fulfillment of requirements for the Ph. D. degree in economics at Louisiana State University.

In the study, an attempt was made to survey only the segment of industrial relations in the plastics industry dealing with fringe benefits. Personal interviews, mails questionnaires and union contracts were used. Managements and union officials stated that the survey is fairly representative of the industry, according to the foreword of the publication.

"The growth of fringe benefits for labor in American industries has been spectacular since World War II," the study points out. "Today, these benefits constitute a large part of total labor costs."

Summarizing his findings, Dr. Thornhill said "extensive fringe benefits were found in the 26 plastics firms surveyed. Paid vacation plans and hospitalization and surgical plans were found in all firms and all of the firms except one had a group life insurance plan. All but three companies had some form of a retirement pension system and seven companies had a savings plan."

Graduate Work Scholarship Is Given Rustonite

RUSTON (Special) — Robert William Upchurch, Jr., of Ruston, a 1962 graduate of Louisiana Tech, has been awarded a $300 scholarship for graduate work at the college here.

Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society of which Upchurch is a member, made the award.

Upchurch, received a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering at Tech in June and is working on a master's degree in the same field.

His college activities included business manager of the "Tech Engineer," chaplain and scholarship chairman of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, council member of the Tau Beta Pi, president of the Louisiana Tech Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa and membership in Phi Kappa Phi.

Petroleum Demands Continue

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Demand for petroleum products outside the United States continues to boom.

Consumption in other areas is gaining rapidly and may surpass U. S. demand within another five years.

This would be in line with other postwar trends which have seen foreign reserves and production pass those of the United States.

Domestic demand for crude oil and natural gas liquids increased 974,000 barrels a day the past five years but total demand in all other areas jumped more than 4,000,000 barrels a day.

World Oil magazine forecasts another sharp gain by other nations this year. Domestic demand is expected to average a record 10,163,000 barrels daily, an increase of 392,000, but other areas are expected to require 14,740,000 barrles, an increase of 1,217,000.

The magazine's 1963 special report on the world oil market says U.S. demand this year will amount to only 40.8 per cent of total world demand for crude and gas liquids, compared to a dominant 63.2 per cent in 1951.

Other areas are expected to consume 59.2 per cent of 1962's total demand, compared to only 36.8 per cent in 1951.

"As nations become more industrialized, higher oil and gas consumption per capita results," the special report said. "Many regions of the world are starting to build good roads and automobiles, start mechanized farming, install heating equipment."

The growth in the number of registered automobiles was cited as an example.

Privately owned automobiles in the free world outside the U. S. increased from 12 to 32 million the past 10 years.

"Significantly, the increment of 20 million almost matched the U. S. gain of 21 million," World Oil said. "Outside the U. S. the number of people per car is still high, but is falling rapidly — from 120 to 52 in the past decade."

The increased use of automobiles in foreign areas was described as having a major impact on energy requirements other than motor fuel.

"There is a great deal of associated economic and industrial activity," the report said. "Demand is thereby stimulated in all major energy markets."

Editors of the magazine believe total world energy consumption by 1970 may be equal to 65 million barrels of oil daily, 21 million a day more than in 1960.

"Energy consumption currently is about equally divided between the U. S. and the rest of the free world but 10 years from now the consumption rate abroad may exceed this country by the equivalent of 4 million barrels of oil a day," the special report said.

Investments in foreign oil operations have accompanied the increases in foreign reserves, production and demand.

The free world spent $3.7 billion in 1951 for finding and developing crude oil and natural gas reserves. All but 19.6 per cent was spent in the United States.

Expenditure for such operations in 1960 exceeded $6.5 billion with 35.6 per cent of it going into foreign areas.

OIL, GAS ACTIVITY

19 Completions Reported In Area

Lingering summer weather apparently cooperated last week to keep drilling in the Monroe Oil and Gas District at high levels. District Manager Duncan S. Cook reported 19 completions over the 14 parish area, complemented by the spotting of 25 new locations.

Ouachita Parish contributed in each category but failed to account for any of a reported 36 wells active in drilling or testing in the area.

Four Ouachita Parish finals during the week, all relatively shallow gas producers in the Monroe Field, around 2200 feet in depth, compared with eight similar wells in the Union Parish Monroe Field. Cook listed completions as well in Avoyelles, Catahoula, Concordia and Tensas Parishes.

Of new locations, the Twin Cities area accounted for four, again all in the Monroe Field, while Catahoula Parish recorded stakings in a total of nine instances. Other new locations were in Caldwell, Concordia, Franklin, LaSalle, Tensas and Union Parishes.

Most active wells were in Tensas Parish with 11 rigs shown drilling; eight were in LaSalle and four in Catahoula, and accounted for the bulk of three dozen reported.

Here's the weekly breakdown with other details on new district activity::

Petroleum Demands Continue

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Demand for petroleum products outside the United States continues to boom.

Consumption in other areas is gaining rapidly and may surpass U. S. demand within another five years.

This would be in line with other postwar trends which have seen foreign reserves and production pass those of the United States.

Domestic demand for crude oil and natural gas liquids increased 974,000 barrels a day the past five years but total demand in all other areas jumped more than 4,000,000 barrels a day.

World Oil magazine forecasts another sharp gain by other nations this year. Domestic demand is expected to average a record 10,163,000 barrels daily, an increase of 392,000, but other areas are expected to require 14,740,000 barrles, an increase of 1,217,000.

The magazine's 1963 special report on the world oil market says U.S. demand this year will amount to only 40.8 per cent of total world demand for crude and gas liquids, compared to a dominant 63.2 per cent in 1951.

Other areas are expected to consume 59.2 per cent of 1962's total demand, compared to only 36.8 per cent in 1951.

"As nations become more industrialized, higher oil and gas consumption per capita results," the special report said. "Many regions of the world are starting to build good roads and automobiles, start mechanized farming, install heating equipment."

The growth in the number of registered automobiles was cited as an example.

Privately owned automobiles in the free world outside the U. S. increased from 12 to 32 million the past 10 years.

"Significantly, the increment of 20 million almost matched the U. S. gain of 21 million," World Oil said. "Outside the U. S. the number of people per car is still high, but is falling rapidly — from 120 to 52 in the past decade."

The increased use of automobiles in foreign areas was described as having a major impact on energy requirements other than motor fuel.

"There is a great deal of associated economic and industrial activity," the report said. "Demand is thereby stimulated in all major energy markets."

Editors of the magazine believe total world energy consumption by 1970 may be equal to 65 million barrels of oil daily, 21 million a day more than in 1960.

"Energy consumption currently is about equally divided between the U. S. and the rest of the free world but 10 years from now the consumption rate abroad may exceed this country by the equivalent of 4 million barrels of oil a day," the special report said.

Investments in foreign oil operations have accompanied the increases in foreign reserves, production and demand.

The free world spent $3.7 billion in 1951 for finding and developing crude oil and natural gas reserves. All but 19.6 per cent was spent in the United States.

Expenditure for such operations in 1960 exceeded $6.5 billion with 35.6 per cent of it going into foreign areas.

Larco Tests Continue In Production

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Production tests continued Saturday at Larco Drilling Company, Best Oil Co. and E. B. Launius — No. 1 Whittington, sec. 4-2n-5e, Amite County wildcat, in an effort to complete the well as a new discovery.

Operators perforated at 11,295-303 feet with the well reported swabbing at the rate of approximately 90 barrels of oil per day.

The potential new field find is located approximately two miles southwest of the East Fork field.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, a new wildcat test is scheduled for Chickasaw County. Blanco Oil company and Fairfield Oil Co., Inc., are rigging up at their unit No. 33-1, sec. 33-13s-4e, located seven miles east of Houston. The nearest producing area is the Trebloc field located approximately five miles southwest of the new start.

Sun Oil Co. is drilling below 9,600 feet in its important Jeff Davis County wildcat, the Dyess No. 1, sec. 29-6n-17w, located three miles south of Bassfield. The test is scheduled for 14,500 feet.

Placid Oil Co. has abandoned its Hinds County wildcat, the Cook No. 1, sec. 35-6n-1w, near the western city limits of Jackson. The well was drilled to total depth of 6,218 feet with no shows logged.

In the Bentonia field of Yazoo County, Humble Oil & Regining Co. is drilling below 7,300 feet in its Bentonia Unit No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w, a 10,700 foot test.

In the sand hill area of Greene County, Cities Service Petroleum Co. is below 7,300 feet in its wildcat, the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w. The well scheduled for 13,000 feet.

In Rankin County, American Petrofina Company of Texas is preparing to spud its wildcat, the Rhodes-Sowell No. 1, sec. 18-5n-5e, scheduled for 11,500 feet.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. is continuing to test its Maxie Gas Unit SE-61, sec. 18-1n-12w, located in the Maxie field of Forrest County. The venture is the first deep test to be drilled on the south side of the major fault at Maxie, and it is reported operators are testing a zone below 10,000 feet. It also is reported operators will test one more zone in an effort to complete as a producer.

Field drilling during the past week saw five new oilers completed.

In the Knox field of Marion County, Charles F. Hayes & J. B. Furrh Jr., completed their Rinkle No. 1, sec. 14-2n-12e, pumping 120 barrels of oil per day from 9,644-57 feet.

At Chapparral in Wayne County, Humble Oil & Regining Co. completed a pair of producers. The Chaparral unit No. 18-7, sec. 18-10n-6w, flowed 101 barrels of oil per day from 8,866-81 feet.

In the Junction field of Clarke County, Humble finaled its Harrow No. 1, sec. 24-2n-16e, pumping 92 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 3,714-3,737 feet.

IMPROVE PLANTS

Businessmen Given New Tax Incentive

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress gave businessmen a tax incentive to enlarge and modernize their plants during the week, and a business leader and two economists called for tax cuts to stimulate the economy.

As a result, taxes—always a sure-fire subject—dominated the business news.

And it was a week in which a big West Coast steel producer cut prices, and a longshoremen's strike paralyzed ports from Maine to the Gulf of Mexico before being halted by a restraining order.

Final congressional action sent President Kennedy's drastically revised tax bill to the White House for signature.

The legislation's main provision allows a seven per cent income tax credit on money spent for plant and equipment. It was estimated this would mean a $1.3 billion jog for the economy.

However, Congress withdrew one of Kennedy's key requests, a withholding tax on interest and dividends.

To defray some of the loss of revenue because of the tax incentive, Congress tightened rules on business entertainment and travel deductions; increased taxes on mutual savings banks, savings and loan associations, mutual fire and casualty companies, and cooperatives.

Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel Corp., speaking to the New York State Chamber of Commerce, urged an overhaul of the tax system. He said the present personal income and corporate tax structure has seriously limited the future growth potential of the U.S. economy.

He contended that the federal government could increase its tax revenues by revising existing tax laws and relying less heavily on the present corporate and personal income levies.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, also said a reduction of personal and corporate income was needed to keep the economy advancing.

He told the Mortgage Bankers Association of America in Chicago that the administration's tax program—to be submitted to Congress at its next session—would be aimed at increasing consumer's spending money, stimulating investment in inventories, plants and equipment, and increasing profit margins.

Heller's predecessor in the Eisenhower administration, Raymond J. Saulnier, joined in the call for a tax cut in a speech to the Savings Bank Association of New York.

He said that, "Unless something comes along to give the economy a thrust, the near-term outlook is not a promising one."

As for the state of the economy, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York said it seems to be marking time, and the First National City Bank of New York said activity apparently has leveled off on a high plateau.

Kaiser Steel Co. of Oakland, Calif., the country's ninth-ranking producer, slashed prices an average of $12 a ton as a means of meeting domestic and Japanese competition. Steel traditionally has brought a higher price in the West than in the East.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Jones & Laughlin and National said they would adjust their prices to remain competitive but they face high freight costs to reach the Western market.

The longshoremen's strike in a wage dispute tied up shipping along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts from Monday to Thursday but President Kennedy, acting under the Taft-Hartley law, went to court and obtained an order requiring an 80-day, cooling-off period.

The nation's unemployment total fell by 420,000 in September to 3,512,000, but the idle rate remained at 5.8 per cent of the labor force.

An increase among job-seeking women and a rise in the number of unemployed teen-agers held the rate at the high level of August, the Labor Department said. Total employment dropped by 1.1 million to 68,668,000 but the decline from August was greater than expected.

The Commerce Department estimated new construction in September at $5.9 billion, up seven per cent from a year earlier.

Business inventories declined by $260 million in August to $96.9 billion in the first drop since the recession period of 1960-61.

Department store sales last week posted a 3 per cent gain over the like week of 1961, and September sales were six per cent higher than a year earlier, the federal reserve board reported.

Automakers boosted their production to an estimated 153,000 passenger cars during the week from 147,254 the preceding week. With early sales of 1963 models reported good, they scheduled output of 700,000 cars this month, which would be a record for October.

Steel production during the week climbed for the third straight week to 1,766,000 tons, up three per cent from the previous week. Even so, mills still were operating at less than 60 per cent of capacity.

Briefly around the business scene: Owens-Corning Fiberglas Co. says clothing made of fiberglas soon may be a reality. . . . Bell System companies added 600,000 telephones in the three months ended Aug. 31. . . . Corporations declared 58 extra dividends in September 1961. . . . Savings bond redemptions in September increased to $360 million, exceeding sales by $59 million.

2 Wheat Rallies Checked; Bread, Cereal In Gains

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat staged two rallies on the Board of Trade last week and both were checked by profit-taking, but the bread cereal ended the final session with gains over the preceding week.

Wheat futures, which took losses of nearly nine cents a bushel at the extreme in the heaviest selling of the year the previous week, started last week with a sharp gain ranging up to 2 cents.

But the rally was halted when a wave of selling by traders hit the pit in the final minutes of Tuesday's session.

The bread cereal held part of the gains, however, and moved somewhat higher Wednesday and again. Thursday. The advance faltered Friday when traders rushed in to take profits.

At its worst, the December contract was down to $2.00¼ a bushel, still fractional above the previous week's close. It reached a high mark during the week of $2.04 and closed at $2.03¾—more than 20 cents a bushel below its high for the year.

Trade was generally light throughout the week, however, and the open interest was reduced only slightly.

Market Finds Support For Slight Gains

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—After a couple of weeks of sharp losses, a groping stock market found some support for prices last week and advanced moderately in light trading.

General market sentiment, however, was so pessimistic that some analysts began to predict an upturn purely on the "theory of contrary opinion" — meaning that the majority is usually wrong, and since most people expect a further collapse, the market is likely to advance.

Amid the glum atmosphere were reports that the amount of short selling is increasing. This is the sale of borrowed stock with the intent of making a profit by repaying the loan with shares bought at lower prices.

The short interest in the market is a two-edged sword. While it reflects bearish opinion, it also means that, if prices should turn upward, many "shorts" would run to "cover" their contracts — buy stock—thus adding force to a rise. So there is a bullish side to short selling, and brokers attributed some of last week's advance to it.

Amid the usual mixed bag of economic news, the outstanding fact about the week's stock market was that prices rebounded from the same level which began a 45-point advance in the Dow Jones industrial average last summer. The rally last week was on very low volume, and therefore unconvincing — but it was closing figure last July 18. Starting from there, the Dow industrials climbed to 616.00 by Aug. 23, then backtracked.

Stocks began the week with a sharp loss Mon., which brought the Dow industrials close to the July 18 low. Buying support materialized there and the list scored Wednesday, however, there seemed no incentive to carry the rally any further and stocks did virtually nothing.

Thursday and Friday the averages moved higher on feeble volume and with short covering credited for much of the improvement.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week rose 7.61 to 586.59.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.8 to 217.7.

Volume shrank to 13,956,680 shares from 18,564,370 the week before and was the lightest since the week ended July 28, when 13,914,661 shares changed hands.

The light volume reflected the fact that the general public was still staying away from the market in droves and that dealings were largely in the hands of professionals.

U.S. Government issues paced the bond markets to another rise during the week. The improvement carried many Treasury bonds close to their highest level of the year.

Corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange carved out a seventh advance in the last eight weeks in the slowest trading of the year. Volume for the week totaled $18,796,000 par value, compared with the previous week's total of $23,112,000.

Weekly Cotton Futures Prices Ease Last Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices eased somewhat in relatively limited turnover on the New York Cotton Exchange this week, closing off 45 cents to $1.80.

The previous week, the range was up 45 to 85 cents.

Weakness came from continued slow exports, talk that next year price supports may be lower and private estimates that the crop may improve. Strength came from short covering in the nearer positions and commission house buying of distant months.

Traders were speculating on the third official forecast on the current crop, due from the Department of Agriculture Monday. Some sources guessed it will be about 100,000 bales higher than the Sept. 1 estimate of 14,687,000 bales.

Trade talk also included reports that domestic consumption will run about 8.6 million bales, against earlier estimates of 8.8 million, and that exports will total only 5 million, instead of the 5.2 million projected previously.

Last week, exports ran about 47,000 bales, the Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimates. That compares with 33,000 a week earlier and 61,000 a year ago.

Minimum Milk Prices Released Under State Law

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Minimum prices that processors will pay dairy farmers, who are regulated under state order No. 2, for Class I and Class II milk have been released by Dave L. Pearce, state commissioner of agriculture.

"Dairy farmers will be paid a minimum price for October of $6.34 for 4.0 per cent milk and the Class I butterfat differential for the month is .070." Pearce explained. "The Class II minimum price to be paid dairy farmers for September is $3.25 and the Class II butterfat differential is .064."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Travel, History Books Are Added

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library in the past week, show a preponderance of travel and history titles. However, there are interesting new books in other fields as well.

Those who like to read mystery stories will be happy to know that there is a new title by Agatha Christie, called "The Pale Horse." This is different from many of her other works, but it is just as ingenious and exciting as the best of them. This story deals with a priest who was murdered on the way home from the death bed of one of his Parishoners, who had revealed to him a startling secret. The only clue to his death was a list of names, which detective Mark Easterbrook used as a starting point. How he unravelled this mystery makes exciting reading. For readers of western stories there is a new title "The Walking Hills" by Cliff Farrell.

A valuable reference book is the "Catholic Bookman's Guide" compiled by Sister Mary Regis. This should be valuable to all of that faith. At last a book has been published giving all the facts of the "U-2 Affair." The authors are Davis Wise and Thomas Ross and they have given a good presentation of the facts. T. A. Wise is the author of a book which should interest all who have a stake in the world of high finance. The title is "The Insiders;" a stockholder's guide to Wall Street. A beautiful new book, which came to the library as a memorial gift is "Public gardens and Arboretums of the United States" by Martha Roberts. The illustrations are beautiful and it is a book which should be widely used.

Bradley Smith is one of our foremost modern writers on the subject of history. He has done a historical recreation of the voyages of Columbus, which he calls "Columbus in the New World." It is well done and should be of interest to all students of American history. "High in the Thin Cold Air" is the title of Sir Edmund Hillary's new book which tells about his latest Himalayan expedition. In June I was fortunate enough to hear Sir Edmund speak at the meeting of the American Library Association in Miami. I considered his talk the high spot of the conference. He showed slides and told about this expedition. The book contains the same information. He is an intrepid explorer and an excellent speaker. The book should make exciting reading. This expedition was sponsored by the World Book Encyclopedia and he had every resource for good photography and reporting.

Another perfectly beautiful book is "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy" written by Perry Wolff. The pictures are beautiful and it is a joy to see all of the lovely things in the White House. Another lovely book is "The Alaska Book" which is a complete story of our most northern state. It is profusely illustrated and will be invaluable. An exciting story of suspense and intrigue, which is also true is "I Was an NKVD Agent" written by Anatoli Granovsky. This is the story of a man, trained in all of the descipicable practices of the Russian Security Police, who finally took stock of himself and saw what he had become. He fled from Russia and has been living in hiding ever since. This is his story and has food for thought for all of us. An interesting addition to the literature of the Revolutionary War is "The Battle of Bunker Hill" by Richard M. Ketchum. This is an exciting narrative which skillfully recreats the mood of the times. It is well worth your attention. The latest title in the History of the South, which is being published by the L.S.U. press is "The Development of Southern Sectionalism, 1819-1848" by Charles S. Sydnor. It is a fine piece of scholarly research and we are happy to have it in our collection.

The latest title in the series being published by Life Magazine and called "Life Nature Library" is "The Poles." It is a beautiful book of information about the North and South Poles and is profusely illustrated. "Letters to a Friend; 1950-1952" the autobiography of Rose Macaulay, a novelist who was very popular in the early years of this century. Adela Roger St. John has written the biography of her father, Earl Rogers and calls it "The Final Verdict." It is the exciting story of life and career of one of the more famous criminal lawyers and is exceedingly interesting.

On October 1, the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library had reached the figure of 77,539 books. There is a steady gain and each month we are drawing close to the standard of one book per person. In the first nine months of 1962 a total of 342,536 books have been borrowed from the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This is exactly 31,379 more books than were circulated last year in the same period and is more than we circulated in any entire year, prior to 1961. The use of the Library is growing constantly and the Board of Control, Librarian and staff are doing everything possible to make it more valuable for you, the patrons.

NO PARKING PROBLEM

Pedaling To Work Has Advantages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pedal to work. Save gas. Beat the parking problem. Keep in good physical condition.

In a nutshell, that's the case for switching from four wheels to two —from auto to bicycle.

Why not? From Italy to Denmark they do it. At the start and end of the work day, there are as many bicycles as autos on the roads.

On university campuses students find a bike is the way to cover a half-mile between two classes in the alloted 10 minutes.

A suburbanite with 15 miles to negotiate to work every morning may object that biking would get him to the office in time for lunch and ready for a long nap. But how about cycling only as far as the train station or bus stop?

Whip right by the cars creeping bumper-to-bumper in low gear, roll up to the terminal, lock your bike in the wooden rack the city fathers are only too happy to provide, and consider how to spend the money you didn't pay the parking lot.

Although bicycling may seem impractical to most commuters, it could be a simple solution to the "first leg" problem that confronts mass transit planners. The problem is how to get suburbanites from their homes to a train or express bus without starting them out in their cars and thereby tempting them to drive all the way into the city.

One suggestion is a local pick-up bus. A more ambitious variation is combing local pick-up vehicles at a central point and towing them into the city, a sort of bus-train. A third idea which federal mass transit planners are considering is locating the rail or bus terminal between two suburbs. Presumably land would then be available at reasonable cost for all-day parking. In town it would be too costly.

Fringe Benefits Bulletin Is Put Out At College

RUSTON (Special) — "Fringe Benefits in the Plastics Industry" is the title of a bulletin just published by the department of research of the School of Business Administration at Louisiana Tech.

The study was prepared by Dr. Jack N. Thornhill while he was an assistant professor of economics at Tech. Dr. Thornhill resigned his position here to accept a teaching post at Lamar Tech this semester.

The monograph is based upon a dissertation submitted by the author in partial fulfillment of requirements for the Ph. D. degree in economics at Louisiana State University.

In the study, an attempt was made to survey only the segment of industrial relations in the plastics industry dealing with fringe benefits. Personal interviews, mails questionnaires and union contracts were used. Managements and union officials stated that the survey is fairly representative of the industry, according to the foreword of the publication.

"The growth of fringe benefits for labor in American industries has been spectacular since World War II," the study points out. "Today, these benefits constitute a large part of total labor costs."

Summarizing his findings, Dr. Thornhill said "extensive fringe benefits were found in the 26 plastics firms surveyed. Paid vacation plans and hospitalization and surgical plans were found in all firms and all of the firms except one had a group life insurance plan. All but three companies had some form of a retirement pension system and seven companies had a savings plan."

Graduate Work Scholarship Is Given Rustonite

RUSTON (Special) — Robert William Upchurch, Jr., of Ruston, a 1962 graduate of Louisiana Tech, has been awarded a $300 scholarship for graduate work at the college here.

Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society of which Upchurch is a member, made the award.

Upchurch, received a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering at Tech in June and is working on a master's degree in the same field.

His college activities included business manager of the "Tech Engineer," chaplain and scholarship chairman of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, council member of the Tau Beta Pi, president of the Louisiana Tech Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa and membership in Phi Kappa Phi.

H. Lachman Is Back At Old Stand

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— The man who shot Shirley Temple to movie stardom is back at the old stand selling a different kind of picture.

Harry Lachman, a post-impressionist, gets up to $10,000 a painting. Hollywood, which didn't always appreciate his celluloid talents as a director, is buying him on canvas.

It's difficult to realize he's old—75 or 76—this gentle, little man whose talents have whetted the artistic tastes of two generations. White-haired and slightly bent, he has the eyes and outlook of a man 40 years his junior.

"What does it matter how old your are?" Lachman asked offhandedly, declining to compute his age exactly.

Yes, what does it matter when you have as much to look forward to—and back on—as Lachman? Five careers.

Orphaned at 8, he illustrated covers for the Saturday Evening Post before he was 20.

Illustration work didn't pay enough for a trip to France where Lachman wanted to study painting.

WON CONTEST

He won a drawing contest by having a picture taken and touching it up to look like a painting—and used the money to buy a camera.

He quickly earned up to $500 per photo assignment in the Chicago area.

Lachman headed for France, his savings sufficiently bolstered after a year of camera work. With never a formal lesson, he began painting.

The French government bought four of his paintings for the Louvre, the first American so honored since Whistler.

AMUSEMENTS

NATALIE WOOD and George Chakiris star in the Academy Award winning "West Side Story" in Technicolor which is now showing at the downtown Paramount Theatre.

CONCERT

NEW YORK (UPI) — A successful performance of Beethoven's only opera, "Fidelio," depend more upon the perception of the conductor than of all the singers put together, and the newest "Fidelio" recording had to be a tremendous success because Otto Klemperer was its conductor.

His surpassing reputation as a Beethoven conductor is well deserved as you'll realize when you listen to this aural performance of an opera which usually has little to recommend it. But aurally it is more than merely persuasive. It is compelling.

Klemperer had the sensitivity to treat the singing voices as though they were instruments of the orchestra. He wraps them into the orchestral score and creates a sound tapestry notable for wholeness and beauty.

The singers were Christa Ludwig, Jon Vickers, Bottlob Frick and Walter Berry and they were backed by the Philharmonic Orchestra and Chorus of London. The recording technicians did especially well in capturing the big sounds stereophonically. (Angel 3625)

Metropolitan Opera patrons will listen to a new recording of Puccini's "La Boheme" with a sense of regret — that its conductor, Erich Leinsdorf, has left their house to become music director of the Boston Symphony.

Leinsdorf conducted the recording in the Rome Opera during the summer but it is almost an all - Metropolitan cast. Richard Tucker was the Rodolfo, and there probably isn't a more effective one in opera today. And the Mimi was Anna Moffo who last season came into her own as one of the brightest of the younger stars.

The other Met stars in the cast were Robert Merrill as Marcello and Giorgio Tozzi as Colline. The orchestra and chorus were the Rome Opera's.

Leinsdorf's feelings for Puccini are sensitively variegated and always appropos. He knows how to contrast the sweet sorrow with the bright gayety and how to prevent the sentiment from overflowing into maudlin sentimentality. (RCA Victor - 6095)

REAL RINGER

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Rung-A-Ding Rythm" is the final release title for Columbia's musical starring Chubby Checker, The Dukes of Dixieland, Del Shannon and Gary "U.S." Bonds.

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — Si Zentner, Martin Denny and Les Baxter are a powerful musical triumvirate and when you throw in a top - flight arranger such as Bob Florence you have something better than the Quartet from Rigoletto.

All four of these gentlemen have a hand in "Exotica Suite" by Si Zentner and His Orchestra (Liberty LSS-14020).

Zentner, known for his swinging style, plays the exotic sounds of Martin Denny as composed by Baxter and arranged by Florence.

The talents of all four blend smoothly on this suite of exotic music which ranges from tunes like "Bali Monkey Dance" to esoteric numbers such as "Stolen Idol."

The record was made in Liberty's Poly 120 sound technique, which is praiseworthy.

"Night Time" is the name of Mitch Miller's latest sing-along LP (Columbia CL1864). While the title may be confusing, the music isn't. Mitch and his gang give all listeners and joiners - in a good time with oldies ("Sweet Georgia Brown," "Don't Bring Lulu" and a few fairly recent ones.

For Dancers—"More Dance Along With Lopez" by Vincent Lopez and His Hotel Taft Orchestra (M-G-M E 4055) is an exceptionally good LP for dancers with 35 tunes ranging from twist through Dixieland to Mambos.

And how that the football season is with us, "College Songs Everybody Knows" by Jan Garber (Decca DL 74319) is appropriate. One of the greatest dance band leaders of modern times plays standard gridiron fight songs in the style he made part of Americana.

Curtain Call

We are in the process of sending Little Theatre members a bulletin and reservation form for "The Solid Gold Cadillac," which is scheduled to run from October 18 through 22. Members are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to make advance reservations by mail before the box-office opens, as this assures a better choice of seats and relieves the strain on the box - office facilities.

In addition to its regular run, "The Solid Gold Cadillac" will have a Gala Preview on October 17 for patron members and a matinee on October 20 for the annual convention of the Associated General Contractors of Louisiana.

Mrs. J. Hilton Heard, chairman of the Ladies Entertainment Committee for the AGC convention, is in charge of the event. We look forward to making future productions an attraction to help entice conventions to the Twin Cities.

PORTRAITS

Our audiences will find a display of portraits in the Strauss Playhouse lobby, representing the work of Herbert C. Moffett, well-known in this field throughout the south. Most of the paintings will be on loan from local families and will include portraits of Mrs. Jamar Adcock, Miss Carolyn Cordell, Mrs. Haydn Cutler Jr., Mrs. R. W. Dickenhorst, Master Robert D. Ewing IV, Midshipman Courtland P. Gray III, U. S. N. A., J. C. Love Jr., Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery, and Miss Kathy Williams. Mrs. W. G. Haynes Jr., wife of our trustee, made arrangements for the exhibit.

Last Monday's joint meeting of the directors and trustees was well attended. After discussion of committee reports and plans for the coming season, the participants did justice to Mrs. E. B. Ellison's refreshment table.

It gives us great pleasure to salute H. H. "Grandpa" Nobes on his 84th birthday coming up Tuesday. A native of Portsmouth, England, he migrated to New York City in 1907, retired to Monroe in 1943 and ever since has taken an active part in Little Theatre.

Lt. Curtis Rape visited Strauss Playhouse the other night with Sara Womack, Betty Bandy and V. P. Dalrymple. Curtis is now an information officer assigned to the Air Force base at Clovis, N. M.

INFORMATION

Who can put us in touch with the former Miss Gladys Diamond of Rayville who wrote a master's thesis on the Little Theatre of Monroe? We would dearly love to secure a copy for our archives. If you can supply any information, please call Bob Evans at FA 5-3200.

We are grateful to the many stores in the Twin Cities displaying Little Theatre posters which list the season's offerings and the types of membership available. Some 1,500 members have already been tallied, while a last minute surge brought the patron total to 166. So far we are running a little ahead of last year's pace and the membership committee has been kept in high gear.

Little Theatre was represented at the Caldwell Art Festival, Saturday with a membership booth in charge of Mrs. William R. Kitchens, formerly of Columbia. Others scheduled to be on hand were Ruth and Larry Shipman, Marion and Jack McDowell, Judy and Bob Evans, Miss Lallage Feazel, Jan Evans, Marc Bloch, James "Bud" Henry, and technical director, Ray Lucero. The Little Theatre exhibit was designed by Dick Grider.

For the coming school year, the Speech Club at Northeast will have Mike Parkerson as president and Murray Burfford as vice-president. Both have worked in many Little Theatre productions.

'Vanity Fair' Is Source Of Play Material

NEW YORK (AP) — The files of "Vanity Fair" are being used as source material for an untitled musical revue being written by Geoffrey T. Hellman.

The publication, which appeared from 1914 to 1936, specialized in reporting the doings of high society. Hellman plans to base sketches on stories written for it by Noel Coward, Robert Benchley, Ogden Nash and Dorothy Parker.

Stagehand Gets An Opportunity For Play Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Austin, who has been a Broadway stagehand for four years, is getting an on - state opportunity at last.

Austin went into the cast for a tour of "Come Blow Your Horn," later is to appear in "The Matchmaker" on a trip sponsored by the New York State Council on the Arts.

Stovall Sparks LSU's 10-7 Win Over Jackets

Demons Catch Fire Late To Wreck Tribe Homecoming, 18-17

Two Fourth Period TD's Drop Indians

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Northwestern State's "sleeping giants" finally woke up in the fourth quarter to come from two touchdowns behind and ruin Northeast State's homecoming with an 18-17 squeaker before a capacity crowd of 6,000 here Saturday.

Behind 17-6 after three quarters, the result of a fine Northeast first half effort, the Demons who were pre - season picks to win the Gulf States Conference, rallied on scoring marches of 79 and 85-yards behind the running of backs Claude Patrick and Glenn Talbert and the aerial work of sophomore quarterback Don Beasley for the win.

It was the first conference game for either team and moves the Demons, who have been anything but impressive until the fourth quarter Saturday night, to a 2-1-1 season mark. Northeast is now 1-2 for the year.

Patrick, a freshman fullback sensation from Holly Ridge, who was second in Northwestern rushing with 68 - yards on 10 efforts, got the first score in the fourth quarter, crashing over from seven yards out.

Wth 3:20 remaining in the game, Beasley tossed to end Jackie Smith for 17 - yards and the go ahead touchdown. Beasley completed four of six passes for 69-yards and was instrumental in guiding Northwestern to both fourth quarter scores.

Talbert, a junior halfback from Gillis, got off one nice 24-yarder and snared two Beasley aerials in the fourth period fireworks.

Northeast, which played inspirged ball and shoved Northwestern around almost at will for three periods, went in front 7-0 in the first quarter when sohpomore quarterback Ronnie Myrick slipped over from a half - yard out. Myrick, who led both Indian defensive teams, turned in a good job with his option running and play calling.

Quarterback Pete Vincent, who was released from the Mississippi National Guard just in time for the game, added a 24 - yard field goal in the second quarter to give the Indians a 10-0 advantage. Vincent, who started the year as the Indians No. 1 signal caller, was called up because of the Ole Miss integration crisis at Oxford.

A fumble recovery at the Demon seven and Gordon Salsman's seven - yard cross - buck on the next play accounted for the Tribe's next score.

With the count 17-0 for Northeast, Steve Murphy, a junior halfback, took the ball at the Northwestern 14, on the first play from scrimmage, and raced 86 - yards untouched to narrow the count to the 17-6 halftime margin.

Neither team scored in the third quarter and Northwestern appeared badly beaten until the final period explosion.

Freshman halfback Robert Payne paced Northeast rushing with a splendid 60 - yard total in seven attempts. He was followed by junior halfback Ken Newton, who has been a mainstay in the Indian attack all season. Newton picked up 43 yards in 12 runs.

Murphy, was the Demon's leading rusher with 90 - yards on four attempts, virtually all of it coming on that one long touchdown run.

Northwestern returned the opening kickoff to its own 23 and marched the ball from there to the Tribe 39 before Indian end Wendell Drost recovered Beasley's fumble. Eighteen and 16-yard slices by Patrick highlighted the five-play Northwestern drive.

From this point the Indians took over and behind the running of fullback Willie Ragan, tailback Newton and Myrick, sliced 61 yards to scored in 11 plays. Myrick, who also contributed option runs of 10 and seven-yards, got the touchdown from ahalf-yard out with 7:05 left in the quarter. Pete Vincent kicked the extra point. Ragan accounted for gains of nine and 10-yards, while Newton picked up eight on one carry during the march.

Late in the second period Northeast started another drive at its 25. This one went all the way down to the Northwestern 14 where Vincent toed a 24-yard field goal, that boosted Northeast's lead to 10-0 with 8:40 to go in the half. Freshman tailback Robert Payne sparked the drive with gains of eight, 12 and 16-yards.

The Demons returned the kickoff to their 14, and on the first play Murphy went around right end, broke into the clear and went all the way to score standing up. Ed Horton's kick with

98 Yard Run Helps Tigers Bounce Tech

ATLANTA (AP) — Louisiana State struck nationally ranked Georgia Tech with a thunderbolt named Jerry Stovall Saturday then turned a 24-yard field goal by Lynn Amedee into a 10-7 Southeastern Conference football upset.

Stovall returned the second-half kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown. Then, after Tech had tied the score on a 73-yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter, Stovall positioned LSU for its winning field goal by picking up 18 yards to the Tech 12 in the clo ing minutes.

	LSU	GA. TECH.
First downs	8	12
Rushing yardage	133	63
Passing yardage	39	145
Passes	4-8	14-30
Passes intercepted by	3	0
Punts	11-33.6	7-43.7
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	44	10

It was the first loss of the season in three games for Tech, No. 5 in the nation in the Associated Press poll. For LSU, undefeated since the 1961 season opener, it represented a tremendous comeback after last week's 6-6 tie with Rice.

The nationally televised game was a superb defensive show until the 195-pound Stovall fielded the kickoff two yards from his goal and outlegged everybody into the Tech end zone 98 yards away.

Quarterback Billy Lothridge steered the Yellow Jackets on a spectacular drive that covered 73 yards in nine plays and hit end Billy Martin with a 10-yard scoring pass.

Martin also caught passes for 15 and 12 yards on the drive, and fullback Ray Mendheim ran for 19 yards on a key play.

LSU fullback Charles Cranford returned the ensuing kickoff 45 yards to Tech's 45 and fumbled when tackled by Lothridge. Ray Wilkins recovered for LSU, however, and the bristling Bengal Tigers were in business for their winning drive. Stovall took a short pass from amedee near the Tech 30 and bulled his way to the 14.

Three plays later, with 4 minutes and 22 seconds left to play, Amedee kicked the decisive field goal.

Lothridge kept pitching and came within a whisker of pulling it out for Tech on the next to the last play. His long pass to ace Joe Auer was juggled and dropped by the halfback in the clear at the LSU 15.

LSU beat Tech here 17 years ago, and in 1945 it was also a field goal that turned the trick.

Lothridge missed a 40-yard field goal early in the third quarter ending a Tech drive that had carried to the LSU 17.

A 29-yard pass from Lothridge to end Ted Davis helped Tech drive to the LSU 32 in the first minutes, but Lothridge fumbled on a pitchout and the seven-yard loss killed the threat.

LSU daring paid off and triggered a 75-yard Tiger drive which spilled over into the second quarter and carried LSU to the Tech seven before Martin recovered Stovall's fumble.

With fourth down and inches to go at the LSU 27, the Tigers gambled, and Amedee plunged for five yards. Five plays later, Stovall took a pitchout and raced 23 yards to the Tech 24. Stovall later got vital fourth-down yardage to the Tech 12 before the fumble blunted the threat.

LSU's iron defense left Tech with a net of minus one yard rushing in the first half. Tremendous punting by Lothridge kept Tech out of hot water except for the one deep LSU penetration before intermission.

ON LONG TD RUNS

Texas Rips Tulane, 35-8 For 3rd Straight Victory

By KYLE THOMPSON

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The University of Texas used the long run to smash Tulane University 35-8 Saturday night for the third straight win by the No. 3 ranked Longhorns.

Texas, favored by at least three touchdowns over the winless Green Wave, scored twice in quick succession in the first period, including a 66-yard punt return by wingback Ernie Koy.

The Longhorns struck for three more in the last half.

Tulane's only score came in the final period when alternate quarterback Ron Melton began hitting from the Greenie's newly-launched shotgun spread offense. Melton passed to sophomore back Jim Davis for the score after driving 71 yards in eight plays.

Longhorn rookie backs Charles Buckalew and Harold Phillipp, playing for the first time in a varsity game for Texas, were instrumental in the second half splurge by Texas that accounted for 22 points.

Buckalew broke through center midway in the third period for a 59-yard run that set up a one-yard scoring plunge by fullback Pat Culpepper. That Phillipp and quarterback Duke Carlisle alternated with Buckalew to drive 63 yards in 11 plays with Buckalew going over just before the period ended.

Back Joe Dixon intercepted a Melton pass on the Texas 43 to set up the Longhorns' final touchdown in the fourth period. Quarterback Tommy Wade completed 14 and 13-yard passes to highlight the 56 yard drive and scored on an end sweep from the two.

Texas was playing without the benefit of All-America candidate fullback Ray Poage, who was out because of a shoulder injury.

But the Longhorns came through to keep the Greenies off balance. One Texas touchdown that came off a 94-yard punt return by tailback Tommy Ford at the opening of the second period was nullified by a roughing penalty.

Texas gained a net of 241 on the ground and held Tulane to 72. But the Greenies out-passed the Longhorns, 173 yards to 74.

TOMMY FORD (24), Texas tailback returned a Tulane punt 95 yards in the second quarter of Saturday night's game in Austin, Tex, but the play was nullified by a penalty against the Longhorns. Tulane guard Truls Bjerke (66 at right) just missed Ford. (AP) Wirephoto)

Auburn Tops Kentucky 11 With Woodall

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) —Auburn needed the accurate kicking of Woody Woodall, who booted three field goals and a conversion, to overcome defiant Kentucky, 16-6 Saturday night in the Tigers' second Southeastern Conference victory of the season.

Quarterback Mailon Kent scored a touchdown for Auburn on a 10-yard sweep of right end, but that was only in the final three minutes after Kentucky, trailing 9-7, lost a desperation gamble for a first down on its 29-yard line.

Kentucky, which had not scored in two previous games this season, not only got its first touchdown but took a brief 6-3 lead in the second period when fullback Perky Bryant swept right end, spinning off one tackler and sidearming another, to score in the second period.

Clark Mayfield's kick was wide, however.

Woodall had sent Auburn ahead in the first period on a 35-yard field goal, and he gained a halftime 6-6 tie when he added another from 33 yards out with only five seconds remaining in the half.

The clincher came late in the third period, after Auburn had powered from its own 34 to the Kentucky 15, most of the yardage coming on runs of 16 and 13 yards by sophomore quarterback Jimmy Sidle, and his 15-yard pass to end Ronnie Baynes.

Wisconsin Tops Indiana, 30-6

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin capitalized on newly found backfield speed, a tight defense and the pass catching talent of end Pat Richter for a 30-6 victory over Indiana Saturday in a Big Ten football opener.

Jim Traficant Gains Victory For Pitt Team

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Jim Traficant passed and ran the University of Pittsburgh to four touchdowns Saturday, then pulled his Panthers out of danger in the closing minutes for a 26-24 intersectional football victory over California.

The 190-pound senior completed the first three of the five passes he threw for 160 yards and three touchdowns. He scored the other himself by taking a lateral at the California 5 and dashing over.

California, relying largely on the forward pass, finally narrowed the gap in the closing minutes on a 4-yard scoring dash by Rudy Carvajal after quarterback Larry Balliett had pitched the Bears inside the Panther 5.

Wildcats Romp Over Illinois 11 For 45-0 Win

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Unbeaten Northwestern sprung six different players across Illinois' goal line Saturday in walloping its Big Ten football rival 45-0.

Four quarterbacks were used, with sophomore sensational Tom Myers of Troy, Ohio, hitting on seven out of 11 passes for 106 yards and one touchdown in playing only 17 minutes. Five of the aerials were caught by halfback Paul Flatley for 86 yards in playing about the same length of time. And tackle Tim Powell got into the act by running back a Mike Taliaferro pass 48 yards at the end of the first half as the Illinois defense was caught napping.

Mack Matthews Sparks Clemson To 24-7 Victory

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (UPI) — Clemson halfback Mack Matthews, returning to his 1960 form after a year out of school, returned a punt 88 yards for a fourth-period touchdown Saturday to spark the Tigers to a 24 - 7 victory over Wake Forest.

Patriots Defeat New York 43-14

NEW YORK (AP)—Quarterback Babe Parilli fired three touchdown passes and Gino Cappelletti scored 19 points Saturday night as the Boston Patriots completely dominated the New York Titans with a 43-14 victory in an American Football League game.

Parilli, the Patriots' 32-year old quarterback, hit Jim Colclough with a 63-yard TD pass, nailed Ron Burton with one of 13 yards and found Cappelletti for a 36-yard scoring play.

Spartans Down North Carolina On Simple Play

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)— Michigan State, stressing a simple pitchout play and Ron Rubick's leg work, scored the first four times it had the ball and crushed North Carolina 38-6 Saturday in an intersectional football game.

Rubick, a chunky 172-pound junior tailback, scored three touchdowns on runs of 67, 11 and 15 yards. He piled up 207 yards in 14 carries, averaging 14.8 per carry.

With speedster tailback Sherman Lewis sharing the work load with Rubick on the bread and butter pitchouts, North Carolina found the Spartan assault almost unstoppable.

Lewis and Rubick divided the four Michigan State touchdowns in the first half with dazzling running behind quarterback Chuck Migyanka's blocking before 61,029 in Spartan Stadium.

Bulldogs Knock Tech For Victory

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—South-Louisiana—idle Saturday night, in western Louisiana knocked Louisiana Tech from the ranks of the unbeaten Saturday night with an upset 13-6 Gulf States Conference victory.

The loss left Southeastern Louisiana in sole command of first place in the GSC race.

USL scored two touchdowns in the first period while Tech got one. Then USL used the superb punting of tackle L. J. Poimboeuf to keep Tech in hot water the rest of the night

The talented kicking specialist got onf four booming punts for a 46.5 average and his booots kept Tech's vaunted passing attack from working too much damage.

Nittany Lions Defeat Rice With Hayes

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Penn State's senior fullback Dave Hayes scored three times and the fourth-ranked Nittany Lions showed off their classy defense Saturday night in an 18-7 victory over Rice.

The eastern champs came from behind in the third quarter, taking the second half kickoff and driving 68 yards in 10 plays to score.

Hayes blasted over from the three and a two-point conversion attempt failed

Hayes skirted left end for 15 yards and a touchdown with less than two minutes left in the game to ice the Penn State win

He had scored twice earlier on short power plays.

Rice took a 7-6 second quarter lead on a 24-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Walter McReynolds to end Gene Fleming and Randy Kerbow's extra point kick.

The Nittany Lions marched 41 yards in the first quarter to score after a short Rice punt. Hayes plunged the final yard on the tenth play of the series. A bad snap from center broke up the extra point attempt.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) West Virginia parlayed a sparkling defensive effort and a 51-yard punt return by Jim Procopio into a 7-0 win Saturday over a surprisingly stubborn Boston University team.

Huskies Still Unbeaten

SEATTLE (AP) — Sophomore fullback Bill Douglas brought a faltering Washington offense into focus in the second quarter Saturday and guided the unbeaten Huskies to a 41-0 intersectional football victory over Kansas State.

McNeese In Tie With Tampa 11

TAMPA, Fla (AP) — University of Tampa and McNeese State battled to a 10-10 tie Saturday night with all of the scoring coming in the first half.

McNeese broke the ide in the first quarter when halfback Dick Willett scored from the 1. The touchdown was set up by a 31-yard pass from halfback Lloyd Guillot to Willet Billy Dore booted the extra point.

Tampa came back five minutes later in the same quarter with a 10-play drive from the Spartan 35 Quarterback Vaden Bessent sparked the drive with a 35-yard run to the McNeese 12.

Three plays later Bessent handed off to halfback Larry Maier who went over from the one-yard line Ronnie Perez converted.

Tampa recovered a McNeese fumble on the Cowboys' 36 and moved the ball to the 6 where the visitors held.

Perez was sent in on the fourth down and booted a three-point field goal that put Tampa ahead 10-7

McNeese, quarterbacked by Richard Guillory and Tommy Thompson, drove from its 35 after the kickoff, was halted on the Tampa 9 and thrown back to the 20. With 10 seconds left, McNeese sent in center Walter Burden who kicked a field goal from the 25.

Demons Catch Fire Late To Wreck Tribe Homecoming, 18-17

Two Fourth Period TD's Drop Indians

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Northwestern State's "sleeping giants" finally woke up in the fourth quarter to come from two touchdowns behind and ruin Northeast State's homecoming with an 18-17 squeaker before a capacity crowd of 6,000 here Saturday.

Behind 17-6 after three quarters, the result of a fine Northeast first half effort, the Demons who were pre - season picks to win the Gulf States Conference, rallied on scoring marches of 79 and 85-yards behind the running of backs Claude Patrick and Glenn Talbert and the aerial work of sophomore quarterback Don Beasley for the win.

Penalties	5-41	1-15

It was the first conference game for either team and moves the Demons, who have been anything but impressive until the fourth quarter Saturday night, to a 2-1-1 season mark. Northeast is now 1-2 for the year.

Patrick, a freshman fullback sensation from Holly Ridge, who was second in Northwestern rushing with 68 - yards on 10 efforts, got the first score in the fourth quarter, crashing over from seven yards out.

Wth 3:20 remaining in the game, Beasley tossed to end Jackie Smith for 17 - yards and the go ahead touchdown. Beasley completed four of six passes for 69-yards and was instrumental in guiding Northwestern to both fourth quarter scores.

Talbert, a junior halfback from Gillis, got off one nice 24-yarder and snared two Beasley aerials in the fourth period fireworks.

Northeast, which played inspirged ball and shoved Northwestern around almost at will for three periods, went in front 7-0 in the first quarter when sohpomore quarterback Ronnie Myrick slipped over from a half - yard out. Myrick, who led both Indian defensive teams, turned in a good job with his option running and play calling.

Quarterback Pete Vincent, who was released from the Mississippi National Guard just in time for the game, added a 24 - yard field goal in the second quarter to give the Indians a 10-0 advantage. Vincent, who started the year as the Indians No. 1 signal caller, was called up because of the Ole Miss integration crisis at Oxford.

A fumble recovery at the Demon seven and Gordon Salsman's seven - yard cross - buck on the next play accounted for the Tribe's next score.

With the count 17-0 for Northeast, Steve Murphy, a junior halfback, took the ball at the Northwestern 14, on the first play from scrimmage, and raced 86 - yards untouched to narrow the count to the 17-6 halftime margin.

Neither team scored in the third quarter and Northwestern appeared badly beaten until the final period explosion.

Freshman halfback Robert Payne paced Northeast rushing with a splendid 60 - yard total in seven attempts. He was followed by junior halfback Ken Newton, who has been a mainstay in the Indian attack all season. Newton picked up 43 yards in 12 runs.

Murphy, was the Demon's leading rusher with 90 - yards on four attempts, virtually all of it coming on that one long touchdown run.

Northwestern returned the opening kickoff to its own 23 and marched the ball from there to the Tribe 39 before Indian end Wendell Drost recovered Beasley's fumble. Eighteen and 16-yard slices by Patrick highlighted the five-play Northwestern drive.

From this point the Indians took over and behind the running of fullback Willie Ragan, tailback Newton and Myrick, sliced 61 yards to scored in 11 plays. Myrick, who also contributed option runs of 10 and seven-yards, got the touchdown from ahalf-yard out with 7:05 left in the quarter. Pete Vincent kicked the extra point. Ragan accounted for gains of nine and 10-yards, while Newton picked up eight on one carry during the march.

Late in the second period Northeast started another drive at its 25. This one went all the way down to the Northwestern 14 where Vincent toed a 24-yard field goal, that boosted Northeast's lead to 10-0 with 8:40 to go in the half. Freshman tailback Robert Payne sparked the drive with gains of eight, 12 and 16-yards.

The Demons returned the kickoff to their 14, and on the first play Murphy went around right end, broke into the clear and went all the way to score standing up. Ed Horton's kick with

98 Yard Run Helps Tigers Bounce Tech

ATLANTA (AP) — Louisiana State struck nationally ranked Georgia Tech with a thunderbolt named Jerry Stovall Saturday then turned a 24-yard field goal by Lynn Amedee into a 10-7 Southeastern Conference football upset.

Stovall returned the second-half kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown. Then, after Tech had tied the score on a 73-yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter, Stovall positioned LSU for its winning field goal by picking up 18 yards to the Tech 12 in the clo ing minutes.

	LSU	GA. TECH.
First downs	8	12
Rushing yardage	133	63
Passing yardage	39	145
Passes	4-8	14-30
Passes intercepted by	3	0
Punts	-11-33.6	7-43.7
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	44	10

It was the first loss of the season in three games for Tech, No. 5 in the nation in the Associated Press poll. For LSU, undefeated since the 1961 season opener, it represented a tremendous comeback after last week's 6-6 tie with Rice.

The nationally televised game was a superb defensive show until the 195-pound Stovall fielded the kickoff two yards from his goal and outlegged everybody into the Tech end zone 98 yards away.

Quarterback Billy Lothridge steered the Yellow Jackets on a spectacular drive that covered 73 yards in nine plays and hit end Billy Martin with a 10-yard scoring pass.

Martin also caught passes for 15 and 12 yards on the drive, and fullback Ray Mendheim ran for 19 yards on a key play.

LSU fullback Charles Cranford returned the ensuing kickoff 45 yards to Tech's 45 and fumbled when tackled by Lothridge. Ray Wilkins recovered for LSU, however, and the bristling Bengal Tigers were in business for their winning drive. Stovall took a short pass from amedee near the Tech 30 and bulled his way to the 14.

Three plays later, with 4 minutes and 22 seconds left to play, Amedee kicked the decisive field goal.

Lothridge kept pitching and came within a whisker of pulling it out for Tech on the next to the last play. His long pass to ace Joe Auer was juggled and dropped by the halfback in the clear at the LSU 15.

LSU beat Tech here 17 years ago, and in 1945 it was also a field goal that turned the trick.

Lothridge missed a 40-yard field goal early in the third quarter ending a Tech drive that had carried to the LSU 17.

A 29-yard pass from Lothridge to end Ted Davis helped Tech drive to the LSU 32 in the first minutes, but Lothridge fumbled on a pitchout and the seven-yard loss killed the threat.

LSU daring paid off and triggered a 75-yard Tiger drive which spilled over into the second quarter and carried LSU to the Tech seven before Martin recovered Stovall's fumble.

With fourth down and inches to go at the LSU 27, the Tigers gambled, and Amedee plunged for five yards. Five plays later, Stovall took a pitchout and raced 23 yards to the Tech 24. Stovall later got vital fourth-down yardage to the Tech 12 before the fumble blunted the threat.

LSU's iron defense left Tech with a net of minus one yard rushing in the first half. Tremendous punting by Lothridge kept Tech out of hot water except for the one deep LSU penetration before intermission.

ON LONG TD RUNS

Texas Rips Tulane, 35-8 For 3rd Straight Victory

By KYLE THOMPSON

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The University of Texas used the long run to smash Tulane University 35-8 Saturday night for the third straight win by the No. 3 ranked Longhorns.

Texas, favored by at least three touchdowns over the winless Green Wave, scored twice in quick succession in the first period, including a 66-yard punt return by wingback Ernie Koy.

The Longhorns struck for three more in the last half.

Tulane's only score came in the final period when alternate quarterback Ron Melton began hitting from the Greenie's newly-launched shotgun spread offense. Melton passed to sophomore back Jim Davis for the score after driving 71 yards in eight plays.

Longhorn rookie backs Charles Buckalew and Harold Phillipp, playing for the first time in a varsity game for Texas, were instrumental in the second half splurge by Texas that accounted for 22 points.

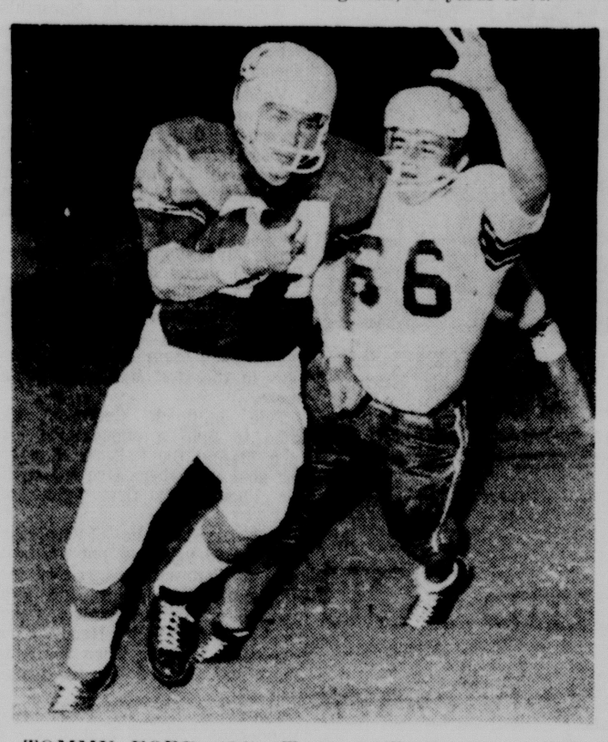
Buckalew broke through center midway in the third period for a 59-yard run that set up a one-yard scoring plunge by fullback Pat Culpepper. That Phillipp and quarterback Duke Carlisle alternated with Buckalew to drive 63 yards in 11 plays with Buckalew going over just before the period ended.

Back Joe Dixon intercepted a Melton pass on the Texas 43 to set up the Longhorns' final touchdown in the fourth period. Quarterback Tommy Wade completed 14 and 13-yard passes to highlight the 56 yard drive and scored on an end sweep from the two.

Texas was playing without the benefit of All-America candidate fullback Ray Poage, who was out because of a shoulder injury.

But the Longhorns came through to keep the Greenies off balance. One Texas touchdown that came off a 94-yard punt return by tailback Tommy Ford at the opening of the second period was nullified by a roughing penalty.

Texas gained a net of 241 on the ground and held Tulane to 72. But the Greenies out-passed the Longhorns, 173 yards to 74.



TOMMY FORD (24), Texas tailback returned a Tulane punt 95 yards in the second quarter of Saturday night's game in Austin, Tex, but the play was nullified by a penalty against the Longhorns. Tulane guard Truls Bjerke (66 at right) just missed Ford. (AP) Wirephoto)

Auburn Tops Kentucky 11 With Woodall

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) —Auburn needed the accurate kicking of Woody Woodall, who booted three field goals and a conversion, to overcome defiant Kentucky, 16-6 Saturday night in the Tigers' second Southeastern Conference victory of the season.

Quarterback Mailon Kent scored a touchdown for Auburn on a 10-yard sweep of right end, but that was only in the final three minutes after Kentucky, trailing 9-7, lost a desperation gamble for a first down on its 29-yard line.

Kentucky, which had not scored in two previous games this season, not only got its first touchdown but took a brief 6-3 lead in the second period when fullback Perky Bryant swept right end, spinning off one tackler and sidearming another, to score in the second period.

Clark Mayfield's kick was wide, however.

Woodall had sent Auburn ahead in the first period on a 35-yard field goal, and he gained a halftime 6-6 tie when he added another from 33 yards out with only five seconds remaining in the half.

The clincher came late in the third period, after Auburn had powered from its own 34 to the Kentucky 15, most of the yardage coming on runs of 16 and 13 yards by sophomore quarterback Jimmy Sidle, and his 15-yard pass to end Ronnie Baynes.

Wisconsin Tops Indiana, 30-6

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin capitalized on newly found backfield speed, a tight defense and the pass catching talent of end Pat Richter for a 30-6 victory over Indiana Saturday in a Big Ten football opener.

Jim Traficant Gains Victory For Pitt Team

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Jim Traficant passed and ran the University of Pittsburgh to four touchdowns Saturday, then pulled his Panthers out of danger in the closing minutes for a 26-24 intersectional football victory over California.

The 190-pound senior completed the first three of the five passes he threw for 160 yards and three touchdowns. He scored the other himself by taking a lateral at the California 5 and dashing over.

California, relying largely on the forward pass, finally narrowed the gap in the closing minutes on a 4-yard scoring dash by Rudy Carvajal after quarterback Larry Balliett had pitched the Bears inside the Panther 5.

Mack Matthews Sparks Clemson To 24-7 Victory

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (UPI) — Clemson halfback Mack Matthews, returning to his 1960 form after a year out of school, returned a punt 88 yards for a fourth-period touchdown Saturday to spark the Tigers to a 24 - 7 victory over Wake Forest.

Wildcats Romp Over Illinois 11 For 45-0 Win

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Unbeaten Northwestern sprung six different players across Illinois' goal line Saturday in walloping its Big Ten football rival 45-0.

Four quarterbacks were used, with sophomore sensational Tom Myers of Troy, Ohio, hitting on seven out of 11 passes for 108 yards and one touchdown in playing only 17 minutes. Five of the aerials were caught by halfback Paul Flatley for 86 yards in playing about the same length of time. And tackle Tim Powell got into the act by running back a Mike Taliaferro pass 48 yards at the end of the first half as the Illinois 0 0 0 0—0

Patriots Defeat New York 43-14

NEW YORK (AP)—Quarterback Babe Parilli fired three touchdown passes and Gino Cappelletti scored 19 points Saturday night as the Boston Patriots completely dominated the New York Titans with a 43-14 victory in an American Football League game.

Parilli, the Patriots' 32-year old quarterback, hit Jim Colclough with a 63-yard TD pass, nailed Ron Burton with one of 13 yards and found Cappelletti for a 36-yard scoring play.

Spartans Down North Carolina On Simple Play

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State, stressing a simple pitchout play and Ron Rubick's leg work, scored the first four times it had the ball and crushed North Carolina 38-6 Saturday in an intersectional football game.

Rubick, a chunky 172-pound junior tailback, scored three touchdowns on runs of 67, 11 and 15 yards. He piled up 207 yards in 14 carries, averaging 14.8 per carry.

With speedster tailback Sherman Lewis sharing the work load with Rubick on the bread and butter pitchouts, North Carolina found the Spartan assault almost unstoppable.

Lewis and Rubick divided the four Michigan State touchdowns in the first half with dazzling running behind quarterback Chuck Migyanka's blocking before 61,029 in Spartan Stadium.

Bulldogs Knock Tech For Victory

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Southwestern Louisiana knocked Louisiana Tech from the ranks of the unbeaten Saturday night with an upset 13-6 Gulf States Conference victory.

The loss left Southeastern Louisiana—idle Saturday night, in sole command of first place in the GSC race.

USL scored two touchdowns in the first period while Tech got one. Then USL used the superb punting of tackle L. J. Poimboeuf to keep Tech in hot water the rest of the night.

The talented kicking specialist got onf four booming punts for a 46.5 average and his booots kept Tech's vaunted passing attack from working too much damage.

Nittany Lions Defeat Rice With Hayes

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Penn State's senior fullback Dave Hayes scored three times and the fourth-ranked Nittany Lions showed off their classy defense Saturday night in an 18-7 victory over Rice.

The eastern champs came from behind in the third quarter, taking the second half kickoff and driving 68 yards in 10 plays to score.

Hayes blasted over from the three and a two-point conversion attempt failed.

Hayes skirted left end for 15 yards and a touchdown with less than two minutes left in the game to ice the Penn State win.

He had scored twice earlier on short power plays.

Rice took a 7-6 second quarter lead on a 24-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Walter McReynolds to end Gene Fleming and Randy Kerbow's extra point kick.

The Nittany Lions marched 41 yards in the first quarter to score after a short Rice punt. Hayes plunged the final yard on the tenth play of the series. A bad snap from center broke up the extra point attempt.

Oregon State's Passing Defeats Stanford, 27-0

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Terry Baker and end Vern Burke hooked up on passes that baffled Stanford and Oregon State defeated the previously unbeaten Indians 27-0 Saturday.

Baker, a quarterback who ran as often as he passed, rolled out for two touchdowns in the second period. The Beavers scored twice more with less than four minutes left in the game.

McNeese In Tie With Tampa 11

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — University of Tampa and McNeese State battled to a 10-10 tie Saturday night with all of the scoring coming in the first half.

McNeese broke the ide in the first quarter when halfback Dick Willett scored from the 1. The touchdown was set up by a 31-yard pass from halfback Lloyd Guillot to Willet. Billy Dore booted the extra point.

Tampa came back five minutes later in the same quarter with a 10-play drive from the Spartan 35. Quarterback Vaden Bessent sparked the drive with a 35-yard run to the McNeese 12.

Three plays later Bessent handed off to halfback Larry Maier who went over from the one-yard line. Ronnie Perez converted.

Tampa recovered a McNeese fumble on the Cowboys' 36 and moved the ball to the 6 where the visitors held.

Perez was sent in on the fourth down and booted a three-point field goal that put Tampa ahead 10-7.

McNeese, quarterbacked by Richard Guillory and Tommy Thompson, drove from its 35 after the kickoff, was halted on the Tampa 9 and thrown back to the 20. With 10 seconds left, McNeese sent in center Walter Burden who kicked a field goal from the 25.

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Quarterback Glynn Griffing rifled four touchdown passes, three of them to halfback Louis Guy, to lead seventh-ranked Mississippi Saturday to an easy 40-7 victory over Houston.

Griffing's three scoring passes to Guy, all in the second period, were good for 41, 34 and 17 yards.

The 200-pound senior, drafted last year by the New York Giants, hit end Reed Davis in the third period for his fourth tally.

The four touchdown passes tied a school record which was set 15 years ago by Charlie Conerly, former Giant quarterback.

The Rebels picked up their fifth tally late in the third period when second-string fullback Fred Roberts bulled his way from the Cougar 14 yard line for the score.

A sophomore passing combination produced Mississippi's final touchdown when quarterback Jim Weatherly threw 27 yards to end Allen Brown in the fourth period.

The Cougars broke into the scoring column late in the third period when halfback Bobby Brezina faked a punt and sprinted untouched 72 yards for the score.

The game was a homecoming game away from home for the Rebels. It was originally scheduled to be played in Oxford, but the Justice Department forced school officials to transfer it to Jackson because of riots last weekend in the school's integration crisis. Only 18,000 persons attended the game.

Gov. Ross Barnett, who spearheaded a long, unsuccessful fight to keep Negro James H. Meredith out of the university, attended the game. There were many rebel yells, and some signs, one saying "go Rebels, that's a court order," but no disorders.

Griffing, who played about half the game, completed 12 of 18 passes for 219 yards.

In the game's opening moments, there were indications it would be closer than the oddsmakers predicted in making the Rebels a three-touchdown favorite. Houston drove to the Rebel one yard line before losing the ball on downs.

But the second period produced in Griffin and Guy, Mississippi's most potent passing combination since the days of Chuck Conerly and Barney Poole.

The Rebels also moved well on the ground, picking up 187 yards by rushing. Griffing and Weatherly combined for 264 aerial yards.

FISHER LEADS VICTORY

State Takes Win Over Tennessee

By ANDREW J. REESE JR.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Quarterback Roy (Sonny) Fisher flipped a three-yard pass to halfback Odie Burrell in the end zone Saturday to give fired - up Mississippi State a 7-6 triumph over Tennessee before 22,013 fans.

A few minutes later, tailback Mallon Faircloth smashed over from the two yard line for the Vols but his go-for-broke pass attempt for the extra point failed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Statistics of the Tennessee-Mississippi State football game:

	TENN	MISS STATE
First downs	8	15
Rushing yardage	108	164
Passing yardage	89	97
Passes	21-10	10-19

It was only the second conference victory for the Bulldogs since they whipped Florida at the start of the 1958 season. Mississippi State ended its long drought last year with a 11-10 upset over Auburn. It also was the first win for new coach Paul Davis, whose season opener was spoiled two weeks ago by Florida.

The underdog Mississippians, sparked by Fisher and quarterback Charlie Furlow, made repeated thrusts deep into Volunteer territory but were unable to push across until late in the third period.

The Bulldogs marched from midfield to the Tennessee three yard line and Fisher, a 157-pound junior, passed to Burrell for the score. Fullback Sammy Dantone's all decisive kick was good.

The Vols came roaring back with a 61-yard pass from Faircloth to sophomore end Ken Pritchard, putting the Tennesseans only nine yards away. Faircloth moved it to the two yard line on three jabs then slammed over.

Tennessee lined up as if to try to kick the extra point, but the gambling Faircloth whipped a pass toward the end zone. The gamble failed when the ball dropped short.

Plagued by fumbles and a tenacious state defense, Tennessee was never really able to get its single-wing attack working.

The Bulldogs, on the other hand, plunged deep into Tennessee territory four times during the hard fought first half and were a constant threat throughout the warm, sunny afternoon.

State's first threat ended with Faircloth intercepting a pass on his own four yard line. Moments later State fought to the 10 but Dantone, who booted three field goals against Florida to tie a league record, was unable to connect with a three-pointer.

A fumble on the Vol 17 yard line ended a third threat by the Bulldogs.

Defensive stars of what was largely a defense battle included blocking back Sam Downey, fullback Ray Dalton, guard Steve DeLong, and end Buddy Fisher for Tennessee; and centers Jonny Windham and Brownie Walker, Dantone, tackle Howard Benton, and end Johnny Baker for Mississippi State.

Trojans Hold Off Iowa For Victory

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Sixth ranked Southern California turned an Iowa fumble into a first quarter touchdown and held on for a 7-0 victory over the jittery Hawkeyes Saturday.

The triumph in the intersectional football clash was the third straight for the Trojans, who were unable to mount an effective offence, but didn't have to as the Hawkeyes lost the ball on fumbles five times and had two passes intercepted.

It was only the second time in 10 years that Iowa had been held scoreless, and the first time in that period that the Hawkeyes were blanked at home.

Southern Cal's touchdown was scored on a 10-yard sprint by second string fullback Ron Heller. The score was set up when Iowa's Willie Ray Smith fumbled and Trojan halfback Loran Hunt recovered on the Iowa 24.

Iowa played without quarterback Matt Szykowny in the second half because he was shaken up in the second quarter. While Szykowny was in the game he managed only 35 yards passing against the rugged Trojan defense.

Iowa never penetrated Southern Cal's 10-yard line although a fourth quarter drive was stopped when Trojan halfback Willie Brown intercepted a pass on his own one-yard line.

A high pass from center on an attempted Iowa punt early in the game gave the Trojans the ball on the Hawkeyes' 8-yard line but the threat ended when Tom Lupo was short with a field goal try from the 30. Lupo also missed from the Iowa 29 and had a third quarter try from the 23 blocked.

Iowa threatened in the final minutes but failed to make a first down by inches on the Trojans' 14-yard line. The Hawkeyes' last hopes ended when Larry Ferguson fumbled fielding a punt with two minutes left and Southern Cal ran out the clock.

Two Fourth Period TD's Drop Indians

7:55 left was no good, and the Tribe still led 10-6.

Moments later Northeast's Gordon Salsman quick-kicked to the Demon 29. On the second play from scrimmage, Drost got his second fumble recovery, falling on Murphy's bobble at the Northwestern 20. The Indians drove down to the four, where Ronnie Graham's fourth down plunge was inches short.

But on the second Northwestern run, Indian center Stanley Star fell on quarterback Don Beasley's fumble at the Demon seven.

Salsman took the ball on a cross buck, on the first play, and sliced into the endzone for the score. Vincent toed the point to give Northeast a 17-6 lead with 59 seconds left in the half.

Robert Payne, a star on the Neville state champion team a year ago, paced Northeast rushing in the first half, gaining 42 yards on just three carries. Murphy paced the Demons with 90 yards on four attempts.

Northeast missed a golden opportunity to score early in the third quarter when Thrailkill intercepted a Beasley pass at the Demon 25. But Fullback Ronnie Graham fumbled on the next play and Talbert recovered at the Northwestern seven.

Neither team could score in the remaining minutes of the third stanza, but Northwestern uncorked an 85 yard scoring march early in the fourth quarter. It took only eight plays, behind the running of Talbert and passing of Beasley.

Patrick got the score, slicing over from seven yards out with 11:55 left in the quarter. But the Demons went for the two-pointer and Salsman stopped Talbert short of the goal to hold the score to 17-12.

In the drive Talbert uncorked a 24-yard scamper and Beasley fired to Talbert for 10 yards and to end Jackie Smith for 37.

Joe Thrailkill took the kickoff at his 10 and raced down to the Northwestern 40. From this point the Indians punched down to the 33, before Larry Crow intercepted Myrick's pass at the 21.

This set the stage for the winning touchdown drive, which took 11 plays and was climaxed by Beasley's 17-yard pass to Jackie Smith in the end zone. The kick attempt failed and Northwestern went ahead 18-17 with 3:20 left. In this drive Patrick's 20-yard romp to the Indian 20 and Beasley connection on a 10-yarder to Talbert were big plays in keeping the march alive.

The Tribe took over at its 36 and drove down to the Northwestern 39, where Vincent's 46-yard field goal try with less than a minute left was short.

Steelers Defeat Philadelphia 11 By 13-7 Margin

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb's recovery of a fumble and linebacker Bob Schmitz' 24-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass sparked the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 13-7 victory over Philadelphia Saturday night in a National Football League game.

Lipscomb's recovery of Sonny Jurgensen's fumble on the third play from scrimmage in the first quarter set up a field goal by Lu Michaels.

The Giant tackle pounced on the loose ball on the Philadelphia 16-yard line.

Two running plays by John Henry Johnson and rookie Joe Womack picked up a first down on the 6, where the Eagles' defense stiffened and held for three downs. Michaels then booted his three-pointer from the 14.

Schmitz' interception came on the first play following the next kick-off, which was returned by Tim Brown to the Philadelphia 21. Jurgensen's pass, intended for Brown, was picked off by Schmitz on the 24 and he raced into the end zone for the score. Michaels converted.

14TH STRAIGHT WIN

'Bama Gets 17-7 Win Over Stubborn Vandy

By BILL TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — End Dick Williamson made two sensational catches, one for a touchdown, and whipped up a stumbling, fumbling Alabama offense Saturday night, to enable the second-ranked Crimson Tide to beat stubborn Vanderbilt 17-7.

It was Alabama's 14th straight victory and 20th game in a row without defeat and with only one tie.

The Commodores, unable to run or pass against the tough Crimson Tide offense, gained some consolation when halfback Terry Dye covered a fumbled punt behind the Alabama goal line.

It was their first score in three games.

Williamson hauled in a long pass from sophomore quarterback Joe Namath for a 32-yard touchdown play and set up Tim Davis' field goal with a diving catch of another Namath toss on the Vanderbilt five.

Namath also completed a 19-yard scoring pass to Butch Henry to give the sophomore throwing ace seven touchdown tosses in three games. Davis added two extra points as Alabama racked up its third Southeastern Conference win of the season.

The inspired Commodores, who had battled four-touchdown favorite Alabama to a 7-7 halftime draw, ran out of gas in the second half as the defending national champions launched an 86-yard scoring drive.

Williamson took in Namath's long pass over the heads of two defensive backs to put Alabama ahead to stay.

Vanderbilt punted three plays later and Alabama began another scoring drive from its own 33. A pass from Namath to Williamson ate up 14 yards and another one on which Williamson outran a defensive back to make a diving catch covered 37 yards. Davis then added a field goal from 20 yards out.

Alabama coach Paul Bryant, running in players frequently during the warm night, saw his high-ranked team lose three fumbles in the first half, one for a score.

Tide halfback Cotton Clark tried to field a punt inside his own 10 and the ball rolled over the goal line where Dye fell on it for Vanderbilt's first points of 1962.

Fullback Eddie Versprille sprinted 46 yards to put the ball deep in Commodore territory for Alabama's first score and two plays later Namath passed in the end zone to tackle Henry who was made eligible when the Alabama end dropped into the backfield.

42-14 VICTORY

Hogs Stomp TCU With Billy Moore

By ED FITE

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Busling Billy Moore baffled massive Texas Chirstian by land and air Saturday night to lead Arkansas to a stunning 42-14 victory in the Razor Backs' opening bid for a fourth consecutive Southwest Conference championship.

The alert Razorbacks turned a close 14-7 halftime ball game into a runaway in the final two periods for their third victory in a row before a near-capacity crowd of 42,536, of which some 5,000 were delerious Arkansas fans making the stadium ring to their cry of "Sooey."

Moore, a 176-pound bundle of energy scored two touchdowns from one yard out, recovered two of jittery TCU's many fumbles and fed the ball off for a 36-yard touchdown run by Jesse Branch, a 43-yard sortie by converted lineman-fullback Danny Brabham and a one-yard lunge also by the 218-pound Brabham.

The other, and last Arkansas touchdown, came on a brilliant 71-yard punt return by sophomore safetyman Ken Hatfield.

An aggressive Arkansas defensive line, led by Jerry Mazzanti and Dave Adams, made Texas Christian's running attack ineffective and giant Sonny Gibbs had to go to the air to make any sort of dent in the rugged razorback armor.

TCU got onto the scoreboard with a nine-yard run by sophomore Jim Fauver in the second quarter, but that was the only gem in an otherwise dull rushing collection by TCU.

Fauver also scored the other TCU touchdown with a seemingly impossible catch of a deflected 20-yard pass from Gibbs in the third quarter.

But, by that time, Moore, who ran a dozen times for 51 yards and hit 3 or 4 passes for another 68 yards, had engineered a 28-14 lead. The final TCU score was the last offensive gasp from a club which had beaten Kansas and pushed Miami down to the wire in its first two outings.

Southerners Take 31-13 Win

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — The University of Southern Mississippi, ranked second among the nation's small college teams, rolled from behind Saturday night for a 31-13 victory over the University of Chattanooga and the 100th football victory of his career for coach Thad (Pie) Vann.

The southerners from Hattiesburg, Miss., ignored the pistol-point accuracy of Ron Eisaman's passing for Chattanooga and stayed on the ground to win. Quarterback Billy Coleman bucked one yard for one touchdown and raced 63 yards for another to lead the Southerners in their relentless ground game.

Chattanooga's Eisaman was about the only offensive weapon the Moccasins could muster. He completed 14 of 25 passes — one of them to Ron Whaley for a touchdown — but the big southern line stifled Chattanooga's running game.

Georgia Gains Last Minute Tie

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — Georgia came from behind with a 68-yard touchdown pass play in the last two minutes of the game Saturday night and settled for a one-point conversion and a 7-7 tie with South Carolina.

The Bulldogs appeared immobile until quarterback Larry Rakestraw hit end Mickey Babb with a pass at midfield. Babb, with a jump on the Gamecock secondary, grabbed it on the run and kept going for his touchdown.

Scoring:

SC — Gambrell 3 run (McCathern kick).

GA — Babb 68 pass from Rakestraw (McCullough kick).

Attendance: 28,000.

Ambrusko Stars As Maryland 11 Takes 14-6 Win

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Sophomore halfback Ken Ambrusko returned a punt 78 yards for a first period touchdown and Maryland went on to defeat North Carolina State, 14-6, Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

Don McIlhany Takes Aggies Over Raiders

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —Don McIlhany, a sizzling sophomore from south Houston, dazzled 20,000 limp fans with a 100-yard kickoff return with two seconds remaining in the game Saturday night to give Texas A&M a 7-3 victory over Texas Tech.

McIlhany's brilliant stop-and-go return followed a Tech field goal by H. L. Daniels from 23 yards out with only 19 seconds to go in a bruising contest.

It was a record-breaking kickoff return for an Aggie, the old mark being held by Joel Hunt for a 97 yard runback against Arkansas in 1927.

McIlhany actually took the ball two yards deep in the end zone, but officials said the record would go into the books as 100 yards.

Daniels had apparently salvaged a 3-0 victory for the underdog Red Raiders with his field goal following a 68-yard Tech drive.

McIlhany appeared to be stopped as he zig-zagged up to the Aggie 25. But he regained his balance, hesitated for a split second for a wave of interference to form, and streaked down the west sideline to the touchdown.

Mike Clark kicked the extra point from 13 yards out after the Aggies drew a 15-yard penalty, presumably for students swarming on the field to maul their victors prior to the clock running out.

Gophers Win Over Navy 11 By 21-0 Count

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota struck for touchdowns the first time it had the ball in each half, added another in the final two minutes and employed overpowering line play in crushing Navy 21-0 before 64,364 Saturday in the first gridiron meeting of the two schools.

The Gophers stormed 41 yards after the opening kickoff for a touchdown lead and scored again less than 2½ minutes into the second half.

Jim Cairns wheeled back a Navy punt 35 yards to the Middie 29. On the first play quarterback Duane Blaska passed nine yards to Cairns and the fleet halfback ran the last 20 yards for the score.

Minnesota added a third touchdown 1:06 from the game's end on a 51-yard drive after end Ray Zitloff recovered a Navy fumble. Jerry Pelletier scored on a 4-yard pitchout around the left side to cap the eight play march.

Mike Reid converted after all three scores.

Cornhuskers Beat Iowa State, 26-22

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska Cornhuskers, with superb generalship by quarterback Dennis Claridge, ran up a 28 point lead in the first 23 minutes of play Saturday and nursed the advantage to a 36-22 football decision over Iowa State.

It was the Big Eight Conference opener for both teams.

Claridge, a 6-3 junior, ran for three touchdowns and passed for another in boosting Nebraska to a 3-0 record for the season. The Cyclones have won one and lost two.

Pams Ego Wins Frizette Stakes

NEW YORK (AP)—Pams Ego, a 12-1 outsider, won the $110,500 Frizette Stakes in the rain and mud at Belmont Park Saturday and threw the 2-year-old filly championship into a merry mixup as Affectionately finished third and favored Smart Deb ran out of the money.

Manuel Ycaza, the fiery and controversial Panamanian jockey, swung Pams Ego outside of the tiring Smart Deb and Affectionately rounding the turn to the homestretch, and she pulled away in the drive to win by 1½ lengths over the Wheatley Stable's Fool's Play.

Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Affectionately, who had won nine of 11 starts earlier this season and was the East's outstanding candidate for title honors, staggered home in third place, 1¾ lengths behind the runnerup.

A few minutes later, tailback Mallon Faircloth smashed over from the two yard line for the Vols but his go-for-broke pass attempt for the extra point failed.

It was only the second conference victory for the Bulldogs since they whipped Florida at the start of the 1958 season. Mississippi State ended its long drought last year with a 11-10 upset over Auburn. It also was the first win for new coach Paul Davis, whose season opener was spoiled two weeks ago by Florida.

The underdog Mississippians, sparked by Fisher and quarterback Charlie Furlow, made repeated thrusts deep into Volunteer territory but were unable to push across until late in the third period.

The Bulldogs marched from midfield to the Tennessee three yard line and Fisher, a 157-pound junior, passed to Burrell for the score. Fullback Sammy Dantone's all decisive kick was good.

The Vols came roaring back with a 61-yard pass from Faircloth to sophomore end Ken Pritchard, putting the Tennesseans only nine yards away. Faircloth moved it to the two yard line on three jabs then slammed over.

Tennessee lined up as if to try to kick the extra point, but the gambling Faircloth whipped a pass toward the end zone. The gamble failed when the ball dropped short.

Plagued by fumbles and a tenacious state defense, Tennessee was never really able to get its single-wing attack working.

The Bulldogs, on the other hand, plunged deep into Tennessee territory four times during the hard-fought first half and were a constant threat throughout the warm, sunny afternoon.

State's first threat ended with Faircloth intercepting a pass on his own four yard line. Moments later State fought to the 10 but Dantone, who booted three field goals against Florida to tie a league record, was unable to connect with a three-pointer.

A fumble on the Vol 17 yard line ended a third threat by the Bulldogs.

Defensive stars of what was largely a defense battle included blocking back Sam Downey, fullback Ray Dalton, guard Steve DeLong, and end Buddy Fisher for Tennessee; and centers Jonny Windham and Brownie Walker, Dantone, tackle Howard Benton, and end Johnny Baker for Mississippi State.

THIRD STRAIGHT

Trojans Hold Off Iowa For Victory

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Sixth-ranked Southern California turned an Iowa fumble into a first quarter touchdown and held on for a 7-0 victory over the jittery Hawkeyes Saturday.

The triumph in the intersectional football clash was the third straight for the Trojans, who were unable to mount an effective offense, but didn't have to as the Hawkeyes lost the ball on fumbles five times and had two passes intercepted.

It was only the second time in 10 years that Iowa had been held scoreless, and the first time in that period that the Hawkeyes were blanked at home.

Southern Cal's touchdown was scored on a 19-yard sprint by second string fullback Ron Heller. The score was set up when Iowa's Willie Ray Smith fumbled and Trojan halfback Loran Hunt recovered on the Iowa 24.

Iowa played without quarterback Matt Szykowny in the second half because he was shaken up in the second quarter. While Szykowny was in the game he managed only 35 yards passing against the rugged Trojan defense.

Iowa never penetrated Southern Cal's 10-yard line although a fourth quarter drive was stopped when Trojan halfback Willie Brown intercepted a pass on his own one-yard line.

A high pass from center on an attempted Iowa punt early in the game gave the Trojans the ball on the Hawkeyes' 8-yard line but the threat ended when Tom Lupo was short with a field goal try from the 30. Lupo also missed from the Iowa 29 and had a third quarter try from the 23 blocked.

Iowa threatened in the final minutes but failed to make a first down by inches on the Trojans' 14-yard line. The Hawkeyes' last hopes ended when Larry Ferguson fumbled fielding a punt with two minutes left and Southern Cal ran out the clock.

Two Fourth Period TD's Drop Indians

7:55 left was no good and the Trib still led 10-6.

Moments later Northeast's Gordon Salsman quick-kicked to the Demon 29. On the second play from scrimmage, Drost got his second fumble recovery, falling on Murphy's bobble at the Northwestern 20. The Indians drove down to the four, where Ronnie Graham's fourth down plunge was inches short.

But on the second Northwestern run, Indian center Stanley Star fell on quarterback Don Beasley's fumble at the Demon seven.

Salsman took the ball on a cross-buck, on the first play, and sliced into the endzone for the score. Vincent toed the point to give Northeast a 17-6 lead with 59 seconds left in the half.

Robert Payne, a star on the Neville state champion team a year ago, paced Northeast rushing in the first half, gaining 42-yards on just three carries Murphy paced the Demons with 90 yards on four attempts.

Northeast missed a golden opportunity to score early in the third quarter when Thrailkill intercepted a Beasley pass at the Demon 25. But Fullback Ronnie Graham fumbled on the next play and Talbert recovered at the Northwestern seven.

Neither team could score in the remaining minutes of the third stanza, but Northwestern uncorked an 85 yard scoring march early in the fourth quarter. It took only eight plays, behind the running of Talbert and passing of Beasley.

Patrick got the score, slicing over from seven yards out with 11:55 left in the quarter. But the Demons went for the two-pointer and Salsman stopped Talbert short of the goal to hold the score to 17-12.

In the drive Talbert uncorked a 24-yard scamper and Beasley fired to Talbert for 10-yards and to end Jackie Smith for 37.

Joe Thrailkill took the kickoff at his 10 and raced down to the Northwestern 40. From this point the Indians punched down to the 33, before Larry Crow intercepted Myrick's pass at the 21.

This set the stage for the winning touchdown drive, which took 11-plays and was climaxed by Beasley's 17-yard pass to Jackie Smith in the end zone. The kick attempt failed and Northwestern went ahead 18-17 with 3:20 left. In this drive Patrick's 20-yard romp to the Indian 20 and Beasley connection on a 10-yarder to Talbert were big plays in keeping the march alive.

The Tribe took over at its 36 and drove down to the Northwestern 39, where Vincent's 46-yard field goal try with less than a minute left was short.

Steelers Defeat Philadelphia 11 By 13-7 Margin

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb's recovery of a fumble and linebacker Bob Schmitz' 24-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass sparked the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 13-7 victory over Philadelphia Saturday night in a National Football League game.

Lipscomb's recovery of Sonny Jurgensen's fumble on the third play from scrimmage in the first quarter set up a field goal by Lu Michaels.

The Giant tackle pounced on the loose ball on the Philadelphia 16-yard line.

Two running plays by John Henry Johnson and rookie Joe Womack picked up a first down on the 6, where the Eagles' defense stiffened and held for three downs Michaels then booted his three - pointer from the 14.

Schmitz' interception came on the first play following the next kick-off, which was returned by Tim Brown to the Philadelphia 21. Jurgensen's pass, intended for Brown, was picked off by Schmitz on the 24 and he raced into the end zone for the score. Michaels converted.

14TH STRAIGHT WIN

'Bama Gets 17-7 Win Over Stubborn Vandy

By BILL TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — End Dick Williamson made two sensational catches, one for a touchdown, and whipped up a stumbling, fumbling Alabama offense Saturday night, to enable the second-ranked Crimson Tide to beat stubborn Vanderbilt 17-7.

It was Alabama's 14th straight victory and 20th game in a row without defeat and with only one tie.

The Commodores, unable to run or pass against the tough Crimson Tide offense, gained some consolation when halfback Terry Dye covered a fumbled punt behind the Alabama goal line.

It was their first score in three games.

Williamson hauled in a long pass from sophomore quarterback Joe Namath for a 32-yard touchdown play and set up Tim Davis' field goal with a diving catch of another Namath toss on the Vanderbilt five.

Namath also completed a 19-yard scoring pass to Butch Henry to give the sophomore throwing ace seven touchdown tosses in three games. Davis added two extra points as Alabama racked up its third Southeastern Conference win of the season.

The inspired Commodores, who had battled four-touchdown favorite Alabama to a 7-7 halftime draw, ran out of gas in the second half as the defending national champions launched an 86-yard scoring drive.

Williamson took in Namath's long pass over the heads of two defensive backs to put Alabama ahead to stay.

Vanderbilt punted three plays later and Alabama began another scoring drive from its own 33. A pass from Namath to Williamson ate up 14 yards and another one on which Williamson outran a defensive back to make a diving catch covered 37 yards. Davis then added a field goal from 20 yards out.

Alabama coach Paul Bryant, running in players frequently during the warm night, saw his high-ranked team lose three fumbles in the first half, one for a score.

Tide halfback Cotton Clark tried to field a punt inside his own 10 and the ball rolled over the goal line where Dye fell on it for Vanderbilt's first points of 1962.

Fullback Eddie Versprille sprinted 46 yards to put the ball deep in Commodore territory for Alabama's first score and two plays later Namath passed in the end zone to tackle Henry who was made eligible when the Alabama end dropped into the backfield.

42-14 VICTORY

Hogs Stomp TCU With Billy Moore

By ED FITE

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Busling Billy Moore baffled massive Texas Chirstian by land and air Saturday night to lead Arkansas to a stunning 42-14 victory in the Razor Backs' opening bid for a fourth consecutive Southwest Conference championship.

The alert Razorbacks turned a close 14-7 halftime ball game into a runaway in the final two periods for their third victory in a row before a near-capacity crowd of 42,536, of which some 5,000 were delerious Arkansas fans making the stadium ring to their cry of "Sooey."

Moore, a 176-pound bundle of energy scored two touchdowns from one yard out, recovered two of jittery TCU's many fumbles and fed the ball off for a 36-yard touchdown run by Jesse Branch, a 43-yard sortie by converted lineman-fullback Danny Brabham and a one-yard lunge also by the 218-pound Brabham.

The other, and last Arkansas touchdown, came on a brilliant 71-yard punt return by sophomore safetyman Ken Hatfield.

An aggressive Arkansas defensive line, led by Jerry Mazzanti and Dave Adams, made Texas Christian's running attack ineffective and giant Sonny Gibbs had to go to the air to make any sort of dent in the rugged razorback armor.

TCU got onto the scoreboard with a nine-yard run by sophomore Jim Fauver in the second quarter, but that was the only gem in an otherwise dull rushing collection by TCU.

Fauver also scored the other TCU touchdown with a seemingly impossible catch of a deflected 20-yard pass from Gibbs in the third quarter.

But, by that time, Moore, who ran a dozen times for 51 yards and hit 3 or 4 passes for another 68 yards, had engineered a 28-14 lead. The final TCU score was the last offensive gasp from a club which had beaten Kansas and pushed Miami down to the wire in its first two outings.

Southerners Take 31-13 Win

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — The University of Southern Mississippi, ranked second among the nation's small college teams, rolled from behind Saturday night for a 31-13 victory over the University of Chattanooga and the 100th football victory of his career for coach Thad (Pie) Vann.

The southerners from Hattiesburg, Miss., ignored the pistol-point accuracy of Ron Eisaman's passing for Chattanooga and stayed on the ground to win. Quarterback Billy Coleman bucked one yard for one touchdown and raced 63 yards for another to lead the Southerners in their relentless ground game.

Chattanooga's Eisaman was about the only offensive weapon the Moccasins could muster. He completed 14 of 25 passes — one of them to Ron Whaley for a touchdown — but the big southern line stifled Chattanooga's running game.

Georgia Gains Last Minute Tie

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — Georgia came from behind with a 63-yard touchdown pass play in the last two minutes of the game Saturday night and settled for a one-point conversion and a 7-7 tie with South Carolina.

The Bulldogs appeared immobile until quarterback Larry Rakestraw hit end Mickey Babb with a pass at midfield. Babb, with a jump on the Gamecock secondary, grabbed it on the run and kept going for his touchdown.

Scoring:

SC — Gambrell 3 run (McCathern kick).

GA — Babb 68 pass from Rakestraw (McCullough kick).

Don McIlhany Takes Aggies Over Raiders

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —Don McIlhany, a sizzling sophomore from south Houston, dazzled 20,000 limp fans with a 100-yard kickoff return with two seconds remaining in the game Saturday night to give Texas A&M a 7-3 victory over Texas Tech.

McIlhany's brilliant stop-and-go return followed a Tech field goal by H. L. Daniels from 23 yards out with only 19 seconds to go in a bruising contest.

It was a record-breaking kickoff return for an Aggie, the old mark being held by Joel Hunt for a 97 yard runback against Arkansas in 1927.

McIlhany actually took the ball two yards deep in the end zone, but officials said the record would go into the books as 100 yards.

Daniels had apparently salvaged a 3-0 victory for the underdog Red Raiders with his field goal following a 68-yard Tech drive.

McIlhany appeared to be stopped as he zig-zagged up to the Aggie 25. But he regained his balance, hesitated for a split second for a wave of interference to form, and streaked down the west sideline to the touchdown.

Mike Clark kicked the extra point from 18 yards out after the Aggies drew a 15-yard penalty, presumably for students swarming on the field to maul their victors prior to the clock running out.

Gophers Win Over Navy 11 By 21-0 Count

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota struck for touchdowns the first time it had the ball in each half, added another in the final two minutes and employed overpowering line play in crushing Navy 21-0 before 64,364 Saturday in the first gridiron meeting of the two schools.

The Gophers stormed 41 yards after the opening kickoff for a touchdown lead and scored again less than 2½ minutes into the second half.

Jim Cairns wheeled back a Navy punt 35 yards to the Middie 29. On the first play quarterback Duane Blaska passed nine yards to Cairns and the fleet halfback ran the last 20 yards for the score.

Minnesota added a third touchdown 1:06 from the game's end on a 51-yard drive after end Ray Zitloff recovered a Navy fumble. Jerry Pelletier scored on a 4-yard pitchout around the left side to cap the eight play march.

Mike Reid converted after all three scores.

Cornhuskers Beat Iowa State, 26-22

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska Cornhuskers, with superb generalship by quarterback Dennis Claridge, ran up a 28 point lead in the first 23 minutes of play Saturday and nursed the advantage to a 36-22 football decision over Iowa State.

It was the Big Eight Conference opener for both teams.

Claridge, a 6-3 junior, ran for three touchdowns and passed for another in boosting Nebraska to a 3-0 record for the season. The Cyclones have won one and lost two.

Pams Ego Wins Frizette Stakes

NEW YORK (AP)—Pams Ego, a 12-1 outsider, won the $110,500 Frizette Stakes in the rain and mud at Belmont Park Saturday and threw the 2-year-old filly championship into a merry mixup as Affectionately finished third and favored Smart Deb ran out of the money.

Manuel Ycaza, the fiery and controversial Panamanian jockey, swung Pams Ego outside of the tiring Smart Deb and Affectionately rounding the turn to the homestretch, and she pulled away in the drive to win by 1½ lengths over the Wheatley Stable's Fool's Play.

Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Affectionately, who had won nine of 11 starts earlier this season and was the East's outstanding candidate for title honors, staggered home in third place, 1¾ lengths behind the runnerup.

The Jonesville Location

Conservationists will have to wait and see if the location of the Jonesville lock and dam at mile 25 on Black River with a diversion channel connecting Catahoula Lake will be in the best interest of migratory waterfowl.

Richard Yancey, assistant director of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, says the location will "satisfy" the lake's waterfowl future if a control structure in the diversion channel is properly managed.

This means, of course, that Catahoula Lake will continue to provide a food supply for waterfowl if the lake is permitted to drain so that grass on the lake - bed can grow.

The control structure will be located at the lake end of the channel, thus permitting the government to control the water level on Catahoula Lake.

What remains to be seen is whether the U. S. Corps of Engineers and the U. S. Department of the Interior will keep water in Catahoula all year, or permit it to drain as the lake does not.

Therein lies the possibility of a future conflict of interests, as was brought out in the process of establishing a location.

Wildlife groups who supported an upstream location felt that the government would place the lock and dam downstream, especially since all indications were in that direction.

Thus, the location of the lock and dam downstream with a diversion channel should be accepted in wildlife circles, if the structure is managed so that waterfowl will continue to stop off at Catahoula, which for years has been a vital waterfowl area in Louisiana.

At the same time the south location should be well accepted by those other groups who contended that the best interests of the people would be served by a dam that would hold water in the lake.

In view of the varied interests, Col. Warren S. Everett, the Vicksburg district engineer for the Army engineers, may have accomplished the unbelievable. But as Yancey says, that depends on what will happen after the control structure is built.

While there is no denying that the future of waterfowl is in trouble, you cannot just write it off and destroy the habitat. Waterfowl means a great many things to a great many people, and government cannot shirk its duty by turning its back on the subject, regardless of the future.

The Jonesville lock and dam will be the first of four such structures in the creation of the 9 - foot channel for the Ouachita River, a project that is expected to do great things for all of us.

Let's hope that the government will carry out its channel program with speed while hoping also that the diversion channel will be used to best advantages, including the preservation of wildlife.

Archers Show Interest

From all reports, there has been a great amount of interest shown in Louisiana's first statewide deer season for archers.

The ancient weapon of bow and arrow took a lot of sportsmen to the woods when the deer season opened for them on October 1st. And there should be many more in the woods until the season closes October 15th.

Reports indicate that a lot of sportsmen have gotten shots so far this season, but little blood has been drawn. This does not mean, however, that the modern-day archer cannot kill a deer with an ancient - day weapon.

For instance, to our knowledge, four archers have met with success in this area — two in Madison and two in Tensas.

Phil Lattier, 1217-B S. 2nd St., of Monroe killed a spike buck on opening day in Madison. Phil was pulling a 53-pound bow and buried his arrow six inches in the buck's shoulder at 30 yards.

He said the deer ran off, but was found later.

A Ruston archer, Sterling Harrell, also killed a buck in Madison.

Meantime, in Tensas, where any - deer can be taken with the bow and arrow, Jimmy Woods of St. Joseph killed a doe. He said the arrow went completely through the deer.

And from Newellton, a man named Arnold dropped a spike with his bow and arrow. We were told that Arnold's arrow also went completely through the target.

Certainly the total kill will be small throughout the state, since few sportsmen are capable enough to stalk a deer and take it with a bow and arrow.

But it's a sport that is growing in interest, proof enough that the archery season was long overdue.

Hunting Beginning

This is a big weekend for Louisiana sportsmen, since the squirrel and rabbit seasons opened yesterday.

While the squirrel season will run through January 10th, rabbit hunters will be going great guns until February 15th. For some reason, interest in squirrel hunting will drop off after the first few days of the season, but rabbit hunters will keep it up until the bitter end.

In addition, the second leg of the dove season will open Saturday — October 13-28. This should be a better season than the first.

Meantime, quail hunters have until November 22nd to line up their favorite coveys. Then when the deer season opens a day later, there will be utter frustration.

For the man who loves to hunt, November and December are heaven.

Little Man's Corner

The weather was cool, the fish were biting, squirrels got legal and the little men made news afield.

Fishing, especially white perch fishing, was good all over the area in general. The cool nights made things right for the angler.

Bass fishing also was good. Hugh Robinson, the registrar of voters over in Tensas, landed the biggest one we heard of — a 7-pound bass in one of the barpits around St. Joseph.

Several others caught big ones. Like Sam Tate at Lake Concordia. He landed the limit, averaging from 4 to 4½ - pounds each.

Len Strong and Harold Tate also caught a string of bass, numbering around the limit. Charlie Durham from Atlanta in Winn Parish got the limit in Saline Lake.

Meantime, a new wildlife club has been organized in Richland Parish in the DeMora Island neighborhood. They haven't reached a name for the club yet, but the next meeting will be held October 16th at 8 p.m. in the Woolen Lake Community Center.

George DuCote is the president of the new club.

BIG UPSET

UCLA Field Goal Tops 1st Ranked Ohio State

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The remarkable Bruins of UCLA, after stopping mighty Ohio State three times on the one-yard line, produced the first shocking upset of the 1962 football season Saturday by defeating the Buckeyes 9-7 on a 24-yard field goal with one minute, 35 seconds to go.

Sophomore quarterback Larry Zeno kicked the goal that spelled defeat for the nation's top-ranked college football power. Zeno guided the inspired Bruins 70 yards in 17 plays in the final seven minutes of the intersectional struggle and climaxed the march on fourth down with the ball on the Buckeye 7.

A Coliseum crowd of 48,513 went into a wild frenzy.

It was only the second time all afternoon that UCLA had even been in Buckeye territory. Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State, whose team entered the game a two-touchdown favorite, tried to get on the field to shake the hand of the winning coach, Bill Barnes. But Barnes was already on the shoulders of his triumphant team, being swept into the dressing room.

UCLA supplied the first shocker of the dramatic events that were to follow. Ohio State fullback Dave Francis was jarred loose from the ball on the second play from scrimmage, and Dave Gibbs of UCLA recovered on the Ohio State 45.

On the first UCLA play from scrimmage, halfback Kermit Alexander flashed off left tackle, outran the only two defensive backs who had a shot at him, and raced on for a touchdown. The try for the conversion was wide.

Then began the grind - away, ground attack by Ohio State and the goalline heroics of the outweighed Bruin line.

Ohio State in the first quarter drove 80 yards, only to be stalled on the one-yard line when two straight line plunges by fullback David Katterhenrich produced nothing.

UCLA punted out and before the quarter ended Ohio State, starting on its own 39, moved down to the Bruin 11.

On the third play of the second quarter, quarterback Joe Sparma passed 6 yards to Matt Snell in the end zone for the tying touchdown and Dick Van Rapphorst converted to put Ohio State ahead 7-6.

The game rocked on scoreless from then until the closing minutes.

Quarterback John Mummey twice more steered the Buckeyes on deep thrusts that consumed 78 and 65 yards but neither time could the Buckeyes score. On one drive, Mummey fumbled the hand back from center and UCLA recovered on its 3. On the other, Paul Warfield tried to sweep the right side on fourth down and was thrown back to the UCLA 4.

The Buckeyes twice had four downs to make 7 yards and once had four downs to gain 6 in these penetrations.

Ohio State gained 229 yards rushing to 162 for UCLA. In Overall yardage, the Buckeyes led 276 to 186.

Army Loses, 17-7 For First Defeat

By CHARLES C. CAIN

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The University of Michigan, capitalizing on every break that came its way, knocked Army from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten football teams Saturday, 17-7.

Army, ranked No. 10 in The Associated Press weekly poll, never got beyond midfield in the first half but finally got an offense rolling in the final two periods.

Dave Raimey, the workhorse of the Michigan backfield, scored one of the winners' touchdowns on a 7-yard plunge and continually harassed Army's defenders with his running.

Michigan moved into a 17-0 lead before Army finally posted a score in the final period.

The Wolverines capitalized on two breaks for a pair of scores. The first came when Capt. Bob Brown set up a touchdown in the opening five minutes when he recovered a punt on Army's 32 after halfback Carl Stichweh signalled for a fair catch and dropped the ball.

Michigan stuck to the ground and nine plays later Jack Strobel dove over from the one. Bob Timberlake converted and early in the second period Timberlake booted a 25-yard field goal to make it 10-0.

Army drove 61 yards to Michigan's 6 early in the third period but Strobel intercepted one of Army quarterback Joe Blackgrove's passes in the end zone to end that threat.

Harvey Chapman set up Michigan's second touchdown as he intercepted Cappy Lewis' pass on Michigan's 31 and returned it to the Cadet 37. Five plays later, Raimey went over from the 7 and Timberlake again converted.

Army's lone touchdown came on a 73-yard punt return by Stichweh early in the fourth period.

SMU Downed By Air Force Team, 25-20

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two glaring Southern Methodist errors and passing of Terry Isaacson and Dave Backus added up to a 25-20 Air Force Academy football victory Saturday.

But Air Force had to stop SMU on the 3-yard line with 20 seconds left to get the triumph.

Don Campbell fumbled on Southern Methodist's first play from scrimmage. Air Force recovered and it led to a 22-yard field goal by John Gavin.

In the third period Danny Thomas had to ground the ball in the end zone when a low pass back from center rolled across the goal line and that gave Air Force a safety.

The five points made in this way furnished the margin of victory although Isaacson passed 23 yards to Dick Brown for a touchdown set up by Backus' passing and running and Isaacson's 48 yards in passing led to a second touchdown in the second period.

Then Air Force, with Backus' 14-yard throw to Bill Landes the big punch, rolled 51 yards for a third touch down early in the fourth period.

Campbell made up for his lapse on the fumble by passing for three touchdowns, one for 9 yards to Tommy Brennan, another for 56 yards to Billy Gannon and the final 20 yards to Tom Hillary.

Princeton Rolls

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — Princeton's crunching single-wing attack exploded after a scoreless first period and third string tackle Bill Wright lumbered 72 yards with an intercepted pass as the Tigers routed Columbia 33-0 Saturday in an Ivy League football game.

With four outstanding tailbacks playing to near-perfection, Princeton had little trouble moving the ball almost at will against a sophomore-dominated Columbia team that made numerous mistakes.

FAMILIAR BATTLEGROUND

Pierce To Face Yanks In 3rd Contest Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Pierce, the stylish southpaw ace of the San Francisco Giants, returns to a familiar battleground Sunday at Yankee Stadium to face Bill Stafford of the New York Yankees in the third World Series game.

The weatherman predicted a partly cloudy Sunday with a high near 70 degrees as the best-of-7 series shifted to the American League champ's park, all even at one game each.

Catcher Elston Howard and first baseman Bill Skowron, two Yankee regulars who missed the second game due to injuries, were expected to return to action after a day of travel and rest. Only Stafford loosened up briefly in Saturday's drizzle.

"It looks like Howard and Skowron will be able to play," said Manager Ralph Houk. Howard suffered an injury to his right wrist while sliding in the first game and Skowron aggravated a chronic back condition.

Despite Pierce's perfect 12-0 record at Candlestick Park, Dark saved him for the Stadium which his club will be seeing for the first time under game conditions. However, a team that had been through a bitter pennant fight and an agonizing three-game playoff for the National League championship, did not figure to be overawed by such little things as 68,000 fans, a triple-decked stadium and the tricky shadows and wind currents in the concrete stadium in the Bronx.

Pierce, 35, knew his way around the Stadium after his span of service with Detroit and the Chicago White Sox who traded him to the Giants last winter. Pitching against the Yanks for 13 years with the White Sox and two with Detroit, Pierce had a 25-37 record. In the National League this year he had a 16-6 record with seven complete games in 23 starts. He won a "big one" with an 8-0 shutout over Los Angeles in the playoff opener and snuffed out the last Dodger hope with a 1-2-3 relief job in the ninth inning of the final playoff game.

The 24-year-old Stafford wound up with a 14-9 year for the Yanks. He completed only seven of 333 starts. The young right-hander from Athens, N.Y., appeared in two Series games against Pittsburg in 1960, both in relief, and started the third game against Cincinnati last year when he was knocked out in the seventh. Stafford was roughed up last Sunday by the White Sox in the last regular season game.

Pierce also had Series experience but oh, so briefly. He was in Manager Al Lopez's doghouse in 1959 and saw action in three games as a relief pitcher when the White Sox played the Dodgers.

Back in the Stadium for the next three games, the Yanks were 7-5 favorites in the third game and 9-5 favorites for the Series. The oddsmakers quoted 4-1 against the Yanks winning the next three and 12-1 against a Giant sweep in New York.

Juan Marichal (18-11), a right-hander, will pitch for the Giants in the fourth game Monday, followed by Billy O'Dell (19-14), the lefty who lost the opener. If more games are needed, the teams will travel Wednesday and resume in San Francisco Thursday and Friday with the sixth and seventh games.

Whitey Ford, winner of the opener, probably will pitch for the Yanks Monday, followed by Ralph Terry, the 2-0 loser to Jack Sanford in the second game.

Jose Pagan, flashy shortstop, was the leading Giant hitter of the Series after two games with a .600 average. Willie Mays, hitless in the second game after three hits off Ford in the opener, had a .375 mark and Felipe Alou and Tom Haller each was hitting .333. Howard at .600, rookie Tom Tresh at .375, and Clete Boyer at .333 led the Yanks.

The Yanks had been deadly in Series play, no matter what the park. In 66 games at the Stadium they have a 43-23 record. Over-all they had won 19 and lost seven World Series, including four of six with the Giants. The Giants' last Series victory was a four-game sweep over Cleveland in 1954. They hadn't beaten the Yanks in a Series since 1922—a 40-year-span.

Duke Gets Close Win Over Florida

By PATRICK HARDEN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—The Duke Blue Devils, stung into action by a Florida three-touchdown scoring spree, came from behind in the second half to whip the Gators 28-21 before 30,000 fans at the Gator Bowl Saturday.

Duke floundered in the first half as Florida defenders smothered the lonesome end attack. Florida struck suddenly in the second period and ran and passed for 21 points in a record 5 minutes 41 seconds.

But the 21-point lead cost Florida three major injuries and Duke swarmed over the weakened Gators, using the lonesome end attack to level the count at 21-all at the end of the third period.

In the final quarter Duke marched across for the winning touchdown, then withstood a tremendous Florida surge.

Florida opened the scoring early in the second period, moving from its own 20 yard line in seven plays to the Duke 21. Then southpaw quarterback Tom Shannon hit right end Sam Holland two yards off the end zone and Holland slipped across.

Two minutes later Gator quarterback Tom Ratten handed to fullback Larry Dupree on the Florida 30, and Supree took off on a 70 - yard TD run.

The third lightning bolt in less than six minutes came when fullback Tom Kelley intercepted a pass and started a march from the Duke 48 with fullback Jim O'Donnell scoring.

In the second half Duke began the long road back with a 31-yard pass from quarterback Walt Rappold to lonesome end Stan Crissom on the Florida two yard line. Leggett ran the two yards for the first Blue Devil score.

Minutes later relief quarterback Gil Garner hit end Pete Widener for a 33-yard touchdown pass in the end zone as Florida's defense against the lonesome end play crumbled.

The Blue Devils evened the score at the end of the third period, moving from the Florida 22 on five plays, and calling on fullback Mike Curtis for the two yard touchdown plunge.

That tied it up and set the satge for the fourth period and Duke's game-winning drive.

The Blue Devils marched from their own 40 on nine plays and Curtis again went over the line from two yards out.

DiGravio Carries Purdue By Irish

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's "injured" quarterback, Ron DiGravio, fired a 25-yard touchdown pass on his first play of the game near halftime and then guided the Boilermakers to a methodical 24-6 triumph over Notre Dame before a record Irish crowd of 61,296 Saturday.

The heralded DiGravio, supposedly benched with an injured knee, sewed up Purdue's first victory after a 7-7 tie with Washington, with a one-yard quarterback sneak in the third period for a 17-0 lead.

Notre Dame, a 13-7 winner over Oklahoma last week, played tough but stymied football most of the way, failing to score until late in the final period on third string quarterback Dennis Szot's 17-yard pass to end Jim Kelly.

The partisan crowd, topping the 60,564 record throng at the Army-Notre Dame 1958 game, groaned as no fewer than three apparent Irish touchdowns were cancelled by infractions.

Until DiGravio replaced Gary Hogan, alternate Purdue quarterback, it was a rock-em, sock-em scrap. Skip Ohl's 27-yard field goal and DiGravio's 25-yard scoring shot to Forest Farmer, gave the Boilermakers a 10-0 halftime lead.

The game broke wide open midway in the third period when the Boilermakers marched 94 yards to score on nine plays with DiGravio's sharp passing gulping up most of the yardage.

DiGravio's 42-yard toss to Sam Longmore, and a 17-yard flip to Don Brooks were the big plays in a strike to Notre Dame's one from whence DiGravio sneaked across.

A wild and woolly fourth period saw fullback Gene Donaldson explore 21 yards for Purdue's third touchdown and three Irish touchdowns erased by infractions.

The Jonesville Location

Conservationists will have to wait and see if the location of the Jonesville lock and dam at mile 25 on Black River with a diversion channel connecting Catahoula Lake will be in the best interest of migratory waterfowl.

Richard Yancey, assistant director of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, says the location will "satisfy" the lake's waterfowl future if a control structure in the diversion channel is properly managed.

This means, of course, that Catahoula Lake will continue to provide a food supply for waterfowl if the lake is permitted to drain so that grass-on the lake - bed can grow.

The control structure will be located at the lake end of the channel, thus permitting the government to control the water level on Catahoula Lake.

What remains to be seen is whether the U. S. Corps of Engineers and the U. S. Department of the Interior will keep water in Catahoula all year, or permit it to drain as the lake does not.

Therein lies the possibility of a future conflict of interests, as was brought out in the process of establishing a location.

Wildlife groups who supported an upstream location felt that the government would place the lock and dam downstream, especially since all indications were in that direction.

Thus, the location of the lock and dam downstream with a diversion channel should be accepted in wildlife circles, if the structure is managed so that waterfowl will continue to stop off at Catahoula, which for years has been a vital waterfowl area in Louisiana.

At the same time the south location should be well accepted by those other groups who contended that the best interests of the people would be served by a dam that would hold water in the lake.

In view of the varied interests, Col. Warren S. Everett, the Vicksburg district engineer for the Army engineers, may have accomplished the unbelievable. But as Yancey says, that depends on what will happen after the control structure is built.

While there is no denying that the future of waterfowl is in trouble, you cannot just write it off and destroy the habitat. Waterfowl means a great many things to a great many people, and government cannot shirk its duty by turning its back on the subject, regardless of the future.

The Jonesville lock and dam will be the first of four such structures in the creation of the 9 - foot channel for the Ouachita River, a project that is expected to do great things for all of us.

Let's hope that the government will carry out its channel program with speed while hoping also that the diversion channel will be used to best advantages, including the preservation of wildlife.

Archers Show Interest

From all reports, there has been a great amount of interest shown in Louisiana's first statewide deer season for archers.

The ancient weapon of bow and arrow took a lot of sportsmen to the woods when the deer season opened for them on October 1st. And there should be many more in the woods until the season closes October 15th.

Reports indicate that a lot of sportsmen have gotten shots so far this season, but little blood has been drawn. This does not mean, however, that the modern-day archer cannot kill a deer with an ancient - day weapon.

For instance, to our knowledge, four archers have met with success in this area — two in Madison and two in Tensas.

Phil Lattier, 1217-B S. 2nd St., of Monroe killed a spike buck on opening day in Madison. Phil was pulling a 53-pound bow and buried his arrow six inches in the buck's shoulder at 30 yards.

He said the deer ran off, but was found later.

A Ruston archer, Sterling Harrell, also killed a buck in Madison.

Meantime, in Tensas, where any - deer can be taken with the bow and arrow, Jimmy Woods of St. Joseph killed a doe. He said the arrow went completely through the deer.

And from Newellton, a man named Arnold dropped a spike with his bow and arrow. We were told that Arnold's arrow also went completely through the target.

Certainly the total kill will be small throughout the state, since few sportsmen are capable enough to stalk a deer and take it with a bow and arrow.

But it's a sport that is growing in interest, proof enough that the archery season was long overdue.

Hunting Beginning

This is a big weekend for Louisiana sportsmen, since the squirrel and rabbit seasons opened yesterday.

While the squirrel season will run through January 10th, rabbit hunters will be going great guns until February 15th. For some reason, interest in squirrel hunting will drop off after the first few days of the season, but rabbit hunters will keep it up until the bitter end.

In addition, the second leg of the dove season will open Saturday — October 13-28. This should be a better season than the first.

Meantime, quail hunters have until November 22nd to line up their favorite coveys. Then when the deer season opens a day later, there will be utter frustration.

For the man who loves to hunt, November and December are heaven.

Little Man's Corner

The weather was cool, the fish were biting, squirrels got legal and the little men made news afield.

Fishing, especially white perch fishing, was good all over the area in general. The cool nights made things right for the angler.

Bass fishing also was good. Hugh Robinson, the registrar of voters over in Tensas, landed the biggest one we heard of — a 7-pound bass in one of the barpits around St. Joseph.

Several others caught big ones. Like Sam Tate at Lake Concordia. He landed the limit, averaging from 4 to 4½ - pounds each.

Len Strong and Harold Tate also caught a string of bass, numbering around the limit. Charlie Durham from Atlanta in Winn Parish got the limit in Saline Lake.

Meantime, a new wildlife club has been organized in Richland Parish in the DeMora Island neighborhood. They haven't reached a name for the club yet, but the next meeting will be held October 16th at 8 p.m. in the Woolen Lake Community Center.

George DuCote is the president of the new club.

BIG UPSET

UCLA Field Goal Tops 1st Ranked Ohio State

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The remarkable Bruins of UCLA, after stopping mighty Ohio State three times on the one-yard line, produced the first shocking upset of the 1962 football season Saturday by defeating the Buckeyes 9-7 on a 24-yard field goal with one minute, 35 seconds to go.

Sophomore quarterback Larry Zeno kicked the goal that spelled defeat for the nation's top-ranked college football power. Zeno guided the inspired Bruins 70 yards in 17 plays in the final seven minutes of the intersectional struggle and climaxed the march on fourth down with the ball on the Buckeye 7.

A Coliseum crowd of 48,513 went into a wild frenzy.

It was only the second time all afternoon that UCLA had even been in Buckeye territory. Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State, whose team entered the game a two-touchdown favorite, tried to get on the field to shake the hand of the winning coach, Bill Barnes. But Barnes was already on the shoulders of his triumphant team, being swept into the dressing room.

UCLA supplied the first shocker of the dramatic events that were to follow. Ohio State fullback Dave Francis was jarred loose from the ball on the second play from scrimmage, and Dave Gibbs of UCLA recovered on the Ohio State 45.

On the first UCLA play from scrimmage, halfback Kermit Alexander flashed off left tackle, outran the only two defensive backs who had a shot at him, and raced on for a touchdown. The try for the conversion was wide.

Then began the grind - away, ground attack by Ohio State and the goalline heroics of the outweighed Bruin line.

Ohio State in the first quarter drove 80 yards, only to be stalled on the one-yard line when two straight line plunges by fullback David Katterhenrich produced nothing.

UCLA punted out and before the quarter ended Ohio State, starting on its own 39, moved down to the Bruin 11.

On the third play of the second quarter, quarterback Joe Sparma passed 6 yards to Matt Snell in the end zone for the tying touchdown and Dick Van Rapphorst converted to put Ohio State ahead 7-6.

The game rocked on scoreless from then until the closing minutes.

Quarterback John Mummey twice more steered the Buckeyes on deep thrusts that consumed 78 and 65 yards but neither time could the Buckeyes score. On one drive, Mummey fumbled the hand back from center and UCLA recovered on its 3. On the other, Paul Warfield tried to sweep the right side on fourth down and was thrown back to the UCLA 4.

The Buckeyes twice had four downs to make 7 yards and once had four downs to gain 6 in these penetrations.

Ohio State gained 229 yards rushing to 162 for UCLA. In Overall yardage, the Buckeyes led 276 to 186.

TO MICHIGAN

Army Loses, 17-7 For First Defeat

By CHARLES C. CAIN

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The University of Michigan, capitalizing on every break that came its way, knocked Army from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten football teams Saturday, 17-7.

Army, ranked No. 10 in The Associated Press weekly poll, never got beyond midfield in the first half but finally got an offense rolling in the final two periods.

Dave Raimey, the workhorse of the Michigan backfield, scored one of the winners' touchdowns on a 7-yard plunge and continually harassed Army's defenders with his running.

Michigan moved into a 17-0 lead before Army finally posted a score in the final period.

The Wolverines capitalized on two breaks for a pair of scores. The first came when Capt. Bob Brown set up a touchdown in the opening five minutes when he recovered a punt on Army's 32 after halfback Carl Stichweh signalled for a fair catch and dropped the ball.

Michigan stuck to the ground and nine plays later Jack Strobel dove over from the one. Bob Timberlake converted and early in the second period Timberlake booted a 25-yard field goal to make it 10-0.

Army drove 61 yards to Michigan's 6 early in the third period but Strobel intercepted one of Army quarterback Joe Blackgrove's passes in the end zone to end that threat.

Harvey Chapman set up Michigan's second touchdown as he intercepted Cappy Lewis' pass on Michigan's 31 and returned it to the Cadet 37. Five plays later, Raimey went over from the 7 and Timberlake again converted.

Army's lone touchdown came on a 73-yard punt return by Stichweh early in the fourth period.

SMU Downed By Air Force Team, 25-20

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two glaring Southern Methodist errors and passing of Terry Isaacson and Dave Backus added up to a 25-20 Air Force Academy football victory Saturday.

But Air Force had to stop SMU on the 3-yard line with 20 seconds left to get the triumph.

Don Campbell fumbled on Southern Methodist's first play from scrimmage. Air Force recovered and it led to a 22-yard field goal by John Gavin.

In the third period Danny Thomas had to ground the ball in the end zone when a low pass-back from center rolled across the goal line and that gave Air Force a safety.

The five points made in this way furnished the margin of victory although Isaacson passed 23 yards to Dick Brown for a touchdown set up by Backus' passing and running and Isaacson's 48 yards in passing led to a second touchdown in the second period.

Then Air Force, with Backus' 14-yard throw to Bill Landes the big punch, rolled 51 yards for a third touch down early in the fourth period.

Campbell made up for his lapse on the fumble by passing for three touchdowns, one for 9 yards to Tommy Brennan, another for 56 yards to Billy Gannon and the final 20 yards to Tom Hillary.

Pierce To Face Yanks In 3rd Contest Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Pierce, the stylish southpaw ace of the San Francisco Giants, returns to a familiar battleground Sunday at Yankee Stadium to face Bill Stafford of the New York Yankees in the third World Series game.

The weatherman predicted a partly cloudy Sunday with a high near 70 degrees as the best-of-7 series shifted to the American League champ's park, all even at one game each.

Catcher Elston Howard and first baseman Bill Skowron, two Yankee regulars who missed the second game due to injuries, were expected to return to action after a day of travel and rest. Only Stafford loosened up briefly in Saturday's drizzle.

"It looks like Howard and Skowron will be able to play," said Manager Ralph Houk. Howard suffered an injury to his right wrist while sliding in the first game and Skowron aggravated a chronic back condition.

Despite Pierce's perfect 12-0 record at Candlestick Park, Dark saved him for the Stadium which his club will be seeing for the first time under game conditions. However, a team that had been through a bitter pennant fight and an agonizing three-game playoff for the National League championship, did not figure to be overawed by such little things as 68,000 fans, a triple-decked stadium and the tricky shadows and wind currents in the concrete stadium in the Bronx.

Pierce, 35, knew his way around the Stadium after his span of service with Detroit and the Chicago White Sox who traded him to the Giants last winter. Pitching against the Yanks for 13 years with the White Sox and two with Detroit, Pierce had a 25-37 record. In the National League this year he had a 16-6 record with seven complete games in 23 starts. He won a "big one" with an 8-0 shutout over Los Angeles in the playoff opener and snuffed out the last Dodger hope with a 1-2-3 relief job in the ninth inning of the final playoff game.

The 24-year-old Stafford wound up with a 14-9 year for the Yanks. He completed only seven of 333 starts. The young right-hander from Athens, N.Y., appeared in two Series games against Pittsburg in 1960, both in relief, and started the third game against Cincinnati last year when he was knocked out in the seventh. Stafford was roughed up last Sunday by the White Sox in the last regular season game.

Pierce also had Series experience but oh, so briefly. He was in Manager Al Lopez's doghouse in 1959 and saw action in three games as a relief pitcher when the White Sox played the Dodgers.

Back in the Stadium for the next three games, the Yanks were 7-5 favorites in the third game and 9-5 favorites for the Series. The oddsmakers quoted 4-1 against the Yanks winning the next three and 12-1 against a Giant sweep in New York.

Juan Marichal (18-11), a right-hander, will pitch for the Giants in the fourth game Monday, followed by Billy O'Dell (19-14), the lefty who lost the opener. If more games are needed, the teams will travel Wednesday and resume in San Francisco Thursday and Friday with the sixth and seventh games.

Whitey Ford, winner of the opener, probably will pitch for the Yanks Monday, followed by Ralph Terry, the 2-0 loser to Jack Sanford in the second game.

Jose Pagan, flashy shortstop, was the leading Giant hitter of the Series after two games with a .600 average. Willie Mays, hitless in the second game after three hits off Ford in the opener, had a .375 mark and Felipe Alou and Tom Haller each was hitting .333. Howard at .600, rookie Tom Tresh at .375, and Clete Boyer at .333 led the Yanks.

The Yanks had been deadly in Series play, no matter what the park. In 66 games at the Stadium they have a 43-23 record. Over-all they had won 19 and lost seven World Series, including four of six with the Giants. The Giants' last Series victory was a four-game sweep over Cleveland in 1954. They hadn't beaten the Yanks in a Series since 1922—a 40-year-span.

Duke Gets Close Win Over Florida

By PATRICK HARDEN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—The Duke Blue Devils, stung into action by a Florida three-touchdown scoring spree, came from behind in the second half to whip the Gators 28-21 before 30,000 fans at the Gator Bowl Saturday.

Duke floundered in the first half as Florida defenders smothered the lonesome end attack. Florida struck suddenly in the second period and ran and passed for 21 points in a record 5 minutes 41 seconds.

But the 21-point lead cost Florida three major injuries and Duke swarmed over the weakened Gators, using the lonesome end attack to level the count at 21-all at the end of the third period.

In the final quarter Duke marched across for the winning touchdown, then withstood a tremendous Florida surge.

Florida opened the scoring early in the second period, moving from its own 20 yard line in seven plays to the Duke 21. Then southpaw quarterback Tom Shannon hit right end Sam Holland two yards off the end zone and Holland slipped across.

Two minutes later Gator quarterback Tom Ratten handed to fullback Larry Dupree on the Florida 30, and Supree took off on a 70 - yard TD run.

The third lightning bolt in less than six minutes came when fullback Tom. Kelley intercepted a pass and started a march from the Duke 48 with fullback Jim O'Donnell scoring.

In the second half Duke began the long road back with a 31-yard pass from quarterback Walt Rappold to lonesome end Stan Crissom on the Florida two yard line. Leggett ran the two yards for the first Blue Devil score.

Minutes later relief quarterback Gil Garner hit end Pete Widener for a 33-yard touchdown pass in the end zone as Florida's defense against the lonesome end play crumbled.

The Blue Devils evened the score at the end of the third period, moving from the Florida 22 on five plays, and calling on fullback Mike Curtis for the two-yard touchdown plunge.

That tied it up and set the satge for the fourth period and Duke's game-winning drive.

The Blue Devils marched from their own 40 on nine plays and Curtis again went over the line from two yards out.

Negro Parade In Jackson Quiet Affair

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Under the anxious eyes of reinforced police, strutting majorettes led a Negro college homecoming parade through downtown Jackson Saturday.

Then the police turned their attention to the crowd gathering for the Mississippi - Houston football game, shifted to this capital city because of race tension on the Ole Miss campus 170 miles to the north.

Negro James H. Meredith, the focal point of the desegregation crisis that sparked a riot last Sunday night, had left Ole Miss Friday for a weekend holiday at an undisclosed place.

But federal officials still didn't want 20,000 to 30,000 Ole Miss football fans—most of them dead set against integration—streaming into tiny Oxford.

The university changed the site Thursday on an ultimatum from the Defense Department: Either play the game at Houston or Jackson, or don't play it at all. State's opponent was Arkansas A. & M.

So the football crowd swarmed into Jackson instead of Oxford.

While they came in from all directions, Jackson State College for Negroes prepared for a football game of its own—the homecoming game, with all its attendant festivities.

Jackson State is the school that Meredith attended last year. His wife is a senior at Jackson State now.

Police called in off-duty officers to reinforce their lines in case of trouble during the Negro school's homecoming parade.

But the prancing majorettes led the parade through the downtown section, past the governor's mansion, and to its end without incident.

At the mansion, Gov. Ross Barnett didn't appear. But the mansion servants came out to watch.

At several points along the route, people in the crowd — including some white people — applauded.

A short time after the parade, the 26-unit train provided by the governor arrived from Oxford with 1,200 students aboard. The governor offered free transportation to Ole Miss students when the game had to be moved.

NAMED TO ANGOLA POST

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese Mozambique (AP)—Lt. Col. S. Marques has been named governor general of Angola, Portugal's revolt-ridden West African possession, it was announced Saturday night.

He replaces air force Gen. V. des Landes who was dismissed last week after being recalled to Lisbon for consultations.

Actor Boy Friend Slain By Actress

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—A 24-year-old actress killed her actor-boy friend Saturday with a shotgun blast through the heart. She said he had threatened her life.

After the shooting, police reported, Sandra Edwards stumbled from her home crying:

"Oh my God! Oh, my God! I hope this is a nightmare. It's got to be a nightmare. I love him so. I love him so."

Sandra, a striking brunette who has played minor roles in several television series, told police she shot Tom Gilson, 28, after he broke through a rear door and threatened to kill her and four children present. She was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said Gilson, a television actor, had a 9-month-old son by Miss Edwards.

Investigators said the actress told them: "The children have seen Tom 'killed' on TV many times. But this time it was real."

Sandra said she and Gilson broke up several months ago and he had frequently bothered her since. She said he telephoned Friday night and threatened her life.

Miss Edwards has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis, her sister and brother-in-law. The actress told police that Davis gave her a 12-gauge shotgun after Gilson called. She said Davis instructed her: "If he comes over, you can use this to frighten him."

Sandra said Gilson showed up later, demanded to see his son and broke through a door when she refused to let him in. She said she threatened to shoot and he replied: "Go ahead. I don't care. If you don't shoot, Sandra, I'll kill you and the kids."

She said he was about a foot from the muzzle of the shotgun when she fired. "I really thought the safety was on," she said.

Also in the house at the time were Sandra's three children—two of them by a previous marriage—and Mrs. Davis and her 2-year-old son.

Officers Spoil Boy's Plans To Fight Castro

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Young Tommy Neary Jr. was on his way home Saturday after his runaway flight to join anti-Castro forces in Florida was cut short by officers here.

The 15-year-old boy, carrying a 22-caliber rifle and four boxes of cartridges, was spotted at a railroad yard Friday waiting to grab a southbound freight train.

He told officers he ran away from his home at Waterloo, Iowa, last Sunday, traveling by Frisco Railroad freight trains.

"I'd been getting bad marks in school and knew my mother would be disappointed so I left home," he said.

"I heard they would take young boys to fight Castro and were training them at Key West. I thought I'd get down there and join them."

Authorities called the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Neary Sr., and they drove here Friday night to take their son home.

IN JFK ADDRESS

GOP Is Blamed For 'Farm Mess'

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—President Kennedy told a farm belt political rally Saturday night that his administration has been putting "money into the farmer's pocket" and cleaning up an agricultural mess inherited from the Republicans.

The Democratic party has been true to the farmer and true to its word, Kennedy said, and soon the farmer no longer will be worried about surpluses depressing the market.

The President's forum was a Democratic-Farmer Labor party been feed at the Minnesota State Fair Grounds. He used it to pay special tribute to Orville L. Freeman, the former Minnesota governor he chose as his secretary of agriculture.

"We inherited many a mess in Washington 20 months ago," the chief executive said in a prepared address, "but none was worse than that which was left by Ezra Taft Benson. Orville Freeman has been cleaning up that mess."

Benson was secretary of agriculture in the Eisenhower administration.

St. Paul was the last stop at the end of a day's stumping along a political trial that led from Detroit to Flint and Muskegon, Mich., and on to Minneapolis. Sunday Kennedy speaks at St. Cloud, Minn., then flies back to Washington to wind up a campaign tour which also took in Erlanger, Ky., and Cincinnati, O.

All the way, the chief executive was plugging hard for the election of Democrats running for governor, senator and the House.

In Minnesota, Kennedy made a strong political pitch for Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag, who helped him carry the state in 1960 by 22,000 votes out of more than 1.5 million. Rolvaag is trying to move up a notch and oust Republican Gov. Elmer Andersen in the process.

Kennedy called strongly too, for Minnesota to put more Democrats in the U.S. House of Representatives.

"I have come to Minnesota with two messages," he said, "First, to express my thanks; and second, to ask your help."

A Democratic Congress and administration have done a lot for Minnesota, he said. "But more needs to be done—and we need more Democrats to do it."

Getting the country moving again, as he promised to do two years ago, Kennedy said, is a hard, continuing, hour by hour job, "and to help me tackle that job I ask your help in this election."

Shifting his focus to the farm picture in particular, Kennedy said the gloominess of 20 months ago has changed.

"We have not solved all the problems," he conceded. "We did not pass a perfect bill—not with the Republicans voting solidly against our every proposal.

"But we have achieved the best two-year advance for American farmers since the days of the great depression. We have helped put money into the farmer's pocket, into his family budget and into the cash registers on Main Street in the small towns of this and other states.

"What is perhaps most important of all, we have kept our promises to the farmer—and I believe that the farmers of this country, who have been promised so much and misled so often for so many years, will respect the candidates of a party that keeps its promises."

He ticked off a list of promises he said were fulfilled:

To give the farm problem top priority, to raise farm income immediately, to bring supply into balance with total demand, to make the fullest use of agricultural abundance, to expand loans to farm families, to expand federal crop insurance, to expand rural electrification, and so on.

GUIDES AGAINST DECEPTIVE PRICING

The following guides have been adopted by the Federal Trade Commission for the use of its staff in the evaluation of pricing representations in advertising.

In determining whether or not pricing practices are violative of the laws administered by the Commission, the facts in each matter are considered in view of the requirements of the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended, and principles enunciated by the Courts in the adjudication of cases. The foremost of these principles are:

1. Advertisements must be considered in their entirety and as they would be read by those to whom they appeal.
2. Advertisements as a whole may be completely misleading although every sentence separately considered is literally true. This may be because things are omitted that should be said, or because advertisements are composed or purposely worded in such a way as to mislead.
3. Advertisements are not intended to be carefully dissected with a dictionary at hand, but rather to produce an impression upon prospective purchasers.
4. Whether or not the advertiser knows the representations to be false, the deception of purchasers and the diversion of trade from competitors is the same.
5. A deliberate effort to deceive is not necessary to make out a case of using unfair methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices within the prohibition of the statute.
6. Laws are made to protect the trusting as well as the suspicious.
7. Pricing representations, however made, which are ambiguous will be read favorably to the accomplishment of the purpose of the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended, which is to prevent the making of claims which have the tendency and capacity to mislead.

THE GUIDES

In considering particular types of pricing practices for the purpose of determining whether terminology and direct or implied representations, however made, i.e., in advertising or in labeling or otherwise, may be in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act, the following general principles will be used:

(Principles I Through VI Omitted)

VII. "FACTORY OR WHOLESALE PRICES."

No statement should be made in connection with the offering for sale of a product to the consuming public of a "factory" or "wholesale" price, or other such expression, which represents or implies that the consuming public can purchase the article at the same price that retailers regularly do, and provides a saving from the usual and customary retail price for the article in the trade area, or areas, where the claim is made unless such statement is true.

Guide VII, above, is based on Commission decisions to the effect that it is unlawful to represent prices as "wholesale" unless the consuming public can purchase the article at the same price that retailers regularly do. ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—President Kennedy told a farm belt political rally Saturday night that his administration has been putting "money into the farmer's pocket" and cleaning up an agricultural mess inherited from the Republicans.

The Democratic party has been true to the farmer and true to its word, Kennedy said, and soon the farmer no longer will be worried about surpluses depressing the market.

The President's forum was a Democratic-Farmer Labor party been feed at the Minnesota State Fair Grounds. He used it to pay special tribute to Orville L. Freeman, the former Minnesota governor he chose as his secretary of agriculture.

"We inherited many a mess in Washington 20 months ago," the chief executive said in a prepared address, "but none was worse than that which was left by Ezra Taft Benson. Orville Freeman has been cleaning up that mess."

Benson was secretary of agriculture in the Eisenhower administration.

St. Paul was the last stop at the end of a day's stumping along a political trial that led from Detroit to Flint and Muskegon, Mich., and on to Minneapolis. Sunday Kennedy speaks at St. Cloud, Minn., then flies back to Washington to wind up a campaign tour which also took in Erlanger, Ky., and Cincinnati, O.

All the way, the chief executive was plugging hard for the election of Democrats running for governor, senator and the House.

In Minnesota, Kennedy made a strong political pitch for Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag, who helped him carry the state in 1960 by 22,000 votes out of more than 1.5 million. Rolvaag is trying to move up a notch and oust Republican Gov. Elmer Andersen in the process.

Kennedy called strongly too, for Minnesota to put more Democrats in the U.S. House of Representatives.

"I have come to Minnesota with two messages," he said, "First, to express my thanks; and second, to ask your help."

A Democratic Congress and administration have done a lot for Minnesota, he said, "But more needs to be done—and we need more Democrats to do it."

Getting the country moving again, as he promised to do two years ago, Kennedy said, is a hard, continuing, hour by hour job, "and to help me tackle that job I ask your help in this election."

Shifting his focus to the farm picture in particular, Kennedy said the gloominess of 20 months ago has changed.

"We have not solved all the problems," he conceded. "We did not pass a perfect bill—not with the Republicans voting solidly against our every proposal.

"But we have achieved the best two-year advance for American farmers since the days of the great depression. We have helped put money into the farmer's pocket, into his family budget and into the cash registers on Main Street in the small towns of this and other states.

"What is perhaps most important of all, we have kept our promises to the farmer—and I believe that the farmers of this country, who have been promised so much and misled so often for so many years, will respect the candidates of a party that keeps its promises."

He ticked off a list of promises he said were fulfilled:

To give the farm problem top priority, to raise farm income immediately, to bring supply into balance with total demand, to make the fullest use of agricultural abundance, to expand loans to farm families, to expand federal crop insurance, to expand rural electrification, and so on.

GUIDES AGAINST DECEPTIVE PRICING

The following guides have been adopted by the Federal Trade Commission for the use of its staff in the evaluation of pricing representations in advertising.

In determining whether or not pricing practices are violative of the laws administered by the Commission, the facts in each matter are considered in view of the requirements of the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended, and principles enunciated by the Courts in the adjudication of cases. The foremost of these principles are:

1. Advertisements must be considered in their entirety and as they would be read by those to whom they appeal.
2. Advertisements as a whole may be completely misleading although every sentence separately considered is literally true. This may be because things are omitted that should be said, or because advertisements are composed or purposely worded in such a way as to mislead.
3. Advertisements are not intended to be carefully dissected with a dictionary at hand, but rather to produce an impression upon prospective purchasers.
4. Whether or not the advertiser knows the representations to be false, the deception of purchasers and the diversion of trade from competitors is the same.
5. A deliberate effort to deceive is not necessary to make out a case of using unfair methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices within the prohibition of the statute.
6. Laws are made to protect the trusting as well as the suspicious.
7. Pricing representations, however made, which are ambiguous will be read favorably to the accomplishment of the purpose of the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended, which is to prevent the making of claims which have the tendency and capacity to mislead.

THE GUIDES

In considering particular types of pricing practices for the purpose of determining whether terminology and direct or implied representations, however made, i.e., in advertising or in labeling or otherwise, may be in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act, the following general principles will be used:

(Principles I Through VI Omitted)

VII. "FACTORY OR WHOLESALE PRICES."

No statement should be made in connection with the offering for sale of a product to the consuming public of a "factory" or "wholesale" price, or other such expression, which represents or implies that the consuming public can purchase the article at the same price that retailers regularly do, and provides a saving from the usual and customary retail price for the article in the trade area, or areas, where the claim is made unless such statement is true.

Guide VII, above, is based on Commission decisions to the effect that it is unlawful to represent prices as "wholesale" unless the consuming public can purchase the article at the same price that retailers regularly do. Just one hundred years ago, Louisa Wilhemine Lundberg became the bride of Herman Henry Biedenharn in a ceremony performed in Monroe. Last Sunday afternoon descendants of the couple were invited to celebrate the "Biedenharn Centennial" at a party in the home of EMY-LOU BIEDENHARN. Invitations were mailed to some two hundred family members throughout the South.

Guest gathered in Emy-Lou's garden, where the first course was served on the balcony terrace. A centerpiece of fruit bedded in ice decorated the table where fruit was served from a silver punch bowl.

In the Ebony fountain room, where ninety were seated for dinner, a theme of "Three Cokes in the Fountain" was carried out in decorations. The top of the three - tiered fountain held bubbled bottles, while the central tier overflowed with fresh pineapples, grapes, plums and apples arranged with bottles. At the base, mound of ice were packed with bottled drinks.

Garland of ivy ran down the center of the each of four tables at which guests were seated. Crystal and silver epergnes held fresh fruit or, alternately, salted nuts. At each place were gold - embossed card setting forth the menu in French and in English: fruit cup, followed by roast beef with horseradish sauce, Danish tongue, Mermaid peach medley, almond eggs d' orchelerre, and Copenhagen bacon puffs. For dessert, individual three - tired wedding cakes, embossed 1862 — 1962, were served on small silver plates.

Emy - Lou's entire house was festive for the occasion, with early white camellias from her garden and orchids from the greenhouse. In the garden room, white Butterfly roses and fresh fruit filled a tall tiered glass epergne. White Fuji mums were used in an Oriental container in the library. The Sevres bisque garniture on the dining table held white Butterfly roses with clusters of white grapes.

Coincident with the centennial date was the publication of Emy-Lou's book entitled "Biedenharn Heritage", which is a history of the family's one hundred years in Monroe. Her guests presented Emy - Lou with a white orchid corsage and a plaque of appreciation in the form of an illuminated parchment manuscript, signed by all the family, in gratitude for her efforts in compiling the history.

Attending the party were ninety family members from Vicksburg, Jackson and Yazoo City, Mississippi; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; San Antonio and Wichita Falls, Texas; Birmingham, Alabama; and Shreveport.

A new type of party on the local scene this week was the "Thank - You Coffee" given by the JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE at the Lotus club on Wednesday morning. Only men guests were invited to the affair: civic leaders, husbands of sustaining members, and other gentlemen who have supported the League and its projects through the years. The reception room was encircled with small stages on which doll - sized displays depicted various phases of the League's work: the Youth Orchestra, Milk Fund, Cerebral Palsy match service; story hour; Thrift shop, puppet shows; YWCA; Crippled Children's Clinic; art show; and the school for hard of hearing.

Yellow chrysanthemums were used with fall foliage in a massive arrangement on the piano, with the same flowers repeated in the centerpiece on the green - covered refreshment table. Coffee was served, with "manized" homemade Brownies, banana bread, and hot sweet rolls. About one hundred men attended.

Today marks the opening of National Business Women's Week, with the local chapter of Business and Professional Women's Clubs celebrating its fortieth year in Monroe. Today's events include a breakfast at Highland Park country club, with the group to attend church at First Baptist in West Monroe. Later today some of the ladies will motor to Shreveport to attend a tea planned by the chapter there. A number of other events are scheduled for later this week.

Members of Louisiana State university Alumni Association met Wednesday evening for dinner at the Paragon club. Speaker of the evening was T. HARRY WILLIAMS of the LSU History department, who spoke on "A Professor Looks at LSU". He gave a quick sketch of the university's history, with a look at the present and guess for the future. Some fifty LSU graduates were present for the meeting.

On Friday last, PAT MADDEN and MARGE MULLENS were hostesses for a bride - luncheon honoring JUDY WOODRUFF, who moved to Monroe this summer.

Fall garden flowers decorated the Madden home for the party. Individual tables were centered with small containers holding inkberries, pine cones, and pyracantha. The menu included individual ramekins of shrimp with wild rice, served with a congealed asparagus salad, pickled peach, and hot biscuits. For dessert, angel food squares with orange custard, topped with whipped cream. Four tables of players took part in the bridge games, with CISSY RYAN winning high, and SANCY MADISON, low.

OFF TO EUROPE for a glorious autumn vacation is FRANCES ALBRIGHT, who sailed yesterday from New York aboard the S. S. Independence. She is with a group of about seventy who will visit religious shrines and points of interest (Lisbon, Fatima, Naples, Rome, Lourdes, and others). After a five week tour, she will return on the S. S. France.

Honoring JEANNETTE AYCOCK, a recent newcomer, ANN HOLMES entertained with luncheon at home on Thursday. Pink roses centered the dining table, which was appointed with pink linen mats. The menu served to eight guests included chicken breasts Veronique, parslied rice, pineapple fritters, molded broccoli salad, hot biscuits, and caramel custard for dessert.

Our poem for today, by Ogden Nash, is entitled "Prayer at the End of a Rope":

Dear Lord, observe this bended knee,
This visage meek and humble,
And heed this confidential plea,
Voiced in a reverent mumble.
I ask no miracles or stunts,
No heavenly radiogram;
I only beg for once, just once,
To not be in a jam.
One little moment thy servant craves
Of being his own master;
One placid vale between the waves
Of duty and disaster.
Oh, when the postman's whistle shrills,
Just once, Lord, let me grin;
Let me have settled last month's bills
Before this month's come in.
Let me not bite more off the cob
Than I have teeth to chew;
Please let me finish just one job
Before the next is due.
For months, when people entertain,
Me they do not invite;
Then suddenly invitations rain,
All for the self-same night.
R.S.V.P.'s I pray thee send
Alone and not in bunches,
Or teach me I cannot attend
Two dinners or two lunches.
One little lull, Lord, that's my plea.
Then loose the storm again;
Just once, this once, I beg to be
Not in a jam. Amen.

Buy Quality Leather Novelties

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

New in fashion are novelty leathers and colors for staple leathers. So popular have they become that many low-priced versions have come on the market.

The National Institute of Dry Cleaning has warned that buying cheap novelty leathers will be poor economy. For example, many imitation grain and suede "leathers" can't be drycleaned. If combined in a garment with a fabric or knit which shouldn't be washed, the garment won't have a long life.

Pearlized leathers can wear off if the pearl finish is inferior. Abrasion of the finish will result in an acid surface condition which turns the skin brown or black.

Bronze and gold shades in leather, if not of high quality, will tarnish. Aluminum pigment seems to give more serviceability.

BARBECUE CHICKEN TIP

When barbecued chicken appears to be burning before it is cooked, chances are that the barbecue sauce is too thick. Margaret Spader, home service consultant, suggests thinning the sauce with chicken broth, tomato juice or water. This will reduce burning or undercooking because of excessive browning.

Tallulah Is Party Scene

Mrs. Richard Powell was complimented with a dessert bridge at the home of Mrs. William F. Powell on Wednesday afternoon. Games resulted in Mrs. Donald Moore winning the high score prize, Mrs. Hubert Watts, low score, and Mrs. Martis Verhages, consolation. The honoree was also presented with a gift.

A small cradle surrounded with dainty pink flowers was the centerpiece for the table where guests were seated for refreshments. Friends attending the party with the honor guest were Mrs. Hubert Watts, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Hilton Russell, Mrs. Martin Verhagen, Mrs. Kirby Guidry, Mrs. Russell Petersen, Mrs. Billy Keyes.

The Sevres bisque garniture on the dining table held white Butterfly roses with clusters of white grapes.

Coinciding with the centennial date was the publication of Emy-Lou's book entitled "Biedenharn Heritage", which is a history of the family's one hundred years in Monroe. Her guests presented Emy - Lou with a white orchid corsage and a plaque of appreciation in the form of an illuminated parchment manuscript, signed by all the family, in gratitude for her efforts in compiling the history.

Attending the party were ninety family members from Vicksburg, Jackson and Yazoo City, Mississippi; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; San Antonio and Wichita Falls, Texas; Birmingham, Alabama; and Shreveport.

A new type of party on the local scene this week was the "Thank - You Coffee" given by the JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE at the Lotus club on Wednesday morning. Only men guests were invited to the affair: civic leaders, husbands of sustaining members, and other gentlemen who have supported the League and its projects through the years. The reception room was encircled with small stages on which doll - sized displays depicted various phases of the League's work: the Youth Orchestra, Milk Fund, Cerebral Palsy match service; story hour; Thrift shop, puppet shows; YWCA; Crippled Children's Clinic; art show; and the school for hard of hearing.

Yellow chrysanthemums were used with fall foliage in a massive arrangement on the piano, with the same flowers repeated in the centerpiece on the green - covered refreshment table. Coffee was served, with "man-sized" homemade Brownies, banana bread, and hot sweet rolls. About one hundred men attended.

Today marks the opening of National Business Women's Week, with the local chapter of Business and Professional Women's Clubs celebrating its fortieth year in Monroe. Today's events include a breakfast at Highland Park country club, with the group to attend church at First Baptist in West Monroe. Later today some of the ladies will motor to Shreveport to attend a tea planned by the chapter there. A number of other events are scheduled for later this week.

Members of Louisiana State university Alumni Association met Wednesday evening for dinner at the Paragon club. Speaker of the evening was T. HARRY WILLIAMS of the LSU History department, who spoke on "A Professor Looks at LSU". He gave a quick sketch of the university's history, with a look at the present and guess for the future. Some fifty LSU graduates were present for the meeting.

On Friday last, PAT MADDEN and MARGE MULLENS were hostesses for a bride - luncheon honoring JUDY WOODRUFF, who moved to Monroe this summer.

Fall garden flowers decorated the Madden home for the party. Individual tables were centered with small containers holding inkberries, pine cones, and pyracantha. The menu included individual ramekins of shrimp with wild rice, served with a congealed asparagus salad, pickled peach, and hot biscuits. For dessert, angel food squares with orange custard, topped with whipped cream. Four tables of players took part in the bridge games, with CISSY RYAN winning high, and SANCY MADISON, low.

OFF TO EUROPE for a glorious autumn vacation is FRANCES ALBRIGHT, who sailed yesterday from New York aboard the S. S. Independence. She is with a group of about seventy who will visit religious shrines and points of interest (Lisbon, Fatima, Naples, Rome, Lourdes, and others). After a five week tour, she will return on the S. S. France.

Honoring JEANNETTE AYCOCK, a recent newcomer, ANN HOLMES entertained with luncheon at home on Thursday. Pink roses centered the dining table, which was appointed with pink linen mats. The menu served to eight guests included chicken breasts Veronique, parslied rice, pineapple fritters, molded broccoli salad, hot biscuits, and caramel custard for dessert.

Our poem for today, by Ogden Nash, is entitled "Prayer at the End of a Rope":

Dear Lord, observe this bended knee,
This visage meek and humble,
And heed this confidential plea,
Voiced in a reverent mumble.
I ask no miracles or stunts,
No heavenly radiogram;
I only beg for once, just once,
To not be in a jam.
One little moment thy servant craves
Of being his own master;
One placid vale between the waves
Of duty and disaster.
Oh, when the postman's whistle shrills,
Just once, Lord, let me grin;
Let me have settled last month's bills
Before this month's come in.
Let me not bite more off the cob
Than I have teeth to chew;
Please let me finish just one job
Before the next is due.
For months, when people entertain,
Me they do not invite;
Then suddenly invitations rain,
All for the self-same night.
R.S.V.P.'s I pray thee send
Alone and not in bunches,
Or teach me I cannot attend
Two dinners or two lunches.
One little lull, Lord, that's my plea.
Then loose the storm again;
Just once, this once, I beg to be
Not in a jam. Amen.

QUICKEST WAY

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — "What's the quickest way to get to Forest Lawn Cemetery," asked Dr. W. T. Muse, dean of the University of Richmond law school, of a store proprietor.

"Drop dead," was the prompt reply.

Buy Quality Leather Novelties

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

New in fashion are novelty leathers and colors for staple leathers. So popular have they become that many low-priced versions have come on the market.

The National Institute of Dry Cleaning has warned that buying cheap novelty leathers will be poor economy. For example, many imitation grain and suede "leathers" can't be drycleaned. If combined in a garment with a fabric or knit which shouldn't be washed, the garment won't have a long life.

Pearlized leathers can wear off if the pearl finish is inferior. Abrasion of the finish will result in an acid surface condition which turns the skin brown or black.

Bronze and gold shades in leather, if not of high quality, will tarnish. Aluminum pigment seems to give more serviceability.

BARBECUE CHICKEN TIP

When barbecued chicken appears to be burning before it is cooked, chances are that the barbecue sauce is too thick. Margaret Spader, home service consultant, suggests thinning the sauce with chicken broth, tomato juice or water. This will reduce burning or undercooking because of excessive browning.

Tallulah Is Party Scene

Mrs. Richard Powell was complimented with a dessert bridge at the home of Mrs. William F. Powell on Wednesday afternoon. Games resulted in Mrs. Donald Moore winning the high score prize, Mrs. Hubert Watts, low score, and Mrs. Martis Verhages, consolation. The honoree was also presented with a gift.

A small cradle surrounded with dainty pink flowers was the centerpiece for the table where guests were seated for refreshments. Friends attending the party with the honor guest were Mrs. Hubert Watts, Mrs. Donald Moore, Mrs. Hilton Russell, Mrs. Martin Verhagen, Mrs. Kirby Guidry, Mrs. Russell Petersen, Mrs. Billy Keyes.

MR. AND MRS. STANLEY WAYNE RUSSELL

Miss Mary Smith, Stanley Russell Wed

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben L. Bradford Jr. in Choudrant was the setting for a double ring ceremony on Saturday afternoon, September 22, at 4:00 p.m. uniting Miss Mary Kathryn Smith and Stanley Wayne Russell.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith of Tallulah, and Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Russell of Sondheimer.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Littleton before a background of white gladioli and greenery in the living room. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of white organza over taffeta, featuring a full skirt and cummerbund, and a white chantilly lace jacket with three - quarter length sleeves and a boat neckline. Her veil of illusion fell from white seed pearl crown, and her bouquet was composed of a white orchid on a white Bible.

Mrs. Ben L. Bradford, Jr. was her sister's only attendant, and was gowned in a two - piece green brocade suit with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of white mums. M. E. Anderson was in attendance as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Smith wore a beige silk brocade shirt waist dress with bone colored accessories, and a white mum corsage. The groom's mother was attired in a grey shirtwaist dress with black accessories and a white mum corsage.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the dining room of the Bradford home. The table was covered with a white Belgium lace cloth over green, and was centered with an arrangement of white mums. Baskets of white gladioli were used throughout the house. Miss Leah Laing served cake at one end of the table, and Miss Zelma Bradford served punch at the other end. Miss Charlotte Crosser presided over the bride's book.

For her departure Mrs. Russell chose an amber silk dress with black accessories and wore the white orchid from her bouquet. Both Mr. and Mrs. Russell are graduates of Tallulah High School and will reside in Jackson, Mississippi, where Mr. Russell is employed.

Out - of - town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Brumfield of Norfolk, Virginia, Mrs. Charles D. Pigott, of Starkville, Mississippi, Mary Russell, of Sondheimer, Marjorie Kirk of Jackson, Miss Rosemary Eichinberger of Jackson, Mississippi, David W. Wilcher of Crowville, Dalton Wilcher of Crowville, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wilcher of Crowville, David L. Barron of Oak Grove, H. P. A. M. Reeves of Tallulah, Virginia Singuefield of Tallulah.

Miss Kelly, Mr. Moore Plan December Wedding

Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Betty Jane Kelly of Houston, Texas, and F. Aldrich Moore III, also of Houston.

The bride - elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Kelly of Oak Grove. Parents of the prospective groom are F. Aldrich Moore, Jr., of Houston and Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell Moore of San Antonio, Texas.

The Rev. E. B. Emmerich of West Monroe will officiate at the ceremony, which is planned for six in the evening, December 22, in the First Methodist church of Oak Grove.

The bride - elect, who was a 1961 graduate of Sophie Newcomb college, is a teacher in Houston schools. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Miss Kelly's maternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross of Oak Grove. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. D. W. Kelly of Oak Grove and the late Dr. Kelly.

Mr. Moore is a graduate of the Hill School in Pottstown, Pennsylvania, and received the Bachelor of Arts degree from Rice Institute in Houston. His paternal grandmother is Mrs. Andrew T. Calvert of Frogmore, Louisiana.

The prospective groom is associated with an investment counseling firm in Houston, where the couple will make their home.

REVERSE TOGETHERNESS

Togetherness may or may not be all right in human relationships, but in the installation of ceramic tile it is strictly taboo. Real tie, such as that installed on kitchen countertops, are spaced slightly apart so that the joints may be permanently sealed to make the installation waterproof. A new epoxy resin material for filling (grouting) the joints also is heatproof, stainproof and chemical - resistant, making kitchen countertops of real tile better than ever before.

INDIAN INFLUENCE

One of the most exotic of fashion influences is from India. It's seen in richly textures, colorful evening fashions and accessories.

MR. AND MRS. STANLEY WAYNE RUSSELL

Miss Mary Smith, Stanley Russell Wed

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben L. Bradford Jr. in Choudrant was the setting for a double ring ceremony on Saturday afternoon, September 22, at 4:00 p.m. uniting Miss Mary Kathryn Smith and Stanley Wayne Russell.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith of Tallulah, and Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Russell of Sondheimer.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Littleton before a background of white gladioli and greenery in the living room. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of white organza over taffeta, featuring a full skirt and cummerbund, and a white chantilly lace jacket with three - quarter length sleeves and a boat neckline. Her veil of illusion fell from white seed pearl crown, and her bouquet was composed of a white orchid on a white Bible.

Mrs. Ben L. Bradford, Jr. was her sister's only attendant, and was gowned in a two - piece green brocade suit with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of white mums. M. E. Anderson was in attendance as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Smith wore a beige silk brocade shirt waist dress with bone colored accessories, and a white mum corsage. The groom's mother was attired in a grey shirtwaist dress with black accessories and a white mum corsage.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the dining room of the Bradford home. The table was covered with a white Belgium lace cloth over green, and was centered with an arrangement of white mums. Baskets of white gladioli were used throughout the house. Miss Leah Laing served cake at one end of the table, and Miss Zelma Bradford served punch at the other end. Miss Charlotte Crosser presided over the bride's book.

For her departure Mrs. Russell chose an amber silk dress with black accessories and wore the white orchid from her bouquet. Both Mr. and Mrs. Russell are graduates of Tallulah High School and will reside in Jackson, Mississippi, where Mr. Russell is employed.

Out - of - town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Brumfield of Norfolk, Virginia, Mrs. Charles D. Pigott, of Starkville, Mississippi, Mary Russell, of Sondheimer, Marjorie Kirk of Jackson, Miss Rosemary Eichinberger of Jackson, Mississippi, David W. Wilcher of Crowville, Dalton Wilcher of Crowville, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wilcher of Crowville, David L. Barron of Oak Grove, H. P. Reeves of Tallulah, Virginia Singuefield of Tallulah.

The prospective groom is associated with an investment counseling firm in Houston, where the couple will make their home.

REVERSE TOGETHERNESS

Togetherness may or may not be all right in human relationships, but in the installation of ceramic tile it is strictly taboo. Real tie, such as that installed on kitchen countertops, are spaced slightly apart so that the joints may be permanently sealed to make the installation waterproof. A new epoxy resin material for filling (grouting) the joints also is heatproof, stainproof and chemical - resistant, making kitchen countertops of real tile better than ever before.

INDIAN INFLUENCE

One of the most exotic of fashion influences is from India. It's seen in richly textures, colorful evening fashions and accessories.

Review Club Has Initial Meet Of Year

The home of Mrs. Craig Morgan on Parkwood Boulevard was scene of the initial meeting of the Review Club 1962-63 club year.

An arrangement of candle tree branches in a large antique brass pitcher enhanced the entrance hall and the focal point of the living room was a brass bowl of pyracantha berries and blending foliage in lovely autumn shades.

The meeting opened with the members repeating the club collect in unison, following which Mrs. Claude Smith, president, conducted a short business meeting. A letter from the state president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs was read.

Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Jr., chairman of the advisory board, gave a resume of the year's program of study, the theme of which is "We Read for Knowledge and Pleasure." She then introduced Mrs. James Brown who reviewed "A Sad Heart at the Super Market" by Randall Jarrell, a collection of essays and fables about taste, learning and culture in the United States.

The timely review of "Introduction to Space" was given by Mrs. W. E. Bennett Jr. In this book, Dr. Lee A. DuBridge tells what has been achieved in space and what can be expected for the future. He distinguishes between what is knowledge and what is guesswork. This book is based on four lectures delivered at the Brookhaven National Laboratory.

Following the program refreshments were served to the special guest, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, and to members Mrs. W. E. Bennett Jr., Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. Thomas Dansby, Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Prentice Gray Jr., Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., Mrs. Robert Lewis, Mrs. J. C. Lottin, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. George Walker.

Questions And Answers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. I plan to redecorate a small living room that needs a more lively look. It has a picture window and one white paneled wall. A large sectional is black and an arm chair is red. What color for walls, draperies, rug and a small occasional chair? Where could I introduce a stripe or print? I plan to gradually have an oriental influence. Have you any suggestions?

A. I'd have white walls and draperies. Rug could be a white wool one from India. With this have a good assortment of pillows on black sofa in oriental silks such as Siamese pink, bitter green and citrus yellow. Cover small chair in an oriental print in a yellow ground with bright multi - color for red chair. If you want an oriental rug, you could select a color scheme from this but walls and draperies could still be white.

Q. I need help in decorating my bedroom. Furniture is dark mahogany and rug is a deep, dusty pink. What do you suggest for walls, draperies, bedspread and cover for vanity bench? I do not like beige and thought white would make the furniture too prominent because the room is small.

A. I think white would be all right, but I would paint the walls a pale dusty pink to blend with the rug. Use this color for the bedspread too. Curtains, dust ruffles, and bench could be in a small scale print in pale pink with deeper pink and white. Introduce a sharp green for some accessories and also some sparkling white.

Q. I would like your advice on color for draperies, sofa, rug and walls in my living room. I have one gold chair and two off-white. I thought of white for walls and beige for rug. It is a small room.

A. White walls and woodwork would be very nice, so would a beige rug. I would cover the sofa in beige too. The draperies could be a print in a white ground with beige and gold. Occasionally have orange carnations in room.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made today by Mr. and Mrs. Columbus L. Smith of Winnsboro, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carol Lynn, to Frank Pleasant Sims, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pleasant Sims, Sr., also of Winnsboro. The nuptials are planned for Sunday, October 28, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in the First Methodist church of Winnsboro with the Rev. Fred Schwendimann officiating.

MISS SHIRLEY VIRGINIA FLETCHER is engaged to be married to Hulon Ray Fairchild, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fairchild of Transylvania, according to an announcement made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fletcher, also of Transylvania. The wedding is planned for five in the evening, Saturday, October 27, in Transylvania Baptist church.

Eleanor Bolton Speaks To Monroe Garden Club

Monroe Garden Club met Monday, October 1, at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Mrs. Eleanor G. Bolton, Fairfax, Va., author and lecturer, was guest speaker. Mrs. Bolton is author of the book "Dried Flowers with a Fresh Look."

Mrs. Bolton's lecture, which was most informative and interesting, covered several periods of flower arranging: Oriental; Ikebana; 18th Century Traditional; Contemporary; Modern; and various arrangements for "special occasions". She illustrated her lecture with color slides.

Mrs. Bolton expalined new techniques for drying materials and methods involved for each, some of which she has created herself in the use of drying flowers. Several arrangements were on display for club members.

The following members attended the meeting: Mesdames G. F. Beckett, W. R. Hatchell, J. B. Parker, E. T. Heard, Frederic King, W. F. Cotton Jr., A. C. Warner, W. E. Review Club Has Initial Meet Of Year

The home of Mrs. Craig Morgan on Pargoud Boulevard was scene of the initial meeting of the Review Club 1962-63 club year.

An arrangement of candle tree branches in a large antique brass pitcher enhanced the entrance hall and the focal point of the living room was a brass bowl of pyracantha berries and blending foliage in lovely autumn shades.

The meeting opened with the members repeating the club collect in unison, following which Mrs. Claude Smith, president, conducted a short business meeting. A letter from the state president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs was read.

Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Jr., chairman of the advisory board, gave a resume of the year's program of study, the theme of which is "We Read for Knowledge and Pleasure." She then introduced Mrs. James Brown who reviewed "A Sad Heart at the Super Market" by Randall Jarrell, a collection of essays and fables about taste, learning and culture in the United States.

The timely review of "Introduction to Space" was given by Mrs. W. E. Bennett Jr. In this book, Dr. Lee A. DuBridge tells what has been achieved in space and what can be expected for the future. He distinguishes between what is knowledge and what is guesswork. This book is based on four lectures delivered at the Brookhaven National Laboratory.

Following the program refreshments were served to the special guest, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, and to members Mrs. W. E. Bennett Jr., Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. Thomas Dansby, Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Prentice Gray Jr., Mrs. D. W. Griffith, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., Mrs. Robert Lewis, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. George Walker.

Opera Club Has Year's First Meet

First meeting of the season for the Opera Club was held in the home of Mrs. Lee Hodges, 2305 Hawthorne Thursday morning at 9:45 a.m.

Pink roses were placed in the living room and on the coffee table. Mrs. W. C. Hopkins presided at the silver service and light refreshments were served.

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell opened the meeting conducting old business then turning the meeting over to the new President, Mrs. P. A. Colvin.

It was voted by the members to give a memorial gift in loving memory of Mrs. G. H. Suttle, mother of Mrs. J. Norman Coon. Mrs. W. C. Hopkins a new member was welcomed into the club. Several committees were appointed and meeting turned over to the Program Chairman, Mrs. R. L. Morgan.

Mrs. Lee Hodges gave a sketch of the life of Verdi and the story of Aida by Giuseppe Verdi. Mrs. Morgan used hand drawn visual aide before playing several piano selections from the Opera.

After the meeting a group of members had lunch before attending the opera Don Giovanni by Mozart at the Paramount Theatre:

Members present Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. W. C. Hopkins, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. Thelma Oseland, Mrs. Merl Padgett, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. Duncan Smith, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell.

Questions And Answers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: I plan to redecorate a small living room that needs a more lively look. It has a picture window and one white paneled wall. A large sectional is black and an arm chair is red. What color for walls, draperies, rug and a small occasional chair? Where could I introduce a stripe or print? I plan to gradually have an oriental influence. Have you any suggestions?

A: I'd have white walls and draperies. Rug could be a white wool one from India. With this have a good assortment of pillows on black sofa in oriental silks such as Siamese pink, bitter green and citrus yellow. Cover small chair in an oriental print in a yellow ground with bright multi - color for red chair. If you want an oriental rug, you could select a color scheme from this but walls and draperies could still be white.

Q: I need help in decorating my bedroom. Furniture is dark mahogany and rug is a deep, dusty pink. What do you suggest for walls, draperies, bedspread and cover for vanity bench? I do not like beige and thought white would make the furniture too prominent because the room is small.

A: I think white would be all right, but I would paint the walls a pale dusty pink to blend with the rug. Use this color for the bedspread too. Curtains, dust ruffles, and bench could be in a small scale print in pale pink with deeper pink and white. Introduce a sharp green for some accessories and also some sparkling white.

Q: I would like your advice on color for draperies, sofa, rug and walls in my living room. I have one gold chair and two off-white. I thought of white for walls and beige for rug. It is a small room.

A: White walls and woodwork would be very nice, so would a beige rug. I would cover the sofa in beige too. The draperies could be a print in a white ground with beige and gold. Occasionally have orange carnations in room.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made today by Mr. and Mrs. Columbus L. Smith of Winnsboro, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carol Lynn, to Frank Pleasant Sims, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pleasant Sims, Sr., also of Winnsboro. The nuptials are planned for Sunday, October 28, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in the First Methodist church of Winnsboro with the Rev. Fred Schwendimann officiating.

MISS SHIRLEY VIRGINIA FLETCHER is engaged to be married to Hulon Ray Fairchild, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fairchild of Transylvania, according to an announcement made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fletcher, also of Transylvania. The wedding is planned for five in the evening, Saturday, October 27, in Transylvania Baptist church.

Eleanor Bolton Speaks To Monroe Garden Club

Monroe Garden Club met Monday, October 1, at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Mrs. Eleanor G. Bolton, Fairfax, Va., author and lecturer, was guest speaker. Mrs. Bolton is author of the book "Dried Flowers with a Fresh Look."

Mrs. Bolton's lecture, which was most informative and interesting, covered several periods of flower arranging: Oriental: Ikebana; 18th Century Traditional; Contemporary; Modern; and various arrangements for "special occasions". She illustrated her lecture with color slides.

Mrs. Bolton expalined new techniques for drying materials and methods involved for each, some of which she has created herself in the use of drying flowers. Several arrangements were on display for club members.

The following members attended the meeting: Mesdames G. F. Beckett, W. R. Hatchell, J. B. Parker, E. T. Heard, Frederic King, W. F. Cotton Jr., A. C. Warner, W. E. Dent Jr., Ernest Marchman, Ivy Jordan, John Sherrouse, Jr., H. K. Touchstone Jr., J. T. Conger, John Collins, Kent Breard, Ted Allen, Chevis Sherrouse Sr., J. C. Earnest, Duncan Cook, Saul Mintz, J. Avoid Nibbling Exotic Beads

This is the year it may literally kill you to be fashionable — but only if you lose your poise.

The reason many women may be in danger, is that the colorful, exotic bead necklaces expected to be in vogue this fall, often contain lethal poisons.

However, the Food and Drug Administration, which has issued a warning against the hot-selling necklaces and bracelets made of beans, seeds, berries and other vegetable matter, says the only danger is to the nervous nibbler since the poisons work internally.

In New York and Boston the FDA recently embargoed remaining stocks of jewelry made from black-dotted, red jequirity beans (also known as rosary peas or crabseye beans). Eating one bead can kill a human, several ounces can kill a horse.

Jequirity beans have a hard shell and if swallowed whole can travel harmlessly through the digestive system. Only if broken, or pierced as for jewelry, can the poison (abrin) escape. The symptoms of poisoning are vomiting, nausea, weakness, trembling. If untreated, a victim may die in 12 days.

Also on the FDA's bead blacklist are mottled castor oil beans which recently laid low two nibbling New York stevedores.

The deadly beans are commonly sold to tourists on Caribbean cruises and in Mexico where boys hawk them at eight cents a strand. U.S. drug and variety stores sell many to fashion, conscious, budget-minded teenagers.

Public Health officials have sent a nationwide alert to Poison Control Centers, but admit no ban can be enforced under current laws. Though poison jewelry is clearly a household hazard, the FDA is moving politely and with caution, because the Federal Hazardous Substance Act applies only to packaged poisons.

A BILLION QUARTS OF MILK

Every month more than a billion paper milk containers have to be disposed of in homes across the country. Add to that the containers from frozen foods, cereals and other items that have to be incinerated and it is no wonder we have smog and smoke in cities and suburbs.

The deadly beans are commonly sold to tourists on Caribbean cruises and in Mexico where boys hawk them at eight cents a strand. U.S. drug and variety stores sell many to fashion, conscious, budget-minded teenagers.

Public Health officials have sent a nationwide alert to Poison Control Centers, but admit no ban can be enforced under current laws. Though poison jewelry is clearly a household hazard, the FDA is moving politely and with caution, because the Federal Hazardous Substance Act applies only to packaged poisons.

FIXING UP THE KITCHEN

There's a new solution to eliminating the scratched and burned plastic laminate kitchen countertops which mar many homes. Using a super - strong epoxy resin adhesive now on the market, the areas can be re - surfaced with heatproof, scratchproof ceramic tile.

A BILLION QUARTS OF MILK

Every month more than a billion paper milk containers have to be disposed of in homes across the country. Add to that the containers from frozen foods, cereals and other items that have to be incinerated and it is no wonder we have smog and smoke in cities and suburbs.

THE ENGAGEMENT AND APPROACHING MARRIAGE of Miss Betty Faye Gordy to Lester Carr of Columbia is made known today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gordy of Grayson. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carr of Columbia are parents of the prospective groom. A fall wedding is planned in Grayson Baptist Church.

Church Ceremony Unites Miss Owen, Jerry Aulds

Miss Martha Gay Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Owen of Mexico City and formerly of West Monroe, became the bride of Jerry Don Aulds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton C. Aulds of Calhoun on October 6 in the First Baptist Church of West Monroe. The ceremony was performed at seven o'clock in the evening by Dr. Clifton R. Tennison, pastor of the church.

The chancel of the church was decorated with a massive arrangement of white gladioli and Fiji chrysanthemums in the center flanked by candle trees of white cathedral tapers. Extending on each side were branched candelabras holding white tapers and entwined with southern smilax. Palms and greenery formed the background and northern smilax draped the side chancel rail. The aisle of the sanctuary were marked with white columns holding a single white taper and encircled with smilax.

Jack White, organist, rendered a nuptial concert of traditional wedding music.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. Her gown was white silk peau de soie with a princess line bodice and featuring a Sabrina neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The very sheath skirt was accented by graduating bands of Alencon lace and was slightly eased to the bodice to give a soft line. Tiny self - covered buttons detailed the back and a bustle carriage formed a sweeping chapel train. She wore a mantilla of Spanish lace that fell to elbow length. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses and gardenias.

Mrs. James Lipscomb, sister of the groom, served as matron of honor. Her full - length dress was of antique gold crystal taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice with a scooped neckline and three - quarter length sleeves. The sheath skirt was of matching embroidery scalloped around the hemline. This was accented by a half overskirt of the matching fabric. Her bouquet was centered with a large Fiji yellow chrysanthemum surrounded by yellow pompon mums and gold tulle and interspersed with trailing green ivy.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sara Hamilton, Mrs. Donald Wells of Mobile, Alabama, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Charles Aulds; and Miss Sally Aulds, sister of the groom. Their dresses and bouquets were identical to that of the matron of honor.

Gwen Aulds and Dianne Lipscomb, nieces of the groom, were flower girls. They wore full-length dresses of white crystal taffeta featuring a sash of antique gold taffeta. Master Randy Wells, cousin of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Charles Aulds, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Leroy Adair, Wayne Tanner, Johnny Grant, and Bobby Ray Smith. Bruce Brooks, Jr. and Hank Hamilton lighted the candles.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Owen wore a silk - satin sheath with royal blue coupe de velour roses in an all - embroidered pattern. Her small hat was of white beaded velveteen and she wore white gloves and a corsage of gardenias. The groom's mother was attired in a brown lace dress with which she wore long white gloves and a small brown velveteen hat. Her corsage was of gardenias.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony the parents of the bride were hosts at a reception at the Highland Park Country Club. Mrs. L. H. Hamilton, Jr. greeted the guests in the entrance where arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were placed. Miss Tywannia White and Mrs. Arlyne Everitt registered the guests at a table centered with a memory candle nestled in an arrangement of pompon mums.

In the reception room were twin tables covered with white satin overlaid with net. They were centered with arrangements of yellow roses and candytuft flanked by white tapers in silver holders. A double wedding ring cake and punch in a silver punch bowl were served at opposite ends of each table.

The wedding party and parents of the young couple stood to receive the guests.

Others assisting in the courtesies were: Mrs. John Eby, Mrs. Roy Brooks, Mrs. James Adair, Miss Doris Brown, Mrs. Bruce Brooks, Sr., Mrs. George Austin, Mrs. H. H. Winters, Miss Lynda Eby, Miss Marda McClendon, Mrs. Mary Beth Cox, Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre, and Miss Dee Winn.

For her wedding trip the bride changed to a hand - tailored dress and full - length coat of champagne leather with which she used antique red accessories and wore a red velvet cloche hat. She carried a nosegay of white Happiness roses.

The couple will establish a home on Gulpha Drive in West Monroe where the groom is associated with Olin Industries.

Out - of - town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wells and son, Randy, of Mobile, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. Preston Allen of Jackson, Mississippi; Carl McCormick of Alvin, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ramsey of Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cobbs of Nashville, Tennessee; Mrs. B. B. Gage of Lufkin, Texas; Mrs. Alvie Summerlin of Tuxtepec, Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davie of Beloit, Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schumacker of Plattsburg, New York; Miss Hilda Ambrossi, Montevideo, Uruguay; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Howe, Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, Windsor, Connecticut; Robert Van Sant, Darien, Connecticut son, Shreveport.

Breakfast Today Opens Business Women's Week

The Monroe Business & Professional Women's Club, now in its Fortieth year, joins 3,531 other BPW Clubs all over the nation in observance of National Business Women's Week, October 7-13. Although this week is sponsored by the National Federation of Business & Professional Women's Clubs, it is a tribute to all career women.

Officers of the Monroe Club are as follows: President, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux; First Vice-President, Miss Ruth Whatley; Second Vice - President, Miss Lula Swinson; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Emma Martin; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Lucille Mathis; and Treasurer, Mrs. Vi Combs.

A full weeks activities are planned to celebrate this week and the Monroe Club's fortieth anniversary.

The first of the series of events is a Kick-Off Breakfast this morning at 9:00 a.m. at the Highland Park Country Club in West Monroe, after which members and guests will attend in a group the West Monroe First Baptist Church. Mrs. Sara Kennon is Chairman of this affair, with Mrs. Nethel McDermott and Mrs. Inez Taylor also serving on the Committee.

The breakfast room will depict a football field with goal posts at each end and the yard lines marked off in Club colors, green and gold. Green and gold will also be carried out in table decorations. The head table will hold a beautiful arrangement of gold Chrysanthemums and greenery. Green felt pennants, embossed with gold lettering "BPW," will be placed the length of the table. Programs and place cards will be in green and gold and further carry out the kick - off theme. Individual tables will be grouped in front of the head table and will be adorned with minature helmets, footballs, pennants and greenery.

Mrs. Sara Kennon, Chairman, will preside. The Invocation will be given by Mrs. Inez Taylor. Misses Kathy McSherry, K. K. Kite, and Nancy Crossland, cheerleaders from Neville Hi, will be dressed in their cheerleading attire and will lead BPW cheers. A short morning devotional will be presented by Mrs. Helen Trichel, after which Mrs. Kennon will introduce the guests.

The speaker will be introduced by Club President, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux. Mrs. Lorraine Mule', State BPW President, will address the group, using the topic "Leadership — A Dimension in Democracy," which is National Business Women's Week theme this year.

An Open House will be held at the home of Mrs. Helen Trichel, 1626 Lexington Avenue, Monday evening, October 8, from 7 to 9 p.m. Over 100 members and guests have been invited to attend. Miss Alice Baur is chairman, with Mrs. Exa Lee Spillers, Mrs. Phyllis Black, Mrs. Betty Golson, Mrs. Faye Heard, and Mrs. Rubie McElroy serving on the Committee.

Tuesday evening, October 9, the annual banquet will be held at the Holiday Inn Dining Room at 7:30 p.m. The Committee for this event is composed of Mrs. Billie Harrell, Chairman; Mrs. Evelyn Bledsoe and Mrs. Kathryn Higgins. Guest speaker will be Dr. Ethel P. Trice from Northeast Louisiana State College. Club President, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux, will preside at the Banquet.

To conclude the Monroe Club's activities, a Costume Party, for members only, will be held Friday evening, October 12, at 7:30 p.m., at the West Monroe Office of The People's Homestead & Savings Association. A prize will be awarded the person in the quaintest costume. Miss Ella Pearl Sutton is serving as Chairman, with Mrs. Lorraine Keith, Mrs. Lois Harrell, Mrs. Alma Bushnell, Mrs. Flora Seaman, Mrs. Mary Boyle, and Mrs. Nelwyn Hollyfield on the Committee. This Party is majoring on fun and fellowship and will climax a full week of entertainment.

Adsit-Butz Vows Heard In Grosse Pointe Church

Miss Genevieve LaVerne Butz, a former resident of Monroe, and Andrew Scott Adsit of Northbrook, Illinois, exchanged wedding vows in a ceremony performed in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, Saturday, October 6. The Rev. Bertram D. Atwood officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coyelle Butz, formerly of Monroe, now residing in Grosse Pointe, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carlyle Adsit of Kenilworth Illinois are parents of the groom.

The bride wore a floor length Priscilla of Boston wedding gown of ivory peau de soie. Alencon re - embroidered lace formed the decolletage and was repeated on either side of the full chapel train. A pill box hat of matching lace with seed pearls held her veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses, gardenias, and stephanotis.

Miss Carolyn Boyce of Monroe was maid of honor and Mrs. Eugene McCloskey of Sherman Oaks, California, matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Katherine Kellam of Wichita Falls, Texas; Miss Louise Dixon, Dixon, Illinois; Miss Susan Gauen, Evanston, Illinois, Mrs. Donald Pollack, Chicago, Illinois; and Mrs. Richard Ruhlman of Cleveland, Ohio. They wore identical gowns of autumn gold peau de soie with scooped necklines and elbow length sleeves. Fitted bodices were set off by bell - shaped skirts. They carried bronze mums with natural wheat and eucalyptus leaves.

Mr. Adsit attended his son as best man. Ushers were David Mann, Wilmette, Illinois; Tracy O'Rourke, Newton Square, Pennsylvania Paul Driscol, Lorine, Ohio; Phillip Trissell Davenport, Iowa; David Aufderstrasse, Chicago Illinois; and Michael Platt, Wilmette.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Butz was attired in emerald green slipper satin with matching accessories and a corsage of gold phalaenopsis orchids pinned to her purse. Mrs. Adsit, mother of the groom, chose a sapphire blue sheath with white orchids. Mrs. Lada Adsit, the groom's grandmother, wore a muted print with a corsage of white orchids.

Following the wedding, a reception and dinner was held at the Detroit Athletic club honoring the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Adsit departed on a wedding trip to Hawaii. After November 1, they will be at home in Northbrook, Illinois. Mr. Adsit is associated with his father's law firm in Chicago.

30 BARRELS IN '91

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma began producing oil in 1891, when 30 barrels of crude petroleum were produced. Since then it has produced nearly $15 billion worth of petroleum.

Harvest Time Theme Of Meet At Tallulah

TALLULAH (Special) — "Harvest Time" was the theme chosen for the Ladies Day luncheon at the Tallulah Country Club on Wednesday, Mrs. Billy DeMoss and Mrs. Bruce Clark served as hostesses.

A huge design of lavender gladioli was noted and arrangements of fruit and colorful autumn leave were placed at vantage points in the hall. On the large mantel was an old forest log covered with lichens and surrounded with moss and orange colored leaves. Each table was centered with a small horn of plenty holding fruits.

Mrs. Trent Palmer presided at a short business session. Mrs. Edgar Lancaster was the recipient of the door prize. Out of town guests included Mrs. John Trimble Jr., of El Dorado, Ark., and Mrs. Wallace Prather Jr., of Newellton.

TV TEACHING IN INDIA

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's only television station recently stepped up its power to 5,000 watts and is now serving 50,000 high school students in the capital area.

Under a grant from the Ford Foundation, All India Radio is telecasting chemistry, physics, English and Hindi lectures to students in the ninth and 10th grades in Delhi. The lectures and demonstrations are taped by Indian teachers in advance.

The program began in October 1961 with 144 schools taking part. As of September 1962, 379 sets were functioning in 189 schools. Extension of the program to Bombay and other cities is envisioned.

There are no plans in India at present for any other TV stations except educational ones.

MISS JANICE LYNNE GALLIEN

Miss Gallien, Duane Carter To Be Married

The engagement of Miss Janice Lynne Gallien and Duane Carter, both of West Monroe, is made known today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Gallien. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Carter, also of West Monroe, are parents of the prospective groom.

The wedding is planned for seven-thirty p.m., November 24, in Grace Episcopal church, Monroe. The Rev. W. Alan King, rector of St. Patrick's Episcopal church in West Monroe, will hear the vows.

The bride - elect, a graduate of West Monroe High school, attended Northeast Louisiana State college. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. W. E. McDonald of Columbia.

Miss Judi Pankey of West Monroe will attend Miss Gallien as maid of honor. Other attendants will be Mrs. Ronald Gallien, Magnolia, Ark.; Miss Barbara Zeidman, Shreveport; Mrs. Rita Smith, West Monroe, and Miss Georgia Butler, West Monroe.

Mr. Carter attended West Monroe High School and Northeast Louisiana State college. His maternal grandmother is Mrs. R. O. Cannon, and paternal grandmother, Mrs. C. E. Carter, both of West Monroe.

The prospective groom has named Robert Butler as best man. Ushers will be Fred Cook, Joe Pleasant, Edwin White, and Bill Gray, all of West Monroe.

The couple will live in West Monroe.

MISS ETHEL MAE BECTON

Wedding Plans Told By Miss Becton, Mr. Moore

Plans for a fall wedding are told today by Miss Ethel Mae Becton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becton, and Fred Henry Moore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Moore, all of Monroe.

The ceremony is planned for 4 p.m., Saturday, November 24, in the First Baptist church of Monroe. The Rev. A. D. Becton, uncle of the bride and pastor of the First Baptist church of West Lake, Louisiana, will officiate.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Simons of Chatham; and of Mrs. Earl Becton Sr., of Monroe, and the late Mr. Becton. Miss Becton has named Miss Linda Humphries as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Dixie Palowsky and Miss Shirley Thrift.

Mr. Moore's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Simpson of Arcadia; his paternal grandparents, Mrs. Harland W. Moore of Start, and the late Mr. Moore. A graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, he is presently a sophomore at Louisiana Tech.

The prospective groom will be attended by Stanley R. Palowsky Jr., best man; and Charles Moore, brother of the groom and Briggs Becton, brother of the bride, ushers.

J. D. Barnhill Claims Bride In Houston

A quiet home ceremony Sunday, September 30, united Miss Betty Ritchey and J. D. Barnhill, both of Houston, Texas. The Rev. Warren Chandler officiated at the exchange of vows at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Ritchey of Houston.

Mr. Barnhill, who is a graduate of Pioneer High school, is the son of Mrs. J. E. Nails of Pioneer, and the late J. T. Barnhill.

The couple are making their home in Houston.

Miss Fissel, Mr. Sands Pledge Marriage Vows

Miss Mary Neale Fissel, daughter of Mrs. Silas V. Fissel and the late Mr. Fissel, became the bride of William Ronald Sands, New Orleans, in a double ring ceremony performed on Saturday, October 6, at the home of the bride's mother in Lake Providence.

Rev. Douglas Cheatham, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony.

At the appointed hour as friends and relatives gathered, Bob Lightsey, Shreveport, presented a program of appropriate wedding music at the piano.

The ceremony was performed on the brick patio beneath moss covered trees on the bank of Lake Providence. Outlining the patio were potted topiary trees to form the background for the exchange of vows at the conclusion of which Mr. Lightsey sang the Lord's Prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Thomas E. Sims of Shreveport, wore a full length gown of white slubbed silk with scooped neckline and tapered sleeves. The skirt featured a princess panel down the front and the sculptured fullness at the back gave train effect. A matching pill box covered with hand cut Austrian crystals held her short veil of illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of Phalenthopsis orchids and lily of the valley.

The attendants gowns were in deep luster satin in shades of beige, taupe, chocolate and copper featuring a batteau neckline and elbow length sleeves. Their full length skirts were fashioned similar to that of the bride. They wore matching pill box hats finished with flat bow at the front. Their shoes were of dress-matching shades and they carried satin muffs to which were pinned corsages of Tropicana roses.

Mrs. Thomas E. Sims of Shreveport, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Bryan, Springhill; Mrs. James Pranter and Miss Carolyn Brown of New Orleans.

Little Miss Kay Dillar, Lake Providence, flower girl, wore a yellow brocade taffeta with round neckline and full gathered skirt with wide flounce. The wide sash ended in a butterfly bow at the back. She wore a matching pill box with flat bow of self material and gold slippers and carried a gold basket of Tropicana rose leaves.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his father, John William Sands, of Shreveport.

Mrs. Fissel, mother of the bride chose a Japanese silk brocade gown with draped skirt for her daughter's wedding. She wore matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Sands, mother of the groom, wore a deep red re-embroidered brocade and pill box of same fabric. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the brick patio adjoining the house. Pedestal bouquets of Fujii mums outlined the patio. On one side was placed the punch table and on the other, the bride's table.

The bride's table, holding the tiered wedding cake and the bride's bouquet, was covered by a linen cloth. Candelabras held white tapers.

The punch table, covered by beige linen cloth, held two silver punch bowls and an arrangement of Fujii mums flanked by burning tapers.

Alternating in serving were Mrs. Virgil Dalrymple, Delhi, La.; Mrs. Jim Pichoff, Oak Grove; Mrs. J. B. Shaw, Springhill; Mrs. Buron Bayles, Mrs. James Miller, Mrs. C. J. Wyly, Lake Providence; Mrs. Max Smilow, Jackson, Miss.; Miss Dollye Lloyd, Shreveport.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to California where they will make their home, the bride was wearing a two piece beige silk pongee with lowered neckline and kimona sleeves. Her pill box hat of pheasant feathers and truffle lizard shoes and bag completed her ensemble. Her corsage was of Tropicana roses.

Fashion Says Fur Trims Winter's Coat

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

This is the year when the fur-trimmed coat returned to fashion favor. And it all started with spots before the eyes.

A season ago, designers discovered that leopard, ocelot and jaguar were exciting accent furs for hats, dress belts, and bags. It was so long since any other furs had been featured besides mink, that the drama of spotted furs instantly appealed.

The trend back to furs of all kinds has been quickening ever since, and in Paris this fall, Jules Crahay of Nina Ricci launched a boldly furred collection that went all out for big collars and fur - brimmed hats.

Last heyday of the fur - trimmed coat was way back in the 1930's when no winter coat was without its fur collar, or cuffs, and frequently a fur border or plastron was added.

The fur - trimmed coat was a wartime casualty, and it never recovered. In fact, the fur coat itself never recovered. Only now have women become conscious of the beauty and luxury fur adds to a coat.

The expansive mood characterizes fall coat silhouettes. Graceful triangular fullness is featured by designers like Harry Frechtel and Arthur Jablow. At Monarch they like cape fullness at top that diminishes toward the hem.

Molly of Jack Sarnoff believes that the time has come to widen shoulders again. So does this without padding, through cut and fold of the fabric itself.

The widened shoulder calls for a wider sleeve, and it supports nicely the fur effects which lend soft bulk to the silhouette.

In choosing a fur - trimmed coat, a woman should look carefully at herself full - length in a three - way mirror. While a tall woman can take a huge fox collar, a petite figure will look overloaded in it.

In general, long - haired furs are best left to women who are tall and broadshouldered enough to carry them off well. Included in this category would be large collars of mink, sable, baum marten, muskrat and lynx. Choose these furs in small collars, if the figure is less than five feet, five inches tall.

Good fur trims for the small woman are many. Nutria, Russian broadtail, leopard, ocelot, jaguar, Persian lamb are all flat surfaced furs among which small women can choose.

When choosing collar styles, watch out for the length of the neck. The short - necked woman nestled into a fox collar is going to look as if she has no neck at all. Better for her, the flat collar of leopard, lying a little away from the neck.

DESIGNER Molly of Jack Sarnoff chooses the cape-back silhouette for a coat of Lesur Jacoum white wool. Wide sleeves are cut in one with the slim shoulders, with flat collar and undercuffs of Somali leopard. Matching fur hat and muff by Emme.

Fall Hats Are Shaped Closer To The Head

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

French and Italian movies are becoming the fashion influence Hollywood once was. One result for next fall will be a close alliance between hats and hairdos.

The smartest new hairdo is derived from the cap coif done for Delphine Seyrig in the dreamlike "Last Year at Marienbad." It is reinforced by the boyish bob worn by Jeanne Moreau in "Jules and Jim," set at the time of World War I.

"Marienbad" features feminine clothes all floating chiffon, coq feathers and furs. "Jules and Jim" features an equally boyish look, spare and casual. Both trends appear in clothes and hats for fall.

Sally Victor sees the "Marienbad" fashion in terms of draped velvet turbans, shiny coq feather wigs, and side-tilted brushed velours profile hats. She also goes back to the feminine clothes of 1930's movie stars, which fit in with the new trend.

From the Thirties comes her Garbo hats, high-crowned soft velours shapes, with side-swept or rippled brims shadowing the eyes. High velours toques are pinched at one side into a jutting flange. Turbans of velvet and of kidskin drape into high cones, into wide Indian shapes, into accordions which end in flat beret shaping.

Miss Victor takes the "Marienbad" feeling into many close little helmets, which fit, of course, over the cap coif, reveal the forehead, where this hair style always has a side-swept bang.

These helmets may be in black velvet with a side cockade, rise high in leopard with a black leather cuff, be of shiny coq feathers, be of beige velvet in the side-pinches toque covered with veiling. Although severe of shape, and devoid of trim, these helmets have a romantic feeling. Quite a few have a modern art touch, since Miss Victor uses the abstract shapes and birds of George Braque in appliques upon the hats. Typical of the group is a grey velours beret with a side loop and a Braque bird flying across its front at the other side.

The "Jules and Jim" influence is quite another thing. Here the emphasis is upon the boyish, small-visored cap worn by Jeanne Moreau in the film.

Leather comes into its own in this group often combined again with fur, as in a cap of white Indian lamb with a tiny black leather visor. Another is in white leather with a black leather visor. Severe domed leather shapes have duffs of leather, or the dome is in fur with a leather cuff.

Sally Victor always likes pretty hats, and many of her fall ones are in fur. There are Garbo hats in sable, forward-tilting Empress Eugenie hats in sable, mink or lynx, big-brimmed 1912 hats in old-fashioned unsheared beaver with very modern leather trims.

The 1912 influence, also inspired by a French film now being made on the life of spy Mata Hati, is carried into evening hats. A series of velvet and jeweled "Headache bands" in white, pink, ruby, black and green, have each its upstanding front cockade or a back flurry of veiling.

The Mata Hari look is also emphasized in severely shaped hats which are worn over black jersey hood scarves that cover the hair completely, wrap around the neck for the secret agent look.

Despite the several influences in fall hats, the over-all look is clearly one of shape without extra ornamentation. Since shapes and sizes are so varied, there is something for every woman in the new look of elegance, whether it be the boyish small hat or the richly feminine large hat.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"Since this is the season for sewing laminated fabrics, I'd like to share my tip. In order to keep my seams straight, and also to keep them feeding into the sewing machine, I cover them with the edge of a newspaper. The border of the newspaper, either the print, or solid lines, will be a perfect guide line for the seam. This fabric, which seems tricky to sew, sews like a dream this way."

This suggestion from Mrs. Don Lewis, Elizabethton, Tenn., is such a good idea that she is being awarded the weekly Tailor Trix pressing board prize this week. Thank you, Mrs. Lewis, for sharing with us.

'STAY STITCHING'

"DEAR EUNICE:

"Somehow or other, I always manage to stretch the shoulder seams when I make a garment. They also have a pulled, stretched look after the garment has been worn. What am I doing wrong?"

MRS. B.R.

DEAR MRS. B.R.:

Perhaps you have forgotten the importance of "stay - stitching." Another helpful tip for fabrics such as jersey or other stretch type fabrics is to pin a piece of seam tape over your seamline. This will be included in the stitching of the shoulder seams. The firmness of the seam tape will prevent the seam from stretching out of shape.

Mrs. S. D. Montgomery of Southfield, Mich. says: "Here's a GIVE AND TAKE IDEA: Set up a swap system with your church group, friends, club members, and neighbors. Let it be known what you need for your particular sewing project and in turn, pass on to others what they might use, and what you no longer have use for.

"Make your exchanges on club nights, or oftener, if possible. You might 'kick-in' ends of knitting wool for crocheting afghans, your friends might turn over cotton scraps for someone who does quilting, discarded clothing for makeovers, etc. There is fun in sharing, and satisfaction in not having ragbag clutter."

NOT EASY

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"Beading is so very popular nowadays, and yet I can't find any information on how to go about doing this type of work at home. I am a dressmaker and have had several requests for this beading work, but don't feel like plunging into it on a hit and miss basis. Can you help me, PLEASE?"

MRS. J.K.

DEAR MRS. J.K.

The all-over beading that you will find on many expensive clothes is done by machine or is done from the wrong side of the fabric with a special crochet-type hook. This requires very specialized training.

However, for a small amount of beading which is very effective, the beads are worked from the right side of the garment. Your design must be stamped or outlined with thread first.

Second, place a soft, firm fabric on the wrong side of your garment, under the design. This is especially important when beading sweaters and will keep the design from stretching out of shape.

Use a very fine needle, usually at least a size 11, a long needle is preferable. Don't use a thread that is too long because it will become frayed and weak. Wax the thread with beeswax before you begin.

Each bead is sewed on separately with a tiny BACK STITCH. This will hold the beading in place permanently. Beading adds a costume room touch to your garments and can be fun to do—however it is time consuming, so don't try to hurry it up.

GLUE HEM

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have a leather coat that needs to be shortened and I don't know how to go about it. Can I do this myself or must I have it done?"

MRS. T.T.R.

DEAR MRS. T.T.R.:

You may shorten the coat yourself and it is actually very simple to do. The facing has probably been machine stitched to the coat at the lower edge. You may turn the facing back and machine stitch it on the new hemline.

You will probably have to use a piece of brown paper over the leather so that it will feed into the machine. Trim the excess leather away and turn the front edge right side out. The rest of the hem can be fastened on the hemline with paper clips to hold it nice and even. Now use household glue (the milky kind) and glue the hem in place. This will give a smooth appearance to the hem of the coat.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Stay-stitch: This is a row of machine stitching that is made on curved or shaped areas of your garment before you begin construction. Use the regular length stitch and stitch on a single layer of fabric exactly ½ inch from cut edge. This stitching will prevent stretching as you are constructing your garment.

MISS JANICE LYNNE GALLIEN

Miss Gallien, Duane Carter To Be Married

The engagement of Miss Janice Lynne Gallien and Duane Carter, both of West Monroe, is made known today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Gallien. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Carter, also of West Monroe, are parents of the prospective groom.

The wedding is planned for seven-thirty p.m., November 24, in Grace Episcopal church, Monroe. The Rev. W. Alan King, rector of St. Patrick's Episcopal church in West Monroe, will hear the vows.

The bride - elect, a graduate of West Monroe High school, attended Northeast Louisiana State college. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. W. E. McDonald of Columbia.

Miss Judi Pankey of West Monroe will attend Miss Gallien as maid of honor. Other attendants will be Mrs. Ronald Gallien, Magnolia, Ark.; Miss Barbara Zeidman, Shreveport; Mrs. Rita Smith, West Monroe, and Miss Georgia Butler, West Monroe.

Mr. Carter attended West Monroe High School and Northeast Louisiana State college. His maternal grandmother is Mrs. R. O. Cannon, and paternal grandmother, Mrs. C. E. Carter, both of West Monroe.

The prospective groom has named Robert Butler as best man. Ushers will be Fred Cook, Joe Pleasant, Edwin White, and Bill Gray, all of West Monroe.

The couple will live in West Monroe.

MISS ETHEL MAE BECTON

Wedding Plans Told By Miss Becton, Mr. Moore

Plans for a fall wedding are told today by Miss Ethel Mae Becton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becton, and Fred Henry Moore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Moore, all of Monroe.

The ceremony is planned for 4 p.m., Saturday, November 24, in the First Baptist church of Monroe. The Rev. A. D. Becton, uncle of the bride and pastor of the First Baptist church of West Lake, Louisiana, will officiate.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Simons of Chatham; and of Mrs. Earl Becton Sr., of Monroe, and the late Mr. Becton. Miss Becton has named Miss Linda Humphries as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Dixie Palowsky and Miss Shirley Thrift.

Mr. Moore's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Simpson of Arcadia; his paternal grandparents, Mrs. Harland W. Moore of Start, and the late Mr. Moore. A graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, he is presently a sophomore at Louisiana Tech.

The prospective groom will be attended by Stanley R. Palowsky Jr., best man; and Charles Moore, brother of the groom and Briggs Becton, brother of the bride, ushers.

J. D. Barnhill Claims Bride In Houston

A quiet home ceremony Sunday, September 30, united Miss Betty Ritchey and J. D. Barnhill, both of Houston, Texas. The Rev. Warren Chandler officiated at the exchange of vows at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Ritchey of Houston.

Mr. Barnhill, who is a graduate of Pioneer High school, is the son of Mrs. J. E. Nails of Pioneer, and the late J. T. Barnhill.

The couple are making their home in Houston.

Miss Fissel, Mr. Sands Pledge Marriage Vows

Miss Mary Neale Fissel, daughter of Mrs. Silas V. Fissel and the late Mr. Fissel, became the bride of William Ronald Sands, New Orleans, in a double ring ceremony performed on Saturday, October 6, at the home of the bride's mother in Lake Providence.

Rev. Douglas Cheatham, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony.

At the appointed hour as friends and relatives gathered, Bob Lightsey, Shreveport, presented a program of appropriate wedding music at the piano.

The ceremony was performed on the brick patio beneath moss covered trees on the bank of Lake Providence. Outlining the patio were potted topiary trees to form the background for the exchange of vows at the conclusion of which Mr. Lightsey sang the Lord's Prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Thomas E. Sims of Shreveport, wore a full length gown of white slubbed silk with scooped neckline and tapered sleeves. The skirt featured a princess panel down the front and the sculptured fullness at the back gave train effect. A matching pill box covered with hand cut Austrian crystals held her short veil of illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of Phalenthopsis orchids and lily of the valley.

The attendants gowns were in deep luster satin in shades of beige, taupe, chocolate and copper featuring a batteau neckline and elbow length sleeves. Their full length skirts were fashioned similar to that of the bride. They wore matching pill box hats finished with flat bow at the front. Their shoes were of dress-matching shades and they carried satin muffs to which were pinned corsages of Tropicana roses.

Mrs. Thomas E. Sims of Shreveport, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Bryan, Springhill; Mrs. James Pranter and Miss Carolyn Brown of New Orleans.

Little Miss Kay Dillar, Lake Providence, flower girl, wore a yellow brocade taffeta with round neckline and full gathered skirt with wide flounce. The wide sash ended in a butterfly bow at the back. She wore a matching pill box with flat bow of self material and gold slippers and carried a gold basket of Tropicana rose leaves.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his father, John William Sands, of Shreveport.

Mrs. Fissel, mother of the bride chose a Japanese silk brocade gown with draped skirt for her daughter's wedding. She wore matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Sands, mother of the groom, wore a deep red re-embroidered brocade and pill box of same fabric. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the brick patio adjoining the house. Pedestal bouquets of Fujii mums outlined the patio. On one side was placed the punch table and on the other, the bride's table.

The bride's table, holding the tiered wedding cake and the bride's bouquet, was covered by a linen cloth. Candelabras held white tapers.

The punch table, covered by beige linen cloth, held two silver punch bowls and an arrangement of Fujii mums flanked by burning tapers.

Alternating in serving were Mrs. Virgil Dalrymple, Delhi, La.; Mrs. Jim Pichoff, Oak Grove; Mrs. J. B. Shaw, Springhill; Mrs. Buron Bayles, Mrs. James Miller, Mrs. C. J. Wyly, Lake Providence; Mrs. Max Smilow, Jackson, Miss.; Miss Dollye Lloyd, Shreveport.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to California where they will make their home, the bride was wearing a two piece beige silk pongee with lowered neckline and kimona sleeves. Her pill box hat of pheasant feathers and truffle lizard shoes and bag completed her ensemble. Her corsage was of Tropicana roses.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Blue Ribbon Show Staged

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

An all blue ribbon show was staged at the T.V. and Garden Center last Wednesday by the Iris Garden Club of Delhi. Mrs. W. A. Gaharan, the president of the club, and four other members brought these top award arrangements for display. The judge for their show was Mrs. Leslie Clark, student judge of Monroe.

Mrs. Clark admitted that it was quite a task for her to judge this show since it seemed to lack any flaws and being new at the task didn't help her very much.

As a result she did a very good job at point-scoring and came up with all Top-blue ribbon winners.

FIRST ARRANGEMENT

Mrs. B. L. Dear and Mrs. Wallace Hall made the first arrangement, one that we named "Harvest Glory." It truly depicted the Fall Harvest in all it's beauty. The color tones were light orange into deep browns.

Two orange tapers formed the line for this design. This line was strengthened by barberry foliage.

The holder for the candles was a block of styrafoam placed to the back of a round box lid, from a large wooden hoop cheese box.

Then a needle point cup holder was placed in front of this for all the fresh materials used in the arangement. This round lid was stained deep brown and placed on a large round wooden base, a barrel top stained the same color.

The round lid was placed to one side of the barrel top, thus giving balance to the large and tall arrangement. Indian corn, in colors of orange into brown, was used as a filler throughout the design. Large dried magnolia leaves formed a background for the focal area and gave depth to the design.

The focal area was made of a bean leaves and brown coleus bronze into rose, accented on the right side with one tall cluster of castor bean seed pods in colors of orange into rose color. At the base large red-brown castor bean leaves and brown coleus leaves were used. A wonderful blend of contrasting materials tied together in color harmony to create a most pleasing effect.

Mrs. W. A. Gaharan, president of the club, made the next massed line design using driftwood or weathered wood for the natural triangular line. With a design of this type very little fresh materials are needed. The wood should take the leading role and should be "showed-off" as much as possible.

Mrs. Gaharan used very little additional materials. These were celosia and its foliage. The bright red of the celosia and the green into rose and tan of the leaves blended perfectly with the tan tones of the wood. The whole design was placed on a large weathered board that blended perfectly in color and texture with the driftwood. It was just lovely for the den "show piece."

ELEMENTS

Mrs. Paul Stevens used deep red celosia, canna leaves, and equisedium in a very modern black cylinder container to form her vertical mass design. The complimentary colors of red and green were very striking and would add charm to the entrance hall table by the mirror or the narrow wall space in the living room of a modern home.

The primary line made of leaves, tiered, formed the depth or the secondary line. The red celosia was placed within the main line and massed at the center of interest to form the focal area. For added interest one of the canna leaves was cleverly curled at the base of the design hanging over the edge of the tall container. The design was placed to one side on a black base, giving balance by placement.

MASSED LINE

The last of these lovely creations, a massed vertical line, made by Mrs. Ercy Osbon, was made entirely of dried materials. Colors of deep red into deep brown tones. Sprays of light tan seed pods formed the primary line. The container was a bronze chalice placed on a small round brown base. Deep red dried celosia was used within the main line, massed at the focal area. Radiating from this center of interest were glycerinized photenia leaves, some of which hung over the edge of the container. To the back of the celosia was placed (as a background and depth) large dried magnolia leaves. The dried dock in deep brown tones was used as a filler throughout the design. Just the type arrangement to use for long-lasting duty.

This was an inspiring show. I just know we all feel the fall magic in the atmosphere after having viewed it. So many have been by the center to take a good look and have gone away inspired. Thanks again, Iris Garden Club, for your beautiful show.

DISPLAYED

Along with our flower arrangements this past week we also displayed some plant specimens brought by different ones. The beautiful Jack Bean, or Bay Bean (Canovolia lineata) was brought by Mrs. Wayne Warren who said it had taken her trellis. It is a thing of beauty. The stem is a deep purple. The leaves are green with purple veins and grown in clusters of three. The pea-like blossom is a light lavender or orchid color and grows down the stem in small clusters. The nicest thing about this vine is the way it conditions. After putting it in a vase of water it has stayed like wax, crisp and fresh. The bean like seed pods are a deep purple now. When matured they reach a length of about six inches or more.

PEPPER PLANT

Mrs. M. O. Bullock brought a beautiful ornamental pepper plant for us to enjoy. There are many different shades of small peppers on the plant now. Some are red, some orange, yellow and light green. This plant has been potted and I am sure we will enjoy it right on into winter. This is an idea for you. If you have a pepper in the yard, just pot it and bring it into the house, gradually, for the winter for enjoyment.

Mrs. Bullock also brought a collection of her celosia. The deep heads of red and the spike forms of yellow and rose. Another type is the fan-shaped type-green edged with gold. She gave these to me to dry. If you have some of these types be sure to cut them and hang some of them in a dark cool place, in a paper bag, to catch the seed, to dry.

If you have more than you need be sure to share with someone else. They are too valuable to leave in the garden to ruin. You'd be surprised how easy it is to give away this type of plant, just a hint to the wise.

Our next program will come to us from the Ruston Garden Club. Mrs. John A. Wright, its president will be our guest commentator on T.V. So, be watching and come by to see me at the garden center.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fat Bulbs, Big Blooms

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The wonderful fat bulbs of tulips, hyacinths, crocuses and daffodils which we plant in our gardens each fall produce a spring show that is equalled only by the azaleas.

If these bulbs bloomed only once, they would be worth the prices we pay for them. Indeed, some gardeners regard them as annuals. They simply pull them out in June and plant new ones when fall comes around again.

Large fat bulbs are the result of several years of growing during which the bulb producers pinch out the flowers and do not allow seeds to form, thus throwing all the strength back into the bulbs.

This practice builds large reservoirs of food that result, when the bulbs bloom in our gardens, in splendid big blossoms.

LESS FOOD

In the following season, there is not as much food in tulips and hyacinths, and they send up smaller flowers — sometimes several of them. If the soil in which these bulbs have been planted is really rich, they will settle down and produce several medium sized flowers each year, and some of us like these groups of flowers of various sizes in the garden picture.

Tulips are the spring bulbs which demand the richest soil in order to produce a good crop of flowers every year. We have noted in the column before that tulip roots are small and delicate, without the power to go a-roving for food as daffodil roots can do.

Set tulip bulbs six inches below the surface, and be sure that there is another six inches of rich soil below them if you want them to stay with you from year to year. They do not mind having shallow rooted annuals like larkspur and the winter annuals mentioned in a recent column planted above them.

The soil where tulips and other plants are grown together must be kept well fertilized by several applications a year, however, or the tulips will starve and have to be lifted. Most bulb lovers know to give the soil below their tulips and other bulbs a good dressing of bone meal when the bulbs are planted.

CROCUSES

Crocuses, in spite of the fact that they are small corms, can be set out four to six inches under the surface. This is a practical depth where you wish to plant other things above them, and few squirrels will dig this deep and eat the corms.

Both daffodils and hyacinths are somewhat tougher bulbs than tulips. They seem to be able to put up with less perfect soil. Of course, they cannot flower well in poor soil. If it is not overdone, top dressings of commercial fertilizers spread over the bulb beds in winter will keep the flowers coming for a number of years. In three to five years, the bulbs will need to be lifted and divided.

Stamp News

Trinidad and Tobago, the most southerly of the West Indies, became independent on Aug. 31. To commemorate the occasion the island government issued a special set of five stamps.

The 5 cents blue green depicts Buccoo Reef. The 8 cents olive black shows the new airport terminal at Piarco. The 25 cents mauve illustrates a hotel. The 35 cents green, brown and black pictures a Bird of Paradise on a map of Trinidad and Tobago. The 60 cents red, blue and black features a native bird (scarlet Ibis) on a map of Trinidad and Tobago.

The newly revised 1963 edition of H. E. Harris' U. S. and British North American Catalog is now on the market. It also contains a special "Americana" section in its 160 pages with 2,000 illustrations. The cost is 35 cents and is available postage free from H. E. Harris and Company, Catalog Department, Boston 1 Mass.

During World War II, the island of Malta was besieged and consequently received the Order of the George Cross for its heroism. However, Malta is more noted for its bravery during an earlier siege in 1565. To honor the "Great Siege" of the 16th Centruy, Malta has issued four new stamps. Featured are the following: "Madonna Damascena;" the Great Siege Monument; the French Knight La Valette and the "Assualt on Fort St. Elmo."

Belgium has issued a new stamp honoring the victims of concentration camps, reports the Belgium Administrator of Posts. The 40 centimes stamps depicts two outstretched hands encircled by barbed wire. The colors are blue and black.

Italy has issued a two value set of stamps to mark the 30th anniversary of the founding of the International Film - Art Festival at Venice. The 30 lire features a stylized camera's eye; the 70 lire has the same design with the Lion of St. Mark superimposed on it.

The Canadian Post Office has announced that it has issued a new 5 cent stamp honoring the 100th anniversary of Victoria, B. C. The design features a reproduction of the capitol at Victoria and the wording "1862 Victoria 1962."

Shift Plotted In Drive For Moderation

PARIS (UPI) — On the third floor of a faded ex-mansion on the Left Bank of the River Seine, a group of dedicated men and women today plotted a tactical shift in their "war."

No more subway signs pleading with Frenchmen to stay sober. The new offensive:

The French government's eight-year-old anti-alcoholism campaign will be aimed at children and highway travelers.

The "High Committee for Study and Information on Alcoholism" has been fighting since its creation Nov. 13, 1954, for French people to drink less. The average person in France consumes 30.5 litres (a litre is nearly a quart) of pure alcohol a year, compared to 14.2 in Italy, 9.3 in Great Britain and 9.4 in the United States.

The committee never has preached prohibition in a country of great foods and wine. This would be impossible and a blow to mankind, members feel.

Instead their pitch is for moderation: "One litre of wine a day for heavy workers; ¾ for sedentary workers; ½ for women, none for children until they are 14."

Has the committee's campaign been successful?

"It's difficult to say," admitted a spokesman in an interview at committee headquarters. "We can't check exactly. . .it's a year in, year out evolution. Our campaign may not show results for years.

"But we must keep repeating it. It would be all lost in two or three years if we stopped, that is sure."

The committee can report some, but not necessarily conclusive, results from its campaign that began when former Premier Pierre Mendes France lifted a glass of milk to his lips.

Government statistics say consumption of wine and beer has dropped 10 per cent in recent years. Soft drink sales have zoomed 140 per cent.

TO EDUCATE

The committee's program includes a shower of pamphlets that say, for example, "Alcoholism kills more Frenchmen each year than tuberculosis and highway accidents put together." Children receive blotters and brochures telling how French inventors and scientists were sober men.

"Our aim is to educate French people to drink little and well," said the spokesman. "We hope wine growers will stop producing an enormous quantity and grow wines of quality and higher prices. And we hope people will learn that if they don't drink too much, and drink good wine, they won't be ill.

MOON MAN? Masquerade makeup? No, just a Marine wearing experimental atomic, biological and chemical protective clothing and carrying a light flame thrower. It's an example of Marine Corps photography of equipment testing at Quantico, Va.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography, we all know, is a vital communications tool which can serve our country's interest.

With a world in crisis, any attempt to improve our communication tools to serve our country better is noteworthy. Such an event took place recently when the U. S. Marine Corps gathered more than 50 of its active duty photographers and writers for a crash communications course.

Called the Effective Writing and Photography Clinic, it enlisted the services of 40 public spirited top professional experts as volunteer instructors to the assembled Marines at a five - day seminar in New York City. It also produced at no cost to the government, the services and facilities of newspaper, magazine and advertising agencies with auditorium meeting rooms and projection equipment.

ORIGIN

The program originated with a Marine sergeant's memo early this year. It suggested that writer-photographer teams, trained in Marine Corps methods, might benefit from instruction by practicing professionals in the civilian world of communication. Working without public funds, the project became a reality through the prodigious efforts of a volunteer training unit of Marine reservists composed of civilian specialists in communication.

Some nine months of preparation and planning later, the sessions started with a full day spent at the New York Times. Experts outlined, among other things, the news and photo needs of metropolitan and local newspapers, elements of effective newsphotos and mistakes to avoid in photo caption writing.

"Content is most important in a newsphoto," John Radosta, photo editor of the New York Times, emphasized. "Editors are not interested in the S - curve. They'll choose a picture that makes an impression even if the technical quality is off.

"Be imaginative in shooting but keep it truthful. Get the feeling of action into your pictures. A little blur of the subject or part of it won't hurt. Or pan with the action and let the background show movement.

"In the final analysis, news photos must say something or add to a news story and should arouse the interest of readers in what they show."

TOOK OVER

The staff of Life magazine took over the following day with its specialty of photojournalism. Don Underwood, assignment editor, included these points in selecting specific photographers for certain stories:

Desire. The photographer must want to make the best pictures possible at all times and should reflect his enthusiasm.

Physical aptitude. Good health is an important consideration on strenuous assignment. Today in covering jet - age stories you must be in as good shape as an astronaut.

Intellect and emotion. You must think and be concerned to convey that emotion to readers. But while emotionally involved, you must be detached enough to photograph.

Glibness. An articulate photographer is an asset. He can talk his way into places or talk his way out of trouble if trouble pops up.

Versatility. A change of pace in subject matter stimulates a fresh approach.

Howard Sochurek, Life photographer who has covered action in Korea, Burma, India and Viet Nam summed up his experiences with this thought:

"A good photographer should have an eye, heart and brain. See the situation. Think about it. And put your heart in what you photograph."

It was an exciting, productive work - filled week for the Marine Corps photographers and writers, who are our country's eyes and ears on a far - flung front.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Don't you think that more parents ought to teach the value of good morals to their children. It seems to me that we are losing our sense of moral values.

ANSWER: Yes, but what is the best way to teach morals? A lecture on the value of morals leaves a child cold. We must face this fact as parents: goodness is not taught; it is caught. The best way to teach children moral values is for the parents to practice before them. The child often forgets what it hears, but always remembers what it sees. Verbal teaching is splendid if it is backed up by a real life illustration.

An Englishman was asked by a visitor why everyone in his village was so courteous, honest, and kind; and why there was no drunkenness and gambling in the community. He answered; "You see, sir, about a hundred years ago a man came to these parts by the name of John Wesley."

We will be remembered by what we are, rather than what we say, and example is the best method of instruction.

Tots Respond To Examples Of Parents

Policemen, always a child's friend, will like the following story. Parents who just might get a traffic ticket some day—through some fault of their own — will find it helpful.

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

HOMEFRONT, U.S.A. (UPI)— The tow-head — four feet tall and five years old — turned into a cop-hater the day his dad broke a motor vehicle regulation.

The policeman, doing his duty, ordered the car parked at headquarters until the out-of-date—by a day — plates could be replaced with lawful ones.

That rainy day, the child knew only that the cops confiscated the family car, ticketed his dad—and, beyond the law's requirements, rode the family home in a police car.

DISLIKED

He didn't like it — not even when his Mom confessed. She didn't send the application for new plates to the Vehicle Registration Bureau on time.

The policeman let the boy ride up front — a thrill for most tots. But this one wasn't sure he was beside friend or enemy. The policeman talked about the boy's dog, a hunting type.

"And what does your hunting dog hunt?" the policeman asked as the car pulled up in front of the family house.

Safely out of the "jailer's" car, the lad shot straight from the larynx:

"He hunts policemen — stupid, stupid policemen."

Rid of some venom, he ran, crying, into the house.

Parents apologized. The officer understood.

Inside, the child was told that an up-to-date license on a car is as vital as the motor and that his parents broke a law.

"But I hate those stupid police," he said, shaking a fist.

Now ask any policeman. That's how cop-haters — pint-sized ones —are made. Through faults of their parents.

BUILDUP

Some parents do it by building police up as curmudgeons. They use police power as a threat. They say:

"Pick up your clothes or I'll call the police; eat your cereal or I'll call the police; go to bed or I'll call the police; get up or I'll call the police."

Other parents blow off hate while stewing about a traffic ticket — earned by going through a red light or exceeding the speed limit.

The children, in the car's back seat, witness the ticket-writing. What's worse: They catch the four-letter words many a dad mumbles after the officer rides off.

Youngsters of pre-school age need no help to make the most of such a situation. A scene with Daddy as good guy and the cop as bad guy plants the cop-hating virus. Their imaginations do the rest.

Parents can undo the wrong by waging a "friendly policeman" campaign.

The pint-sized cop hater in our house got over the hate virus planted the day the police confiscated the car — but it took several months.

Dig Bulbs With Care

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Yours truly has received many calls regarding digging caladium bulbs. If the foliage is ugly and unsightly, then dig them. Be careful in digging so as not to cut into the tuber.

But be sure to leave the foliage on the bulb until it is completely dry. After these have been dug, tie them in bunches and hang in a dry shaded area or spread them out.

After the soil and foliage are dry, store in cardboard boxes in a warm dry area. Be sure to check them if there are hard freezes during the winter.

COLORFUL

The red spider lilies are blooming and add a great deal of color to the worn out summer garden. There are other varieties of lycoris lilies, but in this area, the red is most popular perhaps because it is the most vigorous. Other colors include the pink, white, and yellow.

After the bulb has bloomed then the beautiful green foliage appears and this is an excellent time to feed them with bone meal or 8-8-8. The foliage will remain green during the winter months and this makes an excellent ground cover if they have been planted in large masses. The foliage will turn brown next spring and that is the best time to transplant or move the spider lily. Another name for the spider lily is "Surprise Lily."

PARISH FAIR

Ouachita Valley Fair begins Monday. Bring your exhibits to the agricultural building before 7 p.m. If you plan to enter baked products, you must enter them Monday, but they can be brought in Tuesday morning not later than 9 o'clock.

Those of you who do not have something to enter visit us during the week. You will find all of the homemaking exhibits in the main building. Be sure to look at all the educational booths.

If you get hungry while on the fair grounds come by our Home Demonstration concession stand. The money received from this project is used as a scholarship fund for a 4-H girl studying home economics, to help promote 4-H Club work and for furthering the Home Demonstration program in the parish.

CAKE CONTEST

Mrs. Home Demonstration Club member be sure to enter a cake in the special contest at the fair grounds tomorrow. The cake will be entered Monday, but you do not have to bring it until Tuesday morning. The proceeds from the sale of the cakes will go to the Cooley Hospital for retarded children. Miss Frances Kelso, Home Economics instructor, from Northeast College, will judge the cakes.

DARK COTTONS

Dark cottons have marched right into the wardrobes and the problem of laundering is facing us. If you use starch in dark cottons the starch may streak, so to avoid this our home management specialist recommends that you use one of the thin solution type starches which go into the fabric.

A transparent starch with "CMC" printed on the label is one of the best to use on dark cottons, but you must follow directions for mixing and starching. Hot water starch can be used, but you should strain it before using. When starching, turn the garment inside out and work the starch thoroughly through the damp fabric, then wring out.

If you are starching several pieces do it in your automatic washer and spin out excess starch. Smooth out seams and folds where starch might collect. Iron on the wrong side to avoid a shine. For touchups on the right side, cover fabrics with a clean cloth and press lightly.

HOMEMAKERS TIPS

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, plan to redecorate an area in your home this fall, here are some excellent tips from our house furnishings specialist, Mrs. Jessie Mae Schneider. Simplicity in furnishings and cool, quiet colors create a feeling of restfulness in a room.

One way to get variety and interest in a room is to use a small amount of pattern. Plain walls, floor coverings, and draperies provide a restful background in today's homes. Patterned draperies may be used with plain walls, but not with patterned wallpaper. If plain walls, floor coverings and draperies are used, add interest and variety in other furnishings by using pattern or bright color accents.

Do not use more than one large dominant pattern. If walls or rugs are figured, that is usually enough pattern interest. Remember to use patterns carefully.

A THOUGHT

Never be ashamed to admit you were wrong. It just proves you're smarter now than you used to be.

Planting Of Roses Is Not Complicated

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Planting a rose isn't a complicated, arduous chore. Follow these instructions and you're on the road to having beautiful roses.

1. Dig a hole 18 inches wide and 12 to 15 inches deep. Replace several inches of loose soil, mixed with rose food, peat moss, leaf mold and compost, and form a mound in the center.

2. Place the rosebush on the mound and spread the roots naturally down the slope. Place the plant on the mound so that the bud union (the knot-like swollen area) is at ground level.

COVER ROOTS

3. Cover the roots with soil, working in the soil around the roots to eliminate air pockets. Fill the hole three - quarters full and tamp down firmly. Pour a liberal amount of water (several pails) and permit to drain.

4. After the water has completely settled, fill the remainder of the hole with soil and mound up around canes to a height of about eight inches. Remove protective mound after a week or 10 days.

One of the questions we are asked frequently is how to get rid of aphids on roses or other plants. They may be controlled by spraying thoroughly with malathion or nicotine sulfate and soap.

PLANT ROT

The severe drought in parts of the northeast this summer has caused outbreaks of blossom-end rot on tomatoes. This disease may be recognized by the dry, black, depressed areas on the bottom of the tomato. The cells have died because water did not reach them.

You may worsen the situation by cultivating too close to the plants. Use of too much nitrogen fertilizer and failure to water also will increase blossom - end rot. Spraying or dusting will not help. If you have tomatoes on stakes, you probably will find that these were hit harder than those not supported.

When rain comes, the trouble generally clears up on subsequent tomatoes.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Blue Ribbon Show Staged

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

An all blue ribbon show was staged at the T.V. and Garden Center last Wednesday by the Iris Garden Club of Delhi. Mrs. W. A. Gaharan, the president of the club, and four other members brought these top award arrangements for display. The judge for their show was Mrs. Leslie Clark, student judge of Monroe.

Mrs. Clark admitted that it was quite a task for her to judge this show since it seemed to lack any flaws and being new at the task didn't help her very much.

As a result she did a very good job at point-scoring and came up with all Top-blue ribbon winners.

FIRST ARRANGEMENT

Mrs. B. L. Dear and Mrs. Wallace Hall made the first arrangement, one that we named "Harvest Glory." It truly depicted the Fall Harvest in all it's beauty. The color tones were light orange into deep browns.

Two orange tapers formed the line for this design. This line was strengthened by barberry foliage.

The holder for the candles was a block of styrafoam placed to the back of a round box lid, from a large wooden hoop cheese box.

Then a needle point cup holder was placed in front of this for all the fresh materials used in the arangement. This round lid was stained deep brown and placed on a large round wooden base, a barrel top stained the same color.

The round lid was placed to one side of the barrel top, thus giving balance to the large and tall arrangement. Indian corn, in colors of orange into brown, was used as a filler throughout the design. Large dried magnolia leaves formed a background for the focal area and gave depth to the design.

The focal area was made of a bean leaves and brown coleus bronze into rose, accented on the right side with one tall cluster of castor bean seed pods in colors of orange into rose color. At the base large red-brown castor bean leaves and brown coleus leaves were used. A wonderful blend of contrasting materials tied together in color harmony to create a most pleasing effect.

Mrs. W. A. Gaharan, president of the club, made the next massed line design using driftwood or weathered wood for the natural triangular line. With a design of this type very little fresh materials are needed. The wood should take the leading role and should be "showed-off" as much as possible.

Mrs. Gaharan used very little additional materials. These were celosia and its foliage. The bright red of the celosia and the green into rose and tan of the leaves blended perfectly with the tan tones of the wood. The whole design was placed on a large weathered board that blended perfectly in color and texture with the driftwood. It was just lovely for the den "show piece."

ELEMENTS

Mrs. Paul Stevens used deep red celosia, canna leaves, and equisedium in a very modern black cylinder container to form her vertical mass design. The complimentary colors of red and green were very striking and would add charm to the entrance hall table by the mirror or the narrow wall space in the living room of a modern home.

The primary line made of leaves, tiered, formed the depth or the secondary line. The red celosia was placed within the main line and massed at the center of interest to form the focal area. For added interest one of the canna leaves was cleverly curled at the base of the design hanging over the edge of the tall container. The design was placed to one side on a black base, giving balance by placement.

MASSED LINE

The last of these lovely creations, a massed vertical line, made by Mrs. Ercy Osbon, was made entirely of dried materials. Colors of deep red into deep brown tones. Sprays of light tan seed pods formed the primary line. The container was a bronze chalice placed on a small round brown base. Deep red dried celosia was used within the main line, massed at the focal area. Radiating from this center of interest were glycerinized photenia leaves, some of which hung over the edge of the container. To the back of the celosia was placed (as a background and depth) large dried magnolia leaves. The dried dock in deep brown tones was used as a filler throughout the design. Just the type arrangement to use for long-lasting duty.

This was an inspiring show. I just know we all feel the fall magic in the atmosphere after having viewed it. So many have been by the center to take a good look and have gone away inspired. Thanks again, Iris Garden Club, for your beautiful show.

DISPLAYED

Along with our flower arrangements this past week we also displayed some plant specimens brought by different ones. The beautiful Jack Bean, or Bay Bean (Canovolia lineata) was brought by Mrs. Wayne Warren who said it had taken her trellis. It is a thing of beauty. The stem is a deep purple. The leaves are green with purple veins and grown in clusters of three. The pea-like blossom is a light lavender or orchid color and grows down the stem in small clusters. The nicest thing about this vine is the way it conditions. After putting it in a vase of water it has stayed like wax, crisp and fresh. The bean like seed pods are a deep purple now. When matured they reach a length of about six inches or more.

PEPPER PLANT

Mrs. M. O. Bullock brought a beautiful ornamental pepper plant for us to enjoy. There are many different shades of small peppers on the plant now. Some are red, some orange, yellow and light green. This plant has been potted and I am sure we will enjoy it right on into winter. This is an idea for you. If you have a pepper in the yard, just pot it and bring it into the house, gradually, for the winter for enjoyment.

Mrs. Bullock also brought a collection of her celosia. The deep heads of red and the spike forms of yellow and rose. Another type is the fan-shaped type-green edged with gold. She gave these to me to dry. If you have some of these types be sure to cut them and hang some of them in a dark cool place, in a paper bag, to catch the seed, to dry.

If you have more than you need be sure to share with someone else. They are too valuable to leave in the garden to ruin. You'd be surprised how easy it is to give away this type of plant, just a hint to the wise.

Our next program will come to us from the Ruston Garden Club. Mrs. John A. Wright, its president will be our guest commentator on T.V. So, be watching and come by to see me at the garden center.

has issued four new stamps. Featured are the following: "Madonna Damascena;" the Great Siege Monument; the French Knight La Valette and the "Assualt on Fort St. Elmo."

Belgium has issued a new stamp honoring the victims of concentration camps, reports the Belgium Administrator of Posts. The 40 centimes stamps depicts two outstretched hands encircled by barbed wire. The colors are blue and black.

Italy has issued a two value set of stamps to mark the 30th anniversary of the founding of the International Film - Art Festival at Venice. The 30 lire features a stylized camera's eye; the 70 lire has the same design with the Lion of St. Mark superimposed on it.

The Canadian Post Office has announced that it has issued a new 5 cent stamp honoring the 100th annniversary of Victoria, B. C. The design features a reproduction of the capitol at Victoria and the wording "1862 Victoria 1962."

Shift Plotted In Drive For Moderation

PARIS (UPI) — On the third floor of a faded ex-mansion on the Left Bank of the River Seine, a group of dedicated men and women today plotted a tactical shift in their "war."

No more subway signs pleading with Frenchmen to stay sober. The new offensive:

The French government's eight-year-old anti-alcoholism campaign will be aimed at children and highway travelers.

The "High Committee for Study and Information on Alcoholism" has been fighting since its creation Nov. 13, 1954, for French people to drink less. The average person in France consumes 30.5 litres (a litre is nearly a quart) of pure alcohol a year, compared to 14.2 in Italy, 9.3 in Great Britain and 9.4 in the United States.

The committee never has preached prohibition in a country of great foods and wine. This would be impossible and a blow to mankind, members feel.

Instead their pitch is for moderation: "One litre of wine a day for heavy workers; ¾ for sedentary workers; ½ for women, none for children until they are 14."

Has the committee's campaign been successful?

"It's difficult to say," admitted a spokesman in an interview at committee headquarters. "We can't check exactly. . .it's a year in, year out evolution. Our campaign may not show results for years.

"But we must keep repeating it. It would be all lost in two or three years if we stopped, that is sure."

The committee can report some, but not necessarily conclusive, results from its campaign that began when former Premier Pierre Mendes France lifted a glass of milk to his lips.

Government statistics say consumption of wine and beer has dropped 10 per cent in recent years. Soft drink sales have zoomed 140 per cent.

TO EDUCATE

The committee's program includes a shower of pamphlets that say, for example, "Alcoholism kills more Frenchmen each year than tuberculosis and highway accidents put together." Children receive blotters and brochures telling how French inventors and scientists were sober men.

"Our aim is to educate French people to drink little and well," said the spokesman. "We hope wine growers will stop producing an enormous quantity and grow wines of quality and higher prices. And we hope people will learn that if they don't drink too much, and drink good wine, they won't be ill.

Photography, we all know, is a vital communications tool which can serve our country's interest.

With a world in crisis, any attempt to improve our communication tools to serve our country better is noteworthy. Such an event took place recently when the U. S. Marine Corps gathered more than 50 of its active duty photographers and writers for a crash communications course.

Called the Effective Writing and Photography Clinic, it enlisted the services of 40 public spirited top professional experts as volunteer instructors to the assembled Marines at a five - day seminar in New York City. It also produced at no cost to the government, the services and facilities of newspaper, magazine and advertising agencies with auditorium meeting rooms and projection equipment.

ORIGIN

The program originated with a Marine sergeant's memo early this year. It suggested that writer-photographer teams, trained in Marine Corps methods, might benefit from instruction by practicing professionals in the civilian world of communication. Working without public funds, the project became a reality through the prodigious efforts of a volunteer training unit of Marine reservists composed of civilian specialists in communication.

Some nine months of preparation and planning later, the sessions started with a full day spent at the New York Times. Experts outlined, among other things, the news and photo needs of metropolitan and local newspapers, elements of effective newsphotos and mistakes to avoid in photo caption writing.

"Content is most important in a newsphoto," John Radosta, photo editor of the New York Times, emphasized. "Editors are not interested in the S - curve. They'll choose a picture that makes an impression even if the technical quality is off.

"Be imaginative in shooting but keep it truthful. Get the feeling of action into your pictures. A little blur of the subject or part of it won't hurt. Or pan with the action and let the background show movement.

"In the final analysis, news photos must say something or add to a news story and should arouse the interest of readers in what they show."

TOOK OVER

The staff of Life magazine took over the following day with its specialty of photojournalism. Don Underwood, assignment editor, included these points in selecting specific photographers for certain stories:

Desire. The photographer must want to make the best pictures possible at all times and should reflect his enthusiasm.

Physical aptitude. Good health is an important consideration on strenuous assignment. Today in covering jet - age stories you must be in as good shape as an astronaut.

Intellect and emotion. You must think and be concerned to convey that emotion to readers. But while emotionally involved, you must be detached enough to photograph.

Glibness. An articulate photographer is an asset. He can talk his way into places or talk his way out of trouble if trouble pops up.

Versatility. A change of pace in subject matter stimulates a fresh approach.

Howard Sochurek, Life photographer who has covered action in Korea, Burma, India and Viet Nam summed up his experiences with this thought:

"A good photographer should have an eye, heart and brain. See the situation. Think about it. And put your heart in what you photograph."

It was an exciting, productive work - filled week for the Marine Corps photographers and writers, who are our country's eyes and ears on a far - flung front.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Don't you think that more parents ought to teach the value of good morals to their children. It seems to me that we are losing our sense of moral values.

ANSWER: Yes, but what is the best way to teach morals? A lecture on the value of morals leaves a child cold. We must face this fact as parents: goodness is not taught; it is caught. The best way to teach children moral values is for the parents to practice before them. The child often forgets what it hears, but always remembers what it sees. Verbal teaching is splendid if it is backed up by a real life illustration.

An Englishman was asked by a visitor why everyone in his village was so courteous, honest, and kind; and why there was no drunkenness and gambling in the community. He answered; "You see, sir, about a hundred years ago a man came to these parts by the name of John Wesley."

We will be remembered by what we are, rather than what we say, and example is the best method of instruction.

Tots Respond To Examples Of Parents

Policemen, always a child's friend, will like the following story. Parents who just might get a traffic ticket some day—through some fault of their own — will find it helpful.

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

HOMEFRONT, U.S.A. (UPI)—The tow-head — four feet tall and five years old — turned into a cop-hater the day his dad broke a motor vehicle regulation.

The policeman, doing his duty, ordered the car parked at headquarters until the out-of-date—by a day — plates could be replaced with lawful ones.

That rainy day, the child knew only that the cops confiscated the family car, ticketed his dad—and, beyond the law's requirements, rode the family home in a police car.

DISLIKED

He didn't like it — not even when his Mom confessed. She didn't send the application for new plates to the Vehicle Registration Bureau on time.

The policeman let the boy ride up front — a thrill for most tots. But this one wasn't sure he was beside friend or enemy. The policeman talked about the boy's dog, a hunting type.

"And what does your hunting dog hunt?" the policeman asked as the car pulled up in front of the family house.

Safely out of the "jailer's" car, the lad shot straight from the larynx:

"He hunts policemen — stupid, stupid policemen."

Rid of some venom, he ran, crying, into the house.

Parents apologized. The officer understood.

Inside, the child was told that an up-to-date license on a car is as vital as the motor and that his parents broke a law.

"But I hate those stupid police," he said, shaking a fist.

Now ask any policeman. That's how cop-haters — pint-sized ones —are made. Through faults of their parents.

BUILDUP

Some parents do it by building police up as curmudgeons. They use police power as a threat. They say:

"Pick up your clothes or I'll call the police; eat your cereal or I'll call the police; go to bed or I'll call the police; get up or I'll call the police."

Other parents blow off hate while stewing about a traffic ticket — earned by going through a red light or exceeding the speed limit.

The children, in the car's back seat, witness the ticket-writing. What's worse: They catch the four-letter words many a dad mumbles after the officer rides off.

Youngsters of pre-school age need no help to make the most of such a situation. A scene with Daddy as good guy and the cop as bad guy plants the cop-hating virus. Their imaginations do the rest.

Parents can undo the wrong by waging a "friendly policeman" campaign.

The pint-sized cop hater in our house got over the hate virus planted the day the police confiscated the car — but it took several months.

Dig Bulbs With Care

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Yours truly has received many calls regarding digging caladium bulbs. If the foliage is ugly and unsightly, then dig them. Be careful in digging so as not to cut into the tuber.

But be sure to leave the foliage on the bulb until it is completely dry. After these have been dug, tie them in bunches and hang in a dry shaded area or spread them out.

After the soil and foliage are dry, store in cardboard boxes in a warm dry area. Be sure to check them if there are hard freezes during the winter.

COLORFUL

The red spider lilies are blooming and add a great deal of color to the worn out summer garden. There are other varieties of lycoris lilies, but in this area, the red is most popular perhaps because it is the most vigorous. Other colors include the pink, white, and yellow.

After the bulb has bloomed then the beautiful green foliage appears and this is an excellent time to feed them with bone meal or 8-8-8. The foliage will remain green during the winter months and this makes an excellent ground cover if they have been planted in large masses. The foliage will turn brown next spring and that is the best time to transplant or move the spider lily. Another name for the spider lily is "Surprise Lily."

PARISH FAIR

Ouachita Valley Fair begins Monday. Bring your exhibits to the agricultural building before 7 p.m. If you plan to enter baked products, you must enter them Monday, but they can be brought in Tuesday morning not later than 9 o'clock.

Those of you who do not have something to enter visit us during the week. You will find all of the homemaking exhibits in the main building. Be sure to look at all the educational booths.

If you get hungry while on the fair grounds come by our Home Demonstration concession stand. The money received from this project is used as a scholarship fund for a 4-H girl studying home economics, to help promote 4-H Club work and for furthering the Home Demonstration program in the parish.

CAKE CONTEST

Mrs. Home Demonstration Club member be sure to enter a cake in the special contest at the fair grounds tomorrow. The cake will be entered Monday, but you do not have to bring it until Tuesday morning. The proceeds from the sale of the cakes will go to the Cooley Hospital for retarded children. Miss Frances Kelso, Home Economics instructor, from Northeast College, will judge the cakes.

DARK COTTONS

Dark cottons have marched right into the wardrobes and the problem of laundering is facing us. If you use starch in dark cottons the starch may streak, so to avoid this our home management specialist recommends that you use one of the thin solution type starches which go into the fabric.

A transparent starch with "CMC" printed on the label is one of the best to use on dark cottons, but you must follow directions for mixing and starching. Hot water starch can be used, but you should strain it before using. When starching, turn the garment inside out and work the starch thoroughly through the damp fabric, then wring out.

If you are starching several pieces do it in your automatic washer and spin out excess starch. Smooth out seams and folds where starch might collect. Iron on the wrong side to avoid a shine. For touchups on the right side, cover fabrics with a clean cloth cloth and press lightly.

HOMEMAKERS TIPS

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, plan to redecorate an area in your home this fall, here are some excellent tips from our house furnishings specialist, Mrs. Jessie Mae Schneider. Simplicity in furnishings and cool, quiet colors create a feeling of restfulness in a room.

One way to get variety and interest in a room is to use a small amount of pattern. Plain walls, floor coverings, and draperies provide a restful background in today's homes. Patterned draperies may be used with plain walls, but not with patterned wallpaper. If plain walls, floor coverings and draperies are used, add interest and variety in other furnishings by using pattern or bright color accents.

Do not use more than one large dominant pattern. If walls or rugs are figured, that is usually enough pattern interest. Remember to use patterns carefully.

A THOUGHT

Never be ashamed to admit you were wrong. It just proves you're smarter now than you used to be.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fat Bulbs, Big Blooms

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The wonderful fat bulbs of tulips, hyacinths, crocuses and daffodils which we plant in our gardens each fall produce a spring show that is equalled only by the azaleas.

If these bulbs bloomed only once, they would be worth the prices we pay for them. Indeed, some gardeners regard them as annuals. They simply pull them out in June and plant new ones when fall comes around again.

Large fat bulbs are the result of several years of growing during which the bulb producers pinch out the flowers and do not allow seeds to form, thus throwing all the strength back into the bulbs.

This practice builds large reservoirs of food that result, when the bulbs bloom in our gardens, in splendid big blossoms.

LESS FOOD

In the following season, there is not as much food in tulips and hyacinths, and they send up smaller flowers — sometimes several of them. If the soil in which these bulbs have been planted is really rich, they will settle down and produce several medium sized flowers each year, and some of us like these groups of flowers of various sizes in the garden picture.

Tulips are the spring bulbs which demand the richest soil in order to produce a good crop of flowers every year. We have noted in the column before that tulip roots are small and delicate, without the power to go a-roving for food as daffodil roots can do.

Set tulip bulbs six inches below the surface, and be sure that there is another six inches of rich soil below them if you want them to stay with you from year to year. They do not mind having shallow rooted annuals like larkspur and the winter annuals mentioned in a recent column planted above them.

The soil where tulips and other plants are grown together must be kept well fertilized by several applications a year, however, or the tulips will starve and have to be lifted. Most bulb lovers know to give the soil below their tulips and other bulbs a good dressing of bone meal when the bulbs are planted.

CROCUSES

Crocuses, in spite of the fact that they are small corms, can be set out four to six inches under the surface. This is a practical depth where you wish to plant other things above them, and few squirrels will dig this deep and eat the corms.

Both daffodils and hyacinths are somewhat tougher bulbs than tulips. They seem to be able to put up with less perfect soil. Of course, they cannot flower well in poor soil. If it is not overdone, top dressings of commercial fertilizers spread over the bulb beds in winter will keep the flowers coming for a number of years. In three to five years, the bulbs will need to be lifted and divided.

Planting Of Roses Is Not Complicated

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Planting a rose isn't a complicated, arduous chore. Follow these instructions and you're on the road to having beautiful roses.

1. Dig a hole 18 inches wide and 12 to 15 inches deep. Replace several inches of loose soil, mixed with rose food, peat moss, leaf mold and compost, and form a mound in the center.

2. Place the rosebush on the mound and spread the roots naturally down the slope. Place the plant on the mound so that the bud union (the knot-like swollen area) is at ground level.

COVER ROOTS

3. Cover the roots with soil, working in the soil around the roots to eliminate air pockets. Fill the hole three - quarters full and tamp down firmly. Pour a liberal amount of water (several pails) and permit to drain.

4. After the water has completely settled, fill the remainder of the hole with soil and mound up around canes to a height of about eight inches. Remove protective mound after a week or 10 days.

One of the questions we are asked frequently is how to get rid of aphids on roses or other plants. They may be controlled by spraying thoroughly with malathion or nicotine sulfate and soap.

PLANT ROT

The severe drought in parts of the northeast this summer has caused outbreaks of blossom-end rot on tomatoes. This disease may be recognized by the dry, black, depressed areas on the bottom of the tomato. The cells have died because water did not reach them.

You may worsen the situation by cultivating too close to the plants. Use of too much nitrogen fertilizer and failure to water also will increase blossom - end rot. Spraying or dusting will not help. If you have tomatoes on stakes, you probably will find that these were hit harder than those not supported.

When rain comes, the trouble generally clears up on subsequent tomatoes.

SAC Expanding Office Building

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Strategic Air Command headquarters, reputedly already the second largest military office building in the United States, is being expanded.

Workmen are excavating for a blastproof addition to the underground command post, made necessary by a new computer command system.

Construction will begin before the end of the year on a 130,000 square foot addition to the above ground headquarters building. This will increase the total floor space to nearly 16 acres. Only the Pentagon in Washington is believed to be larger.

The headquarters is located at Offutt Air Force Base, south of Omaha.

SPELLS OUT VIEWS

Macmillan Says Mart Ties Vital

By STANLEY JOHNSON

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan says his Conservative government's determination to join the European Common Market is "perhaps the most fateful and forward-looking policy decision in our peacetime history."

"The time is past for harping on old disputes and nursing obsolete conceptions," Macmillan wrote in a precedent-shaking party pamphlet spelling out why he thinks Britain must join the six-nation European Economic Community. It already includes West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg. The pamphlet was made public Sunday in Britain.

Recalling that he had explained these reasons in the recent conference of British Commonwealth prime ministers, Macmillan went on record:

"I firmly reject the view that Britain is faced with a choice between the Commonwealth and Europe . . . The problem before us is how to reconcile these two structures, not to divide them."

Fears for the future of the Commonwealth and for British sovereignty have been the two most potent weapons of Common Market opponents here.

Macmillan gave political and economic reasons for joining, in his 5,000-word argument.

Essentially these boiled down to his belief that Britain would suffer loss of political influence and of economic opportunity if it remained aloof.

Pointing to the super-powers, the United States and the Soviet Union, he declared "a divided Europe would stand no chance of competing with these great concentrations of power."

But he added, the European Community — already numbering 170 million and which would have at least 220 million with Britain in — would have "the ability to stand on an equal footing with the great power groupings of the world."

Political quarters said it was virtually unprecedented for a prime minister to write such a pamphlet while still in office. More usual would have been to await the forthcoming Conservative party conference—beginning Monday at Llandudno, Wales — and make the points in a speech and repeat them when Parliament reassembles.

Not all members of the Tory party, by any means, support Britain's joining the Common Market. Nevertheless, the document was issued by the party as an official expression of party policy and was paid for by the party.

Labor Party Leader Hugh Gaitskell made a slashing attack on the market last week which had considerable impact here. Some sources thought Macmillan believed he could not let Gaitskell go unanswered.

The prime minister, however, merely said his purpose was to "remove many misunderstandings."

He referred to Gaitskell only once, when he denied the Labor party leader's charge that membership would reduce Britain to being a mere province of Europe.

Britain, he warned, could no longer afford "insular feelings of superiority over foreign breeds and suspicions of our neighbors across the Channel.

"We have to consider the state of the world as it is today and will be tomorrow and not in outdated terms of a vanished past."

"The essential long term interests of Britain, Europe and the Commonwealth are inseparably linked," he summed up. "The crux of the problem is to work out their cooperation for the future."

SPELLS OUT VIEWS

Macmillan Says Mart Ties Vital

By STANLEY JOHNSON

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan says his Conservative government's determination to join the European Common Market is "perhaps the most fateful and forward-looking policy decision in our peacetime history."

"The time is past for harping on old disputes and nursing obsolete conceptions," Macmillan wrote in a precedent-shaking party pamphlet spelling out why he thinks Britain must join the six-nation European Economic Community. It already includes West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg. The pamphlet was made public Sunday in Britain.

Recalling that he had explained these reasons in the recent conference of British Commonwealth prime ministers, Macmillan went on record:

"I firmly reject the view that Britain is faced with a choice between the Commonwealth and Europe . . . The problem before us is how to reconcile these two structures, not to divide them."

Fears for the future of the Commonwealth and for British sovereignty have been the two most potent weapons of Common Market opponents here.

Macmillan gave political and economic reasons for joining, in his 5,000-word argument.

Essentially these boiled down to his belief that Britain would suffer loss of political influence and of economic opportunity if it remained aloof.

Pointing to the super-powers, the United States and the Soviet Union, he declared "a divided Europe would stand no chance of competing with these great concentrations of power."

But he added, the European Community — already numbering 170 million and which would have at least 220 million with Britain in — would have "the ability to stand on an equal footing with the great power groupings of the world."

Political quarters said it was virtually unprecedented for a prime minister to write such a pamphlet while still in office. More usual would have been to await the forthcoming Conservative party conference—beginning Monday at Llandudno, Wales — and make the points in a speech and repeat them when Parliament reassembles.

Not all members of the Tory party, by any means, support Britain's joining the Common Market. Nevertheless, the document was issued by the party as an official expression of party policy and was paid for by the party.

Labor Party Leader Hugh Gaitskell made a slashing attack on the market last week which had considerable impact here. Some sources thought Macmillan believed he could not let Gaitskell go unanswered.

The prime minister, however, merely said his purpose was to "remove many misunderstandings."

He referred to Gaitskell only once, when he denied the Labor party leader's charge that membership would reduce Britain to being a mere province of Europe.

Britain, he warned, could no longer afford "insular feelings of superiority over foreign breeds and suspicions of our neighbors across the Channel.

"We have to consider the state of the world as it is today and will be tomorrow and not in outdated terms of a vanished past."

"The essential long term interests of Britain, Europe and the Commonwealth are inseparably linked," he summed up. "The crux of the problem is to work out their cooperation for the future."

BISHOP ENDRE HAMVAS of Csanad, head of delegation, left, and Most Rev. Sandor Kovacs, Bishop of Szombethely, right, part of group of nine Hungarian clergymen, are shown Saturday on their arrival in Rome to attend next week's opening of the second Vatican council. It was the first visit of Hungarian bishops to the Vatican in 14 years. The clergyman at rear was not identified. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Rome)

Hams Schedule Emergency Tests In Area Today

A simulated emergency test will be conducted today by members of the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio Emergency Corps.

Travis Erwin of Monroe, president of the Ouachita Amateur Radio Club, said the test will begin at 2 p.m. and will last for approximately one hour. Erwin is emergency coordinator of the Amateur Radio Relay League for northeast Louisiana.

Erwin explained that the operation today will be to test the Ouachita Valley Community Emergency Plan.

"Purpose of the plan is to provide the northeast Louisiana area with emergency communications facilities in the event of a disaster that might damage or incapacitate normal communications facilities," he pointed out.

"The test this year will emphasize cooperation with Civil Defense agencies and Red Cross chapters throughout the nation," he added. "A number of mobile and portable short-range radio stations will be set up at strategic points around Monroe and West Monroe in order to provide local communications, and a higher-powered long-range fixed station will supply contact with distant points."

In addition to Erwin, other local radio amateurs participating in the test will be Bill Gulledge, Clarence Gibson, and Cliff Ferguson, all of Monroe, and Sam Willbanks, West Monroe.

Booster Singing Meeting Is Today

The monthly Booster singing will be held here today at the Southside Methodist Church, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Curtis Doss and his trio, of Crossett, Ark., along with other quartets and special singing groups from north Louisiana and southeast Arkansas are scheduled to attend the singing here.

COLOMBIA GRANT OKAYED

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Teodoro Moscoso, Alliance for Progress coordinator, says the U. S. Agency for International Development has approved a million-dollar grant to Colombia to rebuild schools and hospitals destroyed in last July's earthquakes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

(3) Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends for their kind messages of sympathy, flowers and prayers during the recent loss of our beloved son and brother, Gene Cameron. We especially thank the Doctors who stood by so faithful. May God bless you all.

The Cameron Family

I wish to give my thanks and heartfelt gratitude to every one who did so much for me while I was in the hospital and underwent surgery. Words cannot express my appreciation to Dr. Shonlau, Dr. Henry Jones, Dr. Emily Jones, the Staff at the Sterlington hospital and all my family.

The lovely flowers, cards, visits, long distance and local phone calls, every act of kindness by all my friends and relatives, all helped me back to recovery and will be remembered with tender love as long as I live.

Hams Schedule Emergency Tests In Area Today

A simulated emergency test will be conducted today by members of the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio Emergency Corps.

Travis Erwin of Monroe, president of the Ouachita Amateur Radio Club, said the test will begin at 2 p.m. and will last for approximately one hour. Erwin is emergency coordinator of the Amateur Radio Relay League for northeast Louisiana.

Erwin explained that the operation today will be to test the Ouachita Valley Community Emergency Plan.

"Purpose of the plan is to provide the northeast Louisiana area with emergency communications facilities in the event of a disaster that might damage or incapacitate normal communications facilities," he pointed out.

"The test this year will emphasize cooperation with Civil Defense agencies and Red Cross chapters throughout the nation," he added. "A number of mobile and portable short-range radio stations will be set up at strategic points around Monroe and West Monroe in order to provide local communications, and a higher-powered long-range fixed station will supply contact with distant points."

In addition to Erwin, other local radio amateurs participating in the test will be Bill Gulledge, Clarence Gibson, and Cliff Ferguson, all of Monroe, and Sam Willbanks, West Monroe.

Booster Singing Meeting Is Today

The monthly Booster singing will be held here today at the Southside Methodist Church, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Curtis Doss and his trio, of Crossett, Ark., along with other quartets and special singing groups from north Louisiana and southeast Arkansas are scheduled to attend the singing here.

COLOMBIA GRANT OKAYED

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Teodoro Moscoso, Alliance for Progress coordinator, says the U. S. Agency for International Development has approved a million-dollar grant to Colombia to rebuild schools and hospitals destroyed in last July's earthquakes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

(3) Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends for their kind messages of sympathy, flowers and prayers during the recent loss of our beloved son and brother, Gene Cameron. We especially thank the Doctors who stood by so faithful. May God bless you all.

The Cameron Family

I wish to give my thanks and heartfelt gratitude to every one who did so much for me while I was in the hospital and underwent surgery. Words cannot express my appreciation to Dr. Shonlau, Dr. Henry Jones, Dr. Emily Jones, the Staff at the Sterlington hospital and all my family.

The lovely flowers, cards, visits, long distance and local phone calls, every act of kindness by all my friends and relatives, all helped me back to recovery and will be remembered with tender love as long as I live.
